Wide Market Foreseen for School Films

Majors' Plans Go Before NEA at Detroit Today

The opening of a new market for raw stock and projection equipment looms as the first significant result of the major companies' plans for an entrance into the educational film market, it was indicated yesterday.

Under the guidance of the M. P. P. D. A., and after years of study and survey of the non-theatrical market's possibilities, plans finally are being concluded for the active participation of all Hays organizations member companies in supplying subjects for the school market. An outline of the considerations involved will be laid before the National Educational Ass'n at its Detroit meeting today by Dr.

Admissions Raised In Memphis Houses

MEMPHIS, TENN., June 30.—Increases ranging from one to five cents in admissions went into effect in virtually every Memphis theatre this week as the three per cent gross sales tax voted by the last legislature began to fall due.

Making no change in the night admission of 40 cents for adults, the three major downtown houses added five cents to their 25-cent adult admissions for matinees.

The Strand and several groups of suburban houses added one cent to their adult admissions all along the line.

British Independents Ask Quota Based on Films Sold

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, June 30.—The independent producers and distributors of England, in their suggestions to the Board of Trade for revision of the proposed quota, ask a new form of quota based on the actual bookings of British films at home and abroad, in proportion to the bookings of foreign films. If in any single year the percentage is not reached, the groups suggest, the deficit should be carried forward, and the excess credited.

Alternatively, they ask classification of the small distributor handling 20 foreign films or less with a preferential 10 per cent quota and use of British shorts to cover foreign features.

Col. Will Continue Division Meetings

LOS ANGELES, June 30.—Columbia will continue to hold divisional meetings of the sales forces during the new season, Abe Montague, general sales manager, told the delegates to the company's annual sales convention at the Hotel Ambassador here today.

The benefits derived from such meetings in the past led to the decision to continue them, Montague said, declaring that four divisional sales sessions will be held next season.

A decentralization policy in the exploitation department will be inaugurated with the new season, the convention was informed. The move will involve tours of their territories by the exploitation men stationed in key cities. Heretofore, local situa-

Four S. & C. Suits Ended Out of Court

An out-of-court settlement of copyright violations charged against Springer & Cocalis by four distributors for alleged unauthorized switching of pictures was made yesterday. The amount of the settlement, reached by Sam Cocalis and Louis Nizer, the latter attorney for the complaining distributors, was not disclosed.

Guild's Closed Shop Now in Effect Here

The Screen Actors' Guild, through Mrs. Florence Marston, eastern representative, stated yesterday that Hollywood producers henceforth would be unable to film sequences in New York in which eastern talent is used without signing a guild contract with her office, establishing guild wage scales and working conditions for the talent employed.

The ruling followed the filming by M-G-M of a sequence for "Big City" at Jack Dempsey's restaurant on Tuesday. Approximately 60 extras, none of whom was a member of the guild, as well as Dempsey, were used, Mrs. Marston said. After a conference with George Seitz, director, and a number of the extras, Mrs. Marston

Phila. Bookers Talk Pact with New Union

Three bookers from Philadelphia, who claimed to represent an organization separate and distinct from the local exchange employees union, yesterday met with home office distribution executives in an effort to gain recognition.

Key Takes for Mid-June Hold to $1,250,325 Level

Mid-June grosses held up fairly well after a slump which set in following Decoration day and the spread of outdoor sports. The total for the week ending June 18-19 with 139 first run theatres reporting from 24 cities was $1,250,325.

For the previous week, with 141 theatres reporting from the same number of cities, it was $1,295,708. Two first runs were closed during the period.

For the first week of June the total was $1,466,911, but that was for 171 first run theatres in 29 key cities. Five cities have been dropped from the list since that time. If the five cities had been out of the report for the initial week in June, the total would have been $1,358,261, so that the actual falling off from the first week of June to the third week was $107,936, considered normal for the season.

Comparative grosses for key centers will be found on page 7.

Richey Quits Allied; Joins 'Cooperative'

"Mutuality of Interest" Given as Reason

DETROIT, June 30.—H. M. Richey today resigned as general manager of Allied Theatres of Michigan to become director of theatre operations and public relations of Co-operative Theatres of Michigan, a booking and buying combination of 90 theatres, most of them in Detroit.

At the same time it was announced that 55 theatre members of Co-operative had resigned as members of Allied. Eight members of the Allied board of directors who belong to Co-operative also resigned from Allied.

The remaining 12 directors of Allied issued a statement following a special meeting, saying that Allied would continue to function as an exhibitor organization. They will meet tomorrow to elect a successor to Fred Delodder, president of Allied, who was a Co-operative member who resigned, as well as new directors. In offering his resignation, Richey said:

"Years of experience have convinced me that the days of the old

Reach No Agreement Upon the Roxy Plan

A conference between representatives of Roxy noteholders and 20th Century-Fox officials yesterday on the latter's proposed 20-year film franchise for the Roxy failed to result in agreement on all points sought by the noteholders, it was learned. A report on the changes in the franchise consented to by the company, as well as those which were refused, will be submitted to Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey at a Roxy reorganization hearing today.

Fight Picture Weak Grosser Down South

MEMPHIS, June 30.—The Louis-Braddock fight films are a flop in the South, Dixie audiences being opposed to a negro champion.

The Loew management had expected to show the Louis-Braddock films if Braddock had been successful in defending his title, but decided against the booking when the negro won.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Life of Emile Zola"

(First National)

HOLLYWOOD, June 30.—There have been but few films which rank so high in artistry and are so thoroughly classic in cinematic attainment as "The Life of Emile Zola." The picture is a collection of film achievements in every department from acting, direction, production quality, writing and cinematography to musical scoring, all grouped together in a powerfully dramatic and entertaining story of a writer whose cause was justice and whose allegiance was with the downtrodden.

Paul Muni rises to his greatest heights as Zola. So high, in fact, that his "Pasteur," which last year won for him the Academy award, and his other performances pale. His portrayal of the writer who as a youth resolved to fling away chicanery for truth and who, aging, persevered in that aim through disgrace until his complete vindication and that of Alfred Dreyfus, the innocent victim of hypocrisy, will in all probability win Muni again the accolade of the industry. The masterful direction of William Dieterle has taken the dramatic material of the famous treason case as written by Norman Reilly Raine, Heinz Herald and Geza Herczeg, from the story by the latter two, and combined it with a stellar performance by Muni and excellent support by a capable cast. It was given expensive production by Hal B. Wallis, executive producer, and Henry Blanke, associate producer, has brought forth a film approaching epic proportions.

This reviewer is of the opinion that "The Life of Emile Zola" will not be destined for the limbo of artistic success which, despite their workmanship, have met with failure at the box-office. While the public may not ordinarily be expected to seize upon the story of miscarriage of justice in the Dreyfus case at the close of the last century as a cause celebre at the box-office, so many entertainment values are embodied in the production that it should win out over any presumed lethargy in trade.

The only objection to the film is its length. It has a running time of two hours. Judicious cutting to quicken the tempo, no doubt, will make it Warners' supreme effort to garner with one picture virtually all of the next Academy awards.

Standouts in the lengthy cast include Gale Sondergaard, Joseph Schildkraut and Vladimir Sokoloff.

Production Code Seal No. 3,212. Running time, 125 minutes. "G."

Tarzan Pictures Get Long Play in Japan

Tarzan pictures get greater playing time than any other American pictures in Japan, David Lewis, former manager for M-G-M in that territory, stated yesterday. Of the 1,600 theatres in the country, there are only 250 possibilities for American films, he added. Because of the popularity of the Tarzan films, exceptions are made in booking arrangements.

There is very little theatre building going on at the present time, he said.

Jules Berman, formerly of Poland, has taken over Lewis' duties in Japan. Lewis will remain in New York for about three weeks until he is assigned to another territory.

ITOA Talks Boat Ride

Members of the I.T.O.A., at their meeting yesterday at the Astor, discussed the annual boat ride and outing at Bear Mountain, July 27. No other business came up, although one member brought up the score charge question and was told that action had been started in the courts and papers were now being served.

fraternal, loosely-hung-together organization where exhibitors can make the organization entirely dependent on their whims and can resign or threaten to withdraw financial support any time the organization fails to do what an individual demands, are gone and in its place must come an organization bound together with mutuality of interest and stock-holdings, with contractual obligations that will guarantee the carrying through of constructive policies decided upon by the majority. I believe that an organization of 100 of the outstanding theatre owners of the city and state can do more to protect the investments of these members than can a larger organization not so closely bound together."

Ray E. Moon, general manager of Co-operative, will continue in that capacity.

It was intimated that in addition to Richey's organization work with Co-operative that the combine might try collective purchasing of supplies, equipment, etc. with him in charge.

Richey came to Detroit in August, 1921, to take charge of the exhibitor organization and has held the post continuously ever since. He assumes his new duties with Co-operative on July 7.

"King Solomon's Mines"

(Gaumont British)

LONDON, June 22.—A fine spectacular action drama has been made from the famous Rider Haggard book. It is probably the last of G. B.'s big pictures, and its quality makes it seem more than ever a pity that Shepherd's Bush closed down just when it looked to have reached the world market standard.

The story details a search for a legendary diamond mine in unexplored African territory by a party of whom the chief members are an Irish girl whose father has gone alone on a trip with the same object; a professional wild-game hunter and his two English clients, who go along partly for love of adventure and partly because of the girl, and a mysterious giant native.

After intense suffering in the waterless deserts the party finds the mine, which is in the territory of a warlike native tribe. An aged witch guards the entrance, and imprisons the party after they have assisted their big native servant, revealed to be the rightful king of the tribe, to defeat and depose the reigning usurper. A volcanic eruption destroys the mine but the adventurers escape and with them the captive Irishman and his store of jewels.

The melodramatic story is finely pictured. Outstanding scenes are those showing the gruesome old witch "smelling out" victims for sacrifice, the battles of the tribes which restores Umbopa to the throne of his fathers, and the explorers' ingenious exploitation of an eclipse by the pretense of having "darkened the sun," as a proof that they are gods. This reproduces one of the most famous incidents of the book by means of very fine camera work, control of lighting, and mass staging. Pictorially the picture, in this incident and in the war scenes, with thousands of plumed and chanting warriors engaged in hand to hand combat, is outstanding. The South African backgrounds of veldt and mountain are new, beautiful and impressive.

Paul Robeson figures impressively as the servant-king, and has been given some singing to do, including an effective echo song, which should appeal to his followers, even if it is somewhat out of the real scope of the picture. Roland Young is droll as the imperturbable British "dude," the late Cedric Hardwicke statuesque as the hunter, Allan Quartermaine, and Sydney Fairbrother a grisly witch. The juveniles are Anna Lee and John Loder. Robert Stevenson's direction is admirable. The production and camera work is exceptional for a British picture, reaching their highest pitch, probably, in the scenes in the volcano crater.

This is one from England that simply must be given very serious consideration.

Running time, 80 minutes. "G."

Rewriting of Soviet Scripts Is Attacked

Alexi Tolstoy, leading writer in Russia, has attacked the practice, especially employed by Mosfilm, largest studio in Russia, "like any capitalistic firm, of insisting on rewriting scenarios without the author's consent," according to the New York Herald Tribune, in a copyrighted dispatch from Moscow.

Fourteen Soviet playwrights, film writers and composers, according to the dispatch, earned more than 10,000 rubles a month during 1936, while the average wage of all workers in Russia has been estimated officially at 230 rubles a month. Tolstoy defended the high earnings of a few writers. It was officially published that 50 other writers received 2,000 to 10,000 rubles monthly during 1936, and that about 4,000 other dramatic and screen writers earned less than 500 rubles a month.

Spencer Transferred

Perry Spencer, who has been handling publicity for the Paradise and a number of other Bronx theatres, has been transferred to the Loew circuit Brooklyn office. Carl Fishman of the Brooklyn office has taken over Spencer's former duties.

New Film Division In Commerce Dept.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The creation of a new division in the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce to develop foreign markets for American films and equipment was announced today by Secretary of Commerce Roper. The new division will be under the direction of Nathan S. Golden, formerly head of the film section of the electrical division.

Our foreign trade in films and equipment is estimated at about $100,000,000 a year, of which exports of photographic and projection goods last year accounted for approximately $21,000,000, according to records of the department.

The establishment of the film development work as an independent unit was prompted by the expansion of demand for films and equipment abroad, it was explained by Secretary Roper.

"While the direct returns to the United States from foreign sales of motion pictures and motion picture equipment are of great importance the indirect benefits accruing to the United States from the exhibition of American films in foreign countries is of still greater importance to the general export trade of the country," he said.

The promotional work of the new unit is expected to be reflected in increased export trade in household articles, automobiles, industrial machinery, clothing and other products which are popularized abroad through being shown in American-produced pictures.

Columbia Chatter

LOS ANGELES, June 30.—"At long last we made it," paraphrasing the former King, President HARRY COHN got a rousing cheer when he spoke his first words of welcome to the delegates.

JACK COHN and ABE MONTAGUE appeared at the first business session in nifty white palm beach suits.

All the boys were ducking around corners when JOE SEIDELMAN, foreign manager, appeared. He is looking for a manager for one of his Oriental branches.

The convention decorations are the tops for all picture meetings. The Ambassador Fieste Room is a blaze of color and the huge star stills are knockouts. MIKE NEWMAN is taking bows all over the place.

W. C. RITER, Los Angeles branch manager, is busy answering beefs from his boys. It seems they are the only gang who did not get a train ride.

JIMMY BEALE, Portland branch manager, is on a diet again. Has gotten himself down to 230 pounds.

AL SELIGMAN and HANK KAUFMAN put the waiters on a budget.

PHIL FOX of Albany giving a gander through a monocle at the co-eds convention at the Ambassador.

When IRVING WORMSER of New York saw the Los Angeles River without any water in sight he got homesick for the old Hudson.

The champion salesman in point of service is SAM NATHANSON of Los Angeles, who has attended 11 Columbia conventions.

JACK COHN wears a felt hat in California. Says he's been caught in those California mists before.

PHIL WEINSTEIN (San Francisco office) "angeled" one of the boys in a poker game and now is $3 ahead.

M. A. May of Yale, chairman of the advisory committee to the industry on audio-visual education. Coinciding with May's report, M. P. P. D. A. headquarters here will release a statement today on behalf of the organization's educational film's committee, setting forth the aims of the industry in providing and distributing material for the school market.

Industry and educational sources estimate the potential school market at numerically twice that of the theatrical market, or in excess of a possible 30,000 outlets. While probably fewer than 10,000 schools are now equipped for visual education, the availability of a comprehensive film library on standard educational subjects is expected to triple the present number. If such expectations were to be realized, the benefits to raw stock and equipment manufacturers are apparent. Distribution revenue, while expected to be profitable, is an unknown quantity at present. Considerations such as the cost of setting up educational film production departments, methods of distribution, whether by rental or outright sale, the actual school market and its probable annual growth, all contribute to the indeterminate nature of the actual revenue to be derived from the school market.

Official sources state, however, that the participation of major companies in the educational film field is definitely assured and should be an accomplished fact within a few months.

Lohr Confirms Adding of Ten NBC Outlets in South

NBC's Blue network will take one of its greatest strides forward as a coast-to-coast chain on August 1, when 10 new stations located in the south join the network. Announcement of the new additions was made last night by Lenox R. Lohr, president of NBC, two days after the news was foretold exclusively in MOTION PICTURE DAILY.

The addition of the stations will provide listeners in the south with a choice of two full time NBC services over a separate Blue and Red chain of stations. Previously in most southern cities there has been only one NBC station, and thus listeners were deprived of either the Blue or Red network programs.

The 10 new NBC stations are: WAGA, Atlanta, Ga.; WSGN, Birmingham, Ala.; WNBK, Memphis, Tenn.; WROL, Knoxville, Tenn.; WJBO, Baton Rouge, La.; WDSU, New Orleans; KFDM, Beaumont; KXYZ, Houston; KRIS, Corpus Christi, and WRGV, Weslaco, all in Texas.

The incoming stations greatly enhance NBC's aim to expand the Blue to nation-wide proportions, so as to provide complete coverage by its two networks on a complete coast-to-coast basis. To provide this coverage, NBC, counting the 10 new southern affiliates, has made 30 stations available to the Blue network since January 1 of this year, in addition to the

France Denies Nazis Leading Film Congress

European Meeting Opens Monday in Paris

By PIERRE AUTRE

PARIS, July 1.—The French Cinema Confederation, preparing for the opening on Monday of the International Film Congress here, today made vigorous denial of the assertion from Nazi sources that Germany will dominate the congress.

The Confederation has registered a protest against the article of Dr. Fritz Olinsky, editor of Foreign Film News, official German Government film publication, in which Olinsky traced the supposed Nazis' domination over the International Film Chamber, and declared Germany is "the greatest film country of Europe." The article was characterized by the Confederation as unfair.

Denying absolutely that Germany

Columbia's Meeting Concludes on Coast

LOS ANGELES, July 1.—Columbia's annual sales convention, held at the Ambassador Hotel here, came to an end today with meetings of the branch managers and the western sales division. The rest of the day was spent in sightseeing trips to Catalina, Malibu and like places.

The delegates will leave tomorrow night on a special train which will return them to their territories.

Yesterday the men forgot business and were the guests of the studio in Hollywood. They were greeted by the company's stars and directors, saw the shooting of several productions and later attended a banquet and entertainment on one of the stages at the studio. The New York delegation to the convention is expected to arrive in the east on Tuesday.

Deals Closed Here Taxable, City Decides

Applies When Pictures Go Anywhere

Product deals which are closed in New York for theatres anywhere outside the city will be subject to the two per cent municipal sales tax, Milton Solomon, deputy city comptroller, ruled yesterday. He also ruled that the sales tax will apply to the rental or sale here of all tangible personal property such as posters, stills and other advertising material, even though intended for the use of theatres outside the city.

Solomon's ruling follows upon an informal opinion furnished distributors by the city comptroller's office a month ago holding that national circuit deals closed in New York were taxable. Distributors submitted informal arguments in opposition to the opinion, which were answered yesterday by the formal, written ruling from Solomon. Indications are that the city's ruling will be appealed by distributors to the Appellate Division.

Circuit officials estimated yesterday that the ruling, if upheld, would either force the closing of circuit deals outside New York City or would add approximately $1,000,000 to the estimated $700,000 annual local film tax under the emergency sales tax provisions. Distributors, who have been contesting the application of the tax to film rentals, are two and one-half years in arrears as a result. In addition, the city thus far has refused to waive penalties and interest on the taxes which accumulated while the litigation was under way.

Gary Suit Attacks Chicago Clearance

Columbia, M-G-M, Paramount, RKO, 20th-Century-Fox, United Artists, Universal and Warners. The complaint charges Paramount controls B. & K. through owning virtually all its stock.

"At all times since plaintiff commenced operation of its Palace Theatre in Gary in 1933, the defendant producers and distributors have maintained by agreement among themselves clearances of protection, refusing to sell films until they had been shown in one or more Chicago theatres in the Loop and by one or more outside the Loop," the complaint sets out.

Alleged is that the exchanges refuse to deal with the plaintiff on any other basis. The complaint charges conspiracy and violation of the anti-trust laws and asserts that the refusal injures the Gary business, as the house, only 30 miles from Chicago, must use pictures "no longer fresh and new."

Short Subjects

"The Song of Revolt"

(M-G-M)

An interesting historical vignette. Though it is brief, it has the earmarks of a major production. The incident of the composition of "La Marseillaise" by Roget de Lisle is told. The song was written to spur the army, but the smouldering revolution made it a hymn of hate against the Royalist government. The composer, an aristocrat, is saved from the guillotine when he is recognized as he is riding in the tumbrel. Production Code Seal No. 3,279. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"David Mendoza and Orchestra"

(Vitaphone)

Tuneful, though not new, music presented refreshingly. The various compositions are interspersed with numbers by the rarely seen Revellers, Minor and Root, the dance team; and Lucille Manners. Production Code Seal No. 01,555. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

Trinidad Business Quiet

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Rustlers' Valley"

(Sherman-Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, July 1.—Last of the current season's Hopalong Cassidy product for Paramount, this ranks with the best of the season, although a natural criticism which might come from western fans would be that it does not contain sufficient action of the old-fashioned melodrama style. But, nevertheless, it is good fare for the type of audience for which it is aimed. It again brings together those pals of the cinematic saddle—William Boyd, George Hayes and Russell Hayden—in a drama of murder, cattle rustling and gun fights to a well-molded Harry C. Hoyt script of the Clarence E. Mulford yarn which, despite its inactive style, is effective.

Hayden is accused falsely of a bank robbery. Through investigation, Boyd and Hayes clear him, discovering the real robber and uncovering a big rustling plot aimed at one of their friends.

Nate Watt directed from the Hoyt script. This, the finale of the 1936-'37 Hopalong, bodes well for the future Harry Sherman productions for Paramount. The feminine interest is capably supplied by Muriel Evans.

Production Code Seal No. 3,294. Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"It Could Happen to You"

(Republic)

Seriously detracting from the selling value of this picture and virtually placing it on the wrong side of the entertainment fence is the excessive morbidity of the theme. "It Could Happen to You" manages, with little effort, to include theft, murder, blackmail and eventually suicide in a plot which seems to go to quite unnecessary lengths to be unpleasant. Particularly, the concluding suicide would appear to have no excuse.

Allan Baxter is the miscreant in a series of misdeeds, each of which falls upon, and hurts, an innocent person. Sharing in his crimes is Walter Kingsford, as the owner of a school for foreigners. Supporting players include Andrea Leeds, Owen Davis, Jr., Astrid Allwyn, Al Shean and Christian Rub. Leonard Fields produced and Phil Rosen directed.

The screenplay by Samuel Ornitz and Nathaniel West finds Baxter and Davis, the ward and son, respectively, of lovable, foreign-born Shean, East Side store owner. When Kingsford decides to sell his school, he forces Baxter to obtain the money quickly. The latter steals from Shean, is suddenly interrupted and, without realizing the identity of the intruder, kills Shean. When Kingsford comes upon an important piece of evidence, he compels Baxter to work with him in a scheme to blackmail the foreign pupils.

Miss Allwyn, former sweetheart, gives him away, but Davis, young lawyer, defends him successfully. When the foreign group threatens Davis and himself, Baxter commits suicide to save his friend.

Production Code Seal No. 3,355. Running time, 71 minutes. "A."

"A Lawman Is Born"

(Republic)

Interesting western drama is developed in this film. Johnny Mack Brown is featured. It is a story of rivalry of cattle barons heightened by the depredations of rustlers. It holds to an exciting pace that is climaxed by a deadly shooting match.

Brown works in the general store. He is wanted by the law. Only the sheriff has knowledge of this and he is told to leave. But the sheriff is murdered and he stays on to succeed him. The feud between the ranchers grows. Brown sets about restoring order. To do this he enlists the aid of a neighboring law officer. They accomplish their purpose after many thrilling adventures. And, with the law breakers in the jug and peace on the range, once more love blooms.

Sam Newfield directed. The capable support includes Iris Meredith, Warner Richmond, Mary MacLaren, Dick Curtis, Earle Hodgins, Charles King and Al St. John. Bert T. Longenecker's camera work is easy on the eyes.

Production Code Seal No. 3,281. Running time, 61 minutes. "G."

Brotherhood Locals Now on Closed Shop

HOLLYWOOD, July 1.—A closed shop for painters, scenic artists and make-up men went into effect today in accordance with the agreement reached with the Painters' Brotherhood locals when the recent strike ended. Make-up men have voted to remain in the Brotherhood and have presented to Pat Casey, producer representative, salary demands calling for $2.25 an hour for makeup men, $1.50 an hour for hairdressers, a 48-hour week and time and a half for overtime. Negotiations are expected to be consummated this week.

The only apparent obstacle to a settlement is the fact that Felix Cunningham, attorney for the Society of M. P. Set Designers, has filed notice with Casey opposing any contract which gives scenic artists and drafts-men local jurisdiction. Cunningham claims that his group has 65 per cent of the workers and that he will ask an election under the auspices of the National Labor Relations Board, adding that an application for a hearing will be filed this week.

It is felt here that the Cunningham move will have little effect since the I.A.T.S.E., which takes a half-hearted interest in the claims of the drafts-men, may unite with the scenic artists with whom it is now on good terms as a result of the apology published last week.

Arrangements were made for a mass protest meeting of exhibitors at the Broadwood Hotel next Thursday. The board also decided to extend the policy of delay in buying to include Paramount News and shorts as well as features. Exhibitors have been asked to avoid all negotiations with the company.

In a published bulletin, U. M. P. T. O. pointed out that under the terms of the new Paramount selling plan the distributor has the right to audit and inspect the books of the exhibitor, thus making the distributor "a partner in profits but not in the losses of exhibitors."

and shorts until the plan has been put on a working basis.

Dramatic episodes of features will be used in high schools and colleges for the purpose of putting vital social problems before students and provoking discussion under the guidance of instructors.

Shorts already have been made from "Cavalcade," "The Devil Is a Sissy," "Educating Father," "White Angel," "Fury," "Men in White," "Your Uncle Dudley," "Private Jones," "Broken Lullaby" and "Winterset."

"The need for humanizing and vitalizing our school curricula has been manifest for years," Dr. Keliher declared. "Too often life is left outside the door when we go to school, despite the fact that the primary function of education is to teach us how to live."

Cites Film Educational Value

"In a very real sense the science of living is the science of human relations—the relations between child and parent, the individual and society, boy and girl, friend and friend."

"The Commission on Human Relations realizes that American youth has been learning about life from the movies for a long time. Many have been distressed about this fact, sometimes wisely so. But this we do know: time and time again imaginative Hollywood producers have incorporated into their pictures scenes which dramatize genuinely the problems which touch

Cowboys Busy

Hollywood, July 1.—Sol Lesser has postponed start of Smith Ballew's "Western Gold" for a week.

The reason is that the annual cattle drive is on at Kernville in which the animals are being taken up to mountain grazing range. Most of the local film cowboys have gone there to work for a week.

us all—adolescents and adults alike."

In his Detroit speech May said that some of the obvious reasons why school use of films has not advanced faster is the conservatism of educators, the expense of buying equipment and the fact that schools have failed to keep pace with theatres. Teachers should be trained to use films, he said.

The work of reviewing and cutting films began May 28, he said, and to date the reviewers have recommended 324 films as acceptable for certain specific school use and have recommended the use of parts of 153 others.

There are 100,000 school houses in this country with electric current, May stated, and not more than 10,000 have projectors. Less than 1,000 of these have sound, and not more than 600 or 700 have 16 mm. sound.

During the past five years, he said, the use of educational films has advanced rapidly "and we now stand on the threshold of even more significant advances."

Consultants Listed

Educators who have agreed to give advice on film use are: Frederick H. Baer, superintendent of Bronxville schools; Isaiah Bowman, president of John Hopkins; Karl T. Compton, president, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Edmund E. Day, president-elect, Cornell; Royal B. Farnum, executive vice-president; R. I. School of Design; Jay B. Nash, professor of education, New York University, and May.

Commissions of well known educators are to be named from time to time to make selections of films of specialized branches such as art education, elementary education, biological science and nature study, physical education, social studies, geographic and geological sciences, human relations, music and physical sciences.

Warners May Enter British Exhibition same time the executive denied that the deal had been closed, as reported in newspaper dispatches published in New York yesterday.

It is the plan of Warners, Morris said, to build a large de luxe film house on the site of Daly's, which was built by Augustin Daly, American theatrical manager, if and when the current negotiations are successfully concluded. Morris indicated that two weeks might elapse before the termination of the negotiations. Such a theatre, if it is built, will be the first Warner house in England, and may be the forerunner of a Warner circuit in the country. However, Morris declared yesterday that the company has no plans for the acquisition of additional theatre properties in England at the moment.

Court Will Pass on Roxy Pact Tuesday

would make known his decision on both the franchise and the form of indenture for the new Roxy debentures at the next hearing on Tuesday. The indenture met with no objections at yesterday's hearing.

Harold Seligson, attorney for the Tipton noteholders' committee, was the sole objector to the franchise. Edward H. Tatum, attorney for a holder of $400,000 of Roxy securities, who said he was not familiar with the provisions of the franchise, was permitted to file a brief with the court after studying it.

Seligson's objection was that 20th Century-Fox, as lessee of the house, will be in a position, he said, to expend the bulk of the house's gross for exploitation or other purposes calculated to establish it as a show window for the prestige of the company's pictures played there. He asserted that if this occurred the house's overhead would consume the bulk of the revenue. Seligson recommended that, inasmuch as Howard S. Cullman, Roxy trustee, has been operating the house on a weekly budget of $25,000, the court should limit 20th Century-Fox's operation of the Roxy to a maximum of $30,000.

Stipulations in Rentals

The principal provisions for the first year of the franchise call for a $2,500 minimum rental per picture, plus 50 per cent of the gross over $32,500, and 65 per cent over $40,000, 20th Century-Fox to supply a minimum of 40 features annually. The house will pay $200 weekly for the newsreel and will agree to use, in addition, 42 two-reelers and 52 one-reelers. It will pay $13,000 annually for the use of all the animated cartoons distributed by the company during the year. Payments are to be made in weekly installments commencing Aug. 6. The company also agrees to license the Roxy for television in the event of its commercial introduction.

Provision is made for the arbitration of disputed points in the franchise in the event of a disagreement at the end of the first year by a board of three to be appointed by the senior judge of the Federal district here.

Howard S. Cullman, Roxy trustee, characterized the franchise as "definitely fair."

RKO Takes Roosevelt

RKO will take over operation of the Roosevelt from Leo Brecher on July 12. This will make the second colored house for the circuit, the Regent on 116th St. being the other.

will lead the congress, the French film organization insists that the International Chamber is not in the possession of any one country. The Chamber, it was said, must be a liberal, international and independent body designed to help in the exchange of film and in the relationship of all the nations of the world.

This view is expected to be reiterated before the congress in the opening address of Henri Clerc, member of the French Chamber of Deputies and general commissioner of the congress.

The Confederation is of the belief that the fact that Dr. Lehnich was at the same time president of the International Chamber and of the Reich Filmkammer, the Nazi official film body, explains why it was said that the congress would be led by the Germans.

Headquarters in Paris

The headquarters of the International Chamber will be maintained in Paris for the next two years, and it is believed that as a result the situation will be changed, in view of the fact that the Chamber will be closely tied in with the French Confederation, which includes all the French branches of American companies. The president of the Chamber will be the president of the Confederation.

It is hoped by the French that the two-year sojourn of the international body in France will open the way for participation by the United States and England in the Chamber. It is the opinion of some observers that France and Belgium are extremely unwilling to remain in the Chamber alone to face the powerful German-Italian film bloc.

F. C. C. Disposes of Problem in Brooklyn

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The F. C. C. has disposed of the so-called Brooklyn case, in which six applicants were contesting for use in that borough of the 1,400-kilocycle channel.

The commission's decision granted the applications of WBBC and WVFV for renewal of license and in addition gave to the former the time heretofore used by WARD and WLTH, whose applications for renewal of license were denied. As a result the two stations will use the time heretofore divided among four, both with 500 watts power.

Application of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle Broadcasting Co. for authority to construct a new station using the facilities of the above four was denied, as was an application from WEVD, New York, to transfer from the 1,300 to the 1,400-kilocycle channel, taking over the facilities of the four Brooklyn stations. The order will become effective Sept. 15.

Two New Stations Asked

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Applications for authority to construct two new broadcasting stations have been filed with the F. C. C. by the Kanawha Valley Broadcasting Co., Charleston, W. New Theatre Plans Slowed In N.Y. Area

Costs and Delays Figure In Dropping Plans

New theatre construction in the east has slowed down temporarily with few or no new houses contemplated by major and prominent independent circuits.

Consolidated and Century circuits were planning to build in their respective territories, but have abandoned the idea for the present. Other circuits were considering the addition of new structures for their organizations, but have decided to sit tight until conditions change.

Overseating and warm weather are not given as the reasons for the decisions not to build. It is pointed out that high costs and delay in delivery of building materials are the primary factors.

One local circuit operator estimated recently that construction costs, as compared to three and four years ago, have risen 50 per cent and more. This not only takes in the price of material, but also labor. Then again, the theatre operator asserted, builders

Union Cinemas Drops All Vaudeville Acts

LONDON, June 26.—C. F. Bernhard, managing director of Union Cinemas, Ltd., a circuit with 185 theatres and 76 more under way, has dropped vaudeville, which was played in more than eighty theatres, after a dispute with the Variety Artists' Federation.

The V.A.F. has a policy against "turn-working" or "doubling"—the appearance of a performer in more than one theatre in the same area—in any area outside London. Bernhard declares variety is uneconomic without doubling and is going back to an all-picture policy in all Union theatres.

Warn Employers on Security Payments

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Delinquent employers in the film industry have been advised by Guy T. Helvering, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, to make immediate tax returns as required under the provisions of the Social Security Act to avoid payment of penalties which are now accruing.

The tax, which imposes an excise levy on the payroll of every employer of one or more persons, is payable monthly at the office of the Collector

Cocalis Dickers for Springer's Holdings

Sam Cocalis is reported negotiating for the late Jack W. Springer's interest in 22 Springer & Cocalis theatres. Several other partners are understood interested in the circuit, but the purchase of Springer's share will give Cocalis control.

George P. Skouras recently completed discussions for acquiring the Beacon, Stoddard, 77th St., Carlton, Olympia, Symphony and Thalia from the Springer estate. Skouras yesterday stated that no date has been set when he will assume management.

RKO, by virtue of its 20 per cent holdings in Metropolitan Playhouses, has the option of purchasing an interest in the 21-year leases involved in the Skouras-Springer arrangement.

Protest Dropping of Federal Stage Plans

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Protests against the discontinuance of Federal Theatre Projects, part of a plan of curtailment now under way by the Works Progress Administration, were today laid before Assistant Administrators David Niles and Mrs. Ellen Woodward of the WPA by a delegation representing a number of organizations, headed by Frank Gillmore of Actors' Equity.

The seven persons comprising the delegation, speaking for Equity and the musicians', dancers', and stage hands' unions, told the WPA officials that while they were opposed to any reduction of projects they were chiefly concerned over the possible elimination of old-time actors who for years

Release Riot Films

After weeks of discussion during which the Paramount News pictures of the Republic Steel riot in Chicago on Memorial Day almost became a national issue the film were released yesterday to the Embassy Theatre and elsewhere.

A. J. Richard, editor, said the films were released because strike conditions were "generally better" and feelings were not so highly wrought. He also mentioned that they had been presented as evidence to the La Follette Civil Liberties Committee of the U. S. Senate.

The Senate Civil Liberties Committee yesterday in Washington viewed the news-reel films, said to be the first time film evidence has been used in a Congressional investigation.

Chicago Censor Ban On Labor Riot Reel

CHICAGO, July 2.—Police Lt. Harry Costello, departmental censor here, today banned the exhibition of Paramount's newsreel showing the Memorial Day rioting scenes. The reason given was that the film violates a local ruling which stipulates that pictures likely to incite patrons cannot be shown.

Mayor Andrew Rooney of East Chicago, where the local steel strike activity is centered, today declared that the films may be shown in that section.

Philadelphia Strike Halts Film Delivery

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—A general truck strike, called suddenly today at 5 P. M., and which involves delivery trucks of all descriptions in Philadelphia, will halt the delivery of film to exhibitors. Theatres changing programs tomorrow and Sunday will be unable to get deliveries from Horlacher and other trucking companies.

The situation probably will result in each exhibitor calling at the exchanges with his own conveyance for his own film requirements.

Court Ruling On Sales Tax Held Film Aid

Industry Awaits Appeal In Register Case

With the city's loss of the first round of a court fight to test its contention that the two per cent municipal sales tax applies to deals consummated within the city for materials to be delivered from points outside the city, local distributors were confident yesterday that efforts to tax circuit film buys closed here would not be sustained by the courts.

In test cases brought against Frank J. Taylor, city controller, by the National Cash Register Co. and the West Publishing Co., the Appellate Division held by four to one decisions that the city was not within its rights in attempting to apply the sales tax to such transactions. On Thursday, local distributors were advised by Milton Solomon, deputy city controller, that circuit film buys consummated for a lump amount in New York City would be subject to the tax even though film involved in the deal was intended for exhibition in theatres located outside the city. The principle involved is regarded by distributors as the same as that at issue in the National Cash Register and West Publishing cases,

Stagger "Forget" Dates

Warners plan to stagger the release dates on "They Won't Forget," described by Gradwell L. an accounting of profits derived from the exhibition of "Letty Lynton," which the plaintiffs charge plagiarized their play, "Dishonored Lady."

The action against the Capitol is an outgrowth of the plagiarism suit over the play and picture which was successfully prosecuted against M-G-M and co-defendants by Sheldon and Miss Barnes earlier. Judge Patterson said he would appoint a special master to determine damages from the exhibition of the picture and to render an accounting. The picture was shown at the Capitol 84 times between April 29 and May 12, 1932, the complaint alleges.

in both of which the plaintiffs admitted that the orders for their merchandise were obtained here but dispatched to offices outside the city to be filled and sent to consumers also located outside the city.

In the Appellate Division's majority decision, delivered by Associate Justice Joseph M. Callahan, it was pointed out that the enabling act on which the tax is based exempted from the tax "transactions originating in and consummated outside the city."

"We believe," the decision said, "that when the Legislature spoke of a transaction 'originating' outside a city it referred, insofar as a sale is concerned, to the place of the making of a contract of sale and not the place from which an offer to buy was sent."

The interstate commerce question of such transactions, on which the constitutionality of the sales tax was assailed earlier, was not touched upon by the court, which found it "unnecessary to determine this question for the reason that we interpret the enabling act to exclude transactions of the kind involved in these 'special orders' from the power granted localities to tax."

Jurist Cites "Discrimination"

Justice Edward S. Dore in a dissenting opinion declared that the effect of the majority ruling was an unjust discrimination against local and resident vendors who, because they are obliged to collect the tax on business done in the city, are at "an economic disadvantage" not borne by their 'foreign' competitors who are not required to pay the tax.

It was on this theory, presumably, that Solomon's ruling on the application of the tax to circuit film buys was rendered. Distributors feel that the similarity of the issues involved makes it unnecessary for the industry to contest Solomon's ruling while the other cases are in litigation. The city has stated that it would appeal immediately to the Court of Appeals from the lower court's decisions.

Solomon has also ruled that advertising accessories sold by local exchanges to theatres outside the city are subject to the tax. Distributors will not contest this ruling, as the amounts involved are small.

of Internal Revenue, and amounts to one per cent. MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Easy Living"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, July 2.—For all-around, all-audience amusement purposes "Easy Living" will give any picture competition. Its farce comedy is freshly contrived. The film is a revealing throwback to the old-fashioned, ever popular slapstick technique. It is slated to be a surprise attraction because of the theme. The film seems to be destined for popularity with all audiences with resultant healthy box-office returns.

The situations are cleverly developed. The story follows the comedy of errors premise. Edward Arnold, a banker, disciplines his wife, Mary Nash, by throwing her costly fur coat from a roof. The garment lands on Jean Arthur, a stenographer. This sets off the train of hilarious, unexpected comedy. By mistake, Luis Alberni installs Miss Arthur in a swanky hotel. Through another error Arnold's blacksheep son, working as a bus boy, wrecks an Automat for the girl. Andrew Tombes, a broker, in another error starts a stock market panic. And by error again Miss Nash plans to divorce Arnold. In a wild and woolly climax everything is adjusted to everybody's satisfaction and the audience's delight.

The performances by Arnold, Miss Arthur and Ray Milland in characters totally different than they ever played before, are A number one. When they are not the center of foolishness Alberni, Franklin Pangborn, William Demarest, Barlow Borland, Esther Dale and Robert Greig keep things going at a mad pace. It is based on a story by Vera Caspary. Preston Sturges' screenplay bubbles with lively humor. Mitchell Leisen's direction drains every situation of its humorous content.

made their living upon the stage while novices of no experience were retained on the rolls, a situation which already has occurred in several instances on record.

The WPA officials listened with a sympathetic ear, and promised to take such steps as were possible to minimize distress. However, it was explained, the curtailment program has been necessitated by the fact that the funds appropriated by Congress for the fiscal year now beginning are not adequate to maintain the approximately 2,000,000 persons now on relief rolls and a cut of some 425,000 will be necessary.

Complaints against curtailment of the theatre, music and other projects have been pouring in on the WPA for some days, many from members of Congress.

will not order materials until contracts are actually signed. And after the pacts are signed, it takes months to get materials. Dates for deliveries mean nothing, according to the exhibitor, because the mills and factories are so busy no guarantee shipment date can be made.

However, it is expected that the situation will change shortly, but whether a change will bring about a new wave of theatre building is problematical.

More Branch Union Deals Up This Week

With terms already completed for 14 key situations, discussions will get under way either today or tomorrow between home office distribution executives and I. A. T. S. E. representatives on a number of proposals from other territories.

Although it was expected Salt Lake City would be among those on the immediate calendar, home office exchange heads have been informed that none of the major companies is represented by the group sending in a request for recognition. In all situations discussed so far, only contracts for the eight major companies have been involved. What action independent companies will take in regard to exchange employe unions has not yet been determined.

Reductions in Rates Are Provided; Per Reel Basis Retained

Eight producing companies have approved a new form of recording license agreement with Erpi and the new pact, which will run for eight years, is scheduled to be placed in effect in the near future, it was learned over the weekend.

The terms of the new agreement provide appreciable reductions in all recording charges and eliminate the former charges for foreign recording and dubbing. The pacts will continue Erpi's recording charges on a per reel basis, but rates will be determined by the cost of individual productions. The recording charge for pictures of the "A" classification will be $54 per reel, and "B" pictures, westerns and other productions in the lower budgeted groups will be $27 per reel. The new rates are said to represent reductions of approximately one-third.

Erpi will retain its specifications that the minimum recording royalties of each major producer licensee be $100,000 per year. The pacts are retroactive to June 1 of last year, the date on which producer licensees initiated the negotiations resulting in the new rates, and they will expire in 1944.

The new terms were negotiated jointly by all major licensees during the past year and have now been approved by all companies involved.

Whitford Drake, Erpi president, arrived on the coast over the weekend to confer with studio officials on the new pacts. He is expected back in New York by the end of July by which time, it is expected, the approved agreements will have been signed by the producing companies and placed in effect.

National Closes All But Three Big Deals

"Big Fella"

(British Lion)

LONDON, June 28.—Paul Robeson, with six good song numbers, and Elisabeth Welch with two; an original story idea, not fully developed, but with pleasantness of atmosphere and fair humorous values, combine for a slight but usable item, which would have been more generally acceptable if a boy part, key to the production, had been better handled.

Robeson is a big negro living in the Marseilles underworld, who is asked by the police to help find the small son of a rich English couple. Supposed to have been kidnapped, the youngster really has made a getaway from maternal apron-strings and is happy with a crowd of slum urchins. When Robeson collects him he insists on staying "kidnapped," but a cafe lounge hears the story and carries the boy back to his parents, collecting the reward and later splitting with Robeson, and then taking it all back during a drunken cafe round. Finally Robeson and his pals stow the double-crosser away on the boat with the departing English, and he stays with his girl.

The backgrounds are mainly of cafes and the waterside and are just adequate. J. Elder Wills directed.

Report Wehrenberg to Build

ST. LOUIS, July 5.—Fred Wehrenberg, who operates five local theatres, is planning to add a number of new units to the circuit, according to report. The expansion plan is described here as a move against F. & M. which recently acquired and pooled a number of theatres here and in South St. Louis. However, F. & M. executives here are not perturbed by the Wehrenberg report and will continue to make whatever deals are beneficial to their interests.

Harry C. Arthur, executive operating head of F. & M., stated over the weekend that he never had a deal on to pool the circuit's St. Louis theatres with Fred Wehrenberg's group.

found in preference to costly litigation which is believed certain to result if the trustee's suits are brought to trial.

The first suit, one to recover for Paramount the damages alleged to have been incurred through the guaranteed redemption at more than market value of the company's stock which had been issued for expansion purposes from 1927 to 1931, has been set for trial on Sept. 27 in N. Y. Supreme Court by Justice Isidore Wasservogel. The second suit, to recover sums alleged to have been paid in excess of reasonable compensation and "actual or potential" profits of the defendants resulting from transactions in the employees' stock purchase plan, has been set for trial in October, without date. The settlement conferences are expected to continue through the summer, and, if no agreement has been reached at the time of the trial dates, postponements probably will be asked to complete the discussions.

Defendants Listed

Defendants whom the actions would compel to return allegedly "unreasonable" compensation for the years 1927 to 1930, inclusive, are Adolph Zukor, Jesse L. Lasky, Sidney R. Kent, Sam Katz and Ralph Kohn. Defendants who would be compelled to return to the company "actual or potential" profits derived from participation in the employees' stock purchase plan are Felix M. Warburg, Jerome J. Hanauer, Gordon Leith, George W. Bovenizer, Lewis L. Strauss, Sir William Wiseman, the estate of Otto H. Kahn and the estate of Mortimer L. Schiff.

All members of the Paramount board of directors from 1927 to 1931 are made defendants in the suit to recover alleged losses to the company resulting from the stock repurchase agreements. These include: Jules Brulatour, Harold B. Franklin, Daniel Frohman, Katz, Kent, Kohn, Lasky, the estate of Elek J. Ludvigh, Maurice Newton, Sir William Wiseman, Herman Wobber, Adolph and Eugene Zukor. The suits were brought by the trustees in the fall of 1934 and were continued by special direction of the Federal court following the court's approval of the Paramount reorganization plan.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Californian"

(Principal-20th-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, July 5.—Action and adventure, told against a semi-historical romance background, is the substance of this picture. Well produced and acted, the colorful production should serve acceptably as a companion piece to a more pretentious attraction. Though several novel twists are inserted, the theme follows a familiar vein.

In idea it adopts the Robin Hood motif, a native Spanish Californian compelled to turn outlaw in order to avenge the lawlessness of Americans who invaded the province immediately after its coming of U. S. sovereignty. Not only does the hero, Ricardo Cortez, have the unscrupulous American Morgan Wallace, to combat, but he has to overcome George Regas, bandit leader, in order to change the activity of the bandits from looting just for the pleasure of looting to robbing that Spanish property might be restored to its rightful owners. With a slim, but effective, vein of love interest involving Cortez and Marjorie Weaver and with Maurice Black and William Fletcher contributing good comedy, the film builds to the expected riding, shooting, fighting climax.

The players mentioned do good work and Katherine DeMille, as a jealous menace, and Nigel De Brulier head an effective supporting cast. The story by Harold Bell Wright, Gordon Newell's adaptation and Gilbert Wright's screenplay are credible. Gus Meins directed.

Production Code Certificate 3,469. Running time, 55 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"The League of Frightened Men"

(Columbia)

An interesting and entertaining mystery yarn has been made of this latest in the series of screen adventures of the portly and clever Nero Wolfe, as conceived by Rex Stout and portrayed by Walter Connolly. The suspense is maintained, the action moves forward with an unhurried but even pace, and the performance of that consummate player, Connolly, adds measurably to the entertainment of the picture as a whole. Laughs are dropped in neatly now and again, chiefly as they are purveyed by Lionel Stander, who has chiseled a niche for himself as a comedian.

Perhaps an evaluation is best expressed in the words of a masculine patron, who, overheard leaving the theatre where the film was shown, remarked, "I enjoyed that picture." That should be true of most audiences, although for the women the romantic angle is subordinated almost to the vanishing point.

Eduardo Ciannelli, who offers an excellent performance, plays the successful author who is a cripple as the result of a hazing accident when he was in college. The 10 men who participated in the hazing, are in deadly fear, when one of them is killed and the others receive threatening letters which they attribute to Ciannelli, believing him in search of vengeance. One of the group asks the help of Connolly, and he gathers them together and offers to remove their fears—for a price. They agree, and Connolly lifts his bulk from behind his desk to track down the murderer, who is not Ciannelli.

Production Code Seal No. 3,216. Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

Date Moskowitz Hearing

Retitle "Umbrella Man"

HOLLYWOOD, July 5.—M-G-M has changed the title of "The Umbrella Man" to "London by Night."

Short Subjects

"The Wrong Romance"

(Radio)

A nicely turned comedy featuring Leon Errol. The story material is not unusual, but the situations have been freshly treated to provide a maximum of merriment. Vivian Oakland, Barbara Pepper, Harry Bowen and Maxine Jennings aid in the farcical doings. Production Code Seal No. 3,180. Running time, 19 mins. "G."

"Porky's Super Service"

(Vitaphone)

The amusing cartoon character here operates a service station. His work is lightly treated with clever animation. While fixing a tire he is annoyed by a baby with ensuing complications that will be found hilarious. Production Code Seal No. 3,338. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"A Car-Tune Portrait"

(Fleischer-Paramount)

The cartoon characters decide to show their most serious side. They give a concert. In the midst of a number, a Liszt selection, they cut loose and animated pandemonium breaks loose. All in clever, entertaining fashion. Production Code Seal No. 01,483. Running time, 7 minutes. "G."

"Newsboy's Nocturne"

(Vitaphone)

A clever tabloid musical with many amusing twists. The theme concerns a newsboy's dream. He passes out due to the absence of readers. The fantasy is ingenious. Billy and Beverly Bernis, Tommy Edwards, Evelyn Poe and Jean Travers are featured. It is a first rate offering that will go over. Production Code Seal No. 01,539. Running time, 20 mins. "G."

waukee for preliminary discussions on product and theatre problems.

In all probability, the Warner pact will be the first of the three closed. Gradwell Sears and other Warner sales executives have been conferring with Spyros Skouras and his assistants in the past few weeks. This deal may be for two years, the term set with Columbia just previous to the distributor's convention on the coast. The Columbia talks started out on a two-year basis, then shifted to a one-year arrangement and finally ended with Columbia getting a contract for two years.

Skouras is planning a trip to Greece as soon as the three remaining deals are set. He will also visit Luzerne, Switzerland, where his daughter, Daphne, is at school. He will bring her back with him. J. J. Sullivan, Fox West Coast film buyer, will return to the coast where he makes his headquarters, on the completion of present negotiations.

Caffey Gives Approval for Roxy Control

20th-Fox Franchise Wins Despite Objections

Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey yesterday approved the proposed new indenture and film franchise between 20th Century-Fox and the Roxy Theatre at a hearing of the proposed plan of reorganization of the Roxy held in the U. S. District Court. Judge Caffey overruled objections to the franchise made by Harold P. Seligson, counsel for the Tipton Bondholders' protective committee on the ground that a $30,000 limitation on the budget of the Roxy would be "taking unfair advantage" of 20th Century-Fox.

Otto E. Koegel, attorney for 20th Century-Fox, revealed that he had "very reluctantly agreed to" the limitation of $7,500 weekly on the advertising budget for the first year with a higher limit if advertising rates increase in the remaining 19 years.

Appeal Court Acts On Big RKO Claim

The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday reversed the partial allowance of the claim of the Hippodrome Bldg. Co. against RKO at $88,666 and returned the claim to the U. S. District Court for further hearing with a recommendation that it be allowed at $450,000.

The decision is the first appellate adjudication of the rights of holders of guaranteed leases to recover damages from breach of leases from the parent company. Further hearings were ordered by the Circuit Court on technical grounds because a stipulation of facts filed by both sides failed to show that the claimant used its "best efforts" to rent the theatre after default. The claim was based on a 17-year lease for the Cleveland Hippodrome Theatre made in July, 1930, with the Cleveland Hippodrome Theatre Corp., an RKO subsidiary, at $150,000 annual rental and guaranteed by RKO. The lease was rejected by the Irving Trust Co., RKO trustees, in April, 1933, and the theatre was re-rented by the claimant in November of that year at $90,000, which was conceded to be a fair rental.

Special Master Thomas D. Thatcher ruled that the new lease terminated

Chamber Control is Factor In U. S. Presence at Paris

By PIERRE AUTRE

PARIS, July 6.—The crucial question of whether or not the complexion of the International Film Chamber will change sufficiently to induce the United States and England to participate in its activities emerged as the dominant issue at the conclusion yesterday of the first day of the International Film Congress here.

The Congress is being held at the headquarters of the French Cinema Confederation, and is presided over by Oswald Lehnich, president of the International Chamber and chief of the German delegation in his capacity as president of the Reichs Filmkammer.

The participation of the United States and England hinges upon the vital question of whether the Chamber will continue to be dominated by Germany, supported by Italy, Austria, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Rumania, Yugoslavia and Japan, or France, with the aid of Belgium, Luxembourg and Poland, may be able so to change the attitude of the Chamber as to make possible the entrance of the two

Short Subjects

"The Little Pioneer"

(Vitaphone)

Sybil Jason is featured in this interesting little drama set in South Africa at the time of the Boer War. It is done in Technicolor and contains the usual trivia about the difficulties the English and the Dutch settlers are involved in due to outside influences. Carlyle Moore, Jr., and Jane Wyman provide the romance. Miss Jason's acting abilities should prove touching to the average audience. Production Code Seal No. 3,228. Running time, 19 mins. "G."

"Circus Winter Quarters"

(Van Beuren-Radio)

Fine scenes of the activities of the Ringling Bros. three ring show rehearsing their acts for the coming season. The roving camera catches many unusual aspects of performers and animals. The material is good. Should be well received. Production Code Seal No. 0,157. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"The Circus Comes to Town"

(Paramount)

Scenes of the arrival, preparations and a performance of a circus. It is a tent show and all the color, excitement and atmosphere is caught. Clyde Beatty is shown at the conclusion doing his stuff with lions. Production Code Seal No. 01,629. Running time, 10 minutes. "G."

"Land of the Magyar"

(Vitaphone)

A nicely fashioned camera tour of Hungary. There are scenes in color of landmarks, cities, native customs and dances. It is lightly narrated by Basil Ruysdael. The musical score is composed of rich, rhythmic Gypsy airs. Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"That Man Samson"

(Radio)

The Biblical story of Samson and Delilah is told in song by the Hall Johnson Choir. It is done in a vein similar to "The Green Pastures." In its warm, human way it is pleasant material well done. Production Code Seal No. 2,349. Running time, 19 mins. "G."

"Florida Cowboy"

(Van Beuren-Radio)

Here are many enlightening scenes of the little known cattle raising industry of Florida. The fine photography covers the subject thoroughly, though with quick glimpses. It is well done and interesting. Production Code Seal No. 01,572. Running time, 9½ mins. "G."

Seek Philippine Outlet

HOLLYWOOD, July 6.—Filippine Film Prod., Inc., is seeking a distribution outlet in this country for "Zamboanga," its first production, for world release. Filippine Films for years has produced native features in Tagalog and distributed them throughout the Philippine and Hawaiian Islands.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Exclusive"

(Paramount)

SAN DIEGO, July 6.—Racketeers enter the newspaper business in this exciting melodrama spiced with enough comedy to make it an entertaining film of general appeal.

Frances Farmer continues her climb to stardom, Fred MacMurray turns in a realistic performance as the assistant city editor, and Charles Ruggles, as a slightly tipsy reporter, furnishes both pathos and comedy. Alexander Hall handles the direction expertly. Ben Glazer produced.

Ruggles' headstrong and impetuous daughter, Miss Farmer, and MacMurray are engaged, until she joins the staff of the Sentinel, owned by Lloyd Nolan, who is cast as an unscrupulous racketeer. Ridiculing her father's code of newspaper ethics, the girl reporter exposes Ralph Morgan, reform candidate for mayor, as an ex-convict. Morgan, deserted by his friends, shoots himself before a terrified reporter.

Despite the tragedy, Miss Farmer continues her ruthless journalistic tactics and charges that the elevators in the leading department stores are antiquated and dangerous. To bolster up the story and win a libel action, Nolan has his men grease the cables of an elevator, causing it to fall, and seriously injuring MacMurray. The latter, in delirium, mentions the greased cables. Working on this clue, Ruggles uncovers the plot and tricks a confession out of Nolan's men, thus bringing his daughter to her senses. En route with the confession, Ruggles is fatally wounded. In spite of the fact that Nolan has just bought the paper, MacMurray puts out an extra exposing his new boss. Nolan is indicted and Miss Farmer and MacMurray are reunited.

Production Code Seal No. 3,400. Running time, 85 minutes. "G."

"Paradise Isle"

(Monogram)

HOLLYWOOD, July 6.—In a setting of authentic South Sea Island surroundings showing native life as the real inhabitants live it and not as Hollywood extras would play it, "Paradise Isle" emerges as a charming and pleasant love story of a native girl who falls in love with a shipwrecked blind man, and who aids him in his affliction.

It presents Movita in her first starring role. The entire production is a creditable one, albeit it does not feature any deep motivation, but rambles through the attempts of the native girl and her native boy friend to obtain surgical aid for the blind man, played by Warren Hull. All this is against a background of a trader's efforts to get the natives to dive for the taboo pearls.

The script is by Marion Orth from the Allan Vaughan Elston Cosmopolitan story, "The Belled Palm." Arthur Greville Collins directed, with Dorothy Reid as associate producer. The cast includes William Davidson, John St. Polis, George Piltz, Pierre Watkin, Kenneth Harlan, Tau Mana and Malia Makua.

Production Code Seal 3,522. Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

Judge Caffey ruled that new consents to the plan have to be filed because certain amendments to the plan were offered during the litigation. This ruling is technical and is not expected to delay confirmation of the plan.

"Another Dawn" faded at the Boyd with an $11,000 gross and "A Day at the Races" ended fairly strongly with $12,500 for its third and last week at the Fox.

NBC-CBS "Exclusives" Get Less So as Heat Increases

Paying for exclusives and then finding they are not exclusives has become one of the chief outdoor sports of NBC and CBS. Announcers haven't taken to wearing long whiskers with short wave sets concealed on their chests beneath, but they are sitting with the bats in church steeples or cruising over their rival's sporting events in planes.

Anything can happen anywhere, and does.

Saturday CBS dispatched Ted Husing to Milwaukee to cover the A.A.U. track and field meet in Marquette stadium. The meet was a guaranteed NBC exclusive, the network having paid a cash price for the broadcast privileges. Of course Husing could not obtain admittance to the field, so he did the next best thing and clambered up the steeple of a church adjoining the stadium. NBC was not aware of the CBS-Husing shenanigans until the meet was well under way, and then it was too late to do anything about it.

Bird's-Eye View of Races

CBS again poached on an exclusive NBC preserve Monday by broadcasting a description of the running of the Vanderbilt Cup automobile racers from an aeroplane cruising above the track. NBC had paid to keep this race to itself.

NBC doesn't relish being scooped on its own exclusives, of course, but the network isn't saying much, probably because it recognizes that turn about is fair play. Recently NBC cut in on two CBS exclusives, the Poughkeepsie Regatta and the National Open golf championship, both of which were cut into by the Radio Cityites.

CFCF Cuts Evening "Spots"

MONTREAL, July 6. — A drive against "spot" advertising has been opened by Marconi's station, CFCF. It will "clean up" the daily time from 6:30 to 7 P.M., notably one of the worst periods on Montreal airwaves.

Daily from 6:45 to 7:00 CFCF will carry the male trio, "Buccaneers," sponsored by the Imperial Tobacco Co., while the 15-minute period starting at 6:30 will be taken up Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays by the Canada Starch Co. and on alternate days by sustaining pickups from American stations.

Next before the axe will be "spot" advertisers who get large audiences by cutting in after big-time commercials.

WCPC Has Two-Hour Sing

CINCINNATI, July 6. — WCPC Scripps-Howard station, is conducting a two-hour community sing weekly from Eden Park where Hy. C. Geis accompanies the singers on an electric organ. The program is broadcast from 8:45 to 10 P. M., E. S. T., on Tuesdays, and is believed to be the first of its kind on such an elaborate scale as a sustainer.

Overpaid!

San Francisco, July 6. — KPO's commentator, Gypsy, didn't know whether to laugh or cry when offered a job on a Honolulu station, during her recent vacation. The salary proffered was $2 a day!

Just returned from the islands, Gypsy reports that announcers in Honolulu are frequently paid as low as $12.50 weekly; that Phillips H. Lord, when stranded there after his attempt to sail around the world, set an all-time high by drawing down $36 a week at one of the studios.

CBS Pays W. S. Paley $237,524 in a Year

William S. Paley, president of CBS, Inc., for the fiscal year ended Jan. 2, 1937, was credited with a total compensation of $237,524, of which $91,369 was paid in the fiscal year and the remainder accrued, according to the company's annual report filed with S.E.C. and released through the New York Stock Exchange.

Paley also received during the year $4,097, the balance due for services rendered in 1935. The sum of $237,524 was about two per cent in excess of the amount which would have been payable, if the year ending Jan. 2, 1937, had comprised the customary 52 weeks instead of 53 weeks. The amount also included additional compensation of $196,155.

Paley's agreement with CBS provides for the payment by the company and its subsidiaries to him of $40,000 annually, plus 2½ per cent of the annual consolidated net profits up to $600,000, plus five per cent of the sum by which such net profits exceed $600,000.

Edward Klauber, executive vice-president, received $71,359; while Paul W. Kesten, vice-president, received $38,800, and Hugh K. Boice, vice-president, received $45,098.

Kaltenborn is a CBS commentator; Eaton and Coulson are on the news staff of WHAS, Louisville affiliate of CBS. The plaques are to be presented to the award winners at the club's annual dinner at the Hotel Traymore, Atlantic City, Saturday.

Eaton and Coulson earned their accolade for their radio services during the flood last January.

Iowa Air Law in Effect

DES MOINES, July 6. — A law pertaining to radio stations, passed by the last General Assembly, which became effective this week relieves the owner or operator of a station from liability for a defamatory statement by one other than the owner, operator or agent. The exemption, however, applies only if the owners or operators can prove they exercised "due care."

Summer Shows On the Air

Born on the Fourth

Radio, along with the rest of the country, celebrated the Fourth of July in typical style by lighting the fuses to a packet of firecrackers labeled as a new set of summer entertainments—the Jane Froman-Don Ross replacement for Jack Benny; the Harry Von Zell substitution for Phil Baker, and the new Fleischmann musical session featuring the orchestrations of the Werner Janssen's band. Two programs detonated nicely, the third sputtered somewhat.

The most effective explosion was registered by Harry-Von Zell as the star of the new Gulf gasoline series. Those close to Von Zell have long suspected that given the opportunity he would prove to be more than just an announcer, albeit one of the very best in the business. He obtained his opportunity Sunday. On what he showed, Von Zell is good enough right now to permanently hang up his laurels won as an announcer and branch out as an emcee forever more and after. He's just about tops as a show pacer and as a foil for comedians.

Von Zell's highlight guests for the evening were Stoopnagle & Budd, and the trio worked beautifully. Between them they practically bore the whole burden of the half-hour's entertainment, and they bore it in bang-up, hilarious style. Oscar Bradley's band and the coloraturing of Vivian Chiesa rounded out an eminently satisfactory period. . . .

Froman-Ross Click

The Jane Froman-Don Ross period is a first-rate musical show, with Jane and hubby Ross dispensing vocals in likeable fashion, and a comparatively unknown radio band, the D'Artega orchestra, dealing out the musical rhythms efficiently. These, in addition to a trio, are the permanent features in the series. The inaugural guest was Freddie Lightner in a comedy role.

The songs included "Tomorrow Is Another Day" by Miss Froman, "I'm in Love Again" by Ross, "Gone with the Wind" by Miss Froman, and "Whispers in the Dark," a duet.

D'Artega's orchestra proved a surprise—a pleasant surprise. While Lightner's lines and delivery were more than passable, the humor somehow failed to register—due probably to the unfair but hard-to-shake feeling that no one can step into the Jack Benny spot. . . .

Yeast Show Weak

The new Fleischmann Yeast program features the music of Werner Janssen's orchestra and weekly guest vocalists. Sunday night's guest was Loretta Lee.

It seems to us that Janssen is off on a wrong tangent in treating popular melodies in heavy symphonic style. He was criticized for this when he was appearing on the Chase and Sanborn series, but apparently the criticism fell lightly in his ears, for Sunday evening he tried the style again, with rather uncomfortable results. This is unfortunate because

Herrick, of NLRB, Hears WHN, ARTA

Decision was reserved yesterday by Myron Herrick, regional director of the National Labor Relations Board, in the hearing arising from a dispute between the A.R.T.A., a C.I.O. affiliate, and WHN. Present at the meeting, in addition to representatives of WHN and the labor unit, were members of the M.P.T.O.A. and the Musicians' Union. The latter group, A.F.L. affiliate, claims that a prior contract with the Marcus Loew interests entitles it to first consideration in labor affairs.

Decision in the case, which will be made in Washington, is not expected for several weeks.

Brunton Heads Unit To Get NAB Meeting

SAN FRANCISCO, July 6.—Ralph Brunton of KJBS has been named chairman of a civic and radio committee to bring the NAB convention here in 1939, the year of the Golden Gate International Exposition.

Brunton officially invited the NAB at the recent conclave in Chicago. Brunton, a NAB director, is owner and general manager of KJBS, San Francisco, and KQW, San Jose.

Tirado on Radio Tour

MEXICO CITY, July 6.—Dr. Alfonso Ortiz Tirado, Mexico's leading radio tenor and ranking surgeon, who has performed in the United States, is making a radio tour of South America. He is a noted bone specialist and donates his considerable radio earnings to a child clinic, free to the poor, which he conducts here. Several wealthy Americans who admire his singing have made handsome cash donations to his clinic.

KFEL in New Studio

DENVER, July 6.—Changing from the first to the second floor of the Albany Hotel here, KFEL has moved into its new studios. Furnished in white pine furniture, the studios are Indian in decoration, with clocks faced with Indian signs, Navajo rugs on the walls, and Indian lighting fixtures.

The station now has two studios, control room between, and an audition room adjacent to the salesmen's room.

Ruth Chilton to Join WSyr

BOSTON, July 6.—Ruth Chilton, on the staff of WEEL for years, is to leave the Hub about July 10 to take up new duties at WSyr, Syracuse. Miss Chilton will sing over the outlet Mondays through Fridays from 1:30 to 1:45 P.M., and in addition will take part in dramatic shows and will handle continuity. She has been associated for some nine years with WEEL.

the Janssen orchestra is unquestionably a fine unit. An occasional dressing up of a tune is desirable, of course, but an entire period of over-embellished pep tunes is not only hard on the ears but downright annoying. The band numbers included "Shall We Dance," "El Relicario," "My Temptation," and "Star Dust." Loretta Lee, a hot warbler, offered several vocals, including the torrid "St. Louis Blues."

Clark Is Head Of Condor in Reorganizing

Clark, George A. Fry of Booz, Fry Allen & Hamilton of Chicago; Lewis C. George of B. E. Buchman & Co., Madison, Wis. B. E. Buchman & Co., original underwriters, will maintain their position and interest in the company.

Condor's board yesterday accepted Hirliman's resignation with regret. Hirliman will continue to produce independently, but not for Condor, with Richard Dix as star, it is understood. Next season's commitments by Condor call for 20 features and 26 shorts, of which four features have been completed as well as three shorts for RKO and Grand National.

A. J. Van Beuren, chairman of the board, will retain that post and continue to make his headquarters in New York.

Bobb, Clark & Bennett have been counsel for various New York investment companies as well as financial advisors. The meetings to reorganize Condor have been under way for two weeks with negotiations for the new banking groups completed yesterday.

Damages were limited, however, to a maximum of $450,000, which represents three years' gross rental as required by Section 77B of the Bankruptcy Law.

most important film countries in the world.

Besides the French Confederation and the German delegation, 17 other nations were represented, with a total of 82 delegates in attendance, divided as follows: Germany, 17; Italy, 12; Austria, 10; Belgium, 14; Czechoslovakia, three; Norway, four; Switzerland, two, and one each from Finland, Denmark, Luxemburg, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Sweden, Rumania, Japan and India.

In his address to the press, Lehnich insisted on the necessity of the presence of the United States and England for the development and progress of the Chamber. He declared it is his understanding that the two countries wished first to see the results of the work of the Chamber before participating, and expressed the hope that they would soon join the organization.

Georges Lourau, vice-president of the French Confederation, manager of the French Films Sonores Tobis, and head of the French delegation, was named president of the International Chamber for two years, succeeding Lehnich.

Defer Naming Demaria Successor

Following the resignation of Jules Demaria, president of the French Confederation, who is now in the United States, it has been decided that a successor will not be named before September. In the interim, the Confederation will be managed in turn by its four vice-presidents.

Neville Kearney, secretary of the Film Group of the Federation of British Industries, is attending the Congress as a member of the authors' rights commission. He expressed the hope that the French Confederation will change the existing spirit of the Chamber.

Harold Smith, European representative of the M.P.P.D.A., was invited as a guest to attend the Congress, and was present at the first meeting of the authors' rights commission. American interests are interested in the copyright situation, which will be discussed by the commission.

Loew 40-Week Net Jumps to $11,714,722

Hits $85.68 Preferred;
$7.07 on Common

Loew's, Inc., yesterday reported net profit for the 40 weeks ended June 3, last, of $11,714,722, without provision for surtaxes on undistributed profits, and after depreciation and taxes. The net is equal to $85.68 per share of preferred stock, and $7.07 per share of common.

The 40-week net profit compares with a net profit of $7,390,495 for the 40 weeks ended June 4, 1936, which was equal to $54.06 per share on the preferred and $4.47 on the common. The company's share of the operating profit after provision for subsidiaries' preferred dividends for the 1937 period amounted to $17,018,081, compared with $11,488,106 in the similar period last year. Depreciation and taxes for the 1937 period amounted to $5,303,359, compared to $4,097,611 for the previous period.

Loew's yesterday declared the quarterly dividend of $1.62½ on the preferred stock, payable Aug. 14 to stockholders of July 29.

Nazi-Fascist Cabal Cools Film Congress Enthusiasm

By PIERRE AUTRE

PARIS, July 7.—Enthusiasm in evidence yesterday at the session of the International Film Chamber Congress disappeared today when it became apparent that the congress is being used primarily by Germany and Italy as a vehicle for Nazi and Fascist propaganda.

It is felt now that there is no chance that England or the United States will join the Chamber and the feeling is being expressed that France, Belgium and Luxemburg ought to withdraw and tie up with England and America. It is pointed out further that due to the fact that the 1939 congress will be held in Rome, under the sponsorship of Italy, all hope of a change in the attitude of the International Film Chamber would seem to be destroyed automatically.

It appears that the Chamber is now definitely in the hands of Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy and their supporters, which include virtually all the countries of central Europe. France, Belgium and Luxemburg are left alone in a democratic group facing the Nazi-Fascist bloc. Besides the official

WASHINGTON, July 7.—In an effort to end any worries which Allied members may have felt recently about the future of the organization as a result of the Michigan resignations, national headquarters has sent out a bulletin saying there will be no change in the setup. It is also stated that the legislative campaign will be continued.

"Assurances are hereby given," the bulletin reads, "that what has transpired in Michigan had no reference to and will have no effect upon the policies, program and activities of Allied States Ass'n. Decision was reserved yesterday by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals on the application of the preferred stockholders' bid for the same assets and Orpheum Circuit, Inc., for permission to appeal from two orders by Federal Judge Robert P. Patterson who approved the sale of Orpheum assets to Stadium Theatres, Inc., RKO subsidiary, for $700,000, rejected the stockholders' bid for the same assets and denied a stockholders' motion to compel Marcus Heiman, Orpheum trustee, to intervene in the RKO reorganization proceedings. No Clearance Changes Here Are Expected

Major Circuits Contend Present Setup Fair

With the new season getting under way the latter part of next month, major circuits do not plan any changes in the local protection and clearance schedules, it was learned yesterday. Both Loew's and RKO have seven-day clearances, the former staggering dates on pictures with the latter circuit day-and-dating product.

Executives of the two major circuits contend that the present booking arrangements are fair and equitable both for the circuits involved and subsequent houses. Several years ago a 14-day protection period prevailed.

Within the past few months, Government agents have been investigating the local zoning and protection setup. Loew's, RKO and numerous independent circuits are known to have been visited by the Dep't of Justice agents who have been given carte blanche at the files. Complaints are

Wisconsin Theatre Bill Fails to Pass

No action had been taken on the theatre divorce bill when the Wisconsin legislature adjourned recently, Harold J. "The legislature adjourned and the bill didn't come up," Fitzgerald said. Business is off as a result of the hot weather, he said. After a week, during which time he will confer with Spyros Skouras and other National Theatre executives, Fitzgerald will return to his headquarters with Weisner.

New Union in K. C.
Dissolved by Court

KANSAS CITY, July 7.—Judge Darius A. Brown of the Circuit Court here has set aside the decree of incorporation granted several weeks ago to the United M. P. Operators' & Workers' Union of the Film Industry, Inc. Certain members of the new union had, Judge Brown said he had learned, been sending threatening messages to theatre owners. He had reference to "Invitations" sent out by U. M. P. O. several weeks ago to theatre and film workers to join the organization.

Judge Brown's action came after the projectionists, members of Local 170, I. A. T. S. E., working in houses U. M. P. O. had been picketing—Westport, Mokane, Baltis, Bijou and Admiral—and J. F. Rigney, owner of the Westport, had signed a petition asking that the union's charter be dissolved. Rigney pointed out that the union was picketing his house, although he had no union trouble. Front door glass at the Westport was broken over the weekend by bricks, causing approximately $25 damage.

The walkout was called by Herb Sorrel, business agent for the local, following the asserted repudiation of a verbal agreement that the non-union workers would be discharged over the weekend.

delegations, the majority of those attending are from Germany, Italy and other central European countries. The chief of the Italian industry, Luigi Freddi, also is present. Another point that leads numerous observers to believe that Italian-German dominance is assured, is the fact that the new president of the International Chamber, Georges Lourau, a Frenchman, is manager of the French branch of Tobis.

Numerous speakers at yesterday's session, including a representative of Jean Zay, French Minister for National Education; Henri Clerc, French Deputy and general commissioner to the congress; Oswald Lehnich, retiring president of the Chamber, and Jean Chataigner, French film leader, all claimed that the aim of the Chamber is to raise the intellectual level of the screen and bring about a closer relationship among all nations.

Telegrams were addressed to the President of France, to Prime Minister Camille Chautemps and to Louis Lumiere, film pioneer. A surprise to the congress was the decision, forced by the German and Italian delegates, to send a telegram to Dr. Joseph Goebbels, Nazi Propaganda Minister, because the last congress was held in Berlin. Another was sent to Italian Propaganda Minister Comte Alfieri because the next congress, in 1939, will be held in Italy. The latter wire was demanded by the chief of the Polish delegation.

KANSAS CITY, July 7.—Inspection and shipping of film for Monogram Pictures of Kansas City, Inc., will be handled by Exhibitors Film Delivery, beginning July 12. The latter company has been making plans for some time to handle product of independent companies.

Beyond this lies the possibility of a central depot for the physical distribution for other film companies, an idea that has been brewing for some time.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—A suit charging plagiarism was filed in District of Columbia Federal Court today by Robert H. Sheets of Jackson, Tenn., against 20th Century-Fox. He alleges that "The Road to Glory" plagiarized a play written by him under the same title. He asks $1,000,000 damages.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Marry the Girl"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, July 7.—It would appear that Warners, who have turned out some really amusing pictures, in "Marry the Girl" attempted to go overboard in the direction of comedy, and what was meant to be insanely funny turns out rather to be merely inane. The comedy has its moments, of course, but on the whole the story is so ridiculous that it amounts to a regrettable waste of a handful of the best comedians in the business.

The showman should have no trouble bringing in the crowds, in any case, with a lineup which includes Frank McHugh, Hugh Herbert, Mary Boland, Allan Jenkins, Mischa Auer and Hugh O'Connell. William McGann, who directed, may be accused of piling it on a bit too heavily for intelligent consumption, but then, it might do for summer entertainment, if the audience can succeed in leaving all sense of credibility outside the theatre. Carol Hughes and Alan Mowbray fill in the cast.

The story is from a published novel by Edward Hope and it was probably funnier in the reading than it appears to be in the seeing. To repeat, there are a number of really amusing moments. It could not be otherwise with a host of comedians such as this film contains.

Herbert is the virtually half-witted head of a newspaper feature syndicate, Miss Boland his not too brilliant sister. O'Connell is the comic strip man; Auer the balloon writer with a penchant for the "beautiful things of life;" Jenkins a gang leader; Mowbray the sanitarium head and health writer, and McHugh, Herbert's slow-thinking and timid secretary. He is in love with Miss Boland's niece, and Auer is in love with her money. When McHugh suddenly is named general manager of the company and is told by Miss Boland to stop the impending romance of her niece and Auer, things begin to happen, with insane rapidity and situations, and a happy ending.

Looking 'Em Over

"Speed to Spare"

(Columbia)

The high spots in this melodrama of auto racing are the stock shots of horrible accidents. The real thing is blended with a rather standard story for dramatic punch.

Charles Quigley, an orphan who becomes a champion driver, discovers that Eddie Nugent, a clever midget car driver, is his brother. Aided by Dorothy Wilson, his fiancée, Quigley sets out to land Nugent in the big time events. They do this more or less incognito. Nugent is a very egotistical fellow who flirts with Miss Wilson and is generally the self-centered braggart. Unaware that Quigley is his brother, Nugent seriously injures Quigley and kills his mechanic in a preliminary race due to a grudge. After the race Nugent learns of the family tie and together they go on to win the Indianapolis classic.

The film is acted with average hokum. The camera work is good, particularly in the track scenes. Patricia Farr, Gene Morgan and John Gaillardet lend their talents to the unfolding of the story. Lambert Hillier directed.

Push Omaha Petitions

OMAHA, July 7.—Regina Molseed, secretary of the Omaha Film Board of Trade and of the M. P. Exhibitors' Ass'n, said that the Bank Night cooperative's collection of thousands of signatures to petitions asking that the gift nights be retained will continue, although no definite use for them has been found.

Patrons entering the theatre are asked by ushers to sign the petitions, which were placed there soon after Attorney General Richard Hunter sought a restraining order from the Nebraska Supreme Court against Omaha Bank Night.

L-M Denies Circuit Sale

Abraham Leff of Leff-Myers yesterday denied negotiations are under way with Sam Strassberg for the purchase of the L-M circuit of 10 houses. Leff, however, admits he is interested in producing Jewish pictures, but not to the extent of selling his theatres.

Kane Signs David Niven

LONDON, July 7.—David Niven has been signed to play opposite Annabella in "Follow the Sun," to be produced by Robert T. Kane for New World Pictures, English producing subsidiary for 20th Century-Fox.

Short Subjects

"March of Time No. 12"

(RKO)

Perhaps containing less of drama and general appeal than numerous previous issues of the reel, this number of the "March of Time" is nonetheless of real interest and includes at least one sequence of genuine significance. High-lighting the issue is the pictorial and verbal detailing of the problem which is Hawaii, perhaps the most important outpost of the United States. Heavily fortified, the nation's protection in the Pacific, its population is 40 per cent Japanese. The people of the island, American citizens by law, are burdened with the obligations of citizenship, but are without many of its privileges. Hawaii seeks statehood, but the Army and Navy insist full military control is necessary to maintain the island as a defensive outpost.

The women, especially, will be interested in the sequence which is devoted to a study of the homeless child problem. The episode describes the method of handling the 300,000 homeless children in the country, and the fight which is being waged by welfare organizations against the commercialized "baby farm," which is developing into a bootleg baby racket.

The enormous real estate and amusement development which is Rockefeller Center is described in the concluding sequence. What was started as a new home for New York opera developed into a gigantic project of office buildings and theatres, which with Rockefeller money to weather the depression, is today 85 per cent rented, and attracts thousands of visitors.

Running time, 18 minutes. "G."

"Earth" for Long Island

M-G-M will roadshow "The Good Earth" in two Long Island houses starting July 14. The theatres are RKO's Columbia, Far Rockaway, and the Laurel, Long Beach. Elliott S. Foreman is handling the shows and advance for the distributor. Both two-a-days are on a 50-50 arrangement.

Court Studies Move to Halt Orpheum Sale

stay Stadium from disposing of the assets pending the appeal.

Isidore Kresel, representing the stockholders, argued that Orpheum was solvent and demanded "fair, equitable and non-discriminatory treatment" for its creditors and stockholders. He pointed out that although creditors of other RKO subsidiaries would receive 100 per cent payment on their claims under the reorganization plan, Orpheum creditors who did not participate in the reorganization will receive only 30 per cent and that stockholders of Orpheum get nothing as compared with a 50 per cent exchange for stock for other RKO subsidiaries. Kresel charged that RKO stripped Orpheum of all its assets except $3,000 in cash before Orpheum bankruptcy and transferred them to KAO, another subsidiary. The assets had a book value of $6,800,000, according to Kresel. He also pleaded for an opportunity to bring suit against the officers and directors of Orpheum and RKO for alleged mismanagement of the bankrupt's assets.

Hanlon Denies Solvency

Edward Hanlon, representing the trustee, denied that Orpheum was solvent. He asserted that the Stadium bid was the best obtainable and the only one approved by the creditors. He argued that stockholders had no standing in a bankruptcy court and that only creditors were paid in full.

Phillip J. Snyder, successor trustee under a defaulted debenture issue guaranteed by Orpheum, was represented by Jules C. Randall. He urged the court to uphold the sale to Stadium. He told the court that he originally approved a suit against the officers and directors of the bankrupt, but later decided to take an immediate settlement instead.

Circuit Judge Learned Hand observed during the argument that if the recent appraisal of Orpheum was correct, the corporation was clearly insolvent and stockholders would have no voice in distribution of the assets. Circuit Judge Augustus N. Hand concurred with this.

Houston House Is Set

HOUSTON, July 7.—The last obstacle in plans of Interstate Theatres, Inc., to erect a suburban theatre in West End of Houston, flanked by a $175,000 community center was removed when the First National Bank of Galveston deeded a part of the site to Interstate for $15,500.

The new theatre will be the sixth in the string of suburbs built by Interstate, and the ninth operated by the circuit in Houston.

Plans Boston Reel House

BOSTON, July 7.—Boston's first regular newsreel theatre may be opened in the basement of the Tremont by Frederick E. Lieberman who already runs a double-feature grind policy overhead. Plans are materializing to reconstruct the basement of the mid-town theatre to accommodate such a house.

"New Faces" Pulls $73,000 in 7 Days

"New Faces" tallied approximately $73,000 in seven days at the Music Hall. The picture will be replaced this morning by "Knight Without Armor."

"Easy Living" and Martha Raye on the stage in person opened to big business at the Paramount yesterday. By 5 P. M., the management reported a take of $4,000, which meant that 12,000 persons paid admissions up to that time. "Mountain Music," which finished a second week, took in about $30,000.

"The Last Train from Madrid," at the Criterion, garnered about $6,000 in the second and final week. The third week of "Slave Ship" at the Rivoli got $15,000. The picture is being held for another week. "Wee Willie Winkie" will open shortly at the Roxy. The date will probably be set as soon as John D. Clark returns from the coast.

On Saturday, "The Great Gambini" will succeed "King of Gamblers." Loew's has dated "Saratoga" to follow "The Emperor's Candlesticks" into the Capitol.

on all retail sales except of food, clothing and medicine, to be paid by the purchaser, wherever possible. The method of applying the tax to sales of less than 50 cents, however, would be left for determination by the district commissioners.

The sales tax was offered as a substitute for a privilege tax of three-fifths of one per cent to be paid on the gross receipts of all business enterprises in the District, contained in a tax bill passed by the House last month.

Owners of Washington theatre properties also will have to bear an increase in the rate of tax on land, but not on the improvements thereon, from $1.50 to $2.50 per $100 of valuation, under the bill.

No Clearance Changes Here Are Expected

reported to have been made by A. H. Schwartz of Century Circuit and a number of other important independent theatre operators on the alleged ground that they have been unable to secure product first run. The complaint by Century is said to have been made about four years ago at the time of the NRA code.

During the last days of the code authorities for industries, the Century complaint against RKO on clearance involving Rockville Center and Far Rockaway was one of the most important issues before the local board. Louis Nizer represented the major circuit and Mitchell Klupt acted for Century.

Tieup Forced Dropping of One

Some time ago, RKO took over the Strand, Rockville Center, and was forced to drop the house because film buyers said they could not get product. This was said to have been due to the three-circuit tieup between Century, Skouras and Prudential, which control much of the first run booking time on Long Island.

Executives of Loew's and RKO state there is nothing to hide from Government investigators and that the probe is welcomed. In numerous instances, it was said, independents have been helped out by prior runs waiving protection rights. Film buyers and operating heads of Loew's and RKO hold that their operations have been above board at all times, that they have not tried to squeeze the small man out of business and that they feel when the investigation is over they will come out with clean hands.

Games Elimination Attempted

Recently the major circuits tried to get independents to cooperate with them in the elimination of games. After Screeno and Bank Night had been dropped for two months or more by Loew's and RKO as independents continued to operate with them, the two circuits reinstated the practice.

At the time of the code several attempts were made to change the local clearance and zoning schedule, but nothing developed.

It was stated then that clearance and protection are part of the bargaining price for pictures and that the man who pays more for films is entitled to prior run. This has been the rule down the years. Product deals now being completed by Loew's with Paramount and United Artists will carry the same protection schedules as in the past. RKO contracts for new product will not find any changes, except where new theatres are about to be added.

Radio Inquiry Not Expected This Session

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, July 7.—In view of the general desire for early adjournment of the session, it is not believed that the Interstate Commerce Committee of the Senate will be willing to undertake an inquiry into the activities of the F.C.C., and related matters, as suggested in a resolution introduced yesterday by Senator Wallace H. White of Maine.

White's resolution called for a thorough investigation of the F.C.C., alleged broadcasting monopolies, trafficking in licenses, newspaper ownership of stations and other phases of the broadcasting situation.

White I.C.C. Member

White, co-author as a member of the House of the original radio act a decade ago, and one of the few Congressional radio authorities, is the ranking Republican member of I.C.C.

The resolution calls for a probe of charges that rights in frequencies beyond the terms of licenses are being asserted by the holders thereof and recognized by the F.C.C.; that licenses are treated by both holders and the commission as though granted for much longer terms than designed therein; "that the licensing authority has in effect recognized vested property rights of great value in licenses and in frequencies contrary to the letter and spirit of the law;" that control of licenses and of frequencies has passed to others than the original licensee without the written approval of the commission "or with commission approval given in disregard of Congressional purpose," and that there has been trafficking in stations, licenses and frequencies.

Station Concentration Hit

The resolution also recited charges "that the licensing authority has permitted concentration of stations in some parts of the country and has failed to give equitable radio service to the people of the several states and the communities thereof; that with the approval of the commission there has come about a monopolistic concentration of ownership or control of stations in the chain companies of the United States; that through exclusive traffic arrangements and otherwise monopolistic control of the facilities of foreign communication by radio is being accomplished, and that the acts and attitude of the commission are aiding and encouraging such monopoly; that the commission in its decision of causes disregards its own rules and standards; that in the determination of matters before it the commission has been affected and controlled by political and other influences not contemplated by statute and not entitled to consideration by a regulatory and quasi-judicial body, and that it has failed to observe and effectuate the purposes of the Congress and the laws enacted by it in the foregoing and other respects."

In addition to these points, the investigation also would go into investments in stations, charges for use of facilities, and profits therefrom; the

WHN Union Dispute Sent to Washington

Trial Examiner Samuel Gusack, after hearing the dispute between CIO and AFL in connection with WHN radio engineers, has sent his report of findings to the NLRB in Washington. Gusack comes from Washington.

The question involved was whether CIO or AFL is the collective bargaining agency for radio engineers.

The station is likely to lean to AFL because it is the parent unit for projectionists and other union help employed in theatres operated by Loew's, which owns the station.

Irving Greenfield is attorney for Loew's. He represented the company at the hearing.

FCC Approves Licenses for Three Firms

WASHINGTON, July 7. — Operating licenses have been granted to three broadcasting stations by the F.C.C., as follows: KRGV, Weslaco, Tex., 1,260 kilocycles, 1,000 watts; WORL, Boston, 920 kilocycles, 500 watts, daytime; KNEL, Brady, Tex., 1,500 kilocycles, 250 watts, daytime. The commission also authorized WQAN, Scranton, Pa., to increase its power from 500 to 1,000 watts.

At its weekly meeting, the broadcast division ordered hearings held on a number of applications, as follows: William C. Smith for new 1,310-kilocycle, 100-watt station at Bogalusa, La.; M. M. "Courageous" Washington's 2d Week Top WASHINGTON, July 7.—Top honors during last week's summer weather went to "Captains Courageous," playing its second week at Loew's Palace, and taking $14,700, to slip $1,200 under the first run par. It went into a third week.

Of the first runs—all of which were poor—the Earle took $17,700 for "Another Dawn" and a stage show, dropping $700 under par. Loew's Capitol, with a stage show and "The Last Train from Madrid," took $17,000, or $3,900 below the average.

Total first run business was $64,600. Average is $76,700.

"Hollywood Cowboy" and the Louis-Braddock fight films went $1,000 over the line on a take of $17,000 at the Golden Gate. "Another Dawn" and "Angel's Holiday" were profitable at $6,400 in the St. Francis, also in a second week, but elsewhere business was quiet.

Landmark Gone

Toronto, July 7. — One of Toronto's most noted theatrical landmarks, the Regent in the downtown financial district, is vanishing under the sledge hammers of the wrecking crew. Erected in the 1870's as Jacob and Sparling's Theatre, it passed through the various phases of entertainment, and in 1917 became the birthplace of what is now the Famous Players Canadian Corp., when N. L. Nathanson took it over and remodeled it into the first de luxe film house in Canada, changing the name to the Regent.

It ended its days as a storehouse.

"Races" 2nd Week Seattle High, $6,250

SEATTLE, July 7.—"A Day at the Races," in its second week at the Paramount with "Girl Loves Boy," was the only attraction in town to get into the profit column. The $6,250 take was $250 over par. The dual was moved to the Music Box.

After getting a weak $5,450 in the second week at the Orpheum "Mountain Music" and "You Can't Buy Luck," were moved to the Blue Mouse.

Total first run business was $33,450. Average is $36,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending June 28:

Plan Newsreel Theatre

LONDON, June 29.—The London County Council has granted the application for a newsreel theatre, planned by H. P. C. Properties, Ltd., adjoining M-G-M's Empire in Leicester Square. The Metro show-window is already flanked on the east by a news theatre owned by Jack Davis's Monseigneur group.

Switches to Stage Shows

PROVIDENCE, July 7.—The New Empire, second-run, has changed its policy and is presenting a number of Broadway stage shows.

"Courageous" Pittsburgh's Holdover Top

PITTSBURGH, July 7.—Only "Captains Courageous," holding over at the Warner after a spectacular week at the Penn, and "Night Must Fall," with Ozzie Nelson's orchestra, at the Stanley, managed to withstand the general business decline last week. "Captains" was good for an above par by $3,150 take of $8,150, while the Robert Montgomery-Ozzie Nelson combination clicked off a nice $19,500 for Warners' de luxe house.

Elsewhere the moaning was loud and long. The Alvin brought in the Louis-Braddock fight pictures with "Angel's Holiday" for a week after playing the Jane Withers picture on a double bill with "League of Frightened Men" for two days and the gross of $5,000 was a disappointment. The appearance in the cast of a Pittsburgh girl, Polly Rowles, didn't help "Wings Over Honolulu" any at the Fulton, where the take was barely $3,450, and "Another Dawn" gave the Penn one of its poorest weeks in several months at $8,200.

Total first run business was $44,500. Average is $44,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending July 1:

"ANGEL'S HOLIDAY" (20th-Fox)

LOUIS-BRADDOCK FIGHT

ALVIN—(2,000), 25c-40c, 9 days. Gross: $5,000. (Average, for 7 days, $5,500). Fight pictures for only 7 days, before that "League of Frightened Men" (Col.) with "Angel's Holiday" for two days.

"WINGS OVER HONOLULU" (Univ.)

FULTON—(1,750), 25c-40c, 7 days. Gross: $3,450. (Average, $4,500)

"ANOTHER DAWN" (W. B.)

PENN—(3,300), 25c-50c, 7 days. Gross: $8,200. (Average, $11,000)

"NIGHT MUST FALL" (M-G-M)

STANLEY—(3,600), 25c-60c, 7 days. Stage: Ozzie Nelson's band, Shirley Lloyd, Three Radio Ramblers. Gross: $19,500. (Average, $18,000)

"CAPTAINS COURAGEOUS" (M-G-M)

WARNER—(2,000), 25c-50c, 7 days, 2nd week. Gross: $8,150. (Average, $5,000)

Plan Big Canada Opening

TORONTO, July 7.—The Canadian Government, Columbia Pictures of Canada, Ltd., Canadian Broadcasting Corp., and Famous Players Canadian Corp. are combining for the special premiere of "Salute to Valour" at Shea's, Toronto, tomorrow, presentation being under the auspices of the Canadian Legion.

Thousands of Toronto war veterans will parade because "Salute to Valour" is the official record of the pilgrimage to the battlefields of France last year by Canadian ex-servicemen and the first performance will be attended by Col. H. A. Bruce, Lieut.-Governor of Ontario, and other high dignitaries. The whole program will be broadcast over the Canadian network.

Loew's and United Artists Sign a One-Year Contract

After months of negotiations, Loew's yesterday signed a one-year deal for the entire United Artists lineup in more than 100 theatres throughout the country. The contract will replace the 10-year franchise between the circuit and distributor which expires with this season's product.

Signing the deal for Loew's were C. C. Moskowitz, Joseph R. Vogel and Eugene Picker. For the distributor were George J. Schaefer and A. W. Smith. The first picture to be played under the new arrangement will be "Stella Dallas," which has been booked into the Music Hall, starting July 29.

Loew's is understood to have sought a long term pact, but U. A. executives some time ago announced that no new franchise deals would be considered. The Loew deal represents the first important contract for U. A. for 1937-'38. The second, which has been in work for months with National Theatres, is expected to be consummated shortly. Illness of Spyros Skouras is holding up discussions.

Negotiations between representatives of the major circuit and Paramount sales executives are expected to be closed next week. While the term of the deal has not yet been discussed, it is likely that the Paramount arrangement may extend over a period of years. As soon as this contract has been signed, Loew executives will sit down with independent companies and work out new deals.

Nat Levine Joining M-G-M as Producer

Nat Levine, former head of production for Republic, has been signed as a producer by M-G-M, effective Aug. 1. John Zantf acted for Levine in the negotiations.

The producer will make between 10 and 12 pictures annually in the B classification, but, according to Zantf, several will fall "between A and B."

Opening Big

The Music Hall yesterday reported "Knight Without Armor", up to two o'clock, was running ahead of the first day's gross of "A Star Is Born." The Dietrich film, it was added, furnished the theatre with its biggest summer business opener.

Report Doyle Will Resume In Australia

SYDNEY, July 8.—Stuart F. Doyle, who recently resigned as managing director of Greater Union Theatres and associated companies, is reported to be planning a return to exhibition in this territory on his own.

The reports follow an announcement made by Doyle that he has accepted the post of managing director of London Theatre Center, Ltd., which is completing plans for a large amusement center in Regent St., Piccadilly, London, and two other theatres, the Regent and the Rex. The latter two houses will be ready next February. These are intended to be the nucleus of a large circuit in England, the announcement reads, and ultimately will embrace principal cities of the Empire.

Doyle is said to be planning to visit the United States in August, presumably to work out details for a new group of theatres in Australia.

When Doyle resigned from Greater

More DeMille Research

Cecil B. DeMille's researchers are at it again—this time on "The Buccaneer." Several years ago, it will be remembered, they discovered DeMille owned a coin dated 38 B. C., not realizing the designer must have been a prophet.

This time they have found out how the terms "son of a gun," "Dixie" and "two bits" originated.

In the early 19th century women fought alongside the men, they say. The boys born prematurely due to concussion were "sons of guns." Early dimes were called "dix," by the French around New Orleans. These later became "dixies." Split quarters looked like "bit-heads" through which the boat hawsers slipped.

Pretty soon they'll find out why they split the quarters.

Chicago Will Drop Doubles In the Fall

B. & K. to Take Lead in Discarding Practice

CHICAGO, July 8.—Double featuring is expected to be abandoned in Chicago with the beginning of the fall release season, in view of the understanding that Balaban & Katz, which sets the local theatre pace, will drop duals in all its theatres. Thus will be terminated the lengthy controversy which developed when B. & K. started duals last fall.

The intention of discarding double features is said to have been the result of conferences with Paramount production and distribution heads regarding new season releases and the fall in local business which was attributed directly to the practice of doubling. The production plans of Paramount, which call for the production of a number of high-cost pictures, are said to have been a deciding factor, since such expensive pictures as are planned could not feasibly be dualled.

The use of duals in Great States theatres led to the employment of the practice in the city. B. & K., with duals in its out-of-town houses, was forced to use doubles here as the release schedule is such that pictures do not get bookings in the outlying towns until after they have played a Loop or city engagement. The system of singles in the city and duals out of town made necessary a shift in the release schedule, and duals were

St. Louis Tax Bills
To Be Reconsidered

ST. LOUIS, July 8.—With Fred Wehrenberg, of the M.P.T.O.A., and Leto Hill, general manager of the local F. & M. houses, leading the opposition to the four recently-passed tax bills, Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann and the Board of Aldermen today voted to reconsider the measures, one of which is an amusement admission levy which, if put into effect, will cost local exhibitors $500,000 annually. The bills will now be sent back to the Legislative Committee for further consideration. Since summer vacations are now in effect, this means that action on the bills cannot be taken until next October. The vote to reconsider was unanimous.

Mayor Dickmann is hopeful that the collection of delinquent real estate and personal taxes due the city will eliminate the necessity for the special tax bills.

Uphold Georgia Sunday Law

ATLANTA, July 8.—The Georgia Court of Appeals has upheld an ordinance of the city of Dublin banning film shows on Sunday except between the hours of 1 and 2 P. M.

The case before the court was that of Charles I. Hicks, tried in Dublin Recorder's Court.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S
HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Topper"

(Roach-M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, July 8.—This is utterly sophisticated and good-humored comedy predicated on the unseriously-taken assumption that the dead have power to manifest themselves in ectoplasmic form, or invisibly, in the lives and affairs of the living.

The technique originally employed in "The Invisible Man" is resorted to and enlarged upon and the giddy goings-on, developed by Jack Jevne, Eric Hatch and Eddie Moran, screen playwrights, from Thorne Smith's characteristically fantastic story are offered as real and without dream or other explanation. They kept a preview audience at the Chinese in stitches, but may seem less hilarious to the straightlaced small town public addicted to plot logic and practical premises.

Roland Young's fine performance of the name role plus polished and tactful portrayals by Constance Bennett, Cary Grant, Billie Burke, Alan Mowbray and Eugene Pallette keep attention upon the comedy element, which ranges from crisp dialogue humor to sheerest slapstick.

The story has a wealthy married couple who have lived none too thoughtfully returning after death to emancipate a henpecked bank president, Topper. The scene is New York in its most affluent aspect. Hoagy Carmichael has contributed what is probably a hit number titled "Old Man Moon." The picture calls for explicit exploitation and has a lot of rich entertainment for the correct type of audience.

Production Code Seal No. 3,272. Running time, 98 minutes. "G."

"War Lord"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, July 8.—Unless so told few will recognize "War Lord" as Porter Emerson Browne's "The Bad Man" in disguise. Such lack of knowledge is just as well inasmuch as this treatment makes but average, melodramatic entertainment. Some of the spirit of the original has been retained and, in several situations, the theme is reminiscent. Nevertheless, "War Lord" is entertainment in its own right.

Although there is love interest and comedy, the film primarily is an action picture in which all the elements common to such type of pictures have been included. There are several good performances, especially by Boris Karloff, Ricardo Cortez, Beverly Roberts, Douglas Wood, Sheila Bromley and Gordon Oliver.

Death is War Lord Karloff's reward for doing a good deed in ways that are ethical to Oriental bandits. Rival oil men Cortez and Wood soon come under the menace of Karloff in a wild country where Cortez discovers his estranged wife, Bevelry Roberts. The dramatic situation builds with Karloff apparently about to claim Miss Roberts for himself and craven Cortez attempting to foment revolution mainly to get rid of Oliver, oil field discoverer. But as romance grows between him and Miss Roberts, Karloff kills Cortez to save Oliver and he himself is killed by Chinese troops.

Crane Wilbur's screenplay possesses novelty and John Farrow's direction, while not always consistent, concentrates on accentuating action.

Production Code Seal No. 3,210. Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"The Shadow Strikes"

(Grand National)

This film falls short of the mark in bringing to the screen the famous radio and magazine story character. The acting is unconvincing and the plot is carried forward in a series of disconnected episodes.

The story is one of those yarns about the mysterious doings of the heirs of a murdered man. Care was taken to create suspense that fails to give audiences an inkling of who is guilty so they can deduce. Rod La Rocque plays the title role. He poses as an attorney and investigates with the aid of Norman Ainsley, his English butler. Their adventures are interesting enough, but the story is mostly concerned with La Rocque's gradual sifting of suspects. Unprovoked by him, the criminals solve the case right in his own apartment when they shoot it out.

Included in the cast are Lynn Anders, Walter McGrail, James Blakely, Kenneth Harlan and John Carnavale. Lynn Shores directed.

Production Code Seal No. 3,428. Running time, 63 minutes. "G."

New Statute in Iowa
May Hit Bank Night

DES MOINES, July 8.—Although a bill to eliminate Bank Night failed to pass the last session of the Iowa Legislature, a new statute intended to control pin-ball and slot machine devices and not regarded as a Bank Night bill when passed, may cover Bank Night and prevent its continuance in Iowa. The law includes in the same class as gambling devices "any slot machine or device with an element of chance in such operation."

Some attorneys believe the chance element might stop Bank Night, although it does not have the legal definition of a lottery. The word "device" in legal terms has not only the meaning of equipment and apparatus but of "something worked out for exhibition or show."

Iowa's Attorney General, John Mitchell, has said that as yet there has been no formal request for an opinion. The legality of Bank Night in Iowa was upheld by a decision of the Supreme Court before the last legislature changed the state gambling laws.

Consolidated Net in Five Months $335,483

Consolidated Film Industries has reported net earnings for the first five months of this year of $335,483, equal to 83 cents per share on the outstanding preferred stock. However, the company is still unable to declare any preferred dividends, because of the delay in obtaining a decision from the Chancellor of Delaware on the pending recapitalization plan.

The situation was explained in a letter to stockholders, in which it was stated that the chancellor will shortly begin hearings on further questions before him. He had enjoined the filing of the certificates of amendment carrying into effect the recapitalization plan on the ground that such a plan was invalid. It is expected that a dividend will be declared by the company immediately after the final decision of the Delaware Supreme Court on the new preference stock, if the plan is held valid, and on the participating preferred stock if the plan is held invalid.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Wild Money" (Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, July 8.—Lively and entertaining, although unpretentious fare, this should do very well for the warm weather. It recounts the yarn of the somewhat timid and economy-obsessed auditor of a big newspaper, who suddenly has a real story tossed in his lap, and proceeds to take command, beat the competition, solve the mystery and capture a girl for himself, all in rapid succession.

The entertainment that is in the story is largely the result of the ingratiating performance of Edward Everett Horton, in the lead. The picture is his all the way and he makes the most of the opportunity. In support, the romantic angle is handled by Louise Campbell.

Louis King directed from a story by the versatile Paul Gallico. The film lacks names in the selling, but should do more than satisfactorily on a dual bill or midweek single program in the lesser situations.

Horton can get no where with Miss Campbell, active girl reporter, and goes off to the country to fish. Suddenly he is informed that one of the nation's wealthiest men has been kidnapped from his nearby estate and finally it dawns upon Horton that a big story has happened right under his nose and no other paper is aware of it. The rest of the yarn is an entertaining combination of humor and drama, as Horton wins the confidence of the victim's wife, sews up the story, bosses his fellow-reporters and captures the kidnappers and Miss Campbell.

Production Code Seal No. 3,360. Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Venus Makes Trouble" (Columbia)

Entertaining in the minor league class, "Venus Makes Trouble" is all right as dual bill material. It has little sales value in cast names, but showmen may make something of it by reason of its theme, that of the live wire young sales promotion expert whose exploitation ideas get him in and out of hot water, in the small town and big city.

James Dunn has the lead, supported by Patricia Ellis, the girl who has faith in him; Gene Morgan, his partner, who is not too smart and serves to supply a small measure of comedy, and Thurston Hall and Astrid Alwyn. Gordon Wiles directed.

When a couple of Dunn's "sure-fire" schemes go awry in the home town, he turns down an offer and goes to New York to knock them over. Morgan goes with him. Miss Ellis arrives to find them subsisting on peanuts and no prospects. Then an idea comes, and success with it, until he runs into Miss Alwyn, who is helping Spencer Charters to get rid of some bad property in Long Island. He falls for it and thinks it is great until the Grand Jury calls him to answer charges of fraud. At that point he learns the property is largely under water.

But he outsmarts the district attorney with a plan for a "Venice in America," and before he is through the official and members of the Grand Jury are fighting for first choice of the lots.

Production Code Seal No. 3,049. Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"Range Defenders" (Republic)

Another thoroughly satisfying western is delivered here. The Three Mesquiteers' further adventures is vigorous and clever material handled to bring out its full entertainment worth.

The moving factor in the story is a range feud between sheepherders and cattlemen. Thomas Carr, Robert Livingston's brother, is wrongly accused of murdering Eleanor Stewart's father, a sheep man. The trio returns to Green Valley, the scene of the crime, and set about tracking the responsible parties. This is done with a good deal of clever maneuvering and exciting situations. Ray Corrigan is put up for sheriff and on election day affairs reach a roaring climax that is replete with fistcuffs, gunplay, a pitched battle between opposing factions and a jail-break. The corrupt element is wiped out and the ranchers find peace.

The support includes Max Terhune, Harry Woods, Earle Hodgins, Yakima Canutt and John Merton. The outdoor settings and riding sequences are well filmed. Mack V. Wright directed.

Production Code Seal No. 3,454. Running time, 56 minutes. "G."

Banter from G.B.

Vice president ARTHUR LEE and Sales Manager GEORGE WEEKS were down bright and early to informally greet the conventioners informally.

REG WILSON's 3,000-mile shirts are just as boisterous as ever.

RAY HALPERN, recently transferred from New York to Kansas City, fortunately saved his address book, and spent most of last evening getting wrong numbers.

W. A. V. MACK didn't let the boys down. He still holds top honors as a spinner of merry tales.

Whenever BILL MINDER of New Orleans was around, the boys' conversation became very guarded. BILL, whose first novel is being prepared for publication, is seeking material for his next, and the boys aren't anxious.

That staccato sound on the 32nd floor was AL MARGOLIES' typewriter.

CHARLES SCHWENGELER turned down "DIMPLES" GIVEN's invitation to the latter's summer camp at Culver Lake.

N. J. SCHWENGELER says the great outdoors stimulates his appetite and he can't depend on GIVEN's rations.

MARK GOLDMAN, who is rooming with JOE KALISKI, said he was kept awake all night by JOE's loud pajamas.

IRVING GUMBERG was spotted on the St. Moritz terrace at 7 A.M., taking a sun bath. Sun or no sun, IRVING has got into the habit since his trip to Florida some weeks ago.

HARLAN STARR of Detroit insists on telling all who will listen that the Detroit Tigers will win the American League pennant. His reasons are so complicated that even Schoolboy Rowe wouldn't be able to figure it out.

RUDOLPH BACH of the New York exchange, who has a record collection of tickets, will be safe from the traffic cops for at least the next three days. There'll be no time for driving.

AL KENT, C. F. ROSE and R. W. SELIG, recently-appointed managers of the St. Louis, Salt Lake City and Denver offices, respectively, were busy receiving congratulations.

Charge of Monopoly Is Denied by Arthur

St. Louis, July 8.—Answering allegations which charged Fanchon & Marco with an attempt to injure the business of local exhibitors, Harry Arthur, Jr., F. & M. executive, today declared that his company has no intention of destroying or harming the business of any exhibitor in St. Louis or elsewhere. In his statement Arthur said:

"I know there has been much gossip concerning our reported plans and I wish you would make this clear to everyone. We are peaceful and law-abiding and wish to be helpful to other exhibitors where we can. If, in any given location in St. Louis or elsewhere in our operations, our interests appear to be in conflict with those of other exhibitors we are willing to sit down in conference with them to iron out the situation on a mutually satisfactory basis.

"Our recent deal with Ansell Brothers was a logical deal to make. Our proposed pooling arrangement with the houses of Bessie Schuler and Alex Papand is also logical in view of the territory covered. And perhaps there may be other situations where a somewhat similar arrangement would be desirable for both sides. But on the other hand there are other spots where we could not be of any benefit to the other exhibitor. And you can tell the world we will not deliberately invade any man's territory to destroy his business or hurt him in any way.

"Naturally we are in the business to make money. But not to the injury of other exhibitors. It is our purpose to be helpful in the general exhibition situation here and to work in harmony with others in the business of showing motion pictures."

Summer Shows On the Air

O'Keefe—in Part

Young and Rubicam may have thought it good generalship to hold down Walter O'Keefe's lineage to an absolute minimum in his opening "Town Hall Tonight" broadcast, but in our estimation it wasn't a particularly bright thought. While even O'Keefe will admit he is not a second Fred Allen, whom he succeeded on the program, he, nevertheless, is one of the best comedians in radio, and warrants more trust than he obtained Wednesday evening. If the agency will but give him a decent percentage of the 60 minutes allotted to "Town Hall Tonight," he'll keep the program almost as high in the official ratings as Fred Allen has kept it the past few seasons. If they don't, we're afraid "Town Hall Tonight" is due for a drop.

Not that the initial "Town Hall Tonight" series with O'Keefe at the helm was a bad program. Musically, it was as adequate as always and the guests, if anything, were slightly better even than those heard on many of the Allen shows. But aside from the 15-minutes allowed O'Keefe during the "dramateur" episode, one was hardly aware of his presence on the program. O'Keefe is too good a comedian, with one of the most successful records in the business, to warrant such precautions by the agency.

Most satisfying minutes during the session were those devoted to the "dramateurs." They are, if one must be told, studio spectators who are called to the microphone and, with no previous warning, given scripts to read.

Report Doyle Will Resume In Australia

Union Theatres, he issued a statement to stockholders in which he made it clear he was opposed to a renewal of the Hoyts-Greater Union pooling arrangement on the terms placed before the board of directors. Norman B. Rydge, also a director, was in favor of continuing with Hoyts.

Seen as significant and in line with Doyle's plans to resume exhibition in this country is a paragraph from the announcement of his leaving Greater Union.

"My resignation from the Greater Union group of companies does not mean my disassociation with the motion picture industry, either here or abroad."

Meanwhile, the return of Charles Munro, managing director of Hoyts; Stanley S. Crick, managing director of 20th Century-Fox in this country, and Kenneth Asprey, attorney for Greater Union, is eagerly awaited for developments in the continued association between Hoyts and Greater Union.

Sidney R. Kent, president of 20th Century-Fox, and Walter J. Hutchinson, foreign head for the company, are due here in about two months to confer on the General Theatre setup.

In addition to producing pictures at Elstree, London, Doyle will expand his interests in broadcasting and consolidate the National Broadcasting Network, of which he is chairman.

Labor Bill Relieves Fears of Regulation minimum wages no higher than 40 cents an hour and a maximum working week of not less than 40 hours.

While the House Labor Committee has not acted upon the measure, and will not begin to frame its draft until next week, the Senate Committee's refusal to give the Administration unlimited authority to fix the wages for all industries was seen here tonight as indicative of the attitude of Congress on the question.

As originally proposed, the Government agency was to be empowered to fix "fair" wages and hours for each industry; the committee bill prohibits it going beyond the 40-cent, 40-hour limit, but permits the ordering of lower wages or longer hours without restriction. Industries where standards higher than those provided in the bill have been reached by collective bargaining would be exempted.

Rose had planned to remain here about 10 days, but now has extended his visit indefinitely. The Goldwyn-Korda options to buy the three U. Philadelphia Drive Against Para. Set said three trucks will tour the city carrying banners and presumably sound to acquaint the public of the situation and plead for non-attendance at the theatres showing Paramount product. A half million heralds have been ordered for the same purpose.

"Picketing with showmanship methods" will be part of the campaign, it was said. Independent and circuit houses will be picketed if they combat the organization's decision.

A meeting has been arranged for tomorrow with Joseph Bernhard, Warner theatre head, to urge Warner cooperation in the drive. All theatres will be asked not to give August dates, including shorts and newsreels.

Requests made of Paramount by letter and wire, and unanswered, it was stated, were presented at the meeting. The four concessions sought are delivery of pictures promised for 1936-'37, including about six titles; modification of new season terms; adjustments on last year's contract where exhibitors lost money; making a work sheet part of the contracts.

In his speech Barrist criticized Universal for listing six pictures at 35 per cent and six at 30 per cent on the new season list.

Court Approves New Coney Island Setup

Federal Judge Grover M. Moscovitz yesterday in Brooklyn approved the plan of reorganization submitted on June 5 for the Coney Island Theatre, Inc., under Section 77B of the Federal bankruptcy act. This company owns the theatre and office building at Stillwell and First Aves., Coney Island.

The papers filed in the suit reveal that Loew's owns all capital stock outstanding. There are $609,000 in first mortgage bonds outstanding. The principal feature of the reorganization plan covers the reduction from six per cent to four per cent of the interest rate on its outstanding bonds and the maturity date is set ahead for eight years. The plan also provides payment at the rate of four per cent interest on arrears since Dec., 1935. All other debts are to be paid in full.

The corporation holds a lease on the land on which the building rests and it expires Dec. 31, 2007. The plan for reorganization provides for a reduction in the yearly rental of the land from $35,000 to $25,000 until Dec. 31, 1946, and also approves the lease of the theatre to the Abingdon Amusement Corp. for 20 per cent of the gross receipts. This rental plus rental of offices in the building will net the corporation after all charges are paid $8,840. The plan also provides that 90 per cent of the net earnings be used to amortize the first mortgage. Harold J. Cleary is president.

Chicago Will Drop Doubles In the Fall

started in all houses with the exception of those in the Loop.

Since the use of duals has become general, business has fallen off noticeably. Protests have been registered against the practice of B. & K. of playing top pictures in their leading neighborhood houses on dual programs, before the smaller exhibitor gets them. Many small theatre deals are made on a percentage basis, and distributors, also, have been feeling the effect of the dual policy. There is believed little question that all other houses in the locality will follow the lead of B. & K. when it eliminates duals as anticipated.

Bunny Bryan, formerly with Paramount and B. & K., and Capt. John D. Craig, deep sea diver and photographer, will leave shortly for Atlantic City to make depth tests in cooperation with the Coast Guard.

They have a new diving suit equipped with helium tanks, new 5,000-watt bulbs invented by General Electric for underwater use and other gadgets with which they hope to create a new technique for underwater photography. The suit is also equipped with broadcasting apparatus.

If they get down 400 feet they intend to leave shortly for England to make a film of the Lusitania salvage work off the coast of Ireland.

"A Day at the Races" tallied approximately $23,000 in the third week at the Capitol. "The Emperor's Candlesticks" yesterday opened at the theatre and will be followed by "Saratoga," Jean Harlow's last film.

"The Road Back" garnered about $10,000 in the third week at two-a-day prices at the Globe. The picture is now in its final week. "King Solomon's Mines" at the Roxy ended a week's run last night with $30,000.

The only other spot to make the grade was Loew's Orpheum playing "A Day at the Races," on a dual with "Racketeers in Exile," for a second week. The take was a par $12,000. At Loew's State the same bill, also in a second week, slipped to $10,500. All other grosses were weak.

Philadelphia Office Help Tries Sit-Down

PHILADELPHIA, July 8.—A sit-down strike and picketing both were launched today by stenographers and office help at the Warner and Universal exchanges. Because they were not included in the A. F. of L. affiliation with other exchange employees, the stenographers and bookkeepers joined the CIO.

They attempted to negotiate wage scales. When the effort failed the strike followed.

The strikers, members of United Office and Professional Workers of America, Local 2, are demanding increases in wages, a closed shop and recognition.

Gradwell L. Sears, general sales manager, Harold S. Bareford, attorney, and A. W. Schwalberg, in charge of exchange operations for Warners, were here today conferring with M. Mansell, local Warner manager, on the situation.

Reade-Cocalis Talk Peace Term Details

Walter Reade and Sam Cocalis are discussing peace terms with the possibility that Cocalis may not go through with the building of the Parker, Long Branch, N. J., and at the same time may acquire an interest in Reade's Hudson, Hudson, N.Y.

Cocalis had been negotiating for the Hudson house at the time Reade stepped in and bought the property. Cocalis, in retaliation, bought the Parker, Long Branch, but has had some difficulty in completing the construction of the house.

Talks have been started to get the two exhibitors together on a plan which would eliminate the competitive moves in Long Branch and Hudson.

Seek Approval for Move on 306 Funds

Counsel for Irving Schleifer and two other members of Local 306 who sued Harry Sherman, former president, to restore to the treasury money he allegedly expended but did not account for will ask Justice Thomas F. Noonan in N. Y. Supreme Court today to confirm the report of a referee who recommended that Sherman be required to turn over $150,960 to the local's treasury.

Sherman was head of Local 306 from Feb. 11, 1933, to April 18, 1935. The $150,960 representing funds belonging to the local allegedly was placed in a safe deposit vault and later withdrawn and handed over to Sherman "for purposes unknown and not explained." Sherman did not appear at any of the referee's hearings which were held between July, 1935, and April of this year. Referee George Brokaw Compton said that the union did not cooperate with him fully and in his report concluded that "the union has not accounted for monies received and disbursed from Feb. 11, 1933, to Oct. 26, 1934, in the amount of at least $1,322,279."

Laughton and Pommer Quit Korda, U.A.

Join Maxwell on Board Of Mayflower Corp.

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, July 9.—Erich Pommer and Charles Laughton have broken with Alexander Korda and United Artists. It was officially revealed today that Associated British Pictures has made a substantial investment in Mayflower Pictures Corp., and that John Maxwell had joined Pommer and Laughton on the board of directors. Under the arrangement, both of the latter will share in the profits.

Associated British, the Maxwell company, will handle all distribution for the new company, which will produce at Elstree in whatever space is available at that studio.

Three pictures are already set for production, and planned for world release. They are Somerset Maugham's "The Vessel of Wrath," Clemence Dane's original, "St. Martin's Lane" and "Jamaica," by Daphne Du Maurier. Shooting will start the first week in August. Laughton will star in each of the three films and Pommer will be the producer.

In a speech at a press reception at the Savoy, Maxwell stressed Pommer's value in helping to build up British production.

Columbia Will Make Six Vancouver Films

VANCOUVER, July 9.—Six pictures are slated for production by Central Films, Ltd., subsidiary of Columbia Pictures which produces films for British quota.

The company, which has studios at Victoria, has just completed eight quota features, and Kenneth J. Bishop, president, says the new series will be completed by December. Stories and casts have not been chosen.

Loew Contracts for Columbia's Product

On the heels of the United Artists deal, Loew's yesterday signed contracts with Columbia for 40 features next season. The latest product pact does not include westerns.

The Columbia arrangement is the fourth important deal set by the circuit for 1937-38, M-G-M and Uni-

G. B. to Continue Sales Via 20th-Century Fox Exchanges

G. B. will continue to distribute through 20th Century-Fox next season, it was learned yesterday. Discussions for the continuance of the present releasing system are understood to have been completed when George W. Weeks, general sales manager for G. B., conferred with Sidney R. Kent on the coast during the 20th Century-Fox sales convention.

In addition to handling physical distribution, 20th Century-Fox ad sales forces will put on an intensified campaign on accessories for G. B. top pictures. Lee Balsly, ad sales manager for 20th Century-Fox, has advised William Carney, in charge of accessories for G. B., to that effect in a letter which was read yesterday to the sales forces in convention at the St. Moritz.

Approval of Plan on Roxy Strikes Snag

Possibilities that the proposed plan of reorganization for the Roxy may not be consummated because of the lack of consent from second mortgage gold noteholders was revealed at a hearing on the plan before Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey in the U. S. District Court yesterday.

Carlos Israel, attorney for the Pound Bondholders' Protective Committee, told Judge Caffey that the noteholders were still $50,000 short of the required two-thirds and that few additional consents had been received during the past week. He pointed out that first mortgage bondholders holding $2,405,941 of bonds had filed consent to the plan, and that this was $9,000 more than the required two-thirds from bondholders. He indicated that unless sufficient consents from noteholders were received by next week, he would ask the court for permission to foreclose on first mortgages and thus wipe out the equity of noteholders and other junior creditors.

The plan has already received the HARRISBURG, Pa., July 9.—The Dauphin County Court here today issued an injunction against J. Griffith Boardman, Pennsylvania Secretary of Revenue, restraining him from collecting the newly created tax on chain stores of the state, from the American Stores Co., A. & P. and Weiss Pure Food Stores, pending action of the court on the pending suits filed by these companies to test the constitutionality of the law creating this tax. GB Lists 12; To Sell Alone Or in Groups

G. B. will release 12 class "A" pictures next season, with provisions for a limited number in addition on a sales policy elastic enough to permit selling on a single picture basis where that is desired, George W. Weeks, general sales manager, will tell the delegates to the G. B. sales convention at the St. Moritz here at this morning's session.

The new product will be outlined by Weeks and Arthur A. Lee, vice-president. Weeks will point out that the emphasis in the G. B. program for 1937-'38 will be on quality rather than quantity, and that each picture will be made on a large scale. "Because we are going in for individual, rather than mass production, our pictures can be handled and sold individually," Weeks declared in explanation of the elastic sales policy.

The leading players in the G. B. lineup of 12 will be Jessie Matthews, who will appear in three starring attractions; Anna Lee, who also will be starred in three; Nova Pilbeam

Weeks Remaining as G. B. Sales Manager

George W. Weeks is remaining with G. B. as general sales manager, and the company is retaining the exchanges with which it originally started in this country, Arthur A. Lee, vice-president, told the delegates to the company's sales convention at the St. Moritz Hotel at the opening day's session yesterday.

Its new selling policy will mean a greater concentration on fewer films, Lee said, with no decrease in quality. He declared that the parent Gaumont

Union Deals Set for Two More Cities

Milwaukee, Dallas Terms Worked Out Here

Two more exchange centers, Dallas and Milwaukee, will be added to the list of territories next week where union working conditions will be set up. Negotiations between I.A.T.S.E. representatives and home office exchange heads were concluded yesterday whereby service employes in Dallas and Milwaukee unions will be recognized.

At the meeting yesterday at the Warner home office details in connection with Charlotte exchange employes, started some time ago, were completed. With Dallas and Milwaukee, the total number of situations where union agreements have been worked out is 16.

John Gatelee and Richard Walsh represented the I.A.T.S.E. at the distributor meetings Thursday and yesterday. The other 14 exchanges where union terms have been agreed upon are Kansas City, Indianapolis, Denver, Des Moines, Albany, Oklahoma City, Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Boston, New Haven, Cleveland, Charlotte and Washington.

Felix Snow, I.A.T.S.E. representative in Kansas City, arrived by plane yesterday to discuss a revision of the

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S
HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Toast of New York"

(RKO)

HOLLYWOOD, July 9.—Here is brought to the screen the stirring story of Jim Fisk and his notorious operations in concert and in conflict with those of Daniel Drew and Cornelius Vanderbilt that made Wall Street history in the turbulent Civil War period. Edward Arnold, Cary Grant, Frances Farmer, Jack Oakie, Donald Meek and Clarence Kolb make the principal characters seem to live again and the Edward Small production recreates the place and period with convincing fidelity. Rowland V. Lee's direction maintains a modern tempo and keeps the essential romantic element subordinated without sacrifice. The picture is well qualified to satisfy audiences attracted by exploitation based on the rich historical background.

The story introduces the Wallingford of his time as a medicine show impresario in the deep south when the war breaks out. It depicts his cotton smuggling activities, the loss of his fortune and the acquisition of a bigger one through a coup netting him control of the Erie Railroad. Later come the clash with Vanderbilt and the turning of public sentiment against Fisk and his attempted cornering of the gold market, culminating in assassination and his dying renunciation of the girl in the case to his business partner.

Oakie supplies comedy relief throughout. The screenplay by Dudley Nichols, John Twist and Joel Sayre is based on stories by Bouck White and Matthew Josephson.

Production Code Seal No. 2,963. Running time, 109 minutes. "G."

"On Again, Off Again"

(Radio)

HOLLYWOOD, July 9.—Wheeler and Woolsey, aided by Patricia Wilder and the capabilities of Marjorie Lord, Esther Muir, Paul Harvey, George Meeker and Russell Hicks, indulge in another round of their typical farce foolishness. It is the kind of entertainment that will be appreciated by the comedians' following, containing plenty of what it takes to amuse the diversified fun-loving audiences.

Mainly the story content runs second to Wheeler's and Woolsey's gagging of the lines, situations and action. Nevertheless, Nat Perrin and Benny Rubin provide a humorous theme to support the stars' antics.

Unable to agree as the business partners' counsel, Hicks suggests a wrestling match—the winner to run the pill manufacturing trade and the loser to serve as his valet. Woolsey is victor in the mad bout that follows and proceeds to make life miserable for his partner. This is interlarded by Miss Wilder's fun-making and Meeker's menacing threat to the business. Wheeler precipitates a maddening domestic situation involving Woolsey and his wife, Miss Muir. This forces Woolsey to look for an out. It is found by bringing Miss Lord, Wheeler's girl friend, into action. In a musical garden party sequence the partners agree to call the whole thing off to prevent Meeker and Harvey from grabbing the business and to restore personal and domestic tranquillity.

It is better in entertainment and production quality than other recent films featuring the pair. The film should fully satisfy where the comedians are popular.

Production Code Seal No. 3,316. Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

Study Insurance for Games in Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 9.—Bank Night developed a new headache for the attorney general's office as "Guarantee Clubs" brought in a new angle. Owen J. Watts, assistant attorney general, was assigned to determine whether the clubs are a lottery, after an opinion asked by Everett Collins county attorney at Sapulpa, Okla.

The club guarantees that for a 25-cent fee it will pay the amount of the Bank Night award to any patron who happens to be absent when his name is called at a theatre. The guarantee also carries a show ticket. Watts pointed out that the club apparently has an agreement with the theatre to go to the club to get its ticket. Watts said the fact that a ticket is given for 25 cents may protect the club from lottery laws.

Weeks Remaining as G. B. Sales Manager

British company is resting on a firm financial basis—"as strong and as big as it ever was."

"We are starting upon our fourth season with all the backing in the world from the other side, the same exchanges where we originally started—even though there have been rumors that we would be asked to leave them—and with a program you will be proud of," Lee concluded.

Weeks, in addressing the delegates, declared, "The Gaumont organization in this country must be recognized as an essential part of the industry as a whole, too essential a part to be destroyed by rumors. It is a structure too vital to be wrecked."

He declared that a period of stabilization, such as was necessary in the British industry, always looks alarming to superficial observers. Gaumont British has paid for some of its own mistakes, he said, and even more dearly for the mistakes of others in the British industry. England, he insisted, will always be a great production center, and the Gaumont organization in America will remain its chief outlet for distribution in this country.

Address by Rogers

Although he did not specify how many pictures B. I. P. would send over for distribution here, Budd Rogers, American representative for the company, yesterday told G. B. delegates that he was willing to submit product selected from B. I. P.'s output on the merits of each production.

Al Perry of Empire Films Canada, distributors for G. B. in the Dominion, was among the speakers. At lunch, Howard S. Cullman, trustee of the Roxy, and William T. Powers, film buyer for National Theatres, made short speeches. Other National Theatres' men introduced to the conventionites included Edward Zabel, Milton Hossfeld, Aubrey Schenck, Irving Barry and Jack Miller. O. J. Silverthorne, Toronto censor board member, and Ralph Poucher of Consolidated Film, also were among the guests.

Set Hitchcock Film Title

"The Girl Was Young" has been selected as the final title for the new Alfred Hitchcock picture for G.B. release which stars Nova Pilbeam. The tentative title was "Coins for Candles."

The tax, which ranges from $1 to $500 on each store, according to the number owned by an individual organization, applies also to theatres of the state. Under the terms of the act collections by the Secretary of Revenue may be begun on Aug. 4 next, but the injunction prevents collection from the companies which are parties to the test case. In the opinion of lawyers the injunction does not, however, apply to either stores or theatres that have not joined in the court proceedings. Up to this date no theatres have filed action opposing the law in the Dauphin County Court.

Summer Shows on the Air

"Showboat"

The Maxwell House "Showboat," with its original skipper, Charles Winninger again at the helm, set sail Thursday evening in an attempt to recapture its former glory, and for the most part, succeeded.

Ever since Winninger left the craft some years ago, the "Showboat" has ridden troubled waters, and despite repeated trips to the drydock for repairs, it has kept settling lower and ever lower until its decks have been awash. In bringing Winninger back, and by making extensive changes in its style of presentation, Benton & Bowles has cheated Davey Jones of an illustrious victim.

Despite the fact that he has been surrounded with an exceptionally competent cast, including Jack Haley, Nadine Conner, Thomas L. Thomas, Patricia Wilder, Virginia Verrill and Warren Hull, Winninger emerged with most of the glory. He has an amazing ability of being able to project his personality in an all-permeating fashion, so that even during those moments when Haley and the vocalists were before the microphone, the listener was aware of the Winninger presence.

Haley's comedy, somehow, defies analysis. Many of his lines were of the "sock" variety, yet when his stunts were finished, one's risibilities, strangely enough, had not been unduly excited. We say strangely, because some of the funniest lines of the season were uttered by the comedian with the dreamy eyes. Perhaps a bit of tightening of the skits is the remedy needed.

The vocalists were exceptionally fine.

"Showboat" is sponsored by the General Foods Corp. for Maxwell House Coffee, and is presented Thursdays from 9 to 10 P.M., E.D.S.T., on the NBC-Red. Benton & Bowles is the agency.

approval of the court in an opinion, and it had been expected that a formal order approving the plan, together with the required consents would be filed yesterday. When apprised of the failure to file consents, Judge Caffey indicated that he would refrain from signing the order.

A motion by Roemer-Kenny Co. and George M. Garsson, for recognition of the brokers who brought about the sale of the Roxy to 20th Century-Fox was denied by Judge Caffey yesterday. The petition of the brokers stated that they were entitled to $50,952 as brokerage fees, but asked that they be recognized now and allowances for them be made at the time the estate is closed. Judge Caffey, in denying the motion, stated that he would hear a further petition from them at the time allowances to attorneys were made. He also said that another firm is making a similar claim.

The next hearing on the plan will be held July 16.

TEN CENTS

Metro Plans 12 New Spots 'Round Globe

Will Set Sites for Six Theatres by Fall

Continuing its foreign theatre expansion program, M-G-M is now negotiating for 12 additional sites in various countries. At least six are expected to be closed by September, it was learned at the home office over the weekend.

At present the company operates the Empire, London; four in Australia, where another will be opened in November; one in Johannesburg, South Africa, and another to open Aug. 1 at Durban; four in Belgium; two in France; one in Calcutta with construction just begun on a theatre in Bombay; four in South America, and a new house at Sao Paulo, Brazil, to be started next month. A site recently was acquired in San Juan, Puerto Rico, and building will get under way in two months.

In most instances where new building is under way or contemplated the structures will seat on an average of 1,500. At Sao Paulo the theatre will have a capacity of 1,700.

Sam Burger, foreign roving representative, is now on his way to South Africa, via Europe.

GB to Concentrate On Names, Says Lee

The stars and directors lined up for G. B.'s new product schedule of 12 features for the 1937-38 season will be the point of concentration in the selling of the new films, Arthur A. Lee, vice-president of the company, told the delegates to the sales convention at the St. Moritz Hotel here Saturday.

The meeting ended yesterday with individual meetings among home office executives and the sales forces from the field. The banquet was held Saturday night and the men left for their

Warners to Preview Eight Features in 31 Key Spots

In an effort to get audience reactions from a representative cross-section of the American public as well as suggestions for future productions Warners have arranged for two-day preview showings of eight new-season films in 31 cities on Aug. 9 and 10. The showings will be in theatres probably in the mornings and late evenings.

Invitations will be sent to city and state officials, film critics, club women, prominent exhibitors and others.

"In a sense," says Gradwell L. Sears, in charge of sales, "the exhibitions are an advance display of product comparable to the annual automobile shows, or the trade shows of national manufacturers. But more than that, we hope our first step into a field never before explored by the film industry will result in a scientific answer to the question which always plagues producers: 'What sort of picture does the public want?'

"We know that the day of helter-skelter production methods has been passed, and that some guarantee of audience acceptance should be obtained before producers spend up to $2,000,000 making a picture. One year melo-

The term of the Paramount deal is contingent upon both parties getting together on prices which would govern a long-term contract. Paramount is asking for 37 pictures on percentage next year: four at 35 per cent, plus a split; eight at 30 per cent, plus a split; 10 at 30 per cent with a reversion clause to 25 per cent if the stipulated figure is not reached, and 15 at 25 per cent. RCA's Installations Up 300% in 6 Months

The number of installations of RCA high fidelity sound reproducing systems has increased almost 300 per cent in the first six months of this year, as compared to last year, according to Edwin M. Hartley, head of RCA Photophone.

During June more than five times as many installations were contracted for than in June, 1936, Hartley reported. All were for complete sound systems, rather than the modernization of older systems. The gain was attributed by the executive to the increase in the number of new theatres and the activity in the modernization of old houses.

Reade-Cocalis Seek An Arbitrator Here

Efforts are being made by Walter Reade and Sam Cocalis to get a local exchange manager to arbitrate the differences between the two independent exhibitors. The differences arose when Reade purchased a theatre in Hudson while Cocalis had been negotiating for the property. Following this move, Cocalis bought sites at Hudson and Long Branch and planned additional purchases at Red Bank and Asbury Park in retaliation to Reade.

However, both exhibitors have decided to sit down and talk the matter over, provided that an unbiased

'White Collar' Workers Next To Unionize

Step Slated to Follow Exchange Moves

As soon as negotiations are completed with all exchange unions in key centers, distributor representatives are expected to sit down and discuss contract terms with newly formulated unions representing "white collar" workers in exchanges. The workers consist of bookers, stenographers, clerks and cashiers.

Members of the United Office and Professional Workers of America have made several attempts to organize employees at the various home offices. Last week in Philadelphia Warner and Universal exchange employees of the union staged a strike because company executives refused to recognize them. Three bookers from the Quaker City about two weeks ago met with home office distributors at the Warners and were assured their demands would be looked into in due time.

At the present time, 16 of the 32 exchange centers have worked out union arrangements with distribution executives. There are 16 more territories to be negotiated. These will take months, it was stated, and as soon as all key centers are taken care of unions representing "white collar," or front office workers at exchanges, will be asked to present their demands.

In all of the 16 territories where union conditions have been set up, negotiations have been with the I.A.T.S.E. The international is affiliated with the A. F. of L.

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

IT happened in Hollywood some weeks back. Then more diligently at our stint than we have been of late, out of the type-writer one day rolled this:

The great difficulty about the testings made of single versus double features practically everywhere around the country has been the inadequacy of such probings. If an exhibitor on one side of the street decides for singles and his competition persists with doubles, the hardy experimenter will give up in a hurry if his gross drops and his opposition's sticks to whatever its current level with duals has been. Thus, you have a sort of test, but actually you have no test at all. If only through some latter day miracle, all exhibitors in a given city could be induced seriously to check the situation, we don't know the consequences, but the outcome might prove surprising. . . .

Double bills are another name for inferiority in product. It begins in the studios with a chiseling in cast strength and budgets enforced upon the producer by the market he serves. Hollywood will dish up in a moment's notice propaganda on behalf of this studio and that and how the effort with B pictures compares favorably with the A. This, of course, is stuff and nonsense, designed for ultimate percolation to the exhibiting body which already knows better than to listen. It represents a studio defense for producing cheap pictures when actually no defense beyond a recognition of market requirements should be required. . . .

A diagnosis of his market should be the theatre operator's job. But the average exhibitor follows the path where the resistance is mildest and has demonstrated himself to be content with letting what he regards as well enough alone. The point there is that nothing beyond an isolated conclusion ever has been attempted. The conclusion is that Hollywood will continue to make a large number of second features which are essentially indifferent or bad features and the public will get its quantity while it finds its quality when it can.

This the background for what follows, a letter from one of the most efficient circuit operators in this blazing land. With his permission:

All of us had double features at one time in — and through one means and another are now pretty definitely on a single feature basis. From then till now conditions have improved, but I personally am convinced that the elimination of double features in — has not merely not hurt the business but has actually helped it during the improving period.

Now for the other side of it. When you are hooked with a rather expensive theatre—or even theatres—in a community and must have the A attractions for your existence, you butt head-on into this block buying thing, whereby the companies with the real pictures take an all-or-none attitude. The result is that you must either double feature or maintain losing B theatres. It is not surprising that many exhibitors have found the double features to be the lesser of the evils. Looking at it from one of the few remaining single feature territories, I can but conclude that the all-or-none policy, known generally as block booking, is so tied to this double feature thing as to be one of the Siamese twins. The real cause of double features is surely "take 'em all." And the market which the producers are supplying by producing some of the junk which comes from the West Coast was, in fact, created by the sales policies of those same companies. I can assure you that, unless someone is sitting in this sort of an office, he does not know the tremendous pressure which the sales policies make for double features. I sometimes think I'm a simple fool for holding out against it, but then, as you may have surmised one place or another, I'm stubborn.

In answering the communication, we declared that one day there may be light and then another deal. It was a theoretical reply and well did we know it. However, it drew this:

We have a theatre manager in — who recently built a residence. The man is 50 years old and his wife is 47. In connection with the residence, he built what I had reasons strongly to suspect was a nursery. Until now I had considered him the world's greatest optimist.

Your statement that more light may penetrate into the councils of the fellows who set selling formulas moves him down into second place.

Your perennial optimist immediately thereafter returned to his unprotesting shower. . . .

A prize of four weeks salary was awarded, also on Saturday, to R. W. Selig, G. B.'s Denver branch manager, who won the George Weeks sales drive, just concluded. Second and third prizes went to Mark Goldman of Pittsburgh and Walter Wessling of Portland, respectively.

Lee stressed the fact that the material which has been selected for the G. B. stars and directors has been chosen with the particular talents of each individual in mind. Lee mentioned specifically Jessie Matthews, who will star in three musical films, and Anna Lee, who will appear in two stories now being written especially for her. The leading directors will be Alfred Hitchcock, Robert Stevenson and Marcel Varnel.

Plan Would Restrict Australian Theatres

By CLIFF HOLT

SYDNEY, June 15.—The Film Board of Trade has approved a formula for the restriction of theatre building, but particulars have not yet been made available. Members emphasize that the scheme will not bring monopolies in any district, but is a logical and economical solution of a problem that has become most serious.

Before becoming effective, the board's decision must be ratified by all members of the M.P.D.A., a special meeting of which will be held shortly for this purpose. If the board actually has found a successful means of overcoming the licensing problem, both distributors and exhibitors, who have wrangled over this issue for some years, probably will ratify it readily.

At the annual general meeting of the N.S.W. Exhibitors' Ass'n, the president, Robert Lawson, was re-elected for a year. Trade topics discussed included the Board of Trade's theatre restriction formula, speedy conclusion on which was urged. Other items on the agenda included sixpenny admissions, ad valorem duties, imperial quota proposals and contingent legislation. All of these matters were placed in abeyance.

Warner Men Shifted

PITTSBURGH, July 11.—Irving Kaye, manager for Warners in the Albany zone, has been transferred to the Liberty in New Kensington, Pa. He succeeds Tory Covello, moved to the Capitol in Steubenville, O., to replace Frank Roberts, who goes to the Warner in Morgantown, W. Va.

Warners Plan Nat'l Preview of 8 Films

dramas may be the most popular form of entertainment, only to be displaced the next year by musicals. There is no natural raw material for films, and motion picture production is always a creative job. Occasionally all precedents are broken and a new market opened with such pictures as "The Story of Louis Pasteur" and "The Green Pastures," but ordinarily the industry's main problem is to interpret the public mood."

Sears said that one biographical picture, two types of musicals, one tragedy, two comedies and two straight dramas would be included. Officials of the Legion of Decency, instructors in departments of visual education and university heads will be among those invited to see them. Shorts also will be included on the programs.

The pictures to be shown are: "The Story of Emile Zola," "They Won't Forget," "It's Love I'm After," "That Certain Woman," "Mr. Dodd Takes the Air" and "Varsity Show," "The Perfect Specimen," and "Confession."

The cities selected are: Albany, Boston, Buffalo, New Haven, New York, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Washington, Chicago, Des Moines, Indianapolis, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Omaha, St. Louis, Atlanta, Charlotte, Dallas, Kansas City, Memphis, New Orleans, Oklahoma City, Denver, Los Angeles, Portland, Sale Lake City, San Francisco and Seattle.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Hot Water"

(20th Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, July 11.—This, the sixth installment of the Jones family series, offers definite entertainment value for the average American audience. Showmanship potentialities, if utilized, should interest adults in the problems of Jed Prouty and Spring Byington, the elder Joneses; Florence Roberts, Willard Robertson, Robert Gleckler, Arthur Hohl and Joseph King, while the juvenile element is bound to go for the escapades of adolescence indulged in by Russell Gleason, Kenneth Howell, Shirley Dean, Joan Marsh and Marjorie Weaver. A group of youngsters—George Ernest, June Carlson and Billy Mahan—should enthuse the kids.

The theme has Prouty cast as a very civic-conscious candidate for mayor. He gets in hot water when he opposes the racketeering element headed by King, the incumbent mayor, and Gleckler, a gambler, both of whom make life miserable for the political aspirant, who is comforted in his predicament by Miss Byington, his wife, and Roberts. The antics of Ernest, juvenile and amateur newspaper publisher, provoke a crisis which leads to the framing of Howell in a scandal. The resourceful Ernest unmasks the plot by freeing a nest of hornets on Hohl, a fake paralytic. As a result King takes flight and Prouty is elected.

The story by Ron Furguson and Eleanor Delameter was used by Robert Chapin and Karen DeWolf in a screenplay which shows a keen understanding of what the average American audience appreciates on the screen. The direction of Frank R. Strayer skips no beats in endowing the film with the familiar domestic comedy and drama touches. The picture is probably the best of the Jones family series thus far and should prove popular in all situations.

Production Code Seal No. 3,516. Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Three Legionnaires"

(General Pictures)

"Three Legionnaires" will do for an hour out of the sun in the hot weather, probably best as part of a double bill program. There are a few laughs in what is supposed to be comedy all the way, but on the whole the film must be considered nothing more than ordinary fare.

Robert Armstrong and Lyle Talbot are a pair of American soldiers in a Russian village after the revolution there, attempting to hold the position while awaiting the arrival of reinforcements that never come. The film is taken up with their adventures and misadventures, none of them exciting and only few of them amusing, with Anne Nagel as a former Russian princess, Fifi D'Orsay as a thorn in the side of Armstrong, and Stanley Fields, who pretends to be a White Russian officer, but is actually a Bolshevik.

On the scene appears Donald Meek, American pseudo-scientist, who is pressed into service as General Grant of the United States. The ruse fails and the boys are about to be shot when Meek miraculously appears with White Russian help, at which point the boys decide to return to America, Talbot taking Miss Nagel with him.

The players struggle valiantly, but there is little they can do. Robert E. Welsh produced, Hamilton McFadden directed, and George Waggner and Carl Harbaugh wrote the screenplay.

Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

"Galloping Dynamite"

(Ambassador)

A satisfactory western. The story by James Oliver Curwood crams action and movement all the way. Kermit Maynard shows a few new styles of mounting a horse and carries the histrionics without firing a shot.

Maynard's brother is killed by rustlers. He comes up from his Texas post—he is a Ranger—and investigates. His sleuthing gradually uncovers the culprits and his sly influence soon has them at each other's throats. The outlaws almost eliminate themselves. The last one, a stooge for the gang, kills the boss but is captured himself. And Maynard, his job done, finds time for romance with Ariane Allen.

Harry Fraser directed. Jack Greenhalgh's camera work is good. The cast includes John Merton and David Sharp.

Production Code Seal No. 2,955. Running time, 55 minutes. "G."

Short Subjects

"Lennie Hayton and his Orchestra"

(Vitaphone)

An amusing presentation of the well known radio band. It departs from the usual presentation form. The band lands in jail for disturbing the peace. At the trial they do their stuff and are set free on condition they hire an amusing violinist. It is pleasant. Production Code Seal No. 01,548. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Swing Fever"

(Radio)

An amusing musical idea is offered in this comedy. Jack Norton undergoes treatment in a "melody clinic." His case is rare and a quartette of medicos are called in. With rhythmic tunes and musical prescriptions they proceed to cure him. Assisting in the farce are Billy Gilbert, Christine McIntyre and Bud Jamison. Production Code Seal No. 3,226. Running time, 20 mins. "G."

"Sweet Sioux"

(Vitaphone)

Here is a color cartoon that will steal some of the Disney prestige. It is a delightfully done burlesque-satire on Indians and their customs. It offers a wagon train raid as its high point. The invention that goes into the telling is brilliant stuff calculated to make audiences roar—which, no doubt it will. Production Code Seal No. 3,455. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"Dumb's the Word"

(Radio)

The reliably funny antics of Edgar Kennedy register again. Kennedy finds a pot of gold. A painter explains that it is contraband. Kennedy conceals it. From that point the horseplay and what-have-you begins. The finale is well handled. Production Code Seal No. 3,097. Running time, 18 mins. "G."

"Workshops of Old Mexico"

(Van Beuren-Radio)

Fine scenes of pottery making, rope spinning and glass blowing from across our southern border. The narrative is tastefully delivered and the material well presented and interesting. Production Code Seal No. 01,499. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Super Sleuth"

(RKO)

HOLLYWOOD, July 11.—Gertrude Purcell and Ernest Pagano whipped up a gleeful and sometimes giddy screenplay from Harry Wegall's comedy of like ilk. Ben Stoloff directed the gaggy, frequently slapstick goings-on with guffaws and snorts his sole objectives. Neither plausibility nor motivation were permitted to decelerate the movement.

Jack Oakie, as a bonehead screen sleuth, baits the police under Edgar Kennedy, the commissioner, and draws the wrath of a demented criminologist who attempts to assassinate him. To every appearance Ann Sothorn, Oakie's press agent sweetheart, persuades the enraged police to work in the picture and the madman accidentally shoots the wrong actor. The finale occurs in a trick house full of murderous gadgets maintained by the maniac with Oakie saved and the murderer caught. All the action is laid in Hollywood with studios and locations the principal settings.

Half a dozen situations click for a round of laughter, but the picture sets no new high for feature length comedies. Oakie and Kennedy are very funny but are overloaded with the comedy burden. The picture should please general audiences.

Production Code Seal No. 3,383. Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

Overseas Previews

"Let's Make a Night of It"

(Associated British)

HARROGATE, July 2.—Shown here to several hundred exhibitors attending the summer conference of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n., this was revealed to be a somewhat better than average example of a type of comedy-musical which A. B. P. makes very successfully.

With the story basis of an elderly business man who secretly buys a night club, while his wife buys another, similarly concealing the fact, it puts over a whole series of popular London dance bands, a number of cabaret and variety acts, and considerable good comedy from such players as Fred Emney, Steve Geray, Zelma O'Neal, Antony Holles and Claud Allister. Buddy Rogers is a waiter who becomes a night club impressario and June Clyde is the singing-dancing daughter of the mutually deceiving parents.

It is better staged than most British efforts of its type and is definitely better also both in its musical material and in the way it is put over. Obviously a possible in areas where they won't miss the point of the dialogue, which is amusing.

Running time, 80 minutes. "G."

"Make Up"

(A. B. F. D.-Grand National)

LONDON, July 2.—Nils Asther and June Clyde in a story against circus backgrounds. "Make Up" has very fair plot values and the ring scenes and animal shots will have the usual appeal. Drawbacks are the slow tempo and the fact that the hero, played by Asther, is the most unconvincing figure in the picture. As a doctor animal-lover turned famous clown he gives no ring show justifying his fame.

Asther, loved by the "niece" who is really an orphaned girl confided to his charge, is temporarily attracted by a rich English girl. Meanwhile the circus girl is pursued by a lion tamer who finally, to get back on the clown for a sock in the jaw, tries to poison his animals. He is killed and the girl is accused, but the clown stages a reconstruction of the crime which proves that an elephant, who has it in for the lion tamer, has killed him.

It wants a lot of sharpening up for American audiences. Some of the incidental humor is good, but the circus stuff is not big enough to cover up deficiencies of direction and characterization.

Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

Races at Riverside, warm weather, and labor unrest made up outside competition for the week.

TEN CENTS

Product Talks Here Are Key To Hoyts Deal

Two Australian Circuits Seek Long Pacts

By CLIFF HOLT

MELBOURNE, June 18 (By Air Mail Via London).—The question of the renewal of the theatre operating partnership between Greater Union Theatres and Hoyts, operating as General Theatres Corp., is believed here to hinge upon the long term product deals now being negotiated in New York.

Representatives of each company are negotiating separately, and it is felt that if either succeeds in obtaining such contracts to the disadvantage of the other, that company will favor an independent status at the termination of the General Theatres agreement on Dec. 31, 1937. On the other hand, it is believed that if the distributors will give only short term deals, it would be more profitable to present a united front to the distributors than to fight each other.

Norman B. Rydge has been named chairman of the board of directors of Greater Union, but as yet there has

Fate of Film Chamber Now Is in Balance

Next 2 Years to Decide; Film Congress Ends

By PIERRE AUTRE

PARIS, July 12.—The fate of the International Film Chamber will be decided within the next two years, it was evident at the conclusion Saturday of the International Film Congress here. The Chamber may become highly important, if the United States and England can be persuaded to join the Chamber under the two-year sponsorship of France, which is possible, provided that period brings about a change in the attitude of the organization.

If Germany and Italy continue to dominate the group, as they have in the past, with their Nazi-Fascist ideology, there is every indication that the Chamber will completely disappear as an organization, since France and Belgium unquestionably will withdraw if the present situation is continued.

France, or actually the French Cinema Confederation, will make every attempt to liberalize the atti-

CHICAGO, July 12.—If present plans materialize Chicago will continue to have a Film Board of Trade. Will Hold Gershwin
Rites Here Thursday

Funeral services for George Gershwin, noted modern composer, who died Sunday morning in Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, Hollywood, following an emergency operation for a brain tumor, will be held at Temple Emanu-El here on Thursday at 2 P. M. The operation was performed by Dr. Cal Rand, eminent specialist, and the composer failed to rally.

The body of Gershwin left Hollywood by train yesterday morning, and is due to arrive in New York Thursday morning. The funeral services here will be conducted by Rabbi Perilman, of Temple Emanu-El, and it was indicated yesterday that Rabbi Stephen S. Wise may also officiate. All funeral arrangements are in the hands of Gene Buck, president of Ascap. Burial will be in the Mount Hope Cemetery, Yonkers.

Gershwin, 38, was born in Brooklyn, Sept. 26, 1898. He was educated in New York and pursued the study of music, for a time working as a "song plugger" for a music publishing house. His most notable composition was "Rhapsody in Blue," which immediately established him as one of the leading composers of modern music.

Wrote Astaire-Rogers Music

He wrote considerable music for musical comedies produced in New York and in the past couple of years did a good deal of song writing for the screen. At the time of his death he had completed five of the nine numbers he had undertaken to write for Samuel Goldwyn's "Goldwyn Follies." Previously he wrote the music for "Shall We Dance?" the Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers vehicle, and for "Damsel in Distress," starring Astaire, both for RKO. His brother, Ira Gershwin, who had collaborated with George on many of his popular numbers, wrote the lyrics for the numbers composed for both the RKO films.

Coast Services Thursday

HOLLYWOOD, July 12.—Memorial services for George Gershwin will be held here Thursday at the Bnai Brith Temple. Admittance will be by invitation only and is expected to include all the most prominent names in Hollywood.

Ira Gershwin and his wife will leave here tomorrow to attend funeral services in New York.

Tonight the Chicago Philharmonic Orchestra will pay tribute to his works over CBS. Ferde Grofe's regular Friday evening program over the same network will

The papers are in the final form, it was said, and have been sent west to the attorneys who will represent the company in the action on the ground. The bill in equity is expected to be filed in Fargo, N. D., but there was no indication where the hearing before the U. S. District Court would be held. The action will seek to enjoin officials of the state from enforcing the theatre divorce law.

Momand Conspiracy
Case Opened in Hub

BOSTON, July 12.—The suit of A. B. Momand, operator in Oklahoma, which asks $3,000,000 from eight major distributors for alleged conspiracy and unlawful monopoly was filed here today in First U. S. District Court by George S. Ryan, attorney, who was in charge of the original $4,500,000 suit during the past few years. Momand charged Sherman Act violations in the Oklahoma towns of Clinton, Wewoka, Pawhuska, Alva, Hartshorne and Holdenville.

Attorney Ryan previously tested the legality of bringing the ponderous action east by filing a $100,000 Oklahoma anti-trust suit in the First U. S. District Court here and arguing successfully against the defendants' contentions that it should be tried on the scene of the violations instead of in the local courts.

Suit Against Terry
By Moser Dismissed

The action of Frank Moser to cancel the contract by which he sold to Paul Terry all his interest in Moser & Terry, Inc., and in his long partnership with Terry, has been dismissed on its merits by Judge Aldrich after trial in N. Y. Supreme Court at White Plains.

The action named Terry, Terrytoons, Inc., cartoon producing firm; Terry-Toons, Earle W. Hammons, Educational president, and William Weiss, Terrytoons treasurer. Educational distributes the Terrytoon cartoons. Moser charged fraud, claiming that in February, 1936, he and Terry were told by Hammons that the contract for the distribution of the cartoons would not be renewed on its expiration in the summer of last year. Moser then sold his interest in the company to Terry. Subsequently, he charged, Hammons reconsidered his decision. Then Moser brought the action, contending Terry and Hammons conspired to defraud him. The court held that the claim against Hammons "is not sustained by the evidence."

Court Again Slashes Ft. Worth RKO Claim

The $507,500 claim of the Fort Worth Property, Inc., against the Irving Trust Co., as trustees of RKO in reorganization, was further reduced yesterday to $3,737 by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals. The claim, which was based upon RKO's guarantee of a 25-year lease to the RKO Southern Corp. for a film house in Ft. Worth was originally allowed by Federal Judge William Bondy at $17,139 in the U. S. District Court, but both sides appealed.

The Circuit Court ruled that failure to give formal notice to RKO before renting the theatre to a new tenant terminated the lease and deprived Fort Worth Property of any claim against RKO. The claimant contended that no notice was necessary because a receiver in bankruptcy for RKO Southern was in possession of the theatre for two months before the theatre was rented and demanded the difference between the rent fixed in the original lease and the present rental value.

Theatre Ad Rates in Lincoln Are Raised

LINCOLN, July 12. — Newspaper rates for theatre advertising here will be advanced on July 15. The exact amount of the increase has not been decided, but it is expected to rise from the present rate of $3.70 per inch to $4 per inch.

The newspapers defend the increase on the score that production costs have gone up, and it was indicated that other newspaper advertising rates also will be increased. There are three newspapers here, a morning and evening edition of the Journal and the Star, an evening paper. All are grouped in the Sunday Journal and Star.

Theatre business here is at the lowest level it has been in three years. With the increase in advertising rates, some theatres are considering withdrawal from business.

No Room for Houses In Akron, Says ITO

AKRON, O., July 12.—The Akron I. T. O. A. has stated publicly, through J. G. Deetjen, secretary and treasurer, that conditions are such in the city at present that the opening of any additional film theatres would be disastrous for the existing units. It is pointed out that the present theatres are experiencing poor business.

An editorial from the Akron Beacon Journal is cited, in which it is explained that by Dec. 1, this year, there will be approximately 7,500 less people employed in Akron than there are today, through the cutting down of the operations of the Goodyear, Goodrich and Firestone plants in the city.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Zamboanga"

(Filippine Films)

HOLLYWOOD, July 12.—A refreshingly simple story set on a Sulu Sea Island with a native cast, "Zamboanga," the first film made in the Philippines for distribution outside of the islands by Filippine Films, stands a chance of getting good returns through its appeal as a novelty if it is backed up by strong exploitation and publicity. It is a tale of Moro sea gypsies who conduct raids on peaceful islands to obtain women for themselves. Most of the dialogue is in English and that which is in the native dialect is interpreted by subtitles.

The picture tells the story of the love of the head of the pearl divers on the isle of Zamboanga for the daughter of its ruler. The sea gypsies seize the daughter and all the other women during a raid conducted while the divers are out at sea. Returning, the divers go over to the marauders' island and, after a fight during which the raider chief is thrown to his death by the hero, the women are rescued and the pair marries.

It shows customs, dances and feasts of a people unfamiliar to American audiences, but there are no marquee names, all the players being natives except two minor characters, who are white. The film is slow in starting, due to concentration on showing scenery of the island.

No production code seal number. Running time, 65 minutes. "G".

Overseas Previews

"Silver Blaze"

(Twickenham—Associated British)

LONDON, July 3.—Arthur Wontner's physical likeness to the traditional Sherlock Holmes is remarkable and mentally he slips into the role as a hand into a well-fitting glove. His performance makes "Silver Blaze," directed by Thomas Bentley, pleasant entertainment for those who retain affectionate remembrances of the Conan Doyle stories, although that frequently recurring "Elementary, my dear Watson" may have a satirical meaning for the younger generation.

This particular Holmes adventure has to do with the theft of a big race favorite at the instigation of a layer with a bad "book," who has enlisted the aid of the arch-criminal, Moriarity. Holmes clears innocent suspects by a series of plausible deductions and turns the tables on Moriarity in very melodramatic style. The latter has a secret lair in a disused subway station and, having captured Dr. Watson, is about to throw him down the elevator shaft. When the door opens it reveals Holmes and the police waiting in the elevator, specially restored to working order by the railway company.

It is unsophisticated stuff these days, but Holmes fans who can follow the somewhat ultra-English dialogue should enjoy it.

Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

Lee Stations Ask Amateurs On Television

LOS ANGELES, July 12.—Seeking to widen the experimental research on television broadcasts, Harry R. Lubcke, director of television for the Don Lee Broadcasting System, has given out information on the construction of television sets to interested amateurs and has asked them to report on conditions of reception and other elements for tabulation.

The Don Lee television station W6XAO operates daily except Sundays and holidays. The evening programs start at 6:30 P.M. and continue until 7:15 P.M. or later. The daytime programs are as follows: Mondays, 9 to 10 A.M.; Wednesdays, 11 A.M. to noon; Saturdays, 2 to 3 P.M., all P.S.T. Test transmissions are often made in addition to those scheduled and these are announced at the conclusion of the preceding scheduled transmission.

Requires Special Television Set

The visual images are broadcast on the ultra-high frequency of 45,000 kilocycles (62/3 meters) and the accompanying sound on the companion ultra-high frequency of 54,300 kilocycles (5½ meters). Either transmission can be received on any ultra-short wave receiver which will tune to those frequencies, although the visual broadcast will be a meaningless jumble of high and low pitched tones. A special television receiver having wide band width and a cathode ray tube is required for reproducing the images.

Information desired by Lubcke includes date, time, signal, clarity, and strength, amount and nature of interference, location of nearby hills and large buildings, type of receiving antenna and its height above ground, type of receiver. Persons desiring admission to public demonstrations have been requested to write the Don Lee Television system.

However, Lubcke warned that in giving out information on the construction of television sets and antennae, this action should not be inferred as granting a patent license.

Film Stars to Meet Radio Comedians in a Ball Game

Something is going to happen to the great national sport, baseball, the afternoon of July 17, in Wrigley Field, Los Angeles. What that, something will be is hard to foretell at the moment, but undoubtedly it is well that the founding fathers of the game will not be present to see what is going to take place there that afternoon. They might not be able to take it.

What will occur is this: A baseball game featuring a team made up of leading screen dramatic players vs. a nine comprising the leading radio comedians. Jack Warner, incidentally, will play with the comedians. And Arthur Treacher will be the water boy. If this isn't enough, the umpires will be Hugh Herbert, Victor Moore, Charles Murray, Fred Stone and Ned Sparks. Additionally, that well known sports commentator, Benny Rubin, will describe the action for the benefit of radio listeners. Are you listening?

Meredith as the Dane

It is curious that the theatre should find a new and brilliant interpreter of Shakespeare through the medium of the much-maligned microphone. We refer to the playing last night of Burgess Meredith in the title role of "Hamlet," the first in the CBS cycle of Shakespearean plays. Meredith was superb.

Comparisons, of course, always are odious and, quite often, unjust. But it is almost impossible not to compare Meredith's portrayal of Hamlet with that of John Barrymore who was heard several weeks ago in the same role. As between the two, theatre-goers of this generation probably will prefer Meredith's. His was a crisp, restrained performance in the modern tempo as against Barrymore's rolling periods.

The adaptation succeeded excellently in the tremendous technical task of condensing without losing flavor and, may we add, condensing without losing the narrative. Bruce Morgan was responsible for the adaptation and deserves high praise for his work.

Supporting Meredith were: Grace George as the Queen, Ben Webster as Polonius, William A. Brady as the Ghost, Walter Abel as Horatio, May Perry as Ophelia, Morris Ankrum as Laertes and Montague Love as the King. All were excellent.

The play was packed so tight with marvelously well-played scenes that it is difficult to single out one and say that it stood above the others. If, however, we were pressed to do so, we would choose the scene where Hamlet confronted his mother in her bedroom after putting on the play which revealed the manner of his father's death. Also, it is not possible to overlook the superb reading of the famous Soliloquy.

Victor Bey's orchestra provided the background music and Conway Tearle acted as narrator.

"Songtime"

"Songtime," which bowed in last evening over CBS, is one of those unpretentious sustaining offerings which so frequently are arranged at this time each year to fill holes in the summer network schedule. As was to be expected, it did not assay high in entertainment value.

The series is to feature different vocalists each evening and last night's guests were Hollis Shaw and Ray Hetherington, the latter currently the male lead in the Broadway musical comedy, "Babes in Arms." Hetherington pleased with his contribution of "Where or When," from the show in which he is featured and with "Summertime," from the late George Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess."

Fate of Film Chamber Now Is in Balance

tude of the Chamber, provided that Germany and Italy, which with their supporters, are a majority of the organization, will be willing to forget their political activity.

The congress ended with a general meeting at the Cinema Pavilion at the Paris Exposition, which was presided over by Jean Zay, French Minister of National Education. Oswald Lehnich, German, president for the past two years while the headquarters of the Chamber was in Berlin, turned over the president's post to Georges Lourau, who will head the Chamber until 1939, when Italy will take over.

Lourau Proclaims Impartiality

Lourau, in an energetic speech, attempted to show the full independence of the French Cinema Confederation with respect to Germany and Italy, and declared emphatically that his position as manager of the French branch of the German Tobis company will not influence him as president of the Chamber, even if there should be pressure from Berlin.

Lourau made vehement allusion to an incident, just made known, concerning the opening in Berlin of an anti-French Nazi film, "My Son, Mr. Minister," in which the French Government and democracy are ridiculed. The film was adapted from a French play by Andre Birabeau, but was completely altered in the German adaptation into a sharp attack on the Popular Front, the dominant French party. The German authorities pretended the film was only meant to be humorous.

The new president of the Chamber insisted that one of the most important objectives of the Chamber will be the suppression of all films potentially injurious to the prestige of any country, and declared that an investigation of the Berlin incident will be conducted by the Chamber.

Eight Resolutions Adopted

The congress adopted a group of eight resolutions as follows:

- (1) Free trade in cultural and educational films.
- (2) Three months of free importations of films to all countries, under a temporary arrangement, to facilitate the exchange of entertainment films.
- (3) Creation of an international court to adjudicate film questions.
- (4) Creation of international film archives and an office of statistics.
- (5) Collaboration with the Venice Biennial and Olympic Games Committee.
- (6) Accepted the principle of limitation of film theatres.
- (7) Limitation of competition in substandard films by issuing a license for the transformation of 35 mm. film to substandard only after three year of exhibition in the standard form.
- (8) Creation in all countries of film archives for the best educational and artistic pictures.

In addition the congress decided that color films would attain real success commercially only when the cost would not exceed that of black and white pictures.

been no word of a successor to Stuart F. Doyle as managing director. Two weeks after Doyle's sudden resignation, film circles were still buzzing with the news. It is believed in informed quarters that he will be extremely difficult to replace.

However, in the event that Hoyts and Greater Union continue their partnership, the logical choice for sole managing director of the two companies is thought to be Charles E. Munro, present head of Hoyts.

Independent theatre owners here are watching the Hoyts-Union developments very closely. It has been indicated that with the end of the current deal approaching, many exhibitors in New South Wales are apprehensive about the supply of product in the future. It is felt that if the partnership continues, the independents may have to pay more for films, to make up the "leeway," since the distributors may lose in dealing with one big national circuit instead of two.

Independents in New South Wales, in an effort to forestall such a contingency, are understood to have approached distributors seeking three-year contracts.

If the film board secretary carries on any such activities it will be at the expense of the Hays organization. In other words the board as set up would be for the local situation alone.

Most notable among the plans suggested was for the retention of Emma Abplanalp as secretary. Miss Abplanalp has been in charge of the local office for several years and has won a nationwide reputation for her work.

Asserts Quota Pictures Must Help Britons

Government Attitude Is Stated in Commons

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, July 5.—A question from J. R. Remer in the House of Commons today asked assurances that, in new Films Act legislation, the Government's intention was "the development of British film production in Great Britain, rather than the development of American film production in Great Britain."

The reply of Capt. Euan Wallace, Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Trade, was: "The object of the proposed legislation will be to encourage the production in Great Britain of films which conform to certain statutory requirements designed to secure that they are preponderantly of British origin."

In a supplementary question, Remer asked if Capt. Wallace was aware that American companies were "organizing themselves in such a way

Told Off

By RED KANN

The fire that has been burning fiercely in Bob Cochrane's typewriter all of these years flamed into the open yesterday for the first time in quite a time. He was aroused by the publication elsewhere of an overseas story that J. Cheever Cowdin and Gus Schaefer, petitioning for Universal, had agreed with Dr. Goebbels to give "The Road Back" a finish glorifying Hitler and, by that method, presumably, get the picture into Germany. "A complete falsehood from start to finish," Cochrane describes the story and adds to his own repudiation a cable from Cowdin denying the purported interview and dealings with Goebbels.

A romantic twist is being grafted to the picture. Cochrane views the new one as an advance over the old, but the storm and the fury which we cheer to the echo are in the closing line of his indignant statement wherein he states: "Politics and fear had nothing to do with it." That, we insist, is telling them off, in and out of Germany. It reminds us again that the time had been reached long since when someone, cloaked with authority and position in this industry, should

New Operator Pacts Being Talked Here

IATSE Men and Circuit Contacts Meeting

Negotiations have been started between I. A. T. S. E. representatives and major circuit labor contacts on new pacts for operators and stagehands, it was learned yesterday. Many of the current contracts with out-of-town locals expire the end of next month. In situations where pacts lap over, discussions will be postponed until a later date.

Hartford and a number of other key cities are scheduled to be settled next week, it was stated yesterday. Lou Krouse, vice-president of the I. A. T. S. E. with headquarters in Philadelphia, is active in all negotiations where affiliated members are concerned.

New contracts with theatre service employees in numerous cities are also up for discussion. Practically all of the unions are members of the I. A. T. S. E. As is the case with stagehands and operators, agreements for ushers, cashiers, porters and other union help will be taken up individually by cities.

St. Louis will not be among the territories to be discussed at the forthcoming sessions. The contract with

Cochrane Denies "Road Back" Change to "Glorify Hitler"

R. H. Cochrane yesterday unqualifiedly denied the ending of "The Road Back" had been changed to glorify Adolf Hitler and thus assure entry of the film into Germany.

In a wire to Motion Picture Daily, he said:

"A recently published story to the effect that our company changed the ending of 'The Road Back' for the purpose of glorifying Hitler is a complete falsehood from start to finish. Nothing but malice could have created it.

"I am in receipt of a cablegram from J. Cheever Cowdin, chairman of our board of directors, who is now in Europe with our foreign sales manager, Gustave Schaefer, in which he says:

"Neither Schaefer nor I ever met Dr. Goebbels in the first place and in the second place we have never discussed 'The Road Back' with any official in Germany at any time. Both of us hope you will use this denial as emphatically as you can."

"The simple truth is that, after showing the picture to the public, we decided to add several romantic scenes. Those who have seen both versions say the new one is immeasurably better. "Politics and fear had nothing whatever to do with it."

No St. Louis Fight On Theatres: Arthur

ST. LOUIS, July 13.—Fanchon & Marco and its local units, including the St. Louis Amusement Co., have no intention of engaging in a building race with Fred Wehrenberg, head of the local M. P. T. O. and owner of four theatres here. Harry Arthur, vice-president and general manager of F. & M., declared here prior to his return to New York.

"Fanchon & Marco has no intention of destroying or injuring any business or any other exhibitor in St. Louis or elsewhere," Arthur said. He expressed a willingness to confer on any problem which may arise. He called the recent deal with Ansell Brothers a logical move, as was the pooling arrangement with Bessie Schuler and Alex Papand. Referring to the plan of Wehrenberg to build approximately 20 houses, Arthur said, "Fred doesn't have to build one house to protect himself from us." F. & M. has no intention of invading Wehrenberg's territory, he emphasized.

New St. Louis Pool Set

Arrangements for the pooling of four F. & M. units and five St. Louis theatres of Bess Schuler and Alex Papand have been completed and contracts are now in the hands of attorneys, Harry C. Arthur stated yesterday on his return from the Mound City where he completed negotiations.

Included in the pool are F. & M.'s Granada, Maplewood, Kingsland and Shaw. The Schuler-Papand group consists of the Avalon, Roxy, Whiteaway, Columbian and Powhattan.

Pathe Makes a Denial

Pathe News filed a general denial in the U. S. District Court yesterday in answer to the $50,000 suit of Phillips H. Lord, known professionally as Seth Parker.

Lord alleges that Pathe breached a contract in 1933 to furnish men and technical equipment for a film of a proposed world cruise by Parker. Pathe denies that the plaintiff was prepared to furnish the men with passage on his boat and assert that the boat was not licensed for commercial purposes. A dismissal of the complaint with costs is asked.

Monahan Goes to Coast

PITTSBURGH, July 13.—Kaspar Monahan, film editor of the Pittsburgh Press, has left for several weeks in Hollywood where he will do a series of interviews and studio stories. It's Monahan's first trip to the coast in more than 10 years. On his way west, he plans to stop in Denver, his home town.

"Winkie" to Roxy July 23

"Wee Willie Winkie" has been booked into the Roxy, starting July 23. The picture is due for a minimum run of two weeks. "Lost Horizon," which recently completed a 14-week run at the Globe at two-a-day, will shortly play the Music Hall. The opening date has not been set.

General Reports Profit

LONDON, July 13.—General Theatres Corp. today reported profit of £337,041 for the year and declared a final dividend of six per cent, making a total dividend for the year of 15 per cent.

Looking 'Em Over

"Springtime in Vienna"

An extremely light and frothy offering from the studios of Ernst Neubach in Vienna, this Austrian film has little to offer American audiences. The dialogue is in German, the subtitles are sufficient for understanding of the story, and there is some sprightly and tuneful music.

Outside of that, the plot is the ancient one of operetta, so much favored by European producers, of the romantic mixup which results from mistaken identities. Featured is Leo Slezak, fat and amusing, who has sung in the Metropolitan Opera in New York. His role is confined to that of a melodious buffoon, who sings snatches of operatic arias and popular songs.

Featured are Olga Tschechowa, Gusti Huber and Wolf Albach-Retty. I. A. Hubler-Kahla directed and Anton Profes wrote the music. The story is that of the wealthy young widow, who meets a taxi driver, and is attracted to him. Meanwhile, her devoted masculine secretary, in an effort to make her lead a more quiet life, finds a foster-daughter for her, who is actually a dancer out of work. Both mother and adopted daughter fall in love with the young man, while he is in love with the girl. A crash of the romance is prevented by the older woman, who sees to it that the young couple have happiness.

No production code seal. Running time, 82 minutes. "G."

Va. Censor Receipts Go Up to $32,226.30

RICHMOND, July 13.—Receipts for the State Censor Board for the 11 months ending July 1 again showed an increase, the total being $32,226.30, a gain of $1,926.50 over the previous 11-month period. Of this, $16,000 was profit to the state.

Two pictures were rejected during the year—a sex film and a so-called medical film.

The board has been subjected to some criticism lately because of the stoppage of bulletins giving details of dialogue and other cuts.

No Hartford Closings

HARTFORD, July 13.—No summer closings are expected here this season. The Palace, usually closed, is running holdovers from Loew's Poli and with revivals suggested by a newspaper poll. The Cameo is running straight pictures. The State continues with vaudeville three days a week on a summer budget, but may close for two weeks in August to change policy and raise prices.

To Base Film on A. P.

HOLLYWOOD, July 13.—David O. Selznick will start soon on "Freedom of the Press," a film depicting the history of the Associated Press and the part it has played in the development of American journalism.

"The Picture will present a truthful outline of the nature of the Associated Press and its firm development of the principle of unbiased news," Selznick said today.

Wheat Crop Excellent

KANSAS CITY, July 13.—In spite of late season development of grasshoppers and rust, a golden stream of wheat is pouring into Kansas City from the southwest, particularly Kansas and western Missouri, in quantities exceeding any crop since 1931—and the price is $1.20 a bushel, the highest in an even longer period. Grain handling facilities are being taxed to handle the crop.

Three Writs Issued In English Inquiry

LONDON, July 5.—Three writs have been issued as a sequel to the investigation which W. R. Crocker, lawyer, is conducting into British production finance. The question involved in each case is believed to be whether advances from insurance interests were obtained by false pretenses.

Crocker is engaged by a group of Lloyds underwriters, who declined to pay certain re-insurance claims on the grounds that they had been led to advance the money for specific production plans but that in fact it was used wastefully for general expenditure.

Riot Reel on Coast

LOS ANGELES, July 13.—The Paramount newsreel showing the Memorial Day riot at the Republic steel plant in Chicago is being shown at the Trojan here, at the Vogue in Hollywood and the Ritz in South Pasadena. The Washington, Pasadena, and Bard's Adams house are booked starting tomorrow.

The Paramount, the only first run house using Paramount Newsreel, is not showing the riot scenes because these were issued as a supplement on the odd series whereas the Paramount uses the even issues.

Court Names Gershwin

LOS ANGELES, July 13.—Ira Gershwin received letters of special administration yesterday in Superior Court for the estate of his brother, George, before flying east. He estimated the estate at about $200,000.

Gershwin said the funeral services to be held at Temple Emanu-El Thursday would be simple.

The industry here will observe a minute of silence at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in honor of the late composer.

Warners Sign Goodman

HOLLYWOOD, July 13.—Benny Goodman and his orchestra have been signed by Warners for "Hollywood Hotel," which will star Dick Powell.

Plan Wide Activity For Chicago's Board

CHICAGO, July 13.—An elaborate schedule of activities is planned for the Chicago Film Board of Trade, which is expected to be retained, in view of the almost unanimous expression of local distributors that the board be continued.

Included in the activities of the board as outlined are the following: contacts with city and state government, legislation in both the city and state, and contact with city and state censorship groups. The labor contacts of various kinds would be handled through the board as would other problems of this nature.

Requests for donations to various organizations would be handled through the board as would requests for advertising in programs and the like.

Other duties would include regular fire inspection, cooperation with the Fire Prevention Bureau, reports on prints, theatre information, cooperation with Better Films Councils, local public relations work and all types of information which might be of peculiar interest to the members of the board.

If the plan goes through, Chicago will have one of the most valuable film boards in the country. Unhampered by a national organization, it is thought that a great deal of good can be done for distributors locally.

Korda to Produce Shorts

LONDON, July 5.—Alexander Korda will produce a series of shorts at Denham, featuring new players of both sexes who are believed to have star or feature possibilities. They will be shown at 250 Odeon theatres controlled by Oscar Deutsch and patrons will be asked to fill in voting cards.

HOLLYWOOD, July 13.—Paul Kohner for 15 months associate producer at M-G-M, has resigned to join Columbia, starting July 15, where he will produce a minimum of three A features yearly. His first assignment will be the next Francis Lederer vehicle.

Club Aids Charities

OMAHA, July 13.—Children's charity funds sponsored by the two local newspapers have benefited by $50 each as the result of donations made by Omaha's Variety Club.

Original Title Resumed

K. C. Independents In Union Agreement

KANSAS CITY, July 13.—Independent exhibitors, through their labor committee, have reached an agreement here with the I. A. T. S. E. Local 170 following a week of negotiations with Frank Stickling, I. A. representative from Elgin, Ill. Contracts are expected to be signed this week, which will end a four-year period in which owners dealt with the operators' local on a verbal agreement basis. A member of the committee said that terms of the agreement would be announced as soon as contracts are signed.

Acting for the independents were Jay Means, E. Rolsky, president of the I. T. O.; C. A. Schultz of Commonwealth Amusement Corp., and Ed Dubinsky-Durwood, head of the Dubinsky Brothers circuit.

Stickling is negotiating with Fox Midwest here also, and it is considered likely he will begin his talks with other first runs shortly. The local has not had contracts with first runs for three years, the expiration date being Aug. 31. First runs have used members of Local 170 on the terms of the last signed contract.

Ben Hecht to Goldwyn

HOLLYWOOD, July 13.—Samuel Goldwyn has signed Ben Hecht, playwright, to a long term contract. The first scripting assignments will be "Sweet Land of Liberty" and "The Duchess of Broadway."

Capt. Wallace replied: "If that is the case, they will not conform to the statutory requirements and will not rank for quota." He promised to consider any particulars sent him by Remer. No reply was made to a suggestion that the British film industry was being exploited by "certain financial interests."

Summer Shows On the Air

Bernie and Guests

Ben Bernie's program can usually be depended upon for bright moments but last evening's session was even more agreeable than usual, made so by the presence of its two featured guests, Lucy Monroe and Gus Van.

Miss Monroe, who has been heard on the air consistently until a short while ago, proved last night that she is blossoming into a really great voice. Already a Metropolitan Opera fledgling, having appeared there last spring, she gave evidence last night that the day is not far distant when she will become a regular "Met" artist.

Gus Van is a rare singer of comedy songs and the possessor of an inimitable style. His two comedy numbers, delivered in Italian and Irish dialects, provided pleasant listening.

Loew Extends Its Drive for More Theatres

Negotiating at Niagara Falls, Larchmont

Continuing its drive for additional outlets, Loew's has negotiations under way which may give the circuit further theatre representation at Niagara Falls and also in Westchester.

Loew's and Paramount now operate the Bellevue, Niagara Falls, under Buffalo Theatres Corp., in which Vincent McFaul is a prime factor. Charles Heyman, independent operator, has the Strand and Cataract, same city. Under the terms discussed at a meeting recently, the three houses would be pooled with McFaul and Heyman as an operating committee of two. Another session is scheduled next week when arrangements are expected to be completed.

Also being considered is the acquisition by Loew's of the Larchmont, 550-seat theatre operated by Maurice Freed at Larchmont. The major circuit some time ago purchased the Cameo, New Rochelle, a 500-seat house. On Tuesday night, Sam Silver turned over the Dyckman, Washington Heights, to Loew's under the terms of a 15-year lease. The theatre is now closed and will be re-

Brandt Tells ITOA Para. Will Be Fair

Harry Brandt, head of the I.T.O.A., yesterday discussed the Paramount sales policy at a meeting of the membership at the Astor. Allied of New Jersey, in meeting Tuesday at Asbury Park, N. J., also discussed the same distributor's new and old pictures due on contracts.

He told local theatre owners that, as far as Paramount was concerned, exhibitors can expect "a fair deal." He said he and two other members had conferred with an important sales executive of the distributing company and assurance was given that independent exhibitors would be treated fairly on all deals.

The New Jersey group has been talking about picketing the local exchange, but no action was taken at

Two Cities Added as IA Affiliate Unions

San Francisco and Salt Lake City yesterday were added to the list of exchange centers where film and poster employees will be recognized as union affiliates of the I.A.T.S.E.

A request from Salt Lake shippers, cutters, examiners and poster clerks was sent in some time ago and returned to the local territory because of the lack of members identified with major companies. This matter was cleared up yesterday.

Although no new date was set, it is expected that another meeting between distributors and I.A.T.S.E. representatives will be held next week on two or more territories. Contracts on 14 more cities have to be negotiated before the "back rooms" of exchanges in the entire country will be unionized.

U.A. Theatre Expansion in Texas Is Seen

Believed Purpose of New Delaware Company

Behind the incorporation in Wilmington, Del., yesterday of United Artists of Texas, Inc., is seen future expansion of the United Artists Theatre Circuit, Inc., in the Southwest area to follow on the heels of the purchase by the latter company of a 50 per cent interest in the Robb and Rowley circuit.

The general impression current in New York is that the Robb and Rowley acquisition by United Artists Theatre Circuit, Inc., which is 90 per cent controlled by Joseph M. Schenck, chairman of the board of 20th Century-Fox and which has no connection with the United Artists Dist. Corp., constitutes the opening step in an expansion program of which the Southwest will be a part, but merely a part.

For their half interest sale, Harold Robb and Ed Rowley are understood to have been paid in cash on the basis of four times their circuit's 1936 earnings. Following the deal, Robb and Rowley, United, Inc., was formed to handle the chain under its split ownership.

Headquarters of United Artists Theatre Circuit, Inc., the parent company, declared yesterday the exact purpose behind the formation of

Eggs Get 'Em In

Detroit, July 14.—If the hens keep laying, Harold Eastman, owner of the Palace, Mayville, will keep the house running.

His weekly nut is about $95. His weekly take is about $45 in cash. However, Harold trades the farmers' admission tickets for a dozen eggs. Every Tuesday he brings a couple of hundred dozen into Detroit, sells them to the four or five hundred workers in the Film Bldg., pays off his film bills and goes home with a neat little profit.

He has done so well in the venture that he has bought four chicken farms and is going into the business in a big way, but he'll keep the theatre, as it's his hobby.

Union Cites More Liberal Censor Views

A more liberal trend in censorship in this country is noted by the American Civil Liberties Union in its report on the "annual survey of the state of civil rights." The union reports that "censorship of all kinds decreased in the past year," and only "scattered instances" of book, play and film censorship were noted.

The report also cited the fact that no further restrictive legislation was passed and court decisions were on the whole encouraging.

The union assumes credit for the veto by Governor Lehman in New York recently of the proposed one-man censorship for New York City, and the Michigan Supreme Court decision denying the right of the police to censor films on political grounds, referring to the "March of Time" sequence on the Supreme Court issue. It condemned the banning of "Spain in Flames" in two states and a number of cities, and called such a ban "dangerous." The union has brought several suits on the censoring of the film.

Hits Radio Discrimination

With respect to radio censorship, the union cited the alleged discrimination against the Communist Party during the political campaign by local stations when programs were on national hookups.

The union cited the bill pending in Congress, as introduced by Representative Byron Scott, which would extend freedom for radio by setting aside time for public discussion free of station managers' control, with equal time for both sides. The union's program also includes efforts to abolish film censorship in seven states.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Saratoga"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, July 14.—Jean Harlow's last picture and, happily, an exciting comedy entertainment in which she scores one of her best successes. The comedienne's initial appearance on the screen here drew a respectful tribute from the audience. Throughout the course of the film it was noticeable that the patrons were in full sympathy with the efforts of the late star. In company with Clark Gable, with whom she first rose to stardom, and surrounded by Lionel Barrymore, Frank Morgan, Walter Pidgeon, Una Merkel and Cliff Edwards in supporting roles, Miss Harlow's valedictory is distinctly pleasing and, because of the circumstances, the surrounding production can be expected to result in an unusually strong box-office attraction.

In an excellently produced and colorful racetrack atmosphere, the plot tells the story of a slick bookmaker intent upon hooking the wealthy Pidgeon. Miss Harlow, who has striven to rise from the social strata of the racetrack crowd, hopes to climax her climb by marrying Pidgeon. She is also attracted by Gable, albeit wise to his plan to fleece Pidgeon. She tries to prevent Gable from carrying out his plan as the troupe moves from track to track, with Morgan, Barrymore and Miss Merkel conducting separate sideshows of their own. The finale comes at Saratoga when it appears that Gable has been double crossed into losing a large fortune to Pidgeon. However, Barrymore's trained horse wins to save the situation and help effect a romantic conclusion between Miss Harlow and Gable.

The film is rather long in running time but careful blending of action, situations and dialogue keeps the piece moving. Theatrics have been wisely utilized, but are in no sense overdone in Bernie Hyman's production and Jack Conway's direction.

Production Code Seal No. 3,534. Running time, 90 minutes. "G."

"Wine, Women and Horses"

(Warner)

HOLLYWOOD, July 14.—The three factors mentioned in the title have been potent influences in many a man's downfall. They are again in this case even though, as the story works out, the downfall is pretty much of a rebound. Played by a group of Warner stock people intended to engage the attention of average audiences, the film is a secondary attraction in which the intelligentsia will probably evince little interest.

Racetrack gambler Barton MacLane enjoys life in following the horses with his pals, Ann Sheridan and Charles Foy. Sometimes they are up and just as often they are down, but varying fortunes don't bother them very much. Then MacLane meets and marries Peggy Bates, a country girl, who detests gambling. The monotony of a small town job palls on MacLane and soon he is secretly dabbling in track betting and similar diversions. In California, picking up with Miss Sheridan again, MacLane shatters all Miss Bates' illusions about reforming him. Prosperous for a while, he's broke in no time. He'd like to be back with his wife and she would like to have him, but things don't work out and the finale has MacLane with Miss Sheridan again riding the crest of gamblers' happiness.

Based on a novel by W. R. Burnett, Roy Chanslor did the screenplay and the Bryan Foy production was directed by Louis King. Intended to be a comedy-drama, the preview audiences considered it primarily as more of a comedy than probably had been intended.

Production Code Seal No. 3,295. Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

(M-G-M)

Another humorous and slightly screwy item by Pete Smith. This one offers exciting scenes of a circus act going through its paces. Many of the stunts are difficult and dangerous stuff that are effectively photographed from many clever angles and in slow motion. It is first-rate entertainment. Production Code Seal No. 3,455. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"The Battling Bettas"

(Principal)

Here is a distinct novelty. It deals with the love life and reproduction habits of Siamese fighting fish. The photography is in splendid color and the accompanying narrative is tastefully handled dealing with the morivivacious side of the creatures' habits. Production Code Seal No. 1,548. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Wild and Woolly"

(20th Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, July 14.—Against a small western town setting, Jane Withers scampers through a pleasantly plausible story of juvenile impingement on adult affairs. Walter Brennan, highly effective as the grandfather, together with Carl (Alfalfa) Switzer and Jackie Searl score individually as stars while Pauline Moore and Frank Bailey take care of the romantic angle adequately. The production is high grade from a technical angle and elicited an enthusiastic response from the preview audience at the Los Angeles Uptown. This reaction indicates that "Wild and Woolly" should amply satisfy and substantially add to the Withers following.

The story has the child star as the granddaughter of a long reformed bandit running for sheriff of Mesa City against the opposition of the town banker, who makes a secret deal with gamblers operating a crooked concession at the local Pioneers' Day celebration. The early episodes, which feature a runaway locomotive with children aboard, an averted duel between the banker and the candidate for sheriff and finally a young newspaper editor in love with a school teacher, all reach peaceful solutions. Later the gamblers attempt to make the public reenactment of a historical stagecoach, bank robbery genuine and the finale has the aged reformed bandit capturing the crooks and ending the feud.

Little Miss Withers has a good song and dance number midway through the picture. The lines and performance are suitable throughout. Switzer stops the show with a comic singing attempt. The original screenplay by Lynn Root and Frank Fenton as well as Alfred Werker's direction combine to keep humor the essential factor without skidding into slapstick.

Production Code Seal No. 3,441. Running time, 64 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"The Red Rope"

(Republic)

There is a good dramatic story interwoven in this western but its handling is not what it might have been. The necessary action, riding and shooting are present, however, and it is otherwise satisfactory as outdoor entertainment.

Bob Steele is about to be married to Lois January. His wedding day becomes a series of threatening hours during which sniping and various other forms of skullduggery become apparent. They are married, nevertheless, and Steele sets out to uncover the objectors to the match. One trail leads to another and with many action-filled sequences the film draws to its conclusion with Steele maneuvering two outlaw bands so that they battle each other into the arms of a posse.

The cast includes Forrest Taylor, Charles King, Karl Hackett, Bobby Nelson and Lew Meehan. S. Roy Luby directed. It was adapted from an original by Johnston McCulley.

Production Code Seal No. 3,422. Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"They Won't Forget," now current at the Strand, was previewed by wire from the coast on June 10.

"Easy Living," at the Paramount; "Knight Without Armor," at the Radio City Music Hall; "The Emperor's Candlesticks," at the Capital, and "Slave Ship," at the Rivoli, are holdovers.

"Juggernaut," which opened at the Globe yesterday, was reviewed by cable from London on Sept. 21, 1936.

Bamberger to Sell Program to Others

L. Bamberger & Co. is out with a unique idea which is described in a promotional booklet about to be issued. The department store, which sponsors Ed Fitzgerald on WOR, and which for some time past has been inserting a chatty news column under Fitzgerald's byline as a paid ad in metropolitan papers, is now offering both the program and the column to department stores in other cities.

The syndication is offered in the following fashion and terms: No more than one store in any one trading area can buy the column or the program. Both the column and the broadcast over a Mutual station will be so worded that it may be used by all stores. The broadcast will be offered to fewer stores than the column so that if the radio coverage is wider than local newspaper coverage, overlapping of audiences between any two stores will be minimized.

The cost of the column ranges from $12 to $50 per week; for the radio program as a live feature from $18 to $75 per week; and for the program as an electrical transcription from $13 to $50 per week. Radio time and newspaper space is additional.

ington had been unsatisfactory, Gillmore carried the case to the top today, the first time that any of the protestants in the case had an opportunity to talk to Hopkins.

The crux of the controversy is the effort of the actors', musicians' and stage hands' unions to prevent the dismissal of professionals from the New York theatre project in favor of others, who, it is charged, never worked on the stage.

Gillmore had a lengthy conference with Hopkins in the course of which he is said to have acquainted the administrator with the whole situation and was given assurances that the matter would be investigated in an effort to accord justice to all in the project.

Chicago Faces Levy of 3% on House Grosses

City Plan Jars Showmen, Who Map Protests

CHICAGO, July 15.—Faced with the possibility of paying a three per cent amusement license tax on gross receipts, Chicago exhibitor leaders this morning conferred with Roger Kiley, chairman, and other members of the city Finance Committee to discuss the city's plan for raising funds to meet a $3,000,000 deficit.

Other industries also are being contacted on this fund raising plan. City officials announced some months ago that theatre license fees would be at least doubled this year, starting July 1, but the announcement that a three per cent tax would be assessed was like a bombshell to theatre men, who plan to fight such a tax.

A meeting has been scheduled next week by the exhibitors to confer regarding the presentation of a counter proposition.

"This is a serious matter and warrants the attention of every exhibitor in Chicago," said Aaron Saperstein,

Second Fox Theatres Dividend Authorized

Milton C. Weisman, equity receiver of the Fox Theatres Corp., was authorized yesterday by Circuit Judge Martin T. Manton in the U. S. District Court to pay a second dividend of three per cent to creditors of the corporation. The first dividend was a five per cent one.

The trustee in bankruptcy of William Fox objected to a further dividend payment unless a reserve was set up to satisfy claims of several million dollars filed by the trustee. The trustee's claims, which are based upon judgments obtained against Fox for guarantees of corporate leases, have not yet been allowed. Justice Manton ordered a reserve fund set aside for use if the claims are finally upheld.

Radio Advertising Intake In May Totals $11,325,165

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Total radio advertising for May amounted to $11,325,165, a slight increase over April, it was reported today by the National Ass'n of Broadcasters. The increase was due mainly to a 6.7 per cent gain in local advertising, which took the place of the usual seasonal decline.

Total May business for eight national networks was $5,875,531; for regional networks the total was $137,734. National non-network stations grossed $2,962,200, a gain of 2.4 per cent. The local station total was $2,349,700.

National magazine advertising during May totalled $17,763,997. National farm advertising papers grossed $686,534, and newspapers, $52,138,000.

Stations of more than 1,000 watts took $2,261,000. Stations from 250 to 1,000 watts grossed $2,335,500. The 100-watt stations took $715,400.

Compared with April, the New England, Middle Atlantic and North Central areas experienced increases, while the balance of the country reported slight decreases.

Live talent showed the only increase of importance among various types of renditions, rising from 7.6 per cent in

Dr. Kalmus will leave for the coast about Aug. 1.

May Appeal Plan on Fox Detroit Theatre

An appeal may be taken by a group of bondholders from the approval by the U. S. District court in Detroit of the referee's report recommending the reorganization plan for Fox Theatre there, it was learned here yesterday. The group, if it decides to appeal, must do so within a few days. They will contend that the plan is not to the best interests of the bondholders.

Under the terms of the plan the theatre, owned by a bondholder group, will be leased to the Fox Michigan Corp., a wholly-owned subsidiary of National Theatres, for a term of years. A guaranteed annual rental of $125,-

Film Buying Is Sluggish In New York

Preliminary Talks Held By Some Circuits

Film buying by local independents for next season is at a low ebb. Distributors are showing no signs of concern, contending that New York exhibitors are usually the last to buy. Theatre owners declare there is no reason to rush new product deals as current contracts provide for a steady supply of film until the latter part of next month.

Preliminary discussions have been held by some of the larger independent circuits with major companies, but few deals have been closed because of the Loew and RKO delay in completing arrangements for next season's playing time.

Loew last week signed contracts for U. A.'s output next season. The circuit is now finishing talks with Paramount. In both instances, the new pacts supplant 10-year franchises held by Loew's. RKO, Skouras and Randforce have franchises with 20th Century-Fox which have from four to seven years to run. RKO's term deal with Warners has another three years to go. Skouras also has another year to continue under a two-year Columbia compact.

Harry Buxbaum and Joe Lee of the local 20th Century-Fox exchange have completed arrangements with Loew's and RKO for the new season's product. Loew's will play a number of pictures second run after RKO, Skouras and Randforce, the same as heretofore.

European Deals Are Closed by Goodman

New distribution deals for Republic product were closed in Norway, Sweden, Turkey, Holland and Belgium by Morris Goodman, in charge of foreign sales for the company, during his recent three-month trip abroad, he said yesterday. Goodman visited England, the Scandinavian countries, France and Italy.

Business is excellent, he reported, in England and the Scandinavian countries, but not more than fair on the Continent generally. Governmental restrictions in the central European countries present obstacles to prosperous activity for imported product, Goodman declared. Theatre building is continuing in England and especially Sweden, but there is very little in the other countries he visited. The business of British Lion, which distributes Republic product in England, has improved substantially, Goodman said. Notable among the examples of governmental restriction which he cited was that in Czechoslovakia, where an imported film must pass through a series of commissions before it may be released in the country.

M-G-M Year Book Out

M-G-M has just issued its 14th year book in four colors with the pages held together by a wire spiral. It is simple in design with the usual heavy plugging of Leo the lion and a foreword by Nicholas M. Schenck. It is the work of Si Seadler's staff under the supervision of Howard Dietz.

Looking 'Em Over

"Meet the Boy Friend"

(Republic)

A nicely turned semi-musical film that will be entirely approved on a double bill or as a feature in the lesser spots. It is gay stuff, combining all entertainment elements in formula style. The cast names are fairly well known and the performances are adequate.

David Carlyle, a newcomer, is a nationally known crooner. His romantic nature causes Andrew Tombes, his boss, to keep the amorous females from him. He sends Gwili Andrew, a Swedish actress, off to Hollywood and takes out "love insurance." Carol Hughes is a partner in her uncle's insurance firm. To her falls the lot of keeping Carlyle's mind on his broadcasting. She accomplishes this end by having him fall in love with her. Eventually her scheme is uncovered. Warren Hymer saves the situation by having her kidnapped by a pair of phonies. But it turns out to be real when insurance racketeers discover her at Cy Kendall's night club. Carlyle comes to the rescue and the police intervene in time. The pair go on to greater success as "America's Singing Sweethearts."

Pert Kelton is amusing as Tombe's scatter-brained spouse. Smiley Burnette delivers a tuneful sequence with various paraphernalia. The music is pleasant. Ralph Staub directed.

THE KEYSTONE OF YOUR FUTURE

Short Subjects

"I Pledge My Heart"

(U. S. Dept. of Agriculture)

A pictorial record of the pilgrimage to Washington of the delegates to the 11th annual 4-H Club Camp, a little known activity, sponsored and encouraged by the U. S. Dep't of Agriculture. Director Emerson Yorke, in his direction, has done a representative job in catching the spirit of the country's farm youth. In his pictorial treatment of their visit to Washington and its memorials, its public buildings and its notable sights, his handling is interesting and more professional than the rank-and-file film turned out under the auspices of various Government bureaus. Alois Havrilla supplies the running commentary and the U. S. Marine Band the music. Running time, 11 minutes. "G."

"Little Hiawatha"

(Disney-U. A.)

Walt Disney's fathomless whimsicality results in an entirely new approach on the famous Hiawatha. He makes the renowned Indian warrior a tender youth who has his troubles with the raging currents and who, setting out to hunt in the forest, understandingly fails to develop the courage to bump off a pleasant-looking bunny. This earns him the gratitude of the friendly denizens of the woods and they come mightily to his rescue when Little Hiawatha is chased by the old grizzly bear. Up to the Disney standard and thoroughly charming throughout. Running time, 10 minutes. "G."

"Hollywood Screen Test"

(Universal)

By far the best treatment of the subject to be offered. Here, in an informal and lightly technical manner, the inner workings of the quest for new talent are revealed. The scenario is simple and has a sincere ring. Kay Hughes is discovered by a scout and her test, from the initial voice recording to the final screening and contract signing is revealed. It is the stuff which audiences of all kinds will receive with approval and enjoyment. Running time, 20 mins. "G."

Show Stereoscopic Film

PARIS, July 5.—"Euskadi," a documentary film on the French Basque country, is being shown at the Olympia. It is a stereoscopic picture, made with the Louis Lumiere process, which requires the use of colored glasses. It is said to be a distinct improvement over the previous pictures made with the process.

"Thin Ice" Final Title

HOLLYWOOD, July 15.—It's "Thin Ice" again, and probably finally. Twentieth Century-Fox changed the title of the new Sonja Henie film to "Lovely to Look at," and now has reverted to the former title.

Charge Wilcox Title

LONDON, July 15.—The title of the Herbert Wilcox production, "Neapolitan Love Song," which was written by Ray Lewis, Canadian film trade paper editor, has been changed to "London Melody."

Overseas Previews

"The Edge of the World"

(Rock-British)

LONDON, July 8.—At last a British company has offered exhibitors an unusual film. From the box-office point of view, "The Edge of the World" is a problem. Its nearest affinity is "Man of Aran." As an artistic endeavor, also, it deserves to be classed with that picture. Pictorially, it is of a very high order. Dramatically, it is uneven. Whether its theatre career depends on the extent to which the public patrons will accept a realistic picture of man's struggle with nature, which is necessarily a somewhat sombre matter, lightened in this case by magnificent seascapes, in preference to easier, if less truthful, fare.

Staged in the remote Scottish island of Foula, the film pictures the unavailing struggle of the small community of fishers and farmers to hold on to their ancestral home, in face of the competition of trawlers, the failure of crops and the defection of younger members. Individual drama is provided by episodes of a youth who, due to leave for the mainland, is killed in a reckless cliff climb; in the love affair of his sister and the other young islander unjustly blamed for her brother's death. A dash through angry seas with a child dying of diphtheria, and finally saved by an operation in the ship's cabin, the final evacuation of their home by the islanders, and the tragic death, through a frayed rope, of one of the elders are other scenes that remain in the memory.

As notable is the atmosphere of absolute, and often stark, realism in the pictures of everyday life on the bleak Atlantic rock. There is color in the primitive church service, and in the picture of the island "parliament." It is impossible to overpraise the austere beauty of the island or the excellence of the photography by which it is presented. Some of the acting is really fine; notably that of John Laurie as the stern upholder of ancient tradition. Finlay Currie, Niall Macginnis, Grant Sutherland and Belle Chrystall also are convincing in very testing roles.

Many of the virtues of the British "documentary" are to be found in this picture. That is to say, it is pictorial, sincere, and sometimes very moving. The settings are grandly beautiful. Its direction, by Michael Powell, has avoided most of the screen cliches. It is one to be viewed; no one but an exhibitor with an intimate knowledge of his local conditions can say whether it is unsalable in any given theatre. Where it can be shown, it is likely to be more than an average success, but it calls for very special handling.

Running time, 80 minutes. "A."

"... Said O'Reilly to McNab"

(Gainsborough—G.B.)

LONDON, July 8.—Given understanding of all the dialogue, this may well prove one of the most acceptable, in America, of light comedies made in England. Even without that certainty it has so much comedy expressed in action and so much fundamental humor of idea, that it should find a hearty welcome in many quarters.

The weight of the film rests entirely on the shoulders of Will Fyffe, the Scottish comedian, and Will Mahoney, whose Irish-Americanisms need no introduction. Fyffe puts up a brilliant piece of character acting as a close-fisted Scotsman and Mahoney is a fine second as a wise-cracking American crook. How these two get into a business partnership, based on the American's discovery of a marvelous reducing pill, which is really a candy stolen from the small son of the Scotsman, and how after mutual efforts at double-crossing they establish a firm liking cemented by the marriage of the Scotsman's daughter and the American's son, is just one long laugh.

High spots are a golf match which each, a crack player, tries to start with a lost hole, and a New Year's Eve party giving Fyffe a chance to sing and Mahoney an opportunity to put over his famous comedy dance, but the big success of the film is in those little touches of character and incident that just can't be put down on paper. There is excellent support, notably from young Robert Gall, as the black-mailing schoolboy son of the Scotsman. William Beaudine has directed it brilliantly, giving it American pep without sacrificing a bit of Fyffe's authentic Scottish pawkiness. One to see.

Running time, 84 minutes. "G"

ALLAN.

G.B. of America yesterday stated "... Said O'Reilly to McNab" is not slated for distribution in this market.

TOPPER

1937's GREATEST

CRITICS FORGOT THEIR DIGNITY AND ROARED CALIFORNIA PREVIEW ASSURES SENSATIONAL HIT

"'TOPPER' could scarcely be topped as the film entertainment novelty of the year. It is farce comedy of the highest order, smart in production, captivating as diversion. Direction, playing, adaptation of the Thorne Smith fantasy with sure fire audience incitements, all groove the piece for impressive box-office. It has name strength, is certain to get plenty word-of-mouthing and has unusual exploitation possibilities."

Daily Variety

"'TOPPER' will blaze the trail for novelties. That this amazing comedy is box-office is undebatable. It is packed with superior entertainment, thanks to the captivating performance of its cast, headed by Constance Bennett, Roland Young and Cary Grant, and to the smooth direction of Norman Z. McLeod. A brand new amusement package. Practically without precedent. An extremely fine job of comedy construction with every situation a sock. The song by Hoagy Carmichael, called 'Old Man Moon' is due for popularity."

Hollywood Reporter

"Rich entertainment kept a preview audience at the Chinese in stitches."

M. P. Daily

"You can safely bet your money on 'TOPPER'. A sure smash hit. Has all the charm of 'Met Him in Paris' and the utter nonsense of 'My Man Godfrey'. So screamingly funny that the brilliant dialogue was lost in many scenes".

Louella Parsons, Universal Service Syndicate Writer and Radio Headliner

"The smartest, brightest, funfest of many months. A riot of laugh-laden entertainment. It is bound to breeze its way to record grosses in all its showings."

Ivan Spear, Box-Office

"The most enjoyable farce the screen has ever seen."

Harry Neimeyer, St. Louis Post Dispatch

TOPPER

NOVELTY HIT!

"One of the cleverest novelties to arrive on the screen in a long time. Impression on the preview audience was highly favorable."

Edwin Schallert, L. A. Times

It is more than a picture, it is a hilarious miracle."

George Fisher, Hollywood Whispers Broadcast

"The most novel picture made in a long time. Using trick photography to furnish an uproarious comedy, this production is so unorthodox in technique that it will cause a lot of comment and it should be a box-office smash. Smash gag after gag results from effects where, here you see it, now you don't. The picture should do much to re-establish Miss Bennett to her former position as a comedienne. This picture fits into the upper bracket of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Product."

Film Daily

"Daringly different 'TOPPER' another M-G-M hit."

Harold Heffernan, Detroit News

"Delightful and altogether unique farce."

Mayme Ober Peak, Boston Post

"I have never laughed so long and so loud in all my theatre experience."

Sid Grauman, famous theatre operator

HAVE YOU HEARD ABOUT "TOPPER"?

After months of secrecy, M-G-M revealed at a coast preview its amazing comedy "TOPPER"! The reception was sensational. Nothing like it ever before! . . . Why the secrecy? Because M-G-M (often first with new ideas) now brings to the screen things you have never witnessed before in unbelievable tricks of the camera that are screamingly funny. These tricks are used to tell the story (from the best-selling novel by Thorne Smith) of a gay, romantic young couple (Constance Bennett and Cary Grant) who decide to change the dull life of a banker henpecked by his wife, (Roland Young and Billie Burke) and show him it's fun to be alive, fun to flirt and dance and go gay! Eric Hatch who did "My Man Godfrey" was one of the dialogue writers!

This picture is a sure-cure for the blues! It's a worry-destroyer! You'll go out of the theatre feeling like painting the town (if you've got enough strength left after your laughing spree). And while you're chuckling you'll wonder how it was possible for the camera to do those tricks! We don't know (the producers won't tell!) But we do know that this is one of the finest all 'round entertainment we've ever put on our screen and we're positive you'll thank us for telling you!

A reply on the protest is expected at Equity from Hopkins within a day or two, it was indicated.

The unions' endorsement of the Allen-Schwellenbach bill was presented to the Central Trades and Labor Council at a meeting last night. No further action was taken by the union representatives at the Equity meeting, pending the reply from Hopkins.

Expect Radio Unionization In Short Time

Equity Division Will Take in Performers

Following the trend of unionization which is spreading across the country, it appears now only a matter of a short time before virtually all workers in the radio field who are not already unionized, will be represented in working negotiations by a radio division of Actors' Equity Ass'n, some observers believe.

As yet Equity has established no formal division for radio, but under

See American Films Dominant in Austria

By HANS LORANT

VIENNA, July 6.—American production is expected to be virtually without competition in the Austrian market at least during the early part of the 1937-'38 season. Germany, America's only serious competitor in field, will have only about 100 films suitable for export next season, and the majority of them will not be ready until the last half of the season.

British, French and other foreign product has never offered real competition to the United States. Austrian production is at a standstill at present. Only one film is in work now, and only a very few are scheduled in the near future. It is considered unlikely that more than 14 Austrian

Last Consents On Roxy Plan Are Now Filed

Removes Final Obstacle To Reorganization

Final consents to the approved plan of reorganization of the Roxy Theatre were filed with Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey in the U. S. District Court yesterday by Edward Hanlon, attorney for the second mortgage gold note holders' protective committee, although it was feared last week that the reorganization might fail because of lack of consents.

Yesterday's filing of consents removed the last major obstacle to the conclusion of the reorganization. Hanlon's consent came from holders of $1,283,300 in notes, which is $251,300 more than the required two-thirds. A technical objection to the formal confirmation of the plan was raised at the last moment by Alfred Appel of Proskauer, Rose and Paskus, attorneys for Howard S. Cullman, Roxy trustee.

Appel charged that the plan failed to safeguard Cullman from claims which may arise after the Roxy is turned over to 20th Century-Fox and asked that the company assume all unknown obligations. After an extended argument Judge Caffey ordered all sides to confer during the week and arrive at a satisfactory settlement before the next hearing on July 23. Judge Caffey reserved decision on the

J. N. Wasserman, representing the Tipton bondholders' protective committee, opposed the payment on the ground that the agreement had never received the court's approval and that a previous payment of $66,573 constituted adequate payment. MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Confession"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, July 16.—In this smartly produced drama, Kay Francis enacts with severe reserve and telling force a role generically reminiscent of "Madame X." Basil Rathbone performs in a similar key the chief masculine character. The picture is altogether serious in tone and content with a courtroom sequence handled in an adroitly effective manner. The offering is substantially above the star's recent average and appears qualified to give a good account of itself in the best theatres.

The star is cast as a concert singer who is held for the murder of a noted composer who was escorting a young music student from the concert hall. Unwilling to defend herself in a public hearing, she ultimately tells her story to the judge and jury with the press and the public barred. The confession from which the picture takes its title reveals the composer had betrayed her years before and the girl in the case was her grown daughter who does not know her as a mother. She receives a light sentence and the court preserves the secret of her identity.

This somewhat involved and not unfamiliar narrative is unfolded in a showmanly manner with incidental business and plot factors giving it freshness. Joe May's direction is tellingly sympathetic. Ian Hunter and Donald Crisp contribute convincing portrayals.

The subject matter, dialogue and treatment indicate the picture was fashioned primarily for maturer audiences.

Running time, 85 minutes. "A."

"One Mile from Heaven"

(20th Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, July 16.—Sol Wurtzel has produced an interesting, entertaining and somewhat novel film in "One Mile from Heaven," which should be found of general interest by all audiences, although it is an unpretentious picture.

It happily combines an active and amusing yarn of newspaper reporters' competition, with a heart warming story of the intense love of a young Negress for the white child she calls her daughter. For punch action is included a flash of an attempted jail break and a roaring motor chase which ends in a crash. Unusually, there is no romantic interest, but to the credit of the picture, it is not missed, and in fact, probably would detract from the story as it stands.

Said to have been suggested by Judge Ben B. Lindsay, the famed Denver juvenile judge, the screenplay was prepared by Lou Breslow and John Patrick, and Alan Dwan did a smooth and finished job of the direction. Adding immeasurably to the effect of the film is the warm and ingratiating personality of Bill Robinson, whose feet are still as nimble as ever, and whose appearance belies his years. To Fredi Washington, attractive young colored actress, also must go high praise for a splendidly restrained performance.

Claire Trevor is the girl reporter, who, in beating the boys in the press room, including Russell Hopton and Chick Chandler, stumbles upon Joan Clark, attractive child, who calls Miss Washington mother down in the negro quarter. Robinson is the cop on the beat, beloved of all youngsters and in love with Miss Washington. Miss Trevor's story brings juvenile court action, an attempt by gangsters to extort money from wealthy Sally Blane, who is established as the mother of the child she had thought dead years before, and the successful effort of Miss Trevor to outwit the gangsters and her friendly press room rivals.

When the child is restored to Miss Blane, whose first husband had been a gangster without her knowledge, Miss Trevor suppresses the story to save injury to the child, and feels amply repaid for the loss of her job.

Running time, 68 minutes. "G."

Hit "Horizon" Shifting

NEW HAVEN, July 16.—Allied Theatres of Connecticut has addressed a letter to the local Columbia exchange protesting the withdrawal of "Lost Horizon" from the 1936-'37 Columbia schedule. The letter declares there is no question of the company's legal right to the withdrawal, but expresses the disappointment of the theatre organization in the action.

U. A. Wins Reversal Of Verdict for Hart

the verdict was based upon insufficient evidence and that the findings were against the weight of the testimony. Hart asked for $500,000 damages resulting from an alleged breach of contract which involved block booking. He charged that his picture, "Tumbleweeds," which was produced in 1925 at a cost of $300,000 and released through United Artists was expected to gross $800,000, but actually grossed only $346,000. He alleged that the failure to gross more was due to the fact that "Tumbleweeds" was booked with an allegedly inferior picture, "Wild Justice," which cost $15,000 and which grossed $190,000. United Artists defended on the ground that they had given the picture the best possible exploitation and that its alleged failure was due to the decline of Hart as a romantic figure.

Expect Radio Unionization In Short Time

fect men and all other performers with the exception of members of the American Federation of Musicians, have consented to have Equity act as their agent for collective bargaining.

The assents have been obtained in written form on a printed authorization which has been circulated among radio people for some time. In addition, small meetings have been held at Equity headquarters, attended by invited radio performers.

Equity for some years has held a charter from the A. F. of L. giving it jurisdiction over the radio field, and is just now putting it into effect. It is felt that if any attempt is made by the C. I. O. to break into the field, Equity not only will have a sizeable "head start" on the C. I. O., but at the same time will be able to count on the other A. F. of L. affiliated unions in the entertainment industries to support it in any such fight, if one should develop. The possibility of a conflict, however, appears decidedly remote at this time, it was indicated.

The committee in charge of the radio organizing of Equity already has held several conversations with executives of radio stations, although the names of the individuals contacted were not revealed. Likewise withheld has been the subject matter of such conversations, but it is assumed that they pertain to basic working conditions and collective bargaining in the radio field, and are a part of the carefully prepared ground work of the Equity invasion of the industry.

Summer Shows On the Air

Ripley—with Proof

Bob Ripley, the "Believe It or Not" man, returned to the air last night with an exciting new program for General Foods Corp. Ripley's radio and cartoon script pattern is an infallible one. As long as people thrill to the unusual and bizarre; as long as human blood pulsates to tales of adventure, just so long will his radio program and strips remain popular.

For his opener, Ripley dramatized the incredible story of Wenceslao Moguel, a Mexican, who some years ago stood before a firing squad and, with 50 of his fellow-revolutionists, was "executed." The unfortunate, yet, paradoxically, fortunate Moguel, his throat so torn by bullets that he spoke grotesquely, was actually on hand for an interview following the dramatization. Also dramatized was the experience of Vincent Richards, tennis champ, who was so severely injured in an automobile accident some years ago that a doctor predicted that never again would he be able to play.

B. A. Rolfe's music and a quartette back the dramatizations. The series is offered each Friday from 9:00 to 9:30 P. M., E. D. S. T., on the NBC Blue.

WFIL Surveys Early Evening Listeners

PHILADELPHIA, July 16.—A survey of actual listening habits in metropolitan Philadelphia between 5:45 and 6:30 P. M. has been conducted by the Ross Federal Service for WFIL. The survey was made from May 24 to 29, inclusive, Monday through Saturday. The results have just been released by Donald Withycomb, general manager.

A summary of 2,973 telephone calls made in residential districts disclosed that WCAU (CBS) topped with 28.6 per cent of the listeners; WFIL (NBC-Blue, Mutual, WLW Line) accounted for 24.34 per cent; KYW (NBC-Red) had 18.05 per cent; WJZ had 8.72 per cent; WDAS (independent, 100-watts), 6.49 per cent; WIP (Intercity), 4.26; WOR, 2.03; all others, 2.84 per cent, and 2.24 per cent were not counted because of incorrect replies, refused information or failure to know the station they had tuned in.

A detailed breakdown was made for each 15-minute period for each day. From 5:45 to 6 P. M., Bachman Chocolate Mfg. Co. sponsors "Ole King Cole," a kiddies' program; 6 to 6:15 P. M. has the Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp. sponsoring Hal Simonds' sport talks, and from 6:15 to 6:30 P. M., Mrs. Smith's Pie Co. sponsors an electrical transcription series, "The Freshest Thing in Town."

The survey showed that the low-watt WDAS made a better showing than the higher powered, Intercity linked WIP. Bachman Chocolate Mfg. Co. had their Bill Dyer's sport talks over WCAU, from 6:15 to 6:30 P. M. It polled the largest number of listeners, 31.95 per cent.

In releasing the results of this survey, Withycomb also disclosed a consumer survey conducted by Lennen & Mitchell, Inc., to determine the popularity and effectiveness of radio news broadcasts here. Of those interviewed on the street, 80 per cent said they listen to news broadcasts. And 64 per cent selected the Tydol News Reporter on WFIL. Lennen & Mitchell handles the Tidewater Oil Co. account.

Of McCausland

HOLLYWOOD, July 18.—With the arrival of A. H. McCausland, RKO trustee and Irving Trust representative, Leo Spitz, president of RKO, is understood to be discussing final plans leading to the reorganization of the company.

Floyd Odium, William Merrill and Edwin Weisl arrived from the east several days ago by plane and have been conferring with Spitz on legal matters pertaining to reorganization. The group is expected to remain here for another week at least. Spitz is due back in New York the end of the month.

Special Master Algef, who has been conducting hearings in New York on the rehabilitation of the company, has set July 26 as the final date for reply to briefs submitted by various attorneys and creditors. A meeting has been dated for Aug. 5 in the event that

Reade, Cocalis Again

It's off again, on again, Finnegan with Walter Reade and Sam Cocalis.

Latest developments in the differences between the two independent exhibitors indicate that they are as far apart as when the row first started.

Cocalis is still insisting he is entitled to purchase an interest in Reade's Hudson theatre. Reade has definitely committed himself on selling. Meanwhile, Cocalis has a lot at Hudson and is threatening to build, not only there, but also at Long Branch, where he took over the uncompleted Parker.

Reade now says that if Cocalis starts building in either of the two towns, he is prepared to take over an old theatre at Beacon, rehabilitate it and reopen the house in opposition to Cocalis.

It's all becoming very complicated and local film men have sworn off hazarding a guess on the outcome.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S
HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"London by Night"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, July 18.—A realistic nocturnal terror story, adequate casting, murders, kidnapping and extortions strategically spotted maintain plot suspense in this production and remind one, without borrowing from, "The Thin Man." A wholly serious reporter hero solves the mystery with the help of Scotland Yard. Comedy background and a restrained romance are incidental.

George Murphy, Rita Johnson, Virginia Field, Leo G. Carroll, George Zucco, Montagu Love and Eddie Quillan are competent in the principal roles.

The story opens with a mysterious character called Umbrella Man kidnapping a shopkeeper in London, then murdering a pursuing policeman. The reporter following the case is threatened with death. A second kidnapping is followed by the murder of a barmaid, then attempted extortion from the wealthy father of the girl. The reporter loves dogs and dislikes father's secretary. This leads to the discovery that the secretary had impersonated the two supposed kidnap victims to terrorize the extortion target. He holds the romantic lead hostage. In the final stand the reporter kills the murderer and marries the girl.

The screenplay is by George Oppenheimer from a play by Will Scott. It is skillfully contrived. William Thiele's direction makes the most of the material. The picture is not likely to break any house records, but is a satisfying mystery melodrama where marquee names are not essential.

Running time 68 minutes. "G."

Perfection of Antennae Seen Key to Future

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Future developments in broadcasting will lie in the improvement of antennae to discriminate against electric interference and reduce the effects of atmospheric interference; the production of high-fidelity receivers at lower cost; the use of increased power, and extension of the frequency band, it was predicted today by the National Resources Committee in a 388-page report on technological trends in industry, submitted to President Roosevelt.

The "relative imminence" of television, however, is seen by the committee as the most significant trend in the realm of communications, but still to be resolved is the problem of who is to pay for the service. Color television is already a laboratory accomplishment and may become practical before long, while developments have already been started in three-dimensional sight and sound, it was pointed out.

Call Radio, Films Related

"As the intensive growth of broadcasting has coincided with the growth of sound films," the report commented, "it is difficult to evaluate separately its effects. Many of the musical activities which were previously confined to the concert hall have been transferred to the film and radio studios. This has helped to make tremendously popular outstanding members of the musical world. It has raised the taste of the public in musical performers and in so doing adversely affected the small itinerant musical organizations which were known 15 to 20 years ago. In spite of this and the decrease in demand for musical individuals and organizations, since the advent of broadcasting and sound pictures, it is believed that there is an increased interest in the production and enjoyment of music by the amateur musician and music lover."

Air Contests Show Gain, States Todd

Sponsors' increasing activity in contests is indicated in an article in the current Broadcast Merchandising, published of NBC, by Jack Todd of Certified Contest Service.

It is difficult to obtain authoritative radio contest facts because there are so many local contests all over the nation, states Todd. However, he says, one year's figures taken from clippings and information showed $4,661,354 awarded in prizes—cash, $2,833,160; merchandise awards, $1,824,194. The number of entries submitted was 55,000,000. Todd's guess is that about $10,000,000 would be nearer the actual mark, and that the entries exceeded 100,000,000.

The Government charged that first the partnership and later the corporation sold DeMille's services as a director to various producers for larger sums than the salary paid him, and claimed that the full income from such services, rather than the amounts received from the partnership and corporation, should be held as income. If all DeMille's earnings were considered as income, taxes amounting to $1,156,000 would be due the Treasury.

Anna Neagle, lovely Briton, whom New York moviegoers will remember as the star of the British films "Bitter Sweet," "Nell Gwynn," and "Peg of Old Drury," pays us one of her all too infrequent visits in a Herbert Wilcox musical production dubbed "Backstage."

Into her role in this new film, now at the Brooklyn Fox Theatre, Miss Neagle puts the qualities which have characterized her as a sincere, gracious and vivacious actress. That her leading man is our own—"Street Singer," Arthur Tracy, will heighten the film's popularity in this country. What Tracy lacks in histrionic ability, he makes up for with his mellow singing voice.

Not as lavish a musical as we are accustomed to, "Backstage" depends upon a human little story of frustrated love, the star's presence, Tracy's songs, dances by Tilly Losch, and a number of choruses, for entertainment value. One particular ballet number brought as hearty applause from the audience when it was repeated as it did on first sight.

As a chorus girl in a London musical show, Miss Neagle sees a man singing for coffee and doughnuts on the street and takes him to the manager. Given a chance, he clicks. The chorus and the star seem to be headed for happiness together when ambition rears its ugly head. Tracy, as the accepts financial aid from a wealthy and attractive Englishwoman to continue with voice lessons abroad.

He becomes a singing sensation in foreign capitals while the chorus girl plods along in the front row, pining away for him. Ultimately her chance comes to replace a specialty dancer. At this she succeeds, but a wild idea of the manager to have her succeed Tracy as a girl street singer brings her short-lived grief. Tracy comes back to London just in time to step out on the stage and help the frightened young woman out of a very embarrassing situation. And from then on the future looked rosy for these two.

"The Last Train From Madrid," a Spanish Revolution story, and one of the Dick Tracy series, supplement "Backstage" on the Fox program for this week.

MGM Decides To Release 52 In New Season

Total Definite, Rodgers Declares Here

M-G-M will release 52 features for the current season and the same number during 1937-38, according to William F. Rodgers, general sales manager. At the time of the convention, Rodgers announced a minimum of 44 and a maximum of 52 for next season, but after a subsequent visit to the coast he states that the company will deliver the entire 52 promised next year.

All pictures scheduled for this season, including "Captains Courageous," will be released by the end of August, Rodgers added. In next season's group there will be 32 "A" films.

Discussing sales, the M-G-M sales head asserted that the company is 100 per cent ahead of 1936 at this time of the year. All major circuit deals have been closed, he said.

M-G-M is not seeking long term deals Rodgers declared, although they have a number of franchise arrangements, which he said were made at the request of the circuits. A deal with Si Fabian of the Fabian circuit, signed last Thursday, is for one year.

Cooper in New Post As M-G-M Producer

HOLLYWOOD, July 19.—Merian C. Cooper today assumed his new post as a producer for M-G-M, following his resignation Saturday as vice-president of Selznick International. The new post is the result of a deal with Louis B. Mayer and E. J. Mannix of M-G-M.

Cooper gave as the reason for his resignation his desire to return to active production. He is a pioneer in color film production and has acted as liaison executive between the studio

M-G-M Not to Make Any 3 or 4-Reelers

No three or four-reel shorts will be released by M-G-M next season, it was stated at the company's headquarters. When Felix Feist, Jr., was in New York some time ago, he said he was considering producing shorts which would be longer than two reels. However, this plan has failed to materialize. The widespread demand for double features is understood to be directly responsible for dropping the idea.

Television's Next Problem Is Called Economic by FCC

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Convinced that the next corner to be turned in television "is an economic rather than an engineering one," the National Resources Committee has informed President Roosevelt, via a study prepared by the Engineering Dept. of the F.C.C. of the "relative imminence of television."

The report, while conceding that many technical problems remain to be solved, pointed out that visual broadcasting in the past few years had reached such perfection that it was possible to transmit over a local area of 10 to 20 miles radius "fairly good pictures having the clarity and details of the average home moving picture."

The big problem to be overcome, the report stated, was to find a method of television broadcasting at a reasonable cost. The report questioned whether the public would accept a television service based upon a continuance of the present system of commercial sound broadcasting, and questioned also whether the public would be willing to sit in a darkened living room peering into the screen of the television receiver.

The report predicted that with the advent of television, drama would supercede music as the most popular type of presentation, and indicated that the competition of television with the film theatre may lead to "important economic readjustments."

The committee also pointed out that the advent of television would bring on a censorship more drastic than in present radio broadcasting, since fewer broadcasting bands would be available for television.

Selznick Gross Was $208,000 on 4 Films

WASHINGTON, July 19.—David O. Selznick's gross earnings from four pictures made for M-G-M in 1934 were $208,000, the producer told the Board of Tax Appeals here today. The four films were "Dinner at Eight," "Dancing Lady," "Viva Villa" and "Manhattan Melodrama."

Selznick is seeking a redetermination of $9,897 assessed in 1934 income taxes. He placed his net income for the year at $92,165. His wife, Mrs. Irene Selznick, asked a redetermination of an alleged $3,223 deficiency in 1934 income taxes. Both contended that the Internal Revenue Bureau erred in disallowing amounts deducted by them.

Springer Houses May Go to Skouras Soon

Skouras Theatres are expected to assume operation of seven of the late Jack W. Springer houses on upper Broadway on Labor Day. Included in the group are the Symphony, Beacon, Stoddard, 77th Street and Thelia. Contracts for the change in management are still in work. Indications are that RKO may acquire a partnership in the theatres.

Although Century Circuit on Aug. 3 will resume games, Skouras does not plan to reinstate the practice, it was stated yesterday.

Ohio I.T.O. Joins Paramount Protest

COLUMBUS, July 19.—"Paramount Strike Bulletin," in red bold face capital letters, appears at the top of an illustrated card sent to members of the I. T. O. of Ohio in protest against Paramount's selling policy.

The four paragraphs read: "Adolph Zukor will draw over $400,000 salary and bonus this year." "What profit (?) did you make this year by showing Paramount pictures?" "Paramount has taken six 'box-office' pictures away from the 1936-'37 contract holders to sell them over again at higher prices. Four thousand theatres acting as one in this matter can make or break Paramount insofar as profits are concerned."

"Don't be a sucker two years in a row. Don't buy Paramount now," is the exhortation, also in red bold face capital letters, across the bottom of the bulletin.

Outside Deals Not Subject To Sale Levy

Reports of Possible Tax Are Set at Rest

Films obtained from New York City exchanges, but designed for exhibition outside the limits of the city, are not subject to the city sales tax of two per cent, it has been definitely established, setting at rest reports that such films might be subject to the tax.

Herman Goldman, assistant to Louis Goodgold, sales tax chief of the revenue division of New York City, said over the weekend that the matter was officially closed with the recent decision of the Court of Appeals of New York State, and that no subsequent action has been taken.

The distributors, who had originally planned to seek a writ of certiorari, appealing to the U. S. Supreme Court the decision which held that film designed for exhibition within New York City is taxable, have abandoned their plans to appeal from the United Artists case, which was brought against the comptroller of New York. The decision was on appeal from the Appellate Division.

Distributors, who had collected the city sales tax from exhibitors in New York since the tax became effective, and had held the money in escrow, are now paying over all such past

More than $1,000,000 is outstanding in unpaid taxes, Boardman said. Officials have been ordered to proceed with collections, and if payment

THE HOTTER, THE HIGHER

The Hotter the Weather, the Higher the Grosses with Paramount Pictures

PROFITABLE PARADOX: Theatre records of past month and longer reveal astonishing situation: the higher the temperature, the higher went grosses in houses playing Paramount pictures. Explanation lies in fact that Paramount's summer releases were planned long in advance to capture fancy and shekels of populace. First of hot-weather bell-ringers was "I Met Him in Paris," followed by "Mountain Music," with "Easy Living" now current. (See graphs.) Next picture designed to maintain precedent for higher grosses regardless of weather is Paramount's "Exclusive"—sensational new-theme newspaper melodrama released July 30th—with Fred MacMurray, Frances Farmer and Charlie Ruggles in stellar roles. (See photos.)

Colbert Captivates! Audiences went in big way for little lady in "I Met Him in Paris." Receipts averaged 130 per cent in 30 key engagements.

Ray! for Raye and Burns! "Mountain Music" hit Old Man Summer Slump right in solar plexus. Turned in average gross of 150 per cent in 18 key runs.

It's the Life! "Easy Living," funniest comedy of year, smashed New York Paramount house record in hottest weather in decades. First week's gross 165 per cent above average.

Can't Always Tell: Frances Farmer plays reporter in Paramount's "Exclusive"—dynamite newspaper story. Looking at placid photo you couldn't be expected to know that around Miss Farmer revolves some of most startling action ever brought to life on screen.

New Ruggles: Charlie Ruggles, famed comedian, proves in "Exclusive" he's also dramatic actor of no mean ability. It's a rare combination of talents that can make audiences cry as well as laugh.

Revolt in Favor of Decency! What a scene! Thousands of townspeople take matters into their own hands when they march on and destroy gangster-controlled newspaper plant. As thrilling and rousing an episode as ever was written into a script.

Grim! You have to see this sequence live for you on the screen to realize the harm inherent in so-called "yellow journalism." One of the tense moments in a picture that presents one tense climax after another.

Battling Romantics: Things are not always as peaceful as this between Frances and Fred in "Exclusive." The young lady muddles things plenty for MacMurray and everybody else before she's finally brought to her senses.

Future Gone! In one brief, stunning scene, everything Ralph Morgan (as Mitchell, Mayoralty candidate) lives for is kicked out from under him by scandal resurrected by unscrupulous newspaper. "Exclusive" definitely is picture of strong melodramatic contrasts.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Big Shot"

(RKO)

HOLLYWOOD, July 19.—A lightweight comedy gangster picture, "The Big Shot" is intended for those who want merely to be amused. Not very impressive in the matter of cast names, but with several novel twists injected into the theme, the picture's field is, naturally, that of an accompanying attraction on dual programs.

Guy Kibbee, small town dog doctor, is left a fortune by a mysterious uncle. The windfall immediately gives his wife, Cora Witherspoon, social ambitions. Unknown to Kibbee, the uncle has been an ace racketeer, and his surviving mob, headed by Russell Hicks, is intent on continuing his businesses. Suggestions of romance involving Dorothy Moore, their daughter, and Gordon Jones, a reporter, help the comedy.

Kibbee becomes the central figure in a cleanup crusade. The film reaches a hectic climax when Kibbee discovers he is being used by mobsters as a front for their underworld activities. Nevertheless, the gang is broken up and, much to his surprise and Miss Witherspoon's amazement, her husband is acclaimed a hero.

Based on a story by Lawrence Pohle and Thomas Ahearn, with screenplay by Arthur T. Horman and Bert Granot, comedy predominates and Edward Killey's direction concentrates on that quality in handling characterizations, dialogue, action and situations.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"The Devil Is Driving"

(Columbia)

This film is meant to be a scathing indictment of the practice of drunken driving and at the same time be a stern object lesson of the horrible results of careless operation of automobiles.

In a measure "The Devil Is Driving" succeeds in reaching its objective, but somehow misses driving home its point with as much force as it might. It becomes rather too involved in story complications, flaunts too many statistics and has a tendency to become wordy on numerous occasions.

However, at the same time, there is action and punch, the title is wide open to exploitation by the alert showman and the theme itself should offer an opportunity for theatre tieups the value of which should be reflected at the box-office. The cast is headed by Richard Dix, supported by Joan Perry, his fiancée; Elisha Cook, Jr., Henry Kolker, John Wray and Charles Wilson in particular. Harry Lachman directed from a story by Lee Loeb and Harold Buchman, and a screenplay by Jo Millward and Richard Blake.

Dix, aspiring to the post of district attorney, assists his friends in acting as defense attorney for Cook, who has caused the death of a woman, the maiming of a child in driving while drunk. Perjured testimony clears the boy. As district attorney, he is virtually forced into a drive on traffic accidents by his fiancée, Miss Perry, a newspaper reporter. Again Cook causes a death while drunk and, when perjured testimony again ruins the case, Dix obtains an indictment against himself for the previous perjury, and thus causes the boy to confess. He loses his professional standing, but wins a victory for the cause and the love of his fiancée.

Running time, 69 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Gobsek"

(Amkino)

A somewhat unpleasant picture, in theme and atmosphere, is this latest importation from Russia, made from the story of Balzac. It is virtually a character story of Gobsek, money lender of the Paris of 1820, and what entertainment value lies in the film is there almost entirely by reason of the performance of Leonid Leonidov in the title role.

He has made of the usurer a startlingly real figure, combining a basic avarice and love of gold with a certain compassion, only occasionally evident, and an amazing wisdom of the world, its ways and the character of the people in it. On the whole, however, his characterization is not one to excite the sympathy of the audience, but rather the reverse, and in his final moments, on his deathbed, he is made to pursue viciously the sunlight of his meager quarters, thinking it to be gold, and at the last to think only of his gold and its disposition.

Pictured is the manner in which he outwits his fellow money lenders, and the sharpness of his dealings with his "clients." A young neighbor, a lawyer, borrows from him, becomes legally obligated to him, and eventually, when the old man's death makes him executor of the estate, he promises that justice shall be done to those who have suffered through the usury of Bobsek.

The entertainment value of the film is limited.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 72 minutes. "A."

"Fury Over Spain"

(Modern Film Corp.)

This latest compilation of film material emerging from the battlefield of war-torn Spain is straight propaganda for the Loyalist cause in the current disastrous conflict, and must be considered as such in any evaluation. It was produced by and for the Spanish Government propaganda office, and naturally, heralds the fight of the Loyalists to prevent the advance of Franco's insurgents.

The film opens with a brief attempt to indicate the character of the country, records the abdication of King Alphonse and the beginning of the Republic, and leads into the uprising led by General Franco in Spanish Morocco. The picture, aided by the narrative of Louis Frank and Juan Palleja, stresses the inexperience, the lack of military knowledge and the poor equipment of the Government forces, especially in the early stages of the conflict, which, we are told, makes all the more remarkable the stubborn resistance to the insurgent army.

Much attention is paid to the column of Buenaventura Durruti, Loyalist leader who was killed, and his elaborate funeral procession in Barcelona is pictured. The picture is made up for the most part of hasty glimpses, contains no sustained record, and affords a one-sided viewpoint which, however, was its purpose.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 55 minutes. "A."

Short Subjects

"Country Store"

(Universal)

The clever animated antics of the three monkeys, Meany, Miny and Moe, as they conduct business in their shop, is spectacular and funny. They are short of lamb chops so they try to get the meat on the hoof with an old ram coming to the rescue of its offspring. Their store is just about wrecked when the animal is through. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"It May Happen to You"

(M-G-M)

Another dramatic issue of the "Crime Doesn't Pay" series that will hold audience attention by virtue of well-handled suspense and clever building of narrative. It concerns the activities of a gang who hi-jack meat trucks and sell the spoiled meat to retailers, thereby creating an epidemic of ptomaine poisoning. The action is fast moving. Running time, 21 mins. "G."

"Alpine Cabaret"

(Mentone-Universal)

Though this is another in the countless treatments of the mistaken identity theme, it is, nevertheless, diverting musical entertainment. Roscoe Ates stutters his way through the role of a pseudo-mountain climber. There is singing and dancing by Ginger Dulo, Campbell's Beaux and Belles, Fox and Lui, the Paul Florenz Girls and Margaret Fety. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Roamin' Holiday"

(Roach-M-G-M)

The Gang, headed by Spanky and Alfalfa, decide to run away from their irksome home life. They become involved with a kindly storekeeper who humorously sets them back on the homeward road, but not before he scares them with threats of jail. It will delight the kids. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

THIS MAN IS DRIVEN TO *Doubleitis

A FEW hardy souls openly risk "Doubleitis",* those kinks in the back that come from sitting through over-long double bills. For those who want to get away from it all, maybe a double bill is worth the risk. But all surveys and popular votes show that four out of five prefer shows of sane length, want programs with variety entertainment. Let them get back to normal. The Showmanship Shorts that feature these and many other popular stars will help you do it.

International short wave tests for the purposes of determining the effectiveness of directional antennas have been inaugurated by CBS in collaboration with BBC in England.

The tests are being broadcast over W2XE, CBS short wave transmitter, and will continue until sufficient data is provided for determining the feasibility of two or more stations in two or more countries transmitting simultaneously on the same or adjacent frequencies by direction towards different points of the compass.

Test signals being sent out here by CBS and NBC and by BBC in England will be measured in Buenos Aires and in Brussels, Belgium, by the International Broadcasting Union, under whose auspices the tests are being carried out. The final results will form the basis of recommendations to the International Radio Conference, which will meet in Cairo next year.

San Diego Peeved

San Diego, July 19.—Local editors are still writing editorials about Don Wilson's description of the opening of Bing Crosby's Del Mar race-track. Van Cronkhite Takes Over Sales of WHIP

CHICAGO, July 19.—Van Cronkhite Associates, Inc., has closed a deal with WHIP, Indiana, whereby Van Cronkhite takes over all sales and merchandising activities of the station, as well as taking over complete charge of the news. WHIP has a power of 5,000 watts, with a directional antenna on to Chicago.

The deal was concluded by John Van Cronkhite and Dr. G. V. Courier, the latter head of the station. The contract is understood to run for three years, and covers also WWAE, the 100-watt full time station in Hammond, Ind., owned by the same interests, it is reported.

Negotiations now underway call for a remote studio setup in the Stevens Hotel here for the WHIP station.

Commenting on the deal, Van Cronkhite executives insisted their organization had no intention of entering the national sales representative field. They said the deal was merely an exception to VCA's usual activities because the station is "right in our own backyard."

It is understood, however, that VCA's main interest in the station rests with their being able to make the outlet a national radio program laboratory. They will make it possible to test merchandising and program ideas intended for eventual network and higher power station broadcasts.

Transradio Clearing Ideas for Expansion

Foreseeing for autumn a record high in nationwide sponsorship of news programs, Transradio Press is acting as a clearing house for ideas that put showmanship into news.

Among the first Canadian clients to require the enlarged service are: CFCF, Montreal; CRCT, Toronto; CJCR, Winnipeg; CJOR, Vancouver, and CFCN, Calgary. A similar service designed for Hawaiian requirements has been inaugurated to KGU, Honolulu.

PHILADELPHIA, July 19.—An analysis of listening habits in rural communities in eastern Pennsylvania will be made for the first time by R. L. Polk & Co. for WCAU. Covering the adjoining Bucks, Berks, Lehigh and Lancaster counties, all within WCAU's coverage range, 10,000 letters have been mailed to radio set owners seeking information as to the hours of the day they listen, what type of programs they enjoy most and what they deem most helpful to them. The questionnaire does not ask for station preference. It is designed to aid WCAU in scheduling programs especially for the rural listener. Starting the broadcasting day at 6:30 A.M., WCAU is already airing programs for the farm folk and aims to extend them.

It established and operated WMC, the NBC outlet here, and had acquired WNBR a little over a year ago. Scripps-Howard acquisition of The Commercial Appeal found the newspaper chain owning one paper with two stations and one with none.

Summer Shows On the Air

Routine "Blues" Show

Nola Day was launched in a sustaining series over the NBC-Blue Saturday evening. Running 15 minutes, from 8:15 P. M., E.D.S.T., Miss Day evidenced a pleasing enough "blues" style, but her program failed to emerge beyond routine. Her type of show has a name over the air and it's called legion.

"Jack Armstrong" Returns on Sept. 29

"Jack Armstrong," script serial sponsored by General Mills Corp. for Wheaties, will be returned to the NBC Red network beginning Sept. 27. The program has been absent from the air for the summer months.

Outside Deals Not Subject To Sale Levy

and present collections to the comptroller's office regularly.

The manner in which the shipment of film to be shown outside the city is made has nothing to do with the matter, it was pointed out. The film is not taxable even though the exhibitor should come to New York, purchase his film from the exchanges here, and carry it with him.

Thus circuit deals normally closed in New York will not be hampered by the threat of the city sales tax, as had been feared. So long as the film contracts specify that the film is designed for showing outside the city, it is not taxable. The city, for its part, will make no further attempt to have such films made subject to the tax.

M-G-M Begins Shorts Poll

M-G-M has begun a poll in 85 cities to test reactions to its shorts and get suggestions on future product. In the 40 cities where Loew theatres are located the poll is being arranged through newspaper critics by theatre representatives. In the other 44 cities exploitation men are being sent out. In several spots the poll has already been started.

Five principal questions are being asked. They are: (1) What is the best short you ever saw? (2) What series of shorts have you enjoyed most? (3) Would you care to see good dramatic shorts, comparable to the one-act play, or the O. Henry type of short story? If not, why? (4) Can you suggest any new departure in shorts, or any improvement on those now being shown, which would build audience interest in this part of the screen program? (5) Do you ever inquire about what shorts are being shown before attending a theatre? If so, how do you find out?

The poll will continue indefinitely.

KANSAS CITY, July 19.—After being delayed for over a week, Felix Snow, I.A.T.S.E. representative here, is scheduled to leave Wednesday by plane to attend a conference between distributors and the I.A.T.S.E. in New York Thursday. The local Film Exchange Employees Union Saturday voted to send Snow to New York to support their demands for higher wages than the recent New York agreement gave Kansas City exchange workers. The union submitted a counter proposal which not only asks for higher wages than those agreed upon by distributors and I. A. in New York, but also for retroaction to June 1 rather than June 21 as provided by the agreement.

While in New York Snow said he would attempt to contact Loew's, RKO, and National Theatres.

Several large operators of chain stores will probably not pay their assessment on the due date for the tax, Aug. 4. Each of these concerns last week obtained preliminary injunctions in the Dauphin County Court.

Likens Radio To the Teapot Dome Scandal

McFarlane Launches Hot Attack in Congress

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Asserting that the radio situation is comparable to the Teapot Dome scandal of the early "20's," Representative McFarlane of Texas last night charged that less than 300 persons controlling radio stations, newspapers and motion pictures constitute an American "dictatorship."

In the bitterest attack yet launched against the broadcasting industry from

radio on pages 10 and 11.*

the floor of the House, Congressman McFarlane alleged that the broadcasters have flouted investors, the public and the Government, and the industry has sought to discredit President Roosevelt, and that the F.C.C. has committed "imposition and fraud" on Congress.

Kansas and Missouri Grosses Falling Off

KANSAS CITY, July 20.—Although the weather is, business is not so hot for exhibitors in Western Missouri and Kansas. Grosses always drop somewhat during the summer, but both large and small operators indicate that receipts are below those of a year ago for the same period.

While the decrease is estimated to be under 10 per cent, it is considered the important factor now retarding sales for new season product, which is definitely behind a year ago.

The recession is worrying film and theatre men particularly because of the excellent wheat crop, which has been

Blank Groups To Have Over 100 Theatres

Paramount's Partner In General Expansion

Tri-States and Central States will have more than 100 theatres in Iowa and Nebraska at the end of the year, A. H. Blank, head of the two circuits, stated yesterday. Paramount is a partner in both theatre units.

Negotiations are now under way for a number of theatres, he said, one of which is for six houses and which is expected to be closed when Blank returns to Des Moines the latter part of this week or early next.

Ralph Branton and Joe Deitch, Tri-States and Central States executives, will arrive tomorrow to discuss product deals. The circuits have long term franchises with Paramount, M-G-M and 20th Century-Fox.

Theatres in Tri-States and Central States now total 80, according to Blank. This is exclusive of pending deals. Meyer Blank, son of A. H. and also identified with the circuits, is accompanying his father on his current eastern trip.

Ascap's Labor Move To Go Before Board

Proposals for an affiliation of Ascap with the A. F. of L. will be placed before the Ascap board of directors in a week or 10 days, E. C. Mills, chairman of the executive committee, said yesterday following a meeting with Joseph Weber, president of the American Federation of Musicians, one of the A. F. of L. unions with which Ascap may affiliate.

Mills said that the proposal for Ascap members to become members of the A. F. of M. was but one of several which have been discussed. He declined, however, to reveal what

Coast Showmen Call Para. Buying Strike

LOS ANGELES, July 20.—Southern California and Arizona theatre owners and exhibitors representing 112 houses at a mass meeting yesterday, called a buying strike against Paramount for failure to deliver six pictures promised on the 1936-37 work sheet.

After the session, the exhibitors marched en masse to the Paramount exchange, cancelling play dates from now to Sept. 15. Joining the national movement, the exhibitors claimed "Souls at Sea," "High, Wide and Handsome," "Angel," "Artists and Models," "Spawn of the North" and "The Count of Luxembourg."

The meeting here was not called by the I.T.O. but was a voluntary move by exhibitors, it is understood.

MPTOA Talks A New Drive For 10 Points

Kuykendall May Call Special Board Meet

BLOXI, Miss., July 20.—The M. P. T. O. A. may renew its drive to obtain complete approval of the organization's 10-point trade practice program by distributors next fall, it was learned here today.

The move would be in line with the recommendation of the M. P. T. O. A. national convention at Miami last spring and is being urged by numerous regional units of the organization, it was stated. Ed Kuykendall, M. P. T. O. A. president, may call a special meeting of the organization's board of directors, or canvass members of the board by mail, within the next few weeks to obtain their sentiment on a revival of the campaign for trade practice concessions and the methods to be followed if a new drive is approved.

The M. P. T. O. A. is described as being especially desirous of obtaining favorable distributor action on its proposed local conciliation boards, through which it hopes to realize the major portion of its 10-point program. Distribution companies which already have approved the local boards stand ready to cooperate in establishing them as soon as the approvals of

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

BOUCK WHITE wrote a fascinating work and called it "Book of Daniel Drew." Matthew Josephson turned a considerable searchlight into the manner of means by which a number of America's astounding fortunes were founded and called his endeavor "The Robber Barons." Dudley Nichols, John Twist and Joel Sayre went into a combination effort and, with both published works comprising their base line, finally welded together a script for "The Toast of New York." Finally, it came about that, after much travail and hard luck, Radio emerged with its picture of that name. . . .

But trouble has a habit on occasion, at least, of receding when the turn comes. In the case of Radio and this, its current big picture, that turn has come. For "The Toast of New York" is one of the bright and important attractions of the season. It tells the story of Jim Fisk, the Wallingford of his day, and the unscrupulous methods by which he clambered to the top of the Wall Street crowd in the reconstruction period trailing the Civil War. This was a colorful and pungent chapter emphasizing the well-established precept that might is right, or gold makes the world go 'round. Fisk thought so and attempted to place himself above right and wrong by seeking to corral the bullion market in America. The dramatic debacle came for him when President Grant opened the Treasury gates and let loose a golden stream into general circulation which not only checked Fisk's raid, but which also ruined him completely as well. . . .

In broad strokes and against a background laden to the hilt with opportunity for sweep, Director Rowland V. Lee managed a first-rate job. Unlike most previous efforts along biographical lines, the treatment recognized the opportunity for lighter moments threading the heavy and the consequence is "The Toast of New York" is quite rich in humor and chuckles. Edward Arnold, who seems to be getting the fat opportunities embraced in this sort of acting job, is Fisk. A genuine opportunity for swagger and bluff, Arnold seized the chance and makes his interpretation one of his best to date. Frances Farmer is most competent and pleasant as the love interest. Cary Grant is good as the ultimate romantic foil and Jack Oakie is the comic relief. Donald Meek, as the skinflint, holier-than-thou Drew, is extremely effective while Clarence Kolb leaves the impression his Cornelius Vanderbilt nestles comfortably close to the man history talks about. . . .

Radio has been indulging in an inordinate amount of conversation about "The Toast of New York." Performance, unfortunately, does not always match enthusiasm of which all and sundry are thoroughly aware. This time, however and with a sort of mathematical precision, they coincide. In a word, "The Toast of New York" has what it takes for the rank and file and for the discriminating. It's a swell show, as the box-office will begin to demonstrate at the proper time. . . .

F. & M. Forms a New Literary Department

Fanchon & Marco agency has established a new department in its New York office for the handling of literary property for radio and film use.

Three radio serials have already been prepared. All are children's series.

The department was established because of the insistence by agencies that direct rights must be assured on radio scripts before they will look at them.

HOLLYWOOD, July 20.—The advertisement—a single advertisement only—which Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will prepare for Samuel Goldwyn's "Stella Dallas" will appear first in the Saturday Evening Post, issue of Aug. 14. This will be followed by the appearance of the advertisement in other magazines at a total space cost of $50,000 to $75,000. It is said here that Mrs. Roosevelt refused the aid of a ghost writer.

The advertisement is illustrated by a still from the picture showing Barbara Stanwyck and Ann Shirley at the top above a streamer which reads, "Stella Dallas' Inspires a Discussion of a Mother's Vital Problem." This is followed by text with Mrs. Roosevelt's by-line. The First Lady's picture is centered.

"Stella Dallas" will be previewed here July 22. No release date has been set.

Warners Answer Crites

Warners filed an answer in the U. S. District Court yesterday to the suit brought by Virgil C. Crites against them, United Research Corp., Albert A. Radtke, Radtke Patent Corp., Leonard Day and Thomas J. Martin. Crites asserts that he is the owner of the patent covering the recording and reproduction of sound for which Radtke granted a license to Warners. He also charges infringement. Warners claim that they are innocent licensees of the patent and in the event that the court finds that Crites is the owner, they demand the return of $154,101. They also ask that they be declared a licensee from Crites in the event he is successful in his claim.

Seeks Writ on Theatre

The K-P Theatre Corp. will ask Justice Aaron Steuer in N. Y. Supreme Court on Thursday for a temporary injunction against the Warco Trading Co., Inc., owners of the Grand Opera House, 8th Ave. and 23rd St. The plaintiff charges that Warco agreed in September, 1936, to demolish the present Grand Opera House and erect a modern film theatre, which was to be leased to the plaintiff for a long term. It is alleged that the defendant refused to proceed with the contract until the plaintiff loaned them $150,000. K-P will ask that Warco be enjoined from selling the property and that it be compelled to carry out the specific terms of the contract.

Orders Payment on Roxy Work

"Slave Ship" Defeats Heat In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, July 20.—Notwithstanding the hottest week of the year and the fact that it is this city's only downtown first run house without a cooling system, the Fulton ran wild with "Slave Ship," rolling up a remarkable $9,000 to double its average take. The figure was just a bit short of a record for the year.

Of the other first run situations, only the Stanley and the Warner managed to beat the heat and crack par, but even then only by $500 each. Duke Ellington's band bolstered "They Gave Him a Gun" sufficiently to get $19,000 at the Stanley while the wave of critical acclaim for "Make Way for Tomorrow," on a double bill with "Pick a Star" at the Warner, resulted in a surprisingly good $5,450. Total first run business was $46,300. Average is $44,000.

Estimated takings for the week ending July 15:

"NIGHT KEY" (Univ.)

"Slave Ship" High In Oklahoma City

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 20.—"Slave Ship" surmounted the heat wave depression by pulling $5,300, over normal by $300, at the Criterion.

"Riding on Air" and "The Soldier and the Lady" turned in a fair $2,700 at the Liberty.

Total first run business was $11,500. Average is $11,500.

Estimated takings for the week ending July 17:

"SLAVE SHIP" (20th-Fox)

Rivoli Dark for Month

"Dead End" is expected to be the reopening attraction for the Rivoli, which last night closed for a month following a five-week run of "Slave Ship." The fifth-week gross for "Slave Ship" was about $9,000.

The reopening date for the Rivoli is tentatively set for Aug. 24.

Serlin to Produce

HOLLYWOOD, July 20.—Oscar Serlin has resigned from Selznick International to resume stage production in New York. The first will be "Damn Deborah" by Walter Charles Roberts.

◀ Purely Personal ▶

MONROE GREENTHAL, back from a hectic week on the coast, is all agog over the 10 new U. A. releases he saw in various stages. Among the complete films he saw were "Dead End," "Stella Dallas," "The Prisoner of Zenda" and "Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938." Those that were 90 per cent completed included "52nd Street" and "I Met My Love Again." "Hurricane" was two-thirds finished, "Stand-In" 50 per cent completed. "Adventures of Marco Polo" and "Nothing Sacred" had passed the one-third mark and the cameras had finished grinding two weeks on "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer."

HAL HORNE, feeling as spry as ever, avers that WALTER WANGER has completed the current season's lineup of six pictures two months ahead of schedule. WANGER, by the way, will be here soon and will probably sail for Europe for a vacation.

HARRY GUINNESS, editor of the Australasian Movietone News, is in town on a tour of the world, and was guest of honor at a dinner at the 21 Club the other night. TRUMAN TALLEY, producer, was the principal speaker.

LOU BROWN, for several years publicity man for Loew's in Washington and Baltimore, has been moved to the home office publicity department, where he will work on exploitation manuals with ART SCHMIDT.

WILLIAM F. RODGERS says that M-G-M's sales policy for 1937-38 will remain as 44-52 releases, as announced at the convention, but that the current season's lineup of 52 will be delivered in full.

IRWIN ZELTNER and ART SCHMIDT of Loew's publicity department will return Monday from vacations, the former from Orchard Beach, Me., and the latter from Venice, Cal.

PAUL SMALL of the WILLIAM MORRIS office flew to Chicago yesterday via American Airlines.

WILLIAM GALLAGHER, manager of Warners' Parker at Darby, Pa., has returned to his post after a two-week vacation at Portland, Me., and a week-end at Atlantic City.

ARTHUR CALDER-MARSHALL and JACK BEANAS, British writers, arrived yesterday on the Berengaria, en route to the coast on an assignment for M-G-M.

SEYMOUR SIMONS and BUDDY FIELDS, composers, are in town from Detroit with several songs that they claim are nothing short of "colossal."

REGINALD BAKER, managing director of A.B.F.D. in England, will sail for the United States Aug. 4 on the Queen Mary, arriving here Aug. 9.

WILLIAM HOWARD will sail for London today to supervise preparations for "Four Feathers," which will be made by London Films.

JACK ROSENTHAL, president of World Film Enterprises, will sail Saturday on the Westernland for a European business trip.

RENEE HUISMAN, president of Best Film Co., returns next week from a vacation trip to Canada. He sails for Europe Aug. 10.

ARTHUR A. LEE, G.B. vice-president, will arrive in Chicago today for a trade showing of "King Solomon's Mines."

Future Radio Benefits Hang On Control, Says Engineer

By BETRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Benefits to be derived from future radical developments foreseen by the National Resources Committee for the communications industry will depend entirely upon how that industry is controlled, it is predicted by the committee in its report on technological trends made public this week.

"When one adds to aural broadcasting the ability to see and to record permanently what one has seen and heard, there will have been attained a perfection in communications which will certainly have the most profound effect upon our social and economic life," the report declared in the section devoted to radio and wire developments, written by T. A. M. Craven, chief engineer of the F.C.C.

Education to Be Affected

Apart from the results of future developments in communication and in broadcast entertainment, the application of these modern methods of communication "may well effect a complete change in methods of educating not only the child and the adult but also the entire public," it was pointed out.

"Whether or not these new developments will permit more leisure and greater profits will depend entirely upon the control which the public places upon such new developments, particularly as to the organization and methods of making these wonderful facilities available for use by the public at the cheapest cost," Craven asserted.

"It is considered by many that the application of these modern communication facilities will not result in a decrease in employment, but rather in an increase in employment. However, such employment will tend toward those who are qualified scientifically rather than those who are qualified manually. The person of the future may, as a result of proximity with the everyday modern communication developments, become a far better educated thinker than the average person of today."

Calls Radio Uplifter

The development of broadcasting, the report pointed out, is very closely associated with the economic, political and social history of the past 15 years.

"The system, methods of operation, and means of financing operations as they exist in the United States today should be considered as the almost inevitable result of the growth of an instrumentality for directly serving the public in a democracy where initiative and freedom of speech are fundamental," the committee commented.

"Broadcasting has been notable in its service to the public in many ways other than through the presentation of musical programs," it was pointed out. "It makes possible the bringing to the public of play-by-play eyewitness descriptions of important athletic and sporting events. Notable as an illustration of this type of event was the first regularly established coast-to-coast network which was used to broadcast the football game in the Rose Bowl, Pasadena, Cal., on Jan. 1, 1927. Broadcasts of speeches, de-

No Harm Meant

NBC executives were stunned early last evening when Jeff Dickson, American-born English promoter, who is here with Tommy Farr, the British heavyweight champ, alluded slightly to Joe Louis' race in a broadcast. Following the broadcast, Dickson stated that his ad-libbed remark had been unintentional and not designed to be derogatory.

Many complaints were phoned to the studio, including one from Bill Robinson.

bates and discussions of various subjects are an everyday part of our broadcasting activities. It is now a major factor in presenting the case of political parties to the electorate."

Broadcasting today, the committee found, "is an integral part of the everyday life of most people in the United States. It brings to the fire-side finer entertainment than has heretofore been available to the average individual. This entertainment includes comedy, drama, popular music and concert music. The gaining interest in classical musical programs is evidenced by the hearty response to the Sunday evening classical hours. Sports have an important place in the program schedules of most stations, particularly during the baseball and football seasons."

"Place in Life"

Because of its dual facility of entertainment and education, broadcasting has achieved a place peculiarly its own in American life.

"The radio with its increasingly permanent place in the home has a unifying effect within that home and it is thought by many that it may be responsible, to some extent, for counteracting the effect upon American home life which has been produced by the automobile," the report said.

"Broadcasting, with its direct personal appeal, its easy and ingratiating entrance into the home, is in short the most effective and can be the most formidable means of mass communication which man has yet had the privilege of using."

Donahue Gets Ice Contract

Donahue & Coe, Inc., yesterday was reappointed advertising counsel to the Ice Industry of America. It was indicated that the "Homemakers' Exchange," participating program on CBS, will be on the air at least 39 weeks in the 1937-'38 year for the ice industry. No final decision has been made on the musical program which featured Gladys Swarthout on NBC last winter.

licenses which are controlled by the A. T. & T. monopoly and RCA also extend their monopoly in the moulding of public opinion through their connections with motion picture companies and through their domination of some 200 or more large newspapers in America which own broadcasting stations," he asserted.

"Having considerable knowledge of the monopoly which exists in radio broadcasting, the looseness, to be charitable, which prevails in the Communications Commission, and, having worked with our late lamented colleague 'Billy' Connery, I have waited patiently for the Rules Committee to report out the radio investigation resolution presented to the House by 'Billy' Connery last January. It now appears that in addition to the control which the radio monopolists have in the moulding of public opinion among the American people they seemingly are not without influence right here in the Congress of the United States."

Hits CBS and S.E.C.

McFarlane charged that CBS and officials of the N. Y. Stock Exchange, "with the apparent acquiescence of S.E.C., are engaged in an apparent conspiracy to loot the investing public" to the extent of some $50,000,000 or more, "that Governor Lehman of New York, who yesterday asked Senator Wagner to oppose the President's court packing bill, is connected with the bankers for Columbia; that leaders in the broadcasting industry are listed among the tax dodgers cited by the Treasury before the tax avoidance committee; that the Communications Commission has failed to check racketeering and other abuses, and that the RCA consent decrees of several years ago have been ineffective."

"Unless this body accepts the unchallenged statements of the chairman of the Communications Commission and enacts legislation, if such is needed, which will in reality protect the American people from stock-selling rackets and the radio monopoly, then every member of this House, as well as this Administration is equally guilty, if we later find that an unsuspecting public has been defrauded and looted by these stock racketeers through our negligence or through the willingness of some to listen to the soft voice of those who represent these monopolists and racketeers," he told the House.

Acquits Administration

"This monopoly is by no means a reflection upon the present Administration. A Congressional investigation will in no way cast any reflection upon it. Instead, these monopolies were inherited from the Hoover Administration."

"A reopening of the Government's case against the radio monopoly, either on the part of the Attorney General's department or on the part of the Congress, through a proper investigation as well as an inquiry to show how these economic royalists, RCA, NBC, Columbia and Mutual, secured monopolistic control of radio stations—would show a colossal fraud per-

Summer Shows On the Air

"Between Bookends"

Ted Malone's "Between the Bookends" which has been absent from the air the past several months, returned to CBS this week. The broadcast schedule is Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday mornings from 10:30 to 10:45 A.M.

As the title indicates, the program is devoted to literature. This program long ago proved its mettle and merit, and little can be added to the record. Malone does a sincere job of his poetry readings, has an established and proven audience and should add many more admirers as his series progresses.

Special Short Wave Series Set by WCAU

PHILADELPHIA, July 20.—A series of special short wave broadcasts to South American and European countries is being planned for this fall by WCAU over its high frequency W3XAU. With many short wave facilities at its disposal, WCAU also plans to make special events a major part of the program, utilizing W3XAU, a mobile unit, and a co-ordinating W3XHW unit.

WCAU has also been granted F.C.C. permission to construct W3XIR, a high frequency 100-watt station for experimental broadcasts. Construction under the direction of John G. Leitch, WCAU technical supervisor, will begin next month and the station is expected to be ready for operation early in 1938.

NBC Gets Grant Series

NBC artists' service has been awarded the contract to cut the recordings for the forthcoming W. T. Grant Stores transcribed series. In all, 39 recordings will be made. Artists signed to date include Leonard Joy's orchestra, Allen Prescott, Jean Ellington, and Whispering Jack Smith. N. W. Ayer & Son, Inc., is the agency for W. T. Grant & Co. The series will be offered in 20 cities beginning Sept. 6.

Confirm White Deal

Confirming a report printed here some weeks ago, Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborn yesterday announced that Francia White had been signed as vocalist for the "Cavalcade of Music," heard on CBS. Miss White will appear Aug. 4, 11, 18 and 25th.

petrated upon the American people, and I would be surprised if we did not find that this monopoly was created and still exists through bribery practiced in circles supposedly above approach.

"With the control of the moulding of public opinion amply demonstrated to be in the hands of vested wealth, it is my belief that Congress can well be accused of cowardice, if we do not meet the challenge laid down to us."

Coca-Cola and Vicks in New CBS Contracts

The CBS sales department yesterday effected two important new commercial deals involving the Coca-Cola Bottling Co. and the Vick Chemical Co.

Coca-Cola will present a 45-minute musical variety show over the network from 10 to 10:45 P. M., starting some time in September. The program will feature a "name" orchestra and vocalists.

Neither the exact time for the start of the program nor the names of the entertainers are known at the moment, pending the completion of negotiations.

Coca-Cola was a CBS client in 1935-1936. Last year the product was sold via the networks over NBC. The D'Arcy Advertising Agency set the CBS deal.

Tony Wons to Return

Absent from the networks for several years, Tony Wons, whose philosophical readings at one time were a great radio attraction, will return to radio via CBS in a three-time-a-week, 15-minute program starting Oct. 4, for the Vick Chemical Co. He will be heard Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 10:30 to 10:45 A. M. Morse International set the deal.

The time and starting date for the forthcoming Jeanette MacDonald series were closed yesterday by Vicks, which will sponsor the series in addition to the Tony Wons program. Miss MacDonald will begin her program Oct. 3, and Sundays thereafter from 7 to 7:30 P. M. She will be supported by Josef Pasternack's orchestra.

An interesting angle in the broadcast period for the MacDonald series is that it will mark the first time in more than three years that a CBS sponsor will oppose Jack Benny, who is heard Sundays from 7 to 7:30 P. M. via NBC. Morse International yesterday informed MOTION PICTURE DAILY that the time for the MacDonald program was selected only after a poll conducted in six key cities and involving 5,000 set owners had revealed that 47 per cent of those queried had said they would rather listen to Miss MacDonald in answer to the query: "Who would you rather listen to, Jeanette MacDonald, or Jack Benny?"

Pat Stanton to Marry

PHILADELPHIA, July 20.—Pat Stanton, WDAS station manager, will leave July 24 for a combination trip in the form of a vacation, business observation and honeymoon. On that day he will be married to Mary DeMey, with Program Director Harold Davis acting as best man. The wedding date also marks the ninth year for Stanton's "Four Province Irish Hour," oldest participating language show on the WDAS schedule.

Baseball Draws Heavily

The radio audience of the all-star baseball game played in Washington recently was large, being almost as great as that of leading evening network shows, according to a report compiled by the Cooperative Analysis of Broadcasting (the Crosley report).

Marconi Tribute Put On Air in Two Hours

Less than two hours after the news was flashed to NBC that Senator Guglielmo Marconi, father of broadcasting, had died in Rome, the network was on the air with a tribute program involving five nations and seven broadcasting organizations.

The speakers, broadcasting from 2:30 to 3 P. M. included Major Lenox R. Lohr, president of NBC; David Sarnoff, president of RCA; General Harbord of RCA; Luigi Solari, life-long friend and business associate of Marconi, speaking from Rome; A. H. Ginman, president of the Canadian Marconi Co., speaking from Montreal; Antoine Dubois, president of the International Broadcasting Union, from Amsterdam. From London, P. W. Paget, radio operator who sent the famous letter "S" across the Atlantic in 1901, the first radio trans-Atlantic signal to be issued, repeated the signal.

Giulio Marconi, only son of the late Senator, who came to New York last April to continue at NBC his radio studies begun abroad, will leave for Rome immediately. He will, however, return to NBC in four weeks to resume his studies.

bring with them to the meeting figures showing their gross receipts for the past year, as the Finance Committee had asked.

It is understood that the City Council is working on a definite plan for submission to theatres within the next week or so. It is also reported that the theatre owners may suggest that they are willing to pay an increased license fee if they are allowed to resume giveaways in their theatres. However, the latter plan is understood to be only in the formative stage.

harvested, and most of which has been marketed at current high prices; and because of the present condition of the corn crop, which is the best in several years.

However, a year ago there still was money going into the pockets of farmers for not raising crops; the bonus money was circulating, and the election campaign was in full swing, all factors tending to keep money in sight. It probably is too early for the effects of wheat money to be felt, and, of course, corn money still is "eggs in the basket."

Warner Men Shifted

PITTSBURGH, July 20.—George Bronson has resigned as manager of Warners' Enright in East Liberty and his post will be taken over by William Hoch of the Plaza. Bronson will return to New Haven, where his brother-in-law, I. J. Hoffman, heads the Warner zone. Ernest Leiberman moves from the Model to the Plaza and Carl Czolba has been transferred from the billposting department to the Model. Larry Leonardi, office boy in publicity, gets Czolba's old job in billposting.

Short Subjects

"Goofs and Saddles"

(Columbia)

Not the best thing the Three Stooges have done in short comedy by a long way, this, nevertheless, should be good for a few laughs. The Stooges are "scouts" for General "Muster," who are sent out to break down the cattle rustlers in the west. They encounter the leader of the gang, get their signals crossed in a poker game and capture the gang after escape in a covered wagon. A fair comedy, as they go. Running time, 18 mins. "G."

"Stranger Than Fiction No. 39"

(Universal)

Finely executed miniature period rooms in a Chicago museum, a cat with seven toes on its forefeet, a blind newsboy who gets around without a cane or dog, a rock garden with stones from all over the world, a canary "beauty parlor," photographing census records on motion picture film and oysters that grow on trees—no doubt stranger than fiction and quite engrossing. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

"Calling All Doctors"

(Columbia)

There is a handful of real laughs in this Charles Chase comedy, with Charley the complete hypochondriac, and John T. Murray coming close to stealing the best laughs as the slightly touched gentleman who believes himself a doctor, and who "treats" Charley—to a bad half-hour. His friends decide to drive the illness notions out of Charley's head and succeed, but much to his discomfiture. Running time, 18 mins. "G."

"Rocky Mountain Grandeur"

(Fitzpatrick-M-G-M)

Beautifully composed scenes in Technicolor of western mountain scenery and activities on dude ranches. There are particularly fine shots of sunsets at the conclusion. It will be well received. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"Sports of the Season"

(Columbia)

A weak number in the usually active and entertaining "News World of Sports" series, this short merely concerns itself with brief flashes of the most characteristic sporting events of the four seasons. A few fast moments on the ice hockey rink are the highspots. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

"Wayward Pups"

(M-G-M)

The cleverly concocted cartoon antics of the Harman-Ising pups are first rate entertainment. The animation and coloring is fairly ingenious. It packs plenty of excitement and laughs. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"Indian Serenade"

(Columbia)

Average or less is the rating of this "Scrappy" cartoon in Technicolor, as Scrappy, young Indian, meets the Indian maiden making pottery, goes

Looking 'Em Over

"Dodge City Trail"

(Columbia)

This film shapes up as routine western material, suitable for the second half of a dual program, especially on the weekend bill when the youngsters are looking for action.

Charles Starrett makes a satisfactorily virile western hero and the film keeps moving at an active pace. However, it suffers slight impediments in the action on occasion to permit the introduction of song. Fortunately the singing, especially that of the group of cowboys, is better than is usual in this type of film.

Starrett leads the roundup of cattle from the ranch to Dodge City, and en route saves the heroine from stage robbers who had kidnaped her. He finds her father for her, discovers him to be the brains behind the gang, under an assumed name, and to save the girl, exacts a promise that he quit the gang. Completing his cattle delivery, Starrett and his men mix it with the gang, until, via considerable hard riding, fast chases and gun fighting, he succeeds in routing the gang, as the father dies without the girl knowing of his past, and with Starrett to look after her.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

romantic and rushes to the rescue of his pup when the dog becomes entangled with a snake. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"The Sport of Fencing"

(Pictorial Film Library)

The centuries-old art of expertly handling swords is effectively treated in this short, which features top-rating Olympic figures. There is an attempt to inject comedy with costumed characters but the result is silly. The camera work by Irving Browning is fine. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Have Courage"

(M-G-M)

The old stuff about the worm turning is given a fresh treatment in this brief comedy. It borrows from the technique of "Strange Interlude" to put over the more subtle character delineation. However, it is amusing and should be satisfying. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Pirate Ports of the Caribbean"

(Columbia)

A travel subject in color of the various ports of the Caribbean Sea, notable in pirate lore, this subject rates as only fair material of its type. The color appears a bit harsh at times. The subject on the whole lacks either indicative pictures of the inhabitants and their lives or unusual scenic material. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

"The Playful Pup"

(Universal)

A genuine amount of mirth-provoking animation is offered in this Oswald, the Rabbit, cartoon. The antics of Oswald's dachshund when he gets involved with a pair of boots will bring howls. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"I Want to Be an Actress"

(Columbia)

One of the "Scrappy" cartoons, but not one of the best in that series. Scrappy is playing at being a film producer and his girl friend tries to place herself as a star with the inevitable and, by now, wearisome imitations of Garbo and Hepburn. It will do, but not too well. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"Going Places No. 38"

(Universal)

"The Cloth of Kings" is the title of this number. It concerns the processes in the manufacture of Irish linen. The material is handsomely photographed and the subject quite thoroughly covered. The musical background of native airs is particularly pleasant. It is a pictorial treat. Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"The Stork Takes a Holiday"

(Columbia)

An agitator leads the baby deliverers to Storkland on strike, until pelicans serve as strikebreakers and the strikers rebel against their leader and return to work. It has an entertaining moment or two, but, in general, is only fair cartoon material. It is in Technicolor. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

Seek Provision for Scottish Interests

LONDON, July 12.—The demand that special provision should be made in the new Films Act for the conditions of the Scottish theatre field, in which British films are definitely unpopular, was made at the meeting of the Edinburgh Section of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n.

It was asserted by L. Dickson of Boness that British films which did well in England were "poison" in Scotland, and T. A. K. Lunn said a special viewing committee was necessary for Scotland. Fears were also expressed that a cost clause would mean the loss of cheaper American films, including westerns, which were described as "the bread and butter of many theatres."

Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, July 20.—Tent No. 1's new members are JIM THORPE, 20th Century-Fox; JACK HOLLISTER, sportscaster for KDKA; JOE HILLER, agent, and JIM ALEXANDER, S. A. FEINBERG and GEORGE COLLINS, all of Republic Pictures.

Committee chairmen for the annual golf tournament at the Westmoreland Country Club Aug. 20 include JOHN H. HARRIS, trophies; MIKE GALLAGHER, refreshments; JOHN MALONEY, contests; DR. L. G. BEINHAEUER, applications and treasurer, and ART LEVY, general chairman.

A Saturday night boat ride is being considered to take the place of the annual picnic this year.

JULES GREEN's birthday was celebrated at HARRY WOODMAN's Monday night dinner.

New Subtitle Plan
Used in Argentina

WASHINGTON, July 20.—An American film distributor will soon offer its pictures in Buenos Aires with a new form of subtitle presentation, according to a report to the U. S. Dep't. of Commerce from Assistant Trade Commissioner Joe D. Walstrom, in the Argentine capital.

The Spanish subtitles are now superimposed on the lower part of each picture, sometimes partially obscuring the view and diverting the attention from the action. Under the new system the words will appear on the screen just below the picture. It is claimed that this method is particularly advantageous to color films, in addition to which the subtitle is uniform, concise, and always in the same place. The new development requires a slight attachment on the projector, but no additional film footage is necessary.

Objections to RKOPlan Hit Vital Phases

Conversion, Rockefeller Pact Are Criticized

Objections to the proposed plan of reorganization for RKO still center about the settlement of the Rockefeller Center claim, conversion privileges for stockholders of the proposed new debentures and preferred stock and the lack of a physical appraisal of assets, according to briefs filed by all sides with Special Master George W. Alger. Alger must report to Federal Judge William Bondy whether or not the plan is "fair, feasible and equitable."

It is conceded by all sides that the plan is feasible, but its fairness is being attacked. The independent committee for protection of common stockholders represented by George L. Schein and Joseph M. Cohen appealed to the special master not to "rubber stamp a plan proposed by the Atlas Corp. and to suggest amendments which would improve its fairness to stockholders."

Personal property transfers and the sale of prints produced in New York to a distributor here have been declared subject to the two per cent city sales tax and may place a heavy tax burden on 20th Century-Fox and Warners, it was learned from city tax department officials yesterday.

The city comptroller's office is preparing to assess 20th Century and Fox Film Corp. on the transfer of their assets to 20th Century-Fox three years ago, it was said. In addition, assessments are now being

Loew Seeking Four More Houses, Two Sites in the New York Area

Negotiations are under way by Loew's for four theatres in the local area, it was learned yesterday from authoritative sources within the circuit. In addition, two sites are being considered for the construction of new houses.

None of the deals is expected to be consummated for several weeks, it was stated.

The de luxe unit which is being built at Boston Post Road and Fenton Ave., Bronx, will be called Loew's Post Road and will be ready for opening about Labor Day.

In three or four weeks, the circuit will close the Capitol for one week for alterations costing approximately $200,000. Of this amount, about $50,000 will be spent for new seats. A new front also will be installed.

'High, Wide and Handsome' Has that Kind of Premiere

"High, Wide and Handsome," Paramount's reputed $1,900,000 production, had as unique a premiere last night as any which Broadway has seen since Annie Oakley came of age. There were no "deadheads" in the capacity audience at the picture's opening at the Astor last night except for the working press, which prefers traditionally to be different in this respect.

The paying guests were not limited to the film first-nighters and the interested movie-makers and sellers who inevitably catch an important picture's

Playwrights, Managers To Keep Contracts

The withdrawal of film money from Broadway play production has not been felt and no important changes in the present playwrights' and managers' agreement governing the sale of the film rights to plays will be made for the new season, officials of the Dramatists' Guild told Motion Picture Daily yesterday.

For every film company which discontinued play backing last season there was a new source of money at hand, it was stated. While there were slightly fewer plays produced on Broadway last season than during the preceding one, the Dramatists' Guild spokesmen attributed this not to a lack of financing but to a shortage of plays. It was pointed out that such first line playwrights as Marc Connelley and Sidney Howard contributed nothing to the Broadway scene last season, and that other established playwrights are not producing enough.

Younger playwrights are making their appearance, however, and for any promising vehicle there is plenty

Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

HOLLYWOOD'S enthusiasm over the colorful in the historical and semi-historical pages of American industry gave Paramount a hefty canvass on which to draw for "High, Wide and Handsome." Those three pretty good adjectives do no walking out on their definitions insofar as production background is concerned in the lavish film which opened at the Astor Theatre last night. Yet, while there is plenty to look at on the screen for an hour and fifty-five minutes, the dramatic content never succeeds in matching up the pictorial display of wells spouting black gold, medicine shows burning to the ground, men milling around in battle and horse and buggies riding for the expected finish. . . .

The year is 1859 and the locale Western Pennsylvania. Randolph Scott, your typical Hollywood-like hero, is a farmer more imbued with a burning ambition to bring rock oil out of Mother Earth on behalf of the poor man and, incidentally, his own personal fortunes; Charles Bickford is the scowling villain and Alan Hale, the riding roughshod railroad magnate who seeks to ruin the farmers-turned-oil-drillers by jacking up freight rates when he cannot steal their gushers. Into the situation and in its early phases comes Irene Dunne, medicine show girl with whom Scott promptly falls in love. . . .

The story has them marry. It also has Scott working himself slightly screwy in his valiant, but finally successful, efforts to defeat the railroad crowd by laying the first pipe line from oil well to refinery in the farthest west corner of the state. Between that premise and its eventual accomplishment, however, runs a lot of footage, designed chiefly in its dramatic intent to make the final goal sufficiently difficult of attainment. Hale turns to Bickford as his hired saboteur and there is much ado over the wrecking of the struggling pipe line, not once but a number of times. It is to be understood, as in the case of all well-ordered melodrama, that hero conquers menace and continues to keep his woman. . . .

Somewhere about midships, Miss Dunne gets tired of Scott's greater fidelity to his oil enterprise. Eventually, the straw and the camel's back part and Irene returns to her first love, the traveling show. However, when secondary woman Dorothy Lamour who, without explanation, suddenly appears as Hale's girl friend and in the know, advises Miss Dunne of the final danger awaiting Scott, the rush to the rescue follows. She instills in her husband the revitalized ambition to continue throwing the pipe line over the top of a seemingly impassable cliff and thus into the refinery before contract time expires. She goes further and brings, quickly and somewhat astonishingly, her sideshow friends, plus their elephants, to finally rout Bickford and his slugers as cow whips lash and wrenches clonk merrily on resisting heads. . . .

Paramount has spent a fortune on this endeavor. It is regrettable in the extreme that story power does not compare with visual power, but it is the fact to report that it does not by a sizable margin. The continuity of the attraction which went on display last night is far from smooth, but whether this is traceable to construction or editing this reviewer politely insists upon dodging, if you don't mind. There is also a frequent and almost complete stoppage of narrative development for song and dance interludes which of necessity do not help the story on its way. . . .

In the earlier sequences, Rouben Mamoulian's direction permits Miss Dunne to become cute and arch with the usual results. Her performance, in toto, is tinged with artificiality as Scott's is with perfunctory leading man manoeuvres. In other words, Miss Dunne is very much the heroine with all of its delicate implications; Scott is manly with a vengeance; Bickford is villain with a roar and Hale, a laughing, sinister-type capitalist. Oscar Hammerstein II has been closely identified with Hollywood as a lyricist. This time he not only did lyrics, but the original story and screenplay to boot. And that prompts an all friendly suggestion that he might be luckier by sticking to his tradesman's last. The music by Jerome Kern is pleasant without distinction. Another disappointment about "High, Wide and Handsome" is the inordinate number of studio clichés in which Mamoulian indulged. Everything happens according to accepted formula with little variance. Yet in the sequence, overplayed incidentally, wherein the pipe line takes form, it should be told that the attraction approximates its most genuine vacationing visitors from the hinterlands, these company officials planked down their $2.20 for their seats to make Broadway premiere history and, possibly, to establish a precedent for picture openings.

The usual army of curious, summoned by the floodlights and the presence of a battalion or two of blue-coats on hand to keep them moving, effectively thronged the entrance to the lobby, adding a few additional gray hairs to Al Wilkie's handsome mane and a furrow or two to the brows of Robert Gillham and Lou Smith. The crowd's determination was not in vain, however. They saw, among those whose summer ermines and starched shirt fronts contributed to the glare of the Kliegs, Frances Farmer, Martha Raye, Randolph Scott, Olympe Bradna, Kitty Carlisle, Nicholas M. Schenck, C. C. Moskowitz, George J. Schaefer, Ned E. Depinet, Andy Smith, Gradwell Sears, John E. Otterson, Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Reid, Al Jolson, Hope Hampton, Jules Brulatour, David Stern, Henry Sulzberger and Roy Howard.

"Living," Miss Raye
$56,000 Para. Draw

"Easy Living" and Martha Raye on the stage tallied approximately $56,000 for the second week at the Paramount. "Exclusive" and a new stage show opened yesterday.

"Super Sleuth" and a stage show at the Roxy are expected to wind up with $28,000 for the week ending tonight.

With the opening of "Wee Willie Winkie" tomorrow, the weekend admission prices will prevail during week days as well. The scale will be 25 cents from opening to 1 P. M.; 55 cents from 1 P. M. to 6 P. M.; 75 cents from 6 P. M. to closing. Children will be admitted at all times for 15 cents. Saturday midnight shows will be 50 cents instead of 40 cents.

"Dead End" will definitely be the reopening attraction for the Rivoli. George Skouras yesterday decided to resume operation on Aug. 17, after having tentatively set the date for Aug. 24. On Aug. 19, "Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938" will open at the Music Hall for a minimum two-week run.

The Globe on Saturday will begin showing "Armored Car," the picture being booked in by Harry Brandt because of Paramount's delay in taking the house over for two-a-day showings of "Souls at Sea," now scheduled to make its debut on Aug. 4.

Would Close Houses In Argentina at 12

By N. BRUSKI

BUENOS AIRES, July 10.—President Augustin P. Justo of Argentina has addressed a letter to the Mayor of this city, suggesting that he issue an edict requiring all film houses to close at 12 midnight. Performances usually run to 1:30 A. M. The President suggests that it would be beneficial generally to the public if the earlier closing were effected.

Since the Mayor cannot issue such an edict without the consent of the City Council, he has advised all theatre owners that the legal closing time, 12:30 A. M., will be rigidly enforced.

New regulations have been made effective here regulating the attendance of children at film theatres. Children under 12 are prohibited from attending any night shows, but it is considered unlikely that strict enforcement can be obtained, since it would require a large increase in the staff of the Dep't of Maternity and Health, under whose jurisdiction the regulations fall.

Three previous suits involving copyright infringements were settled between the same parties several weeks ago.

Films Group Formed In House of Commons

LONDON, July 13.—The formation of a films committee in the House of Commons, stated to included already nearly 100 members of Parliament, has been announced by Sir William Wayland.

This group will act in unison in regard to the Government's new Films Act proposals, which are expected to be introduced before the end of the present year.

It is expected to represent the views of the British Films Advancement Council, recently formed by Lord Strabolgi and other public men, but as a preliminary measure will seek to ascertain the opinions of various trade sections, and try to reconcile all the interests associated with British production.

The British Films Advancement Council, in a letter to the Times recently, advocated a scheme of reciprocity with America, based on the import of U. S. films into England.

Odeon Theatres Are Holding Up Booking

LONDON, July 13.—Preparing for the policy of immediate release throughout the Odeon circuit after first display of a feature at the Odeon-Alhambra in Leicester Square, Odeon Theatres, Ltd., are at the present moment holding up on bookings.

Distributors are left guessing, as their ordinary business at this time is for December and January, 1938, dates, and they have to leave the Odeon theatres out of their calculations, and are uncertain whether it will be possible to pick up Odeon dates later.

The Odeon plan, as announced, is for a West End presentation of a United Artists special to be followed immediately, instead of six months later, by release to the more important Odeon theatres in all parts of the country. The Odeon-Alhambra will open in the fall.

LONDON, July 21.—Herbert Wilcox left today on the Ile de France for New York, where he will arrive next Tuesday. Anna Neagle, star of "Victoria the Great," did not accompany him, but Eric Fredman, sales manager of Herbert Wilcox Prod., and Charles de Grandcourt, joint author of the story, sailed with the producer.

The New York run of the film, which will be released by RKO, has been delayed until September, it is understood. Wilcox will deliver the negative to RKO on his arrival, and is expected to remain in the United States for two weeks conferring on joint British production.

Close Coronation Deal

Harry Buxbaum and Joe Lee have closed with RKO and Skouras for the showing of the Coronation three-reel film in Technicolor in the Greater New York circuits.

May Draft Omaha Tax

OMAHA, July 21.—The city council is drafting a new building code ordinance which would contain a clause taxing theatre marquees and hanging signs.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Firefly"

(M-G-M)

HOLLYWOOD, July 21.—"The Firefly" is an elaborately produced picturization of Otto A. Harbach's operetta with enough entertainment essentials to please all types of audiences.

It was tested before the press and public at the Chinese. Reactions were satisfactory, but it was apparent the film would be returned for further editing to cut the running time and eliminate prolonged sequences. It ranks with M-G-M's best musicals and gives evidence of intensive effort.

The wider scope of the screen has permitted physical elaboration of the original. This has added to its appeal and at the same time has retained the dramatic motivation. Jeanette MacDonald is an undercover Spanish agent seeking to forestall Napoleon's capture of the Spanish King. She is trying to put aside her love for Allan Jones. At the moment of apparent triumph she learns Jones is a French intelligence officer.

The Napoleonic invasion is beaten back by the allied English and Spanish armies. Miss MacDonald again appears as an agent to trick the French into weakening their lines and bring about a Spanish victory.

Woven into the dramatic action are solos, duets and chorus numbers presenting all the famous "Firefly" melodies, with additional songs by Gus Kahn and special numbers by Bob Wright and Chet Forrest. Miss MacDonald is also seen in two dance specialties.

The production combines story worth, camera technique making for pastoral beauty and martial thrills. Miss MacDonald and Jones practically carry the production and adequate support is contributed by Warren William, Douglas Dumbrille, Billy Gilbert, Henry Daniell, Belle Mitchell and Manuel Maciste, with Robert Spindola, a juvenile, outstanding.

It was produced by Hunt Stromberg and directed by Robert Z. Leonard.

At present the film contains an over-abundance of material, but, as all the values required are included, it can be expected the picture will be subjected to further editing in order to speed up the slow spots. When this has been done exhibitors will have an attraction worthy of their best showmanship efforts.

Running time, 140 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Girls Can Play"

(Columbia)

A minor effort, this picture will serve as the lesser half of dual programs, where it should be moderately satisfying. It lacks cast names of any strength; its story, which is largely concerned with murder and the activities of a former gangster, is not always plausible, but it has a degree of action, and a novelty in the story revolves about the playing of a girls' soft ball team.

Charles Quigley is the young newspaper reporter who is given a freak assignment and meets Jacqueline Wells, in search of a job. She is an ex-girl athlete, who finally lands a job as the pitcher of a girls' ball team which is run by a drug store owner as an ad for his store. Quigley gets wind of trouble in the background of the store owner, and discovers he was formerly a gangster.

With the help of a detective he keeps on the trail, and when the former partner of the store owner is found dead, he suspects murder. Eventually, as the reporter and the detective close down, the gangster's girl also is killed, through a poisoned needle concealed in the catcher's glove she wears. As he tries to make his getaway, Miss Wells is forced to become his shield, but a ruse brings about his capture, Quigley's capture of Miss Wells, and his advancement on the paper.

Lambert Hillyer was responsible for both screenplay and direction.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"The Toast of New York," opening this morning at the Radio City Music Hall, was previewed by wire from the coast on July 10.

"Wee Willie Winkie," reviewed from Hollywood by wire on June 24, will be previewed at the Roxy tonight.

"Saratoga," Friday morning's opener at the Capitol, was reviewed from Hollywood on July 15.

"Exclusive," which was previewed from Hollywood on July 7 by wire, is now being shown at the Paramount.

Short Subject

"Adventures in Science No. 4"

(General Electric)

This pictorial and verbal explanation of the photo-electric cell, its operation and the varied and useful purposes to which it is put, makes for an interesting and enlightening subject. Of course designed as a commercial subject for General Electric, that phase is so well played down that the audience is hardly aware of it. Doors opening automatically, as the shadow of an approaching person crosses the light beam, are but one of the almost miraculous results of this remarkable bit of science.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

Objections to RKO Plan Hit Vital Phases

Atlas, argued that the special master should not interfere with the plan which is satisfactory to security holders if it is fair. He pointed out that 78 per cent of secured claims, 82 per cent of unsecured claims, 54 per cent of the common stock and Rockefeller Center have filed consents to the plan. "The fact that an overwhelming majority of creditors and stockholders have accepted the plan should carry substantial weight in its favor," said Rickaby.

Cohen charged that Atlas came into the picture solely for reorganization purposes and that RCA and Lehman Bros. had agreed to cooperate in the reorganization proceedings after Atlas purchased one half of the RCA holdings in 1935 for $5,000,000, RCA holding 1,211,462 shares of common and $9,786,655 of debentures.

Assets Appraisal Asked

An option to purchase the remaining half before 1938 for $6,000,000 was also granted. Cohen also alleged that the debenture holders' committee represented by Chadbourne, Hunt, Jaekel and Brown and the stockholders' protective committee represented by Sullivan & Cromwell were financed by RCA. Cohen asked for a physical appraisal of the assets because of the conflict between the Atlas estimate of $810,123 equity for stockholders and the stockholders' estimate of $8,721,881. He also argued that conversion rights to common which were granted to debentures and preferred stock could not be properly valued without an assets appraisal.

The plan is based upon earnings rather than asset value, but no formula for a ratio based upon earnings has been proposed, according to Cohen. On an earning basis Cohen said the common stock is worth a minimum of $23.20 per share and a maximum of $38.28 depending upon the formula used. The settlement of the Rockefeller Center claim was characterized by stockholders as "unconscionable" because a $9,500,000 claim was being compromised for 25 per cent of the entire stock which is alleged to be worth a minimum of $11,600,000 and a maximum of $19,140,000.

Suggests Interest Reduction

Cohen insisted that earnings from the Music Hall and Center Theatre would be negligible. He pointed out that if the proposed arrangement were in effect for three years ending Sept., 1936, the net profits realized by RKO would have been only $1,349. The independent committee recommended that new debentures receive four and a half per cent instead of five and a half per cent as interest with conversion privileges eliminated. Past due interest on secured debts should be paid in cash instead of stock, with RCA and Atlas Corp. and its associates treated as unsecured creditors. The stockholders recommended that the preferred stock receive five per cent instead of six per cent with an elimination of conversion privileges and the grant of common stock. Stockholders should receive share for share for their present holdings instead of one-

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Hideaway"

(RKO)

HOLLYWOOD, July 21.—Bucolic comedy, pepped up with bits of lively action and padded out with a trace of romantic love interest is the essence of this feature. Average entertainment, it is geared for neighborhood theatre and small town consumption. Although telling a pointed story, it meanders quite a bit and consequently won't be of great interest to picture-wise sophisticates.

Fred Stone is featured as a whimsical old loafer who domiciles his family, nagging wife, Emma Dunn; ambitious daughter, Marjorie Lord, and rascally Tommy Bond, in a farm house. In moves a gang, headed by Carrol Naish, supposed to be mysterious, but easily identified as mobsters. Then it develops that Naish's mob is hiding out from Paul Guilfoyle. As little Tommy and his bullfrog and sling-shot are more a menace to the racketeers than an arsenal of machine guns, Stone is the innocent medium who brings the enemies together for a wild bit of carnage that wipes out all the thugs, leaves him in possession of the farm house and a fortune that has been secreted there.

As is usual in this type of inexpensively produced picture, there are some good characterizations, action, dialogue and situations. Stone, Miss Dunn, Bond, Naish, Guilfoyle and Ray Mayer are credible.

Melvin Levy wrote the original, J. Robert Bren and Edmund L. Hartman adapted and Richard Rosson directed.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

half as proposed in the plan. Raising of $1,600,000 as additional capital is unnecessary, but stockholders should be prepared to underwrite the amount if found necessary. Representation for minority interests should be provided on the new board of directors. Compensation to Atlas for its services in the reorganization should be paid in cash instead of an award of $212,315 shares of common stock which was termed "unconscionable."

Demands Center Settlement

Abraham K. Weber, attorney for George Sardou, a stockholder, asked that no approval be granted to the plan until the Rockefeller Center claim had been fully litigated. He also demanded minority representation on the board of directors and a physical appraisal of the assets. Weber charged that if the lease on the Music Hall had been unbroken, Rockefeller Center would have received only $4,468,690 net, although their claim on this lease was allowed at $8,270,377 by Special Master Thomas D. Thacher. Rockefeller Center, whose attorneys were Milbank, Tweed, Hope & Webb replied that its claims are valid and have been upheld by the special master for a total of $9,150,000 which includes the Music Hall and Center Theatre leases and $882,000 for office space.

They pointed out that their claims were substantially larger than the amount allowed and that the full amount of the claim might be received if the matter were litigated instead of being settled. Inclusion of the Music Hall and Center Theatre leases in the settlement "was formulated as an advantage to RKO" in addition to other benefits. Large operating losses might result which would be borne by Rockefeller Center rather than RKO under the terms of the proposed new lease. By accepting common stock Rockefeller Center was taking an inferior position to other unsecured creditors, said the brief. It was argued that the earning record of RKO for the past five years did not warrant "a too optimistic forecast" and that Rockefeller Center was taking all the risk Rickaby in his brief favored the plan asking that stockholders should not be benefited at the expense of the creditors. He stated that the plan was "not only fair but generous to the stockholders." Rickaby placed the value of the common stock at $3.38 based on the stockholders' figures and at 33 cents based upon his own figures. He urged the special master not to go into the merits of the Rockefeller Center claim but merely to pass on the settlement. With reference to the feasibility of the plan Rickaby used the 1936 income figures of $2,052,148 from which he deducted the proposed new fixed charge of $1,315,214 and concluded that the new company would have $736,933 for taxes and dividends.

Attorneys Ask Concessions

The claims of the Copia Realty Corp. and Fabian Operating Co. have been "disposed of" by the decision in the case of the Hippodrome Building Co. against RKO, according to Rickaby. Sullivan & Cromwell, attorneys for a stockholders' protective committee which approved the plan, said that their committee represents holders of 159,075 shares of common stock and 34,738 shares of class A and that stockholders, as proprietors, should be prepared to make concessions.

They said that if the plan had been proposed two years ago, the stockholders would have received nothing and the fact that conditions are improving does not justify further speculation or delay. The unsecured creditors' committee, represented by Carlos Israel also approved the plan. They said they feared that rejection of the present plan might mean that debenture holders would wipe out unsecured creditors through foreclosure proceedings.

of money available from a wide variety of sources, it was said. More plays by younger authors were produced here last season than in any other comparable period, a recently completed survey showed.

Producing managers, likewise, are no longer agitating for a change in the terms of the playwrights' agreement in order to restore film money to the stage, it was said. The ample new money being offered on Broadway appears to be content with the agreement now in effect and managers are reported to be losing interest in the disappearance of film backing.

"The theatre would welcome the return of film company financing if those companies came back as theatrical managers, but not if they returned for the sole purpose of getting cheap picture rights to plays," a guild official said. "We believe that if their money was invested in the theatre, rather than in cheap picture rights, the theatre would return the cash and pay dividends in the good will of the playwright and actor, whose talent the motion picture companies need so much."

Film backing for plays was withdrawn about 18 months ago when the Dramatists' Guild adopted its new contract providing for a 60-40 split of the proceeds from the sale of picture rights in the author's favor, instead of the former 50-50 split.

Television in Theatres Now Scophony Aim

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, July 21.—Scophony, Ltd., claims to have practically completed television apparatus capable of showing pictures on a screen 16 feet wide, and the possibility of serving 500 theatres simultaneously directly from the negative is being discussed.

Recently the company gave a press demonstration at its Campden Hill laboratories of the latest model receivers, giving a picture two feet by one foot, 10 inches on a home set, and a picture five feet by four feet on a theatre set. The transmission was from films. Both were of excellent quality; the home receiver gave a result approximating to the best amateur film results and the larger picture, with a slight loss of definition, was clear of flicker and could also have passed for a very fair film projection.

Television Theatre Reported

It was stated that Scophony had practically completed a theatre set which would give a good quality picture 16 feet in width and that in due course this would be put at the disposal of theatre proprietors.

In an informal speech, S. Sagall, managing director, envisaged the establishment of a television service by film interests, in place of the two hours daily provided by the B. B. C. from Alexandra Palace, and said it would be possible to transmit to 500 theatres at one time, using a negative film without positive. He said there was no fundamental problem of the large television picture which had not been solved by Scophony and that it would imply a complete revolution of film theatre technique. Whereas 240 line transmission was being used today, a 400-500 lines system was being perfected.

Claims Improved Results

For Scophony's optical-mechanical system he claimed better results of high-definition television than could be obtained by any other method. The leading features of the Scophony system are a split focus device whereby the beam of light is, by means of cylindrical lenses with their axes crossed, focussed in two separate planes and a supersonic light control.

The first device enables a great reduction in the size of scanners; in the case of the home receiver, by one-twelfth.

The second is a means of overcoming the loss of light due to scanning, which is estimated as 80,000 to 1, compared to film projection, in the case of a 240-line transmission. It consists of a container, filled with a liquid, at one end of which is a quartz crystal, which is actuated by a modulated carrier frequency, setting up supersonic waves corresponding in speed to the velocity of the sound waves in the liquid.

There are lenses on either side of the container which are used to form on the screen an image of the light control; the modulation becomes visible when the scanner speed corresponds with the speed in the liquid. The result is to provide a number of scanning spots for simultaneous use; in the case of a 450 line picture, the magnification of light is 450 times.

On the board of Scophony, Ltd., are Oscar Deutsch, chief of the Odeon circuit, and Arthur Levey, U. S. film executive.

ing for her mother, Louella Parsons, that "Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has been engaged to write advertising for Samuel Goldwyn's 'Stella Dallas' campaign."

The advertisements will be written "for magazines and newspapers," Miss Parsons' story said, and continued, "For this her favorite charities will benefit to the extent of several thousand dollars." She was said in the report to have refused the services of a "ghost" writer. George Bye, Mrs. Roosevelt's agent, now claims, according to the Herald, that there was not even a "suggestion that Mrs. Roosevelt would write motion picture advertising, and neither was there any understanding that her writing would appear as advertisements in newspapers and magazines." It was to be a treatise on motherhood for insertion in a single advertisement, he said.

An advance copy of True Story magazine for September, examined yesterday, revealed the advertisement with Mrs. Roosevelt's comments on the problems of a mother. The publication claims it will be the first to appear with the advertisement for "Stella Dallas" in which Mrs. Roosevelt's treatise appears.

"Toast" Big at Music Hall; Harlow Film Off with Rush

"The Toast of New York" created ripples of excitement around RKO headquarters yesterday on the basis of its opening at the Music Hall.

At 2 P. M. the take was $500 ahead of "Shall We Dance?" at the same hour on its opening day at the same theatre. In the first hour the house was at capacity with 800 standees reported. The crowd, which formed early, extended up 50th St. well high to 5th Ave., a circumstance described by the distributor as an "unprecedented event during the month of July since the Music Hall opened its doors." At 4 P. M. it was reported that a second checkup demonstrated the film was running ahead of all recent attractions at the theatre, including the last Astaire-Rogers. At 5 P. M. the gross was said to have been 25 per cent better than at the identical hour of the opening day of "Shall We Dance?" At eight o'clock indications pointed to a $13,500 take for the day which would set a record for any July opening day.

Yesterday's enthusiasm over new

Celler Warns on Opposing Government Station Bill

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Radio interests which oppose legislation providing for the construction by the Government of a short-wave station to broadcast programs to foreign countries were warned today by Representative Celler of New York, author of the bill, that they "will get their fingers burned" if they persist in their efforts to defeat the station.

Hollywood, July 22.—Samuel Goldwyn's research department dug down deep for this one.

"The Adventures of Marco Polo" will show the origin of spaghetti, at least as far as Italians are concerned.

Marco Polo discovered it in Cathay in the 13th Century and brought it back with him to Italy. Originally, according to the research department, it was called "spag het."

Graham Seeks "Intelligent" U.S. Spending

LONDON, July 14.—In an interview in Cinema, J. C. Graham, managing director of Paramount, expands his suggestion of a British film quota which would free American companies of the necessity of making a large number of small films, and allow them to spend the same total amount on a few big pictures.

As "the Graham plan," these suggestions have recently attracted considerable attention as the possible basis of an agreement between the K.R.S. and the independent producers and distributors organization for a new approach to the Board of Trade

Justice Dept. Starts Probe In New Jersey

Summon Exchange Men For Questioning

Special Assistant Attorney General Hubert Harrington has sent out letters to a number of exchange managers, including Paramount, 20th Century-Fox, Universal, Columbia and G. B., requesting their appearance today at Dept. of Justice headquarters in Newark for a general discussion of the film buying situation in New Jersey.

Hartman did not mention any specific complaint and the efforts of several exchange managers to learn from him what theatre or theatres were behind the action were unavailing. However, Hartman did mention in his letter that a number of exhibitors have complained to the department that they could not get product.

With the exception of one exchange, all managers have turned the letters over to their home office legal departments, which in turn are asking for a bill of particulars before sales executives or attorneys visit Hartman.

According to a checkup of exchanges yesterday which have received the notices, managers stated they were in the dark as to the complainants. The branch heads said they did not believe the action had anything to do

No Radical Changes
Found in New Code

No radical changes have been incorporated in the new building code as far as local theatres are concerned, according to major and independent exhibitors.

The new code provides for modernization of obsolete requirements for theatre construction permitting the construction of theatres in buildings used for other purposes when they are separated by unpierced fire walls. Provisions for the arrangement of exit facilities to increase the flexibility of theatre design and to eliminate ambiguous sections of the code are also included.

Goldwyn Apologizes

HOLLYWOOD, July 22.—Samuel Goldwyn yesterday addressed a public apology to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt for making it appear that she had been added to his payroll as a writer of advertisements. Goldwyn's statement said in part: "I want to apologize to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt for the publicity statements recently circulated that she had been engaged as one of my advertising writers. . . . At no time was she ever engaged as an advertising writer for me."

Purely Personal

JOE MCCONVILLE and RUBE JACKTER talked over a Columbia product deal with DAVE CHATKIN yesterday during the Tavern lunch hour. ABE MONTAGUE, who had intended to join the group, decided to listen to BOB GOLDSTEIN entertain BILL JAFFE. JOE SEIDELMAN, ABE SCHNEIDER and LEW GOLDER occupied another table, while JACK COHN had a guest of his own at a private table. It was the first time in many moons that so many Columbia executives gathered at the Tavern at one time.

HERMAN GOLDFARB, just in from the 20th Century-Fox studios, where he is assistant to MICHAEL LEISHING, lunched with BILL BRADY, ALAN FRIEDMAN and a few others. BILL GERMAN, who came in late with two guests, found an adjoining table to talk things over. JACK GOETZ has with him ELY ROSENBLATT, whom, GOETZ says, is very much interested in independent production. ROSENBLATT, however, would not confirm.

MARVIN SCHENCK and SIDNEY PHILLIPS, inseparable Loew-ites, are at their usual tables at the right wall. A. W. SMITH, JR., and MONROE GREENTHAL discuss U. A. pictures, while RODNEY BUSH and CHARLES CURRAN go over plans for "Walter Wanger's Vagues of 1938," which has been booked into the Music Hall next month. HAL HORNE is seated distantly from the group and is very much engrossed in conversation with a guest. NELLIE REVELL, at her regular reserved table, has a slight cold and coughs spasmodically. MILTON BLACKSTONE departs early and his partner, MONTY PROSER, tries to alibi the reason for an injured arm.

HARRY SHIFFMAN leaves early and misses MOE STREIMER, LEO JUSTIN and MORRIS JACKS. STREIMER says he is feeling better since he had a couple of lower teeth removed. ED SCHNITZER and his wife are accompanied by BILL SAAL near the Monday Knights Round Table. BOB BENJAMIN and TOM P. LOACH go into a huddle on Pathe matters. ALEC MOSS is a later comer, as usual, and joins BERT MAYERS and his brother, ARCHIE. PETE HARRISON, JACK HOFFBERG and STAN TRUE are among those occupying other tables.

CHARLES MOSES scored a hole in one at the Milburn Country Club on Long Island yesterday and now is ready for all golf tournaments, he says. It all happened on the 17th hole.

WALTER J. HUTCHINSON, 20th Century-Fox foreign head, will leave for the coast in three weeks, en route to Sydney, Australia. He will sail from Los Angeles on Aug. 18 on the Mariposa.

H. S. HAISLIP will leave today by plane for Detroit, then go to Chicago and St. Paul. After a short stay at St. Paul he will return to Chicago and then go to the coast for M-G-M.

Grand Opera House
Hearing Due Today

N. Y. Supreme Court Justice Aaron Steuer today is scheduled to hear arguments on the suit of K. P. Theatre Corp., an RKO subsidiary, against Warco Trading Co., for fulfillment of contract involving the demolition of the Grand Opera House and the construction of a new 4,000-seat theatre on the site.

According to the contract entered into by K. P. Theatre Corp., the defendant was to have the new 4,000-seat house ready by September. Up to the present time demolition of the Grand Opera House has not been started.

In its action, K. P. Theatre Corp. seeks performance of the agreement and also an injunction to restrain the defendant from transferring or disposing of the Grand Opera House, or making any use of the theatre except as provided in the contract.

Harry M. Pimstein will represent the RKO subsidiary and Samuel Goldberg will argue for the defendant.

District Court yesterday dismissed the complaint in the $1,000,000 plagiarism suit of the Foreign & Domestic Music Corp., Samuel Cummings, Societa Anonima Musicale Bixio and Cesare Andrea Bixio against 20th Century-Fox Film Corp. and the Movietone Corp. for failure of the complaint to state a cause of action against the two defendants.

The plaintiffs charged infringement of their song, "Passa l'Amore" in the song, "Midnight in Paris," was used in "Here's to Romance." Judge Hulbert allowed the plaintiffs 20 days to file an amended complaint. Con Conrad, Herb Magidson, Nino Martini and Sam and Harry Fox, who do business as the Sam Fox Music Publishing Co., are also named as defendants.

for common action in Parliament. In principle they are identical with the policy of the K.R.S. as put before the Moyne Committee and reiterated by the Board of Trade.

"We have never denied," says Graham in Cinema, "the right of the Government to require us to spend the money we have spent for the last 10 years on British pictures. All we have said is: 'let us take that money and spend it in a way that would be of most benefit to the country, to our company, and to the theatres that we supply with pictures. . . . We calculate that about one-third of the pictures that we should make on this plan would 'go over' in America.

"Supposing that we made six British pictures for the year, two of them would be made with America in mind. We think those two would bring back enough to cover any losses which might be made on pictures produced for this country alone. . . .

No Objection to Minimum

"We do not object to a minimum cost of £10,000 or £15,000 if this is required as a protection against the 'quickie,' but this minimum expenditure was not originally our wish and was only agreed to if others wanted it. If we are allowed to spend the money according to business principles, a minimum cost plan would be unnecessary.

"In the long run, every producer has to face the problem of 'Where is the money coming from?' The answer is that it has to come from pictures. There is no hidden bank that you can go and stick your arm in.

"It doesn't make any difference how many Governments work on this problem; they must not imagine that it would be safe to attempt to break down the quality of Hollywood pictures by forcing too much money to be spent away from that production center. Hollywood has set a standard of quality and has got to live up to that standard and the producers there must have money if quality pictures are to continue. This is a world market proposition. If money is wasted the final effect would be to drive people away from cinemas in all parts of the world.

Describes Hollywood Financing

"How much can Hollywood afford to spend elsewhere? I don't believe the producers there have ever paid a dividend of over 10 per cent and often enough they have been forced to pass a dividend altogether. The money earned by pictures goes right back into the studios to make more pictures."

Graham disputes the assertion that his policy would imply a shortage of films, saying that good product would run twice as long as bad, and would not be so severely barred and says that what the K.R.S. has on four occasions "with complete consistency" put to the Government is the suggestion that American companies be allowed to follow a policy of "intelligent spending." Under this plan, he says: "Instead of making 150 feature pictures, many of which are

Looking 'Em Over

"Bulldog Drummond at Bay"

(Republic)

Another of the amazing and active adventures of Bulldog Drummond, and this time the intrepid amateur sleuth and able assistant of Scotland Yard is portrayed satisfactorily by John Lodge.

The film was made in England by British International, but the inclusion of American players in the lead spots and the natural setting in England eliminate entirely any objectionable feature for American audiences. The cast is competent and the screenplay by James Parrish and Patric Kirwan, adapted from the novel by "Sapper," is lively. Norman Lee, in his direction, has maintained the pace well. In support of Lodge are Dorothy Mackaill, Victor Jory and Claud Allister.

Drummond accidentally becomes involved in the effort of a munitions financier and his men to force from a young inventor the secret of the new plane he has built, for the purpose of selling it to a foreign government. Miss Mackaill steps into the picture, apparently one of the gang. Things move rapidly from that point, as Drummond attempts to rescue the inventor, is trapped with his friend, Allister, and escapes murderous gas fumes only by dynamiting his way out.

They follow the financier and his men to Scotland and Miss Mackaill saves Lodge's life en route. Eventually, in a fast few minutes, the financier is killed by Jory, his second in command, and the latter crashes in the mystery plane, while Miss Mackaill is revealed as a member of the British secret service.

Running time, 63 minutes. "G."

Federation Wins in Burlesque Dispute

The board of directors of the Associated Actors and Artistes of America yesterday decided the jurisdictional dispute over performers employed in the revues now being staged in former burlesque houses in favor of the American Federation of Actors, which claimed the jurisdiction heretofore exercised by the Burlesque Artists' Ass'n.

The board's decision applies only to New York City and was based upon a recognition that the performances now being given can no longer be classified as burlesque. A change in policy by the producers may reopen the jurisdictional question, it was stated. Under the decision, the revue performers who are members of the Burlesque Artists' Ass'n are to transfer their membership to the A. F. A. at once.

At the burlesque organization's offices it was stated that it was not known whether an appeal from the decision could be taken and no definite action had been decided upon.

junk, about 80 pictures would be produced of very satisfactory quality. That number would quite take care of the market and the improved quality would raise the prestige of British production and earn a far larger percentage of production costs than British production is doing at present.

"The one effect of a footage quota is to reduce British pictures to the same category as the counter sandwich that one has to buy if one wants a drink after hours. Everybody knows that these sandwiches lie untouched for weeks.

"Nothing we have suggested," he concludes, "will in any way interfere with the native British producer who is not under the control of the quota law. He, as a business man, will be forced to study his production problems along the same lines. . . . His production will also be aided in the minds of exhibitors by the class of pictures which we suggest should be made by those of us coming under the quota law."

UMPTO Claims Only One Para. Booking

PHILADELPHIA, July 22.—Zone captains in the U.M.P.T.O. drive against Paramount today reported that only one independent theatre in this territory has set an August date for Paramount.

Lewen Pizor, president, and George Aarons, secretary, left for a meeting to be held in Chicago tomorrow.

The city admission tax goes into effect tomorrow. The state tax expired yesterday, leaving the city with one taxless day.

Chicago Meet Set Today

CHICAGO, July 22.—Allied's Paramount strike committee will meet at the Congress Hotel here tomorrow to discuss the booking boycott. P. J. Wood, business manager of the Ohio I.T.O., and chairman of the national committee, will be present.

There is a question as to whether Illinois Allied will take any action against Paramount, as it has a two-year deal with the company signed last year and this makes the local situation somewhat different from other localities.

"U" Plans Youth Film

HOLLYWOOD, July 22.—Universal will produce a super-feature entitled "Youth Marches On," Charles R. Rogers stated today. Practically all of the younger players on the Universal lot will be cast. Ten are already set, said Rogers. The film is expected to provide an excellent opportunity to exploit the talent potentialities of the studio. Joseph Pasternak will produce from an original by Elliott Gibbons.

Buzzell Off "Merry-Go-Round"

HOLLYWOOD, July 22.—Following a dispute with Buddy DeSylva over the film's story, Eddie Buzzell quit as director of Universal's "Merry-Go-Round" after having handled the megaphone for 10 days. Buzzell was replaced in the directorial post by Irving Cummings.

Short Subjects

"Golf Timing"

(Van Beuren-RKO)

Golfers who slice and dig divots will like this one. It shows how Ira Miner, former blacksmith, turns out golfers by the dozens on a range at Old Greerwich, Conn. His simplified theory of teaching is that golfing depends on rhythm and timing. The photography is excellent. For some reason or other the short ends with a golfing chorus number in the Paradise Restaurant which could be eliminated without detracting from the entertainment. Bill Corum does the narrative. Running time, 11 mins.

"Wife Insurance"

(Lee Marcus-RKO)

Leon Errol, Kitty McHugh, Dot Taylor and Ed Kane are cast in a light story which shows Errol cleaning his shotguns after a hunting trip. His wife talks life insurance and a doctor and an insurance agent appear at dinner time. The doctor recommends that the wife give Errol medicine in his coffee. He thinks murder is being plotted. The complications become quite hilarious. It's a worthwhile short. Running time, 16 mins.

"The Hall Johnson Choir"

(RKO)

Production values are excellent and three songs by the Hall Johnson Choir are very well done. A story with Mississippi River steamboat scenes, a southern negro night club and cabins is used to carry the music. The songs, "Carry Me Back to Ole Virginny," "Roll Out, Heave Dat Cotton" and "Raise a Rukus Tonight," are sung during the course of the story development. It's a fine number. Running time, 17 mins.

Kelly to Join Levine

HOLLYWOOD, July 22.—Burt Kelly, former Nat Levine aide at Republic, will join Levine's staff at M-G-M when the producer takes up his job Aug. 1.

All 42nd St. Theatres May Turn to Films operates some of the houses and Max A. Cohen has others.

The Times Square and Cameo are the only two other film houses on the street, the former on the west side of 8th Ave. and the latter, showing foreign films, is located between 6th and 7th Aves.

No other street in the world has as many theatres concentrated so closely. Morning and afternoon admissions in all film houses are scaled at a dime and in the evening the price is boosted to 25 cents. All of the theatres open before film employees report for work at exchanges and home offices and many do not close until 2 A. M. and 3 A. M.

The nearest theatres to the 42nd St. crosstown are the Cohan and the Stanley, the former operated by Cohen and the latter independently.

Report Paramount in Deal

Paramount, which has the Paramount at 43rd St. and Broadway, was yesterday reported to have closed a partnership deal with B. S. Moss and Harry Charnas whereby the Criterion, located between 44th and 45th St. and Broadway, will play the carry-over pictures from the de luxe house. The deal, it is said, will become effective next month. The Criterion within the past few months has played six Paramount pictures first run and today will open with "Lives of a Bengal Lancer," a Paramount revival.

In addition to this, Paramount on Wednesday night opened "High, Wide and Handsome" as a roadshow at the Astor on a percentage-of-the-profits arrangement with Loew's. On Aug. 4, the same company will have another two-a-day on Broadway when "Souls at Sea" makes its debut at the Globe.

The lone two theatres on Broadway not using films are the Oriental, playing colored stage shows, and the Winter Garden, recently closed after an extended engagement of "The Show Is On."

W. F. Haycock Candidate

CALLAWAY, Neb., July 22.—W. F. Haycock, formerly operator of the Star here, has filed as Democratic candidate for the State Railway Commission. As a member of the unicameral legislature, Haycock fought against anti-theatre bills and was chairman of the committee which killed the licensing measure. That bill, if passed, would have put control of exchanges and theatres in hands of the rail commission.

Form Delaware Firm

DOVER, July 22.—National Capital Film Libraries, Inc., has been formed here to engage in the motion picture business. Capital of $25,000 is listed. Incorporators are Horace Ashton, Edmund Belcher of Washington and Ralph S. Parr of Chevy Chase, Md.

Manheimer Joins M-G-M

HOLLYWOOD, July 22.—Albert Manheimer has joined the shorts department writing staff at M-G-M.

product along Broadway and elsewhere registered in two other quarters as well. M-G-M reported the opening phases of the first day's take with "Saratoga," the final Jean Harlow film, at the Capitol was the best in years at that house. William F. Rodgers told MOTION PICTURE DAILY early last evening business there was "tremendous."

Telegraphic bulletins to M-G-M on out-of-town openings of the Harlow film included these statements from the distributor:

Opening simultaneously at Loew's State, Los Angeles, and Grauman's Chinese, Hollywood, the film far exceeded all records for the season thus far on the West Coast. As reported in MOTION PICTURE DAILY yesterday, two lines two blocks long greeted the opening at the former house, while at the Chinese the theatre was filled in less than an hour after opening and many standees thronged the spacious forecourt of the theatre. A special midnight show was added at the State. Yesterday the house opened at 9 A. M. to permit of an extra performance, while an extra show likewise was added at the Chinese.

In San Diego, opening business indicated a 50 per cent increase over "Captains Courageous." At the Fifth Avenue, Seattle, described by the distributor as a theatre "which has always proved an unusually reliable barometer of public approval," all opening day house records since "Tugboat Annie" were smashed.

Denver Reports Record

In Denver, the company reported a first day all-time record. Milwaukee reported another opening high with the exception of New Year's Eve and Thanksgiving Day opening. Asheville wired New York the first two days were the biggest in the history of the house playing the film. The Stanley, Philadelphia, reported its largest mid-week attendance, while at the Strand, Portland, Me., the previous high held by "Captains Courageous" made way for a new attendance peak with "Saratoga."

Paramount rested slightly on the oars yesterday following a successful opening of "High, Wide and Handsome" at the Astor Theatre Wednesday evening. The New York critics "went to town" in praise of the attraction.

Veterans See Fisk Film

Fifty officers of the Ninth Regiment Veterans Ass'n attended the world premiere of "The Toast of New York" at the Music Hall last night. Jim Fisk, leading figure in the film, served as commander of the old Ninth following the Civil War.

RKO Loans Writers

HOLLYWOOD, July 22.—Maxwell Shane, writer, has been loaned by RKO to Paramount. From the same company, Walter Wanger has borrowed Irwin Shaw.

Walter Ferris, writer at 20th Century-Fox, has been borrowed by M-G-M for additional work on the script of "A Yank at Oxford."

Farmers Only

Lake Park, Iowa, July 22.—The State here will admit farm people free to the evening shows on Wednesday evenings during the summer. The town folks are admitted only to the early show on that date.

Color Laboratory Is Opened in Budapest

By ENDRE HEVESI

BUDAPEST, July 10.—A color laboratory, the first in Central Europe, has been started here, under the name of Filmgrafika. It is planned to use two types of apparatus, both Hungarian inventions, for color film production, one for taking negatives and the other for making positive prints. It is claimed that the cameras will produce color work the equal of American and English systems.

A new producing company has been formed here, Budapest Filmgyarto, Ltd., of which the managing director is Janos Smolka. The company plans six features a year in the Hungarian language, which is considered a large total, since most native producers make only one or two each year.

In general there is a tendency in the country to build larger producing companies, backed by ample capital, for permanent production. Thus it is believed by observers here the small firms with insufficient capital will be forced out of business.

American product still dominates the Hungarian market, with American releases in a recent period of 10 months totaling 38 to 24 German and 24 Hungarian films.

U. S. Furnishes 100 Of 163 Japan Films

By TETSUYA MORI

TOKIO, July 1.—A total of 163 features were released in Japan during the first six months of 1937, a decrease of nine from the total of 172 released during the first six months of 1936.

Approximately 100 of the 163 features were from the United States, as follows: Columbia, 26; M-G-M, 19; RKO, 10; United Artists, eight; Paramount, 20; Warners, 16; Universal, 14; 20th Century-Fox, 10.

Newsreels are becoming increasingly popular with Japanese audiences, and the building of newsreel theatres is a development of major importance in the industry in this country.

One of the leading factors in the rise of the newsreel was the speedy delivery of prints of the British Coronation. The public's interest in newsreels was so excited by the Coronation subjects that the news theatres are enjoying better business in many cases than houses showing features. Seeking to control the newsreel field, S. Shirai, president of Shinko Film Prod. Co., is reported having decided to establish Japan Short Subjects and Newsfilm Co. on Osaka.

Trailers Shortened 50% Under New Plan

HOLLYWOOD, July 22.—Exhibitors have caused a revolution in the making of trailers in which cuts approximately as high as 50 per cent and elimination of superlatives and excessive action have been achieved, it was disclosed today when National Screen Service announced that its surveys and that of major studios among theatre men have proved that trailers of about 200 feet were most acceptable.

Also meeting with disapproval were the verbose plaudits given the pictures in trailers' titles and narration.

A year ago, trailers approximated from 350 to 450 feet in length, as compared to those of from 500 to 800 feet when sound first came in.

National Screen, in its survey found that many theatre operators were cutting the trailers to fit in their programs. This threw the trailers out of synchronization, because the sound track plays 19 frames ahead of the screened image.

The change in the reduction of footage of the trailers, called "prevues" (a patented word) by National Screen, has come gradually in the last six months when results of the surveys, of which 20th Century-Fox took the first, became known. Not only have excessive running time and wordage been eliminated, but the style of trailers is changing. There is no set rule or formula for the prevue.

Tries Trailer Tints

HOLLYWOOD, July 22.—M-G-M is experimenting with sepia tinting in trailers. The two-week advance trailer of "The Firefly" will be in part black and white and part sepia, with the narrator explaining the new tint. If the trailer's new dress goes over, M-G-M may tint all of its trailers.

To Roadshow "Firefly"

HOLLYWOOD, July 22.—M-G-M today stated that "The Firefly" will be roadshown. The picture will have its premiere at the Four Star here on Aug. 6 on a two-a-day basis. A $5 top will prevail at the opening.

Zukors Plan Europe Trip

HOLLYWOOD, July 22.—Adolph Zukor and Mrs. Zukor will leave here Aug. 13 en route to New York from where they will sail Aug. 25 on the Queen Mary for trip to England and the Continent. Zukor will be away from the studios for six weeks or more.

Omaha Drivers Ask Increase in Wages

OMAHA, July 22.—Demands of the Omaha Film Exchange Employees' Union for minimum wages of $28 a week on four routes and $30 a week on a fifth route for eight drivers of the Omaha Film Transport Co. have been rejected by Glenn Rogers, owner.

Rogers countered with proposals for a mileage rate of 2 1/4 cents, the rate paid to drivers in the Omaha Teamsters Union, and representing a 15 per cent increase over present wages of film truckers.

The union, which also demanded and was refused a closed shop and one week's vacation a year, has not accepted this offer yet. Rogers' drivers work only four days a week.

Branch managers here have received officially the union demands for back room employees, submitted by President Charles Lorenz, M-G-M shipper, and Sid McArdle, business agent, United Artists shipper.

Employees Walk Out In 3 Florida Spots

WEST TAMPA, Fla., July 22.—Employees of the Royal here have joined a strike of theatre doormen, cashiers and ushers which started Monday with a walkout of these employees at the Ritz and Casino in Ybor City.

The Royal and Casino were closed last night. They state that Fred Raoul, southern representative of the union, is en route here to assist in the drive.

Going Too Far

MEXICO CITY, July 22.—A liberal concession granted a theatre to encourage film entertainment in Puebla City, an old town near here, was revoked by the Puebla state legislature who figured that allowing the theatre to use part of the city hall rent free and to be exempt from state and municipal taxes for 25 years was going a bit too far.

Strike Closes Houses In Two Mexico Towns

By JAMES LOCKHART

MEXICO CITY, July 22.—Labor troubles today resulted in the closing of theatres in Tampico and Toluca, both very important towns. The closures were caused by a strike instituted by employees who charged exhibitors with unfair practices.

The shutdown in Toluca was accompanied by a boycott in which other labor unions participated as a means of forcing exhibitors to sign collective working contracts calling for higher wages than are now in effect and for the establishment of various other labor benefits.

Prohibit Price Changes

MEXICO CITY, July 22.—Theatres must charge at their box-offices admission rates that appear in their advertisements or they will be fined and otherwise penalized the civic amusements department has warned. Some exhibitors, the department has found, either omit mention of admission prices in their publicity or fail to specify it clearly and charge prices higher than those announced or the public is given to expect by the advertising.

Resorts Use State Films

MADISON, Wis., July 22.—Wisconsin resorts possessing projection equipment have availed themselves of the State Conservation Dept. film service to entertain summer guests. Schedules have been arranged to provide a different program for each week throughout the summer.

Thirty-three subjects are distributed in both 16 mm. and 35 mm. sizes, dealing primarily with wild life and conservation work. The only expense to the resort is the payment of transportation charges.

Issue Big "Forget" Book

Warners have turned out a 22 in. by 17 in. press book of 28 pages on "They Won't Forget" on heavy coated stock. The front page has a scene cut almost as big as a one-sheet. In the lower right hand corner are the words: "First Edition—theatre supplement to follow."

S. Charles Einfeld says it's the "most comprehensive" campaign book ever turned out by the company. It has three pages of stunts and three national tieups. In the exploitation section is a full-page detachable worksheet for exhibitors' campaigns.

There are in addition an advertising section and 19 pages of exploitation and publicity material.

A. F. M. Cracking Down on Records and Transcriptions

The American Federation of Musicians has issued an order instructing all orchestras not to enter into any contract for the making of phonograph records or electrical transcriptions beyond Aug. 14. The order is designed to curtail the use of recordings by radio stations.

Any effort to enjoin radio against the use of such recordings would meet resistance on copyright grounds, it was indicated. If radio stations persist in using the records, the union says it will prosecute and seek a test ruling.

President Joseph N. Weber of the A. F. of M., in his letter to union members, asked that they obey his request, stating "this is imperative, for the reason that the A. F. of M. will, in the very near future, confer with all recording and electrical corporations, as well as radio stations, in reference to the proper use of records so that they may not continue to destroy employment opportunities for musicians. Any member violating this order will place his membership in the Federation in jeopardy."

Union officials plan to have phonograph records labeled: "This record is sold for home use only. Persons using it for other purposes will be prosecuted."

The A. F. of M. executive board will meet in New York next Thursday to discuss the situation, and station owners have been invited to attend. Meanwhile, the board will meet July 26 to discuss a proposed ban on remote broadcasts by A. F. of M. members.

WJW, Not WMJ, in Deal

Through a typographical error, it was recorded in MOTION PICTURE DAILY of July 20 that WWJ, Detroit, had recognized its organized employees, granting salary increases and other benefits. Actually, the station in the deal was WJW, of Akron, O.

Benford will be heard Monday through Thursday from 9 to 9:15 P. M., and Sundays from 7:15 to 7:30 P. M.

Upon Heatter's return to the station, Benford will begin a schedule of his own, the dates and time to be announced later.

Benford comes to WOR from WOL, Mutual's Washington affiliate, where he was director of the educational department in charge of editorial broadcasts, news periods, and special features on civic events.

Competition Severe In Montevideo Radio

MONTEVIDEO, July 12.—Beside the two official stations, CX4 and CX6, there are 20 broadcasting stations here, including CX38, opened recently. The competition among the stations results in a ruinous decrease of profits to the station operators.

Some performers actually earn less than the equivalent of $1 per performance. The stations make very liberal use of discs, and one uses discs exclusively.

address delivered this week over Station WOL, incorporated by him in today's Congressional Record.

"Unfortunately," he said, "the National Ass'n of Broadcasters, a distinguished and representative group, has gone on record in opposition to my bill. I believe this is most ill-advised. The broadcasters who oppose the bill are standing in their own light."

Denying that the Government station would, as feared, "be the entering wedge into Governmental control of radio in general," the Congressman asserted himself in favor of the maintenance of all other stations on the present private basis and declared "our radio system, despite certain besetting evils of commercialism, is still the greatest in the world, thanks to private control."

Celler explained that the proposed

Government station would enable America to answer the propaganda of Russia, Germany and Italy and "set aright the inhabitants of those nations and show them the way of democracy."

"Every nation in the world has a broadcasting station except the United States," he pointed out. "We certainly should not be the exception. We should be permitted to defend ourselves over the air against foreign and unfair attacks."

Opportunity would be given private companies to use the facilities of the Government station, Celler explained.

"I hold no brief for Government operation of radio stations," he concluded. "My bill is utterly foreign to any design to hurt private broadcasting."

WMCA Signs Critic For London Dramas

Donald Flamm, president of WMCA, who returned yesterday on the Saturnia from a five-week trip abroad, revealed that he had signed J. W. Marriott, English author and critic, to serve as his station's European play critic.

Marriott will be a first nighter at all the new British plays, and will cable his impressions to New York, where they will be broadcast over WMCA and the Inter-City network by a local critic. This will be the first time that this arrangement has been attempted, it is believed. The five-hour difference in time between London and New York will assure a review of the plays from New York the nights they open in London.

Socolow and Murray To WQXR Sales Staff

Albert N. Socolow, formerly of the New York American, and John M. Murray, formerly of Esquire, have been added to the sales department of WQXR. The increase in personnel is in anticipation of increased advertising schedules in the fall, when WQXR enters its second year as a commercial station.

Contracts for daily spot announcements on WQXR have recently been placed by the following advertisers: Buckingham Hotel, Clement E. Merowit & Co., West Disinfecting Co., and Grayrock-on-Sound.

Cooper's Libel Suit Against WHO Ended

DES MOINES, July 22.—Harold M. Cooper, former chairman of the Iowa Liquor Control Commission, has dropped his $100,000 libel suit against the Central Broadcasting Co. station, WHO, Verne Marshall and the Gazette Co. of Cedar Rapids.

The suit was one of two filed last December growing out of broadcasts made by Marshall over two radio stations and the printing of his speeches in the Cedar Rapids Gazette, of which he was editor. Cooper's suit against Marshall and the Gazette Co., and the Iowa Broadcasting Co., radio station WMT, is still pending.

Six Weeks, Not Months

Issuing a press release that the "Three Little Funsters" were leaving WMCA for six months to work in pictures in Hollywood, which was printed yesterday, the station yesterday admitted that it had made an error, and asked that the report be corrected. Actually, the "Funsters" will be in Hollywood for a six-week period, not six months. Additionally, their program will not be canceled during their absence. Guest stars will serve on the series during their absence.

Ready in 2 Months

SAN DIEGO, July 22.—XELO is expected to go on the air from its new Tijuana studios in about two months. The station will use a frequency of 670 kilocycles with a power of 2,500 watts. This is expected to be boosted to 5,000. Bill E. Branch is listed as owner of the station.

Tijuana is 17 miles across the border from San Diego, where reception already is badly jammed by Mexican stations. Several applicants are seeking permits for a new station in San Diego with an eye to CBS affiliation, the city being without CBS coverage.

Meanwhile, XEMO, Tijuana broadcaster, soon will boost its wattage from 5,000 to 10,000.

DENVER, July 20.—Jerry Frakes is subbing on KLX for Bob Bradley, tenor, while the latter is in New York as a guest on the Heinz program, "Magazine of the Air," over CBS. Frakes is well known for his work on the NBC "Tums Show," was recently with WLW, and the Mutual Net.

Use Alarm Clock

"Early Risers' Club," which opens WMCA's schedule each morning at 7 A. M., uses an alarm clock to start the station on its broadcasting day. The idea came about quite by accident.

Ollie Penny, the engineer who opens the station in the morning, had purchased an alarm clock for home and left it in the studio overnight. The alarm was set for 7 A. M. Thus, while Alun Williams, commentator of the "Early Risers' Club" was exhorting his listeners to stay awake, the alarm went off. The idea has been retained.

Business Meetings
Suggested by KMOX

ST. LOUIS, July 22.—To bring advertisers and local dealers into closer contact with the station, KMOX has been inviting business organizations to hold their meetings in the studios. Approval was made possible by the

Majors' Lawyers Confer in Newark

NEWARK, July 23.—Assistant Attorney General Hubert Harrington this afternoon held a preliminary and informal discussion with attorneys from all major companies except Universal and 20th Century-Fox in response to a complaint made to the Dep't of Justice by the Mosque here.

Chester Ligham, attorney for the independent house, stated his client could not secure product. The assertion was generally denied by counsel for the major companies.

Following the three and a half hour session at the Dep't of Justice headquarters, Harrington would not indicate what action was to be taken. He did say, however, that he would send a report of the meeting to Washington. No testimony was taken down, the hearing being in the form of a round table discussion, since no one was under subpoena.

Attorneys for 20th Century-Fox and Universal did not appear due to the secrecy of the complaint which

Para.-Blank Partnership Deal Closed

Buy-Back Provision Is Eliminated by Pact

A deal establishing a permanent partnership between Paramount and A. H. Blank in 80 theatres operated by the latter in Iowa, Nebraska and Illinois was concluded yesterday by Y. Frank Freeman, Paramount theatre head, and Blank.

Under the terms of the deal Paramount obtains a half interest in Blank's personally owned Central States circuit of 37 houses as a consideration for relinquishing its option to repurchase Blank's 50 per cent interest in the Tri-States circuit. The two circuits will remain separate organizations, with Blank, of course, continuing to operate both.

The deal has been in negotiation for many months and necessitated several extensions of the original operating agreement between Paramount and Blank which carried the buy-back provision. Problems of taxation involved in the deal and several changes affecting the inclusion or exclusion of the Central States circuit delayed completion and signing of the agreement during the past two months.

Final closing of the deal yesterday marks the passing of the last of the partnership agreements entered into by

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S
HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW"Stella Dallas"

(Goldwyn-U. A.)

HOLLYWOOD, July 23.—Samuel Goldwyn has a strong candidate for the year's best money picture. When the time comes for making the season's best acting awards several of the cast, particularly Barbara Stanwyck, Anne Shirley and Alan Hale, must be given consideration.

The picture should be well received from coast to coast, as it was by a preview audience. Put together with understanding, the Olive Higgins Prouty drama of mother devotion and sacrifice and a daughter's loyalty is an achievement for all associated with its production. The adaptation by Harry Wagstaff Gribble and Gertrude Purcell and the screenplay by Victor Heerman and Sarah Y. Mason grip and make vivid the full spirit of the original. King Vidor's direction is excellent.

The incidents are so human, the characters so true to life that they seem more like flesh and blood realities than shadows on the screen. From the moment Stella Martin (Miss Stanwyck) marries Stephen Dallas (John Boles) the story of a woman's love so great she could not understand it is honest, tender, emotion-stirring sentiment. Its drama is balanced with comedy furnished mainly by Alan Hale. It is ribald at times, but always effective.

A coarse, crude woman unwittingly doing the wrong thing most of the time, but believing that everything she does will advance her child's social status finds bitter tragedy in her life when she comes to understand that her daughter's friends know she is the girl's mother. Tenderly sacrificing the child to the care of a woman with whom Boles is in love and forcing her daughter to believe she is the woman all think she is, she consents to a divorce. Her greatest happiness comes when, standing in the rain, she sees her daughter married.

Every moment of "Stella Dallas" is full of the elements demanded by those who believe the screen should present only the finest things. The picture also is crowded with ingredients understandable to the masses. The memory of this "Stella Dallas" will not be quickly erased. It should establish enviable records.

Running time, 105 minutes. "G."

Weekend admissions will prevail during the entire run of the picture. Preliminary estimates are that a three-week engagement is assured.

In five other situations, 20th Century-Fox reported holdovers.

"Super Sleuth" at the Roxy last week tallied about $26,000. The second week of "Knight Without Armor" at the Music Hall ended with $65,000. "They Won't Forget" at the Strand finished the first seven days at $26,000. Discussions have been on for some time with the three distributors, but nothing definite has been done, it was stated at National Theatres yesterday. However, all dealings are expected to be concluded by Aug. 7, when Spyros Skouras, William T. Powers, Edward Zabel, Milton Hossfeld, Aubrey Schenck, Irving Barry, Jack Edmonson and others identified with home office operations of the circuit leave for Colorado Springs to attend the annual meeting of operations and discussions of new film buys.

So far, National has closed for M-G-M, Paramount, 20th Century-Fox and Columbia. It is also expected that a deal with Republic will be set before the theatre men leave town for the six-day meeting.

agreement between Cullman and 20th Century-Fox on the protection to be given him against possible lawsuits which may arise after 20th Century-Fox takes title. Details of the arrangement were not revealed, but it was learned that an exchange of letters satisfied Cullman. Alfred Appel of Proskauer, Rose and Paskus, attorney for Cullman, told Judge Caffey that the trustee had withdrawn his objection to signing of the order.

Judge Caffey reserved decision on the application of the Pound Bondholders' Protective Committee, proponents of the plan, for approval of $3,500 settlement for the $9,881 claim of Louis Karasik for legal fees in connection with a tax matter. The claim was completely disallowed by Judge Caffey on the original application, but Karasik filed notice of intention to appeal to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals. Colonel Hartfield, attorney for the committee, told the court that it was "for the best interest of the Roxy" to dispose of the litigation. Another hearing for technical purposes only will be held on Aug. 11. A hearing on application for fees will be held on Oct. 8.

Morny charges that he was employed by the defendants from May, 1928, to April, 1935, and that the defendants allegedly deducted $50 from his salary each week. The News Projection Corp. has counter-claimed for $10,400 and Trans-Lux for $3,200 on the grounds that Morny allegedly "fomented disloyalty and dissatisfaction among other employees and engaged in competition with his employers."

Flash Previews

"You Can't Have Everything"—Darryl Zanuck has done it again with a fast-moving, high-stepping, rollicking piece of entertainment. The film has everything that is needed for good box-office business.

"The Thirteenth Man"—Mystery melodrama, slightly above the average as regards story content, directional technique and production. No big names but plenty of suspense seasoned with some good comedy.

These films will be reviewed in full in a coming issue of MOTION PICTURE DAILY.

Prall, F.C.C. Head, Dies of Heart Disease

BOOTHBAY HARBOR, ME., July 23.—Succumbing to a heart attack, Anning S. Prall, 66, chairman of the F. C. C., died at his summer home here today. He had been ill for the past two weeks.

Prall was appointed to the F. C. C. by President Roosevelt in 1934 and soon thereafter became chairman.

Prall was born on Staten Island, and had been a resident of West New Brighton, S. I., for many years. Following a term as president of the New York Board of Education, he was appointed a Commissioner of Taxes and Assessments of New York City in 1922, following which he was elected to Congress. He was in the House 12 years.

Soon after assuming the chairmanship of the F. C. C., Prall announced his intention to "free the air of objectionable programs." He was especially set against programs advertising internal medicines, which, he said, "are trying to hoodwink a gullible public," and against juvenile programs of "the blood and thunder kind."

Network Heads in Eulogies

The presidents of the three networks, NBC, CBS and Mutual, yesterday paid tribute to the service rendered the radio industry by Commissioner Prall.

From France, where he is now vacationing, William S. Paley wired: "Amsterdam radio has lost a true and valued friend as a result of the death of Mr. Prall. During his two years as the head of the F. C. C. he did a large amount of important pioneering work in co-ordinating and improving the structure of American broadcasting with its more than 700 separate stations. His unselfish devotion to the complicated duties of his office made him a man whose services will be missed."

Alfred J. McCosker, chairman of Mutual, said: "The passing of Mr. Prall is to me a great personal as well as an official loss. His long governmental service, intelligently and often valiantly performed, will I believe, make a lasting impression on the future of radio."

Lenox R. Lohr, president of NBC, said: "Because we know how wholeheartedly he strove to promote the best interests of the millions of radio listeners, we appreciate very fully what his passing will mean. His business ability was of a high order and this, in conjunction with his fine personality, reflected itself in the discharge of all his duties."

F.C.C. Adopts Resolution

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Shocked by the sudden death of Anning S. Prall, their chairman, members of the F.C.C. today called a special meeting at which the following statement was placed in its records:

"The Federal Communications Commission records with profound regret its deep sorrow at the sudden and untimely death of its honored chair-

ANNING S. PRALL

Wheat, Craven Seen As FCC Executives

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The death of Anning S. Prall today made a second vacancy in the ranks of the F.C.C. which President Roosevelt is expected to fill before adjournment of Congress.

As yet no successor has been named to Irvin Stewart, who retired when his term expired last month, but it is expected that Carl Wheat of Los Angeles, now special counsel for the Long Lines section of the telephone investigation, will get the position.

The death of Chairman Prall again brings into the limelight T. A. M. Craven, chief engineer of the commission, who was spoken of as a possible successor to Stewart, but who, it is said, refused the position.

With two vacancies to be filled and other changes looming in the near future, the way is seen for President Roosevelt to reman the commission in such a way that it will clean house, thus averting the Congressional investigation which is being pressed in the House of Representatives.

It is possible that Commissioner Eugene O. Sykes, former judge, may be given a position on the Federal bench and that Commissioner Paul A. Walker may be transferred to the Interstate Commerce Commission, while it is rumored that Commissioner Thad H. Brown also may be given another assignment.

If all these positions were filled with new men, it is pointed out, the commission could start with a clean slate, with only Commissioner George H. Payne and Norman S. Case holding over, and could eliminate the practices which have been complained of in Congress.

man, Anning S. Prall, and has adopted the following resolution:

"Whereas, the Federal Communications Commission has in the death of its chairman, Anning S. Prall, lost a wise and valuable public servant, devoted to the interest of the people of the United States, an indefatigable worker, and a courteous comrade, be it therefore resolved:

"That the Federal Communications Commission hereby places on its permanent records this memorial:

"In memory of Anning S. Prall, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission from March 11, 1935, to the time of his death, July 23, 1937. He made valuable contributions to the work of this commission and to the art of communication in all its phases."

P. & G. Sets Contract with Mutual, WOR

One of the most important client deals of the season has been completed between Procter & Gamble, the Mutual network, and WOR, was learned from a reliable source yesterday. By the terms of the deal the Mutual network will get one P. & G. "live" show, while WOR will offer transcribed versions of three "live" programs currently heard over NBC.

The deal marks one of the rare instances wherein Procter & Gamble has placed business on a network and stations other than NBC's.

The programs in question are "Couple Next Door," "Judy & Jane," the "Gospel Singer" and "Peppe Young's Family."

M'Fadden Purchases "Good Will" Series

"The Good Will Hour," heard for some time past as a sustaining program on WMCA, has been bought by the MacFadden Publishing Co. for 52 weeks, through the Ruthrauff & Ryan agency. "The Good Will Hour," incidentally, was the forerunner of the "Good Will Court," which was recently ruled off NBC.

Beginning tomorrow the "Court" will be offered weekly over WMCA and the Inter-City network, and the Mutual network, in behalf of MacFadden's True Story Magazine. WMCA will take the full hour regularly, from 10 to 11 P. M., E.D.S.T. while Mutual will take the program for a half-hour, 10:30 to 11 P. M.

New Shows On the Air

"Opera House"

Excellent ether entertainment was offered by Pat Barnes and his troupe of "Opera House" performers in the inaugural offering over Mutual. Deft production, an all too often overlooked requisite in most sustaining periods, was in evidence throughout the entire 30-minute session of songs, music and skits.

Easy on the ears were the vocals by Barbara Lamarr and the orchestral selections by Bob Stanley's band. Miss Lamarr's voice is a far from finished one, but it has an exotic quality that is irresistibly interesting. Stanley's band rates a superlative or two for offering excellent incidental musical support throughout, and for its rendition of "Canadian Capers."

Pat Barnes' reading of James Weldon Johnson's "The Creation" was effective, although it did seem that a less florid reading of the verse would have heightened its worth. The "Opera House" skits were routine. Brick Holton sang acceptably.

"The Opera House" will be offered each Thursday from 9:30 to 10 P. M. BANNER

British Quota Plans Will Be Revealed Soon

Stanley to Outline Film Bill of Government

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, July 14.—Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade, is expected to announce the Government's plans in regard to new film legislation before the House of Commons rises for the summer July 30.

General anticipation is that the Films bill will be introduced as soon as possible after the House resumes, in the first week of October. Pressure of other business is regarded as making a November date likely.

It is believed that Stanley's July statement will indicate the general line of his proposals and that they will be arrived at without further consultation with trade interests. A definite statement to that effect is contained in a recent report from the C.E.A.'s Cinematograph Films Legislation Committee. "So far as your committee is aware," says this state-

MILWAUKEE, July 25.—Closed shop contracts have been signed by the United Theatrical Employees' union, C.I.O. affiliate, according to Gunnar Mickelson, state C.I.O. director.

The contracts, which provide wage increases from $1 to $3 per week, cover ushers, doormen, cashiers, janitors and all other employees not under the jurisdiction of the A.F.L.

Houses signing the contracts, all of them independents, include the Jackson, Astor, Murray, National, Milwaukee, Peerless, Grand, Zenith, Colonial and the Grand in South Milwaukee. In addition, it was stated, nine other houses have signed bargaining pacts with the theatrical union.

Soft Ball Craze in South Is Blow to Theatre Takes

BIRMINGHAM, July 25.—Soft-ball leagues playing night schedules in every county seat in the south are furnishing theatres with the sternest competition they have faced since the pit of the depression and the height of the miniature golf craze.

Teams sponsored by local chambers of commerce, business houses and industrial organizations are banded in sectional, state or inter-state leagues, playing nightly to customers ranging in number from several hundred to several thousand. Admissions range from 10 cents to 25 cents.

Hardly a major city or county seat from Memphis to New Orleans and Mobile to Richmond is without an inter-sectional game on one or two nights of the week. Played on well lighted fields in open air stadia, the soft-ball games are anathema to theatres without air cooling systems and are stiff competition even for the more comfortable houses. Their popularity is attested by the fact that newspapers throughout the south devote considerable space to the games and league standings.

The south's perennial infantile paralysis scare was less widespread this year than last, being confined for the most part to localities rather than sectional or state boundaries. With a few local exceptions in Mississippi and Alabama theatres were subjected to no restrictions this summer as a result.

Fight Threatens Tax Legislation in D. C.

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Local income taxes for individuals and corporations in the District of Columbia, adopted by the Senate in preference to a House proposal for a two per cent sales tax which would have applied to theatre admissions, today threatened to prevent the enactment of new tax legislation for Washington this session.

Fighting the sales tax proposal on the ground that it would merely be the entering wedge to higher rates, the Senate refused to accept any taxes

Pittsburgh, July 25.—According to active political gossip here, John H. So far, however, Harris has neither affirmed nor denied the report.

Second Philadelphia CIO Drive Is a Dud

PHILADELPHIA, July 25.—The C. I. O. launched a second and abortive effort late last week to organize "white collar" workers in local exchanges. At a meeting called, the attendance is understood to have been a mere handful. Literature urging unionization under the John Lewis banner continues to be circulated among employees.

Effective Saturday, Warner Theatre employees at local headquarters went on a five-day week in what is construed as a counter move. The notice informing of cessation of work did not specify whether the step applied to summer Saturdays only, but the impression is the five-day week will apply throughout the year.

Distributors Worry About Buying Groups

New Ones Are Expected In Scattered Areas

A new outcropping of film buying circuits in many key cities, some of which plan to cover extensive rural territories, as well, is being watched with apprehension by large distributors who are prepared to resist any wide scale demand for lowered rentals or wholesale revision of playing terms in the face of increased production and labor costs for the new season, it was learned here on Saturday.

Exchange managers of several national distributors report that concurrently with the launching of the new selling season each year efforts are made to organize new buying combines in the larger cities by promising lower rentals and other advantages to prospective members. Even when such combines are successfully organized, it was said, their sponsors are unable to deliver as many benefits as were promised, and those which are infrequently obtained are

By RED KANN

THE wire out of Hollywood on Saturday did a thorough enough job in dissecting and probing the merits of "Stella Dallas." It happens that, as the office teletype ticked away merrily, we were closeted with an array of United Artists disciples viewing this latest superior effort from the studios of Sam Goldwyn. We beg leave, therefore, to add a word or two of our own.

The wisdom or folly in remaking successes of another year has pretty well established itself in the latter ranks. It may be the new versions are not as good as the old. More likely, the answer, if this is an answer, is to be found in the manner of cherishing which is the public's for its old-time favorites and the unconscious snort very apt to greet any latter day attempt to crash in where the sacrosanct should forever more have its own way. However, this "Stella Dallas" need tread no water in obeisance to the "Stella Dallas" of twelve years ago. . . .

Then, it was Belle Bennett as the frowsy, but inherently "right" woman who married out of her class and discovered the sacrifice to be hers was the release of her daughter to the social inheritance which awaited her. Now it is Barbara Stanwyck. Then, it was Ronald Colman as Stephen Dallas, a stuffed shirt if ever there lived one. Now it is John Boles and the stuffed shirt still goes. Then, it was Lois Moran who played Laurel, the daughter. Now it is Anne Shirley about whom we shall have more to say a trifle further along. Fearing no fear about dating ourselves, we remember the original version quite well, clear down the line to the heart-rending wedding season while the orchestra, in those days, played the highly sentimentalized strains of Dvorak's

"Songs My Mother Taught Me."

We had no deliberate idea at the outset to parallel the two pictures, yet such a comparison appears inevitably a something that won't be shunned. Our plot today was to sing songs of praise for the new "Stella Dallas" and to let loose our throaty typewriter for all those who would stop to hear. For, this is the tear-jerker of the year to date. It is completely sentimental. It is designed to poke hard at your heartstrings and, most assuredly, it does. It is the sort of picture that includes all these very necessary essentials for a great, popular success. It means an ocean of tears ready to pour out from women of all ages and, we are confident, from men of most. . . .

King Vidor, who knows how to putter around the emotions to a degree outrageous, was in his element here. He aimed at the floodgates and made his objective. Adroitness, showmanship and a sustained mood—these tally the score on his end of the job. But not quite. He had the players to handle. Miss Stanwyck will regain much lost ground because of her accurately attuned characterization; she is splendid. Alan Hale, as the comedy relief and always a good one, never has approximated anything like his work here. Boles is a bore, which keeps him true to form so far as we are concerned. The dramatic surprise of "Stella Dallas" is Miss Shirley who has been doing a long series of sweetness and light pictures for RKO. Here and under Vidor's gentle ministrations, this strippling, in one big stride, becomes perhaps the foremost contender among Hollywood's younger players for stardom honors. She is charming and restrained, wistful and naive, pleasant to look at. And, it seems as well, she knows how to act. Definitely. . . .

Argentine Films Top Montevideo's Market

MONTEVIDEO, July 12.—This city in Uruguay is one of the best markets in the world for Argentine product, which usually results in top grosses at all theatres in the country. Last year, 18 pictures from Argentina were released in this country.

To exploit this market to better advantage, SIDE, the Argentine company, has opened its own exchange here, with Juan B. Cavallotti as manager. Arrangements have been made for showing six features produced by SIDE at the Ambassador, first run theatre. SIDE is the first Argentine company to open its own exchange here.

Attracted by the excellent results of Argentine product here, Cicolux, a new company, has been formed here to produce native Uruguayan films. The company's first film, "Dos Destinos" ("Two Destinies") was trade shown here, and was not too well received by critics. But the fact that it is the first native film is expected to insure excellent business for it, especially in the interior.

It is considered doubtful in some quarters that the 230 wired theatres in the country will be able to maintain the three existing native producing companies, and it is reported that a fourth is under consideration.

U. S. Films Led in Finland Last Year

By CHARLOTTE LASZLO

HELSINKI, Finland, July 10.—The 1936-37 season was unusually successful for American films in Finland. A total of 57 per cent of all films released in this country during the past season were of American origin, which represents a considerable improvement over previous years. In all, 248 films were released here last season, of which 142 were American, 19 Austrian, 24 German, 14 British, 17 French, two Czechoslovakian, two Russian, 10 Swedish, 11 Finnish and one Hungarian.

Nearly every American company has a branch here. Warners released 31 pictures, M-G-M 27, Paramount 25, 20th Century-Fox 22 and Universal 8.

Several films were banned during the season. For the most part the Finnish censor board has expressed most objection to gangster and crime pictures and they also frown on films of the thrill type and those which display any revolutionary tendency.

India Censor Planned

WASHINGTON, July 25.—The Indian State of Hyderabad (Deccan) is considering the inauguration of its own system of film censorship, according to a statement from the head of the Calcutta branch of the Kinematograph Renters' Society to Trade Commissioner C. Grant Isaacs, in Calcutta, and relayed to the U. S. Dept. of Commerce. Heretofore the Indian states and provinces have accepted the censorship of both the Calcutta and Bombay boards.

Out Hollywood Way

HOLLYWOOD, July 25.—The major studios' hunt for new talent has drawn three new personality possibilities, two of whom were "discovered" working in other jobs on their home lots. ARCHIE TWITCHELL, studio laborer, appeared in the Paramount Studio Club play, "Louder, Please," as a fast talking reporter. He received a term deal. BEN LEWIS appeared in "Once in a Lifetime," presented by the Universal Studio Club in the lot's little theatre. He was signed and may draw the lead in "Iron Man," as his film debut. Discovered by DIMITRI TIOMKIN while singing in a Turkish bath, "ALBERT MAHLER, 27-year-old boxer, has been pacted by M-G-M.

GILBERT ROLAND has been borrowed from Paramount to appear opposite ROSITA DIAZ in Cantabria Films' first all Spanish "La Vida Bohemia." . . . MAURICE CONN has signed WYNNE GIBSON to a term deal under which she will star in four pictures a year. . . . "You and Me," much postponed Paramount picture which was to star GEORGE RAFT and SYLVIA SIDNEY has been postponed again. LEW AYRES and LOUISE CAMPBELL are tentatively set for the picture. . . . M-G-M has given term contracts to two British writers, JOHN DEANS and ARTHUR CALDER-MARSHALL, who are now on their way from London.

Empire Will Handle 36 British Pictures

TORONTO, July 25.—The highlight of the Empire Films, Ltd., sales convention at the Royal York Hotel here, was the announcement that Empire had obtained a virtual monopoly on distribution of British features for the 1937-'38 season. A total of 36 features has been selected for distribution in Canada. In addition to Gaumont British, whose product has been handled by the company for some time, Herbert Wilcox Prod., Associated British Pictures, Capitol Films, Jack Buchanan Prod., Associated British Film Dist., General Film Dist. and British Lion Prod. will use Empire for their Canadian trade outlet. That covers all British producers with the exception of London Films.

The usual hookup with Republic and Educational remains, with the former supplying 54 features and two serials while 42 two-reel and 46 one-reel comedies will be marketed for Educational. Rounding out the list are 12 productions from Canadian Cameos.

With President Oscar Hanson convalescing from his recent operation, the convention was handled by Vice-President Paul Nathanson and General Sales Manager A. W. Perry of Empire. The New York delegation included: J. J. Milstein, vice-president of Republic; Edward Schnitzer, eastern sales supervisor for Republic; Arthur Lee, vice-president of G. B. of America; H. J. Yates, president of Consolidated Film Industries; Jack Skirball of Educational; Harvey Day of Terrytoons and H. M. Thomas, special representative for the feature "Cloistered."

Representatives of the Canadian offices of Empire Films at the convention were: I. H. Allen and L. Druxer, Montreal; D. Rosen and B. Plotell of Winnipeg; J. Palansky from Calgary; J. Archer, Vancouver; G. Hoyt of St. John, N. B., and A. J. Laurie, W. Kennedy and F. Fisher of the Toronto office.

Suit Over Song

Suit was filed by the Robbins Music Corp. against Warner Bros. Pictures and Vitaphone in the U. S. District Court Saturday for alleged infringement of the copyright on the song, "Stairways." The complaint charges the song was composed by Adolph Deutsch in conjunction with Vincent Lopez in 1933 and the rights assigned to Robbins.

In 1936 it is claimed Vitaphone produced a short featuring Vincent Lopez and orchestra who allegedly used the song without permission. A permanent injunction, an accounting of the profits and damages are asked.

EDWARD ARNOLD, lately "Diamond Jim," plays the gaudy role of Jim Fisk, in this exciting melodrama based on that wild plunger's career. Bouck White's "Book of Daniel Drew" and Matthew Josephson's "Robber Barons" provided the story material, which was skillfully constructed into a screen script vivid with color, powerful in its vitality, dramatic punch, human appeal. "The Toast of New York" is better than "Diamond Jim."

WAR PANIC

Dramatizing the daring Wall Street manipulation which culminated in the notorious "Black Friday" of the post-Civil War panic, the film fits history into the more compact and more movie scene.

THE BIGGEST HOT WEATHER HIT

NEW YORK HAS EVER KNOWN!

"Living" Tops Cincy with a Smash $14,500

CINCINNATI, July 25.—"Easy Living" at the RKO Albee led the parade last week with a smash $14,500, a plus of $2,500. It was shifted to the RKO Capitol for a second stanza.

"Ever Since Eve" went over the top by $750 at Keith's, where the average is $6,500. This was one of the best weeks at this house in some months. These were the only two pictures to go over par, although cooler weather was a trade stimulant. The Zoo summer opera, drawing capacity crowds, was the main opposition.

Total first run business was $44,150. Average is $46,700.

Estimated takings for the week ending July 22:

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"You Can't Have Everything"

(20th Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, July 25.—Darryl F. Zanuck's organization has turned out another fast-moving, high-stepping, rollicking piece of entertainment in "You Can't Have Everything." It is comedy-romance with a world of music, specialties and laughs and enough story and dramatic content to hold the ends together, serving to focus the attention on the story, without it appearing merely a line of communication on which to hang the musical pieces.

There can be no doubt that the film will set the cash register to tinkling a merry song when the picture comes to town. There are names, straight and comedy, music and its authors to sell. Topping the list are Alice Faye and Don Ameche, both of whom have developed real followings; Charles Winninger; Rubinoff and his violin; Samuel Green, Red Fraser and Ray Winfield, an ace tap dancing specialty, who strut their stuff in a big way, and last but far from least, the completely insane, madcap trio, the Ritz Brothers, who have plenty to do, and make the most of it for a flock of laughs.

Added to that are the songs of 20th Century-Fox's top composer team, Mack Gordon and Harry Revel, a pair of which, at least, will set the audience to humming; an original story by Gregory Ratoff which is well knit, the screen play of Harry Tugend, Jack Yellen and Karl Tunberg, and the direction of Norman Taurog, whose specialty is

A word for Zanuck's recent "starring" acquisition, Louise Hovick, nee Gypsy Rose Lee. The powers that be have seen to it that the erstwhile siren of the late but not lamented strip tease is well clothed, which was to be expected. It must be said that she wears her clothes well, but that is all. In the role of the siren trying hard to hold playwright Ameche, Miss Hovick gives every evidence of the fact that as an actress, she just isn't.

The story has Miss Faye coming to the big town to be a successful writer of serious plays. She encounters Ameche, successful writer of hit musical shows, which are produced by Winninger, who, in turn, is stooged by the Three Ritz Brothers. Ameche pays for the option Winninger takes on her bad and serious play and, through a riot of comedy, Ritz Brothers' horseplay, romantic complications, including Miss Faye, who falls in love with Ameche without knowing his identity; the latter and Miss Hovick, and rehearsals which permit opportunity for effective musical numbers, the story threads its way. The conclusion finds Miss Faye walking out on Ameche after he has persuaded her to star in a new show, when she believes he is married to Miss Hovick, and her triumphal return to the musical stage and Ameche's arms when the marriage is proved false, but Ameche's love real.

Running time, 98 minutes. "G."

"The Thirteenth Man"

(Monogram)

HOLLYWOOD, July 25.—Better-than-average story content, direction technique and production support lift this formula mystery melodrama out of the routine classification. Although no big stars are featured, the capable cast goes through its work with snap and vigor which give the picture appeal and interest. Mystery and drama and tense suspense are the picture's major assets. There is sufficient romantic and comedy contrast to provide good balance.

Racketeer influence invading the field of politics to cause the mysterious death of crusading district attorney William Gould brings reporter Milburn Stone and radio commentator Weldon Heyburn into action. Efforts of the police, headed by Robert Homans prove ineffectual and Gould is slain. Taking up the fight alone to avenge the death of his pal and comfort the dead man's sweetheart, Grace Durkin, as well as prove himself to his own girl friend, Inez Courtney, Heyburn continues the investigation. With the aid of police, he rounds up all suspects, planning to identify the culprit in a broadcast. Tense suspense prevails as another killing is attempted, but police wound the assailant and, in the climax, supposedly respectable publisher Selmer Jackson is revealed as the killer.

All the principals give worthy performances and good support is contributed by Matty Fain, Dewey Robinson, Sydney Payne, Warner Richmond and John Dilson with Eadie Adams presenting one specialty song number. The picture is based on an original screenplay by John Kraft. William Nigh's direction, in addition to being directly to the point, induced good performances.

Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

Distributors Worry About Buying Groups

offset to a large degree by the operating overhead of the combine, including the premiums extracted by the sponsors.

The current season promises to show a greater outcropping of film buying combines than heretofore, due to a combination of current circumstances, exchange managers say. Among these are the inclination of distributors to seek better playing terms to match increased Hollywood costs and the natural desire of exhibitors both to resist the increases and to seek lower terms to compensate for increased theatre operating costs, to avoid admission increases where local situations are not yet ready to absorb them and to prepare for the impending organization of theatre workers with the inauguration of higher wage scales and shorter working hours.

Old established buying combines whose representative membership and reliability enable distributors to realize savings in sales costs will be dealt with on the same basis as in the past, branch managers say. Demands for concessions from the new and untried combines, on the other hand, will be resisted wherever the concessions sought are not on a par with the selling economies to be realized from group transactions, it was said.

Southeast Testing 16mm. Programs

600-seat house has either been closed or operated at a loss in recent years. In some instances the experiment is being conducted in small farming centers where no theatre has operated before. In no case, so far as is known, has the 16mm. experiment been carried into a town where an established theatre is in operation. Distributors are aiding in enforcing this policy by refusing to authorize the reduction of their prints to 16mm. size for exhibition in competition with an established theatre, exchange men here declare.

Largely conducted on an individual basis up to now, the 16mm. theatre experiment may receive unexpected impetus in this territory from the fact that the Wilby-Kincey circuit now is interested in its possibilities and plans several try-outs within the state during the next few weeks.

that would bear most heavily on the low income groups. The House, in turn, previously rejected the income tax because members of Congress might be included.

The bill will go to a conference committee where an effort will be made to adjust the differences between the two houses, but fears were expressed that the fight might be prolonged and, in the event Congress decided to adjourn on Aug. 7, as has been suggested, the measure might have to be deferred until next year.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"It's Love I'm After"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, July 25.—Leslie Howard and Bette Davis of "Human Bondage" and "Petrified Forest" memory are equally or more successful in this sensationally different vehicle as a pair cast as temperamental Shakespearean actors in love with each other but fiercely competitive professionally. Both achieve finely drawn caricatures of traditionally emotional stars.

Howard figures more prominently in the lines and action. It is especially timely and appropriate in view of his recent Shakespearean season on the stage. The opening of the picture is directly related to this, including billboards and the last act of "Romeo and Juliet."

Throughout the picture the lines from this and other works of the Bard are worked deftly into the dialogue. Olivia de Havilland plays a star-struck adolescent intelligently. Eric Blore steals the picture repeatedly as the tragedian's valet.

The original story is by Casey Robinson. It is a crisp comedy of good intentions miscarrying to ludicrous results. These and the characterizations evoke a continuous and mounting succession of laughs.

The gist of the story has the actor volunteering to disillusion the infatuated fiancée of a friend. His own fiancée misunderstands. His efforts to disillusion repeatedly fail. Complications accrue at a house party and the proceedings are hilarious up to the final scene.

The screenplay by Maurice Hanline is superbly contrived for surprise twists. Archie Mayo's direction is smartly effective. Associate Producer Harry Joe Brown and Executive Producer Hal B. Wallis provided generously in the point of cast and settings.

The film represents a bold but intelligent venture in the realm of sophisticated comedy, staking everything on the laugh-getting qualities of the story and the sheer merit of performances. It convulsed both lay and professional elements of a preview audience at Warners' Hollywood.

Running time, 87 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"U. S. S. R.—1937"

(Amkino)

This film is out-and-out propaganda for the Soviet system and what it purports to do for its adherents in Russia, and merits just that much consideration as a theatrical attraction for this country.

The current year marks the 20th of the Russian form of government and this camera record is supposed to be in effect a tour of the country. Needless to say it is a record of achievement, taking no account of executions, failure of organizational plans and the like.

For the most part it is unimpressive, as the camera roves about the vast country, highlighting the recent polar explorations by plane, the flights to the United States and, of course, concluding with a display of the military might which is Russia's today.

An unbiased observer comes away from the film, which is unconscionably long, with the impression that Russia, and the Russian people, do precisely what very other national group of people do. They engage in lumbering, farming and mining. They build factories and make automobiles and tools, they have children's camps and have folk plays, they train Alpinists and try to develop athletes, they make scientific effort and engage in handicraft. One is tempted to say, "So what?"

Withal, the glimpses of the varied activities are too sketchy to be of real value.

No production code seal. Running time, 97 minutes. "G."

which formerly was called "The Mad Dog of Europe."

Of 82,000 cards mailed out, 27,000 have been returned, and of this 82 per cent were enthusiastic about the proposed film, according to Al Rosen, who is to produce. A total of 300,000 cards will be mailed out before the survey is completed. With the cards are enclosed synopses of the script, written by Herman Mankiewicz, Lynn Root and Rosen.

Production is scheduled to begin some time in September or October, Rosen said.

The casting is virtually complete, but the names will not be announced until shooting starts, Rosen stated, because of the incident in which Dr. George Gyssling, local German consul, figured in connection with "The Road Back." Dr. Gyssling wrote letters to the cast of "The Road Back" warning them that they would stand in danger of having pictures in which they appear banned in Germany. Rosen indicated that he feared pressure might be brought upon the players selected if their names were to appear in print before the picture starts.

The method of mailing out cards is virtually the same as that used by the Literary Digest, except names are selected at random from telephone books in various cities. Rosen said that Catholic newspapers throughout the country are cooperating in carrying out the polls.

Officers of New Era Prod. are Samuel B. Gach, city official and publisher of community papers in Los Angeles, president; John J. Boland, film director, vice-president; Rabbi Eugene Rosenberg of Temple Beth-El, treasurer; J. Frederick Rosen, secretary, and Franklin B. MacCarthy, assistant secretary.

Protests Exclusive On Oklahoma Games

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 25.—Allen G. Nichols, president pro tempore of the Senate, has written Dr. W. B. Bizzell, president of the University of Oklahoma, protesting granting exclusive football broadcasting privileges to WKY, Oklahoma City.

"I have received information to the effect that WKY broadcasting station has secured an exclusive contract with Coach Tom Stidham for broadcasting of all football games to be played this year," Nichols wrote.

"I think it would be a mistake to grant an exclusive contract without a hearing or without competition. I am speaking for station KOMA, Oklahoma City, and other broadcasting stations in the state and on their behalf I desire to have the matter left open so that the university may receive the best offers for this right."

"It came pretty straight that an exclusive contract had been entered into, and I am sure that you will know if this is true. What the other stations desire is the right to make an offer for this grant."

WKY was given the contract after other city radio stations had been given the chance to bid, Tom Stidham, university athletic director and football coach, says.

The Oklahoma network stations did not bid, while KOMA wished to reserve the right to broadcast a part of the university games, enabling it to "cover" games of other schools, also, Stidham said. The university wants all games broadcast or none, he explained.

Radio Personals

Summer Shows On the Air

Welles and "Les Miserables"

Orson Welles promised a new type of radio presentation in his "projection" of Victor Hugo's heroic work, "Les Miserables," and, in a fashion, made good his promise Friday evening when the first episode of the seven installment series of the classic was presented over the Mutual network.

Welles' treatment left one wondering whether a more standardized interpretation of the book would not have been more acceptable. As presented Friday, the installment consisted mainly of narrative readings presented against a background of reenactments, a reversal of the usual order. This method cut down the dramatic value of the installment rather sharply and made it almost impossible for the listener to keep for long the tragic moods that were established during the infrequent moments when Welles, as narrator, gave up the microphone to the actors.

Another novelty in treatment was the reading of excerpts from letters written by the sister of the Bishop, in whose house Jean Valjean found refuge when released from prison, to set the scenes for what transpired in the Bishop's house while Valjean was the guest there. This proved to be a more welcome variance of the accepted methods than the dereliction noted above.

All in all, however, Welles' treatment should find favor with the intelligent listeners. Welles is a grand actor and his portrayal of the tragic character was a vivid, sharply-etched one, especially during that moment when he burst into the Bishop's home, snarled his identity, and asked for a night's lodging. His unbelief at his reception by the kindly Bishop was a particularly outstanding piece of acting. The supporting cast, the incidental music, and the sound effects were outstandingly good.

"U" Foreign Business Up, Says Cowdin

Chairman Returns from Five-Week Survey

Universal's foreign business is picking up "materially" on the Continent and in England, J. Cheever Cowdin, board chairman, reported yesterday on his return aboard the Queen Mary from a five-week business trip abroad.

Cowdin was enthusiastic about the company's new foreign sales setup, headed by Gus Schaefer, export manager, who accompanied him abroad and is remaining in Europe for several additional months to visit the company's Continental offices and representatives, and George R. Canty, former Dep't. of Commerce attache, who is now in charge of Continental sales for Universal with headquarters in Paris. The three conferred on new sales and distribution plans abroad which will be inaugurated at once under the direction of Schaefer and Canty, Cowdin said. The plans involve increased representation for Universal throughout the Continent.

British White Paper to Give Quota Rulings

Government to State Its Attitude Soon

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, July 26.—Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade, has just stated in the House of Commons that he proposes to make his general statement of the Government's intentions on film legislation available as a White Paper before the recess. (A White Paper is an official publication, for Parliamentary information).

Stanley had been pressed by various members of Parliament to make available a full draft of the proposed Films Act either before the house rises, or during the recess, Mr. Morrison, Labor M.P. for Tottenham, asserting that the measure was involved and non-party and that there was a desire on all sides for full details for study.

David Kirkwood, Independent Labor member for a Glasgow division, asked assurances that the special conditions of Scotland would be dealt with in the bill. Boothby spoke of the necessity of not "encouraging British producers to waste money to qualify for protection."

The Minister's reply was that all points brought before him were being considered. His promise of a White Paper means that the broad outline of the Government's Bill will be open for discussion and agitation for three months or more before they are introduced in the House of Commons.

Para. Not to Fill Fortington's Spot

In line with a company aim to effect a small, compact board of directors composed primarily of management men, the Paramount board will not fill the vacancy created by the recent resignation of H. A. Fortington at the monthly meeting of directors today, a company official said yesterday.

Of the present 16 board members, seven are management men. Future vacancies on the board, it was said, either will remain unfilled or additional operating executives would be named to the vacancies.

The board is scheduled to receive the financial report for the second quarter of the current year at its meeting today and is expected to approve the new operating contract with A. H. Blank for the Tri-States circuit which eliminates Paramount's option to repurchase Blank's 50 per cent interest in the circuit, in connection with

Circuit Deals For 1937-'38 Virtually Set

More Than Half Annual Contracts Closed

New season film buying by major circuits is in its final stages with more than half the annual deals of the five national circuits already closed and the remainder in an advanced stage of negotiation, home office film buyers reported yesterday.

National Theatres has closed for M-G-M, Paramount, 20th Century-Fox and Columbia for the entire circuit, and has closed with Warners and Universal for Fox West Coast theatres. Negotiations for the remainder of the company's theatres are under way with the latter two companies, and negotiations with United Artists and Republic are in an advanced stage.

Warners Theatres have closed for Universal, Paramount, M-G-M, 20th Century-Fox and Warners. Negotiations with RKO, United Artists and Columbia are under way.

Loew's New York circuit has closed new season deals with United Artists, Columbia, Universal, M-G-M, Grand National, and Republic. Negotiations with Paramount, the only remaining deal, are in progress. The circuit's deal with Universal involves one-half the output of each company.

For Quota Defaults

LONDON, July 20.—Salford Entertainments, Ltd. and J. F. Emery and R. Gradwell were each fined £15 and £5 five shillings costs at Salford Police Court for quota default at the Dominion and Empress Theatres, Salford. The Dominion showed 17.06 per cent of features and 15.47 per cent of all films instead of 20 per cent. in the year ending Sept. 30, 1936. The Empress showed 17 per cent of features and 14 per cent of all films.

Making a defense that there was a shortage of usable British films, counsel for Emery declared that bad British films were received with cat-calls, whistling "and even fireworks" and that when the manager had to put on a quickie he "held his breath and hoped for the best." The only British artists the audience would tolerate were Gracie Fields and George Formby, he said.

Fox Theatre Claim
Is Allowed in Full

The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday reversed allowance of a claim at $48,134 by the U. S. District Court to the Mortgage Service Co. of Philadelphia, operating trustee of the Philadelphia Co. for Guaranteeing Mortgages, against William C. Weisman, as receiver of the Fox Theatres Corp., and allowed the claim at the full amount of $389,436.

The claim arose from a guarantee by Fox Theatres of interest and taxes payable on a $1,800,000 mortgage issued by the Market & 17th St. Corp., a subsidiary, in 1930. Weisman opposed the claim on the ground that only $30,134 had been paid by the Philadelphia Co. and asked the court to fix the claim at that amount.

"If they want me, I'll probably accept," Thomson said yesterday, referring to the proffered role in John Golden's "Susan and God," which goes into rehearsal here in a week of 10 days. Three or four other actors are also being considered for the role, it was learned.

Bill Brandt writes Brother Harry a letter of Paramount Importance

July 19, 1937.

The Los Angeles
AMBASSADOR
CALIFORNIA

Dear Harry:

I just saw five Paramount pictures of their new season's program, namely:

Jean Arthur, Edward Arnold, Ray Milland in
"EASY LIVING"

Fred MacMurray, Frances Farmer, Charlie Ruggles in
"EXCLUSIVE"

Bing Crosby, Martha Raye, Mary Carlisle in "DOUBLE OR NOTHING"

Jack Benny and a terrific cast in
"ARTISTS AND MODELS" and

Irene Dunne and Randolph Scott in "HIGH, WIDE AND HANDSOME"

Everyone of these pictures is definitely a sensational Box-Office Smash, and I understand "SOULS AT SEA" with Gary Cooper and George Raft, and "ANGEL"--the Lubitsch picture with Dietrich, are even more important, although I didn't see them.

I was greatly impressed with the splendid morale on the Paramount lot under the direction of Adolph Zukor and Bill LeBaron, and if the above-named pictures are a sample of what we can expect for the balance of the season's program, I urge you to make your Paramount deal the first order of business.

We are having a splendid time and miss you very much.

Bill

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Mr. Dodd Takes the Air"

(LeRoy-H'arners)

HOLLYWOOD, July 26.—Many things in this Mervyn LeRoy production recommend it to audience and exhibitor attention. It has a good story, appealing music, much better than average production, and direction balancing action, dialogue and situations in breezy fashion.

The outstanding value, however, is boyish Kenny Baker. The acting, singing featured star of Jack Benny's radio program gives promise of becoming one of the screen's future big personalities.

Pushed by Frank McHugh, Baker, a country boy, becomes a great radio crooner. Eagerly chased by millions of women, with Alice Brady, who gives one of the best performances of her career, trying to grab him for herself, and Gertrude Michael attempting to wheedle him out of money and a sensational radio invention, Baker, who is loved by Jane Wyman, finally chucks the whole business and hides in the country. He is found by McHugh, Miss Brady and Miss Wyman, who set everything right.

Given proper support, the picture should develop into one of the season's entertainment surprises.

Harry Warren and Al Dubin's song numbers blend logically into the Clarence Budington Kelland story idea for which William Wister Haines and Elaine Ryan wrote the engaging screenplay. Alfred Green directed and kept the incidents moving at a lively pace.

Running time, 80 minutes. "G."

Montague Explains Shift of "Horizon"

in view of the unexpected negative cost of the picture.

Montague points out, "a picture costing that kind of money is a terrific problem for a major distributor owning a group of theatres—but it becomes an even more serious problem to a distributor, such as our organization, without the help of its own theatres to liquidate this expensive picture." The writer urges that the professed good will of the group toward Columbia continue in view of the circumstances.

R. B. Wilby Returns

R. B. Wilby of the Wilby-Kinsey circuit returned from a month's vacation in Europe on the Queen Mary yesterday and left immediately for his home at Charlotte because of the illness of a member of his family. He plans to return to New York in a few weeks to discuss with Y. Frank Freeman, Paramount theatre head, an extension of his operating agreement with the company for the Wilby-Kinsey circuit.

Freeman, who planned to leave today for Chicago and Minneapolis, has postponed his departure for one week.

Boyle Is Transferred

BOSTON, July 26.—Joseph Boyle has been transferred to Syracuse where he will act as assistant manager to Edward McBride of Loew's State. The appointment takes effect early next month. Boyle was formerly assistant manager at Loew's Orpheum here.

Form Virginia Company

NORFOLK, Va., July 26.—A charter has been issued to the Rosele Theatre, Inc., Norfolk, to operate film houses. The officers are: Rosa Levine, president; Nathan Levine, vice-president, and Robert Levine, secretary-treasurer.

St. Louis Is Scene Of Giveaway Battle

Friday and Saturday nights five-unit shows are presented at both theatres.

The competition is aroused by the new giveaway and there is talk of retaliation via three pieces of glassware. In addition, Greenman has a profit sharing plan for patrons. He distributes treasury certificates and treasury stubs. When a patron accumulates $10 in certificates he may redeem them for $1 in cash or $1.25 in admissions. Occasionally Greenman distributes twice the number of certificates.

Rules on Mo. Sales Tax

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., July 26.—Attorney General McKittrick has advised State Auditor Forrest Smith that if the auditor extends the time for making any return under the state sales tax such taxpayer is relieved of the payment of interest on the sales tax affected, and may also deduct the three per cent commission for collecting the tax. The auditor has authority to extend for a period not to exceed 60 days the time for making returns and paying the tax.

Buys 7 from Vienna

Bruno Zwicker, distributor of "Springtime In Vienna," has bought the American rights to seven Viennese production to which he has added English titles. These pictures will be ready for general release in September. The first two are "Immortal Melodies," a love story of Johann Strauss, featuring that composer's music, and "Vienna Dreams," already booked for the Belmont and 55th St. Playhouse, respectively.

Principal Gets Rights

Principal Film Exchange, Inc., has acquired the rights for New York and northern New Jersey on "Crusade Against Rackets," which is playing at the Gaiety on Broadway.

Study Duals' Effect On Chicago Children

CHICAGO, July 26.—An investigation is reported to be under way here to determine whether or not double feature programs are harmful to children. Certain organizations opposed to duals have asked that the city health department investigate conditions and determine whether or not four- and five-hour film programs are unhealthy for theatre patrons, especially children.

If the findings prove that conditions are not what they should be the City Council will be called upon to pass an ordinance restricting the length of picture programs.

"NEWS OF THE DAY"

AN INFORMAL PREVIEW OF M-G-M's SHORT SUBJECTS FOR THE NEW SEASON!

TWO-REEL PRODUCTIONS

6 CRIME DOESN'T PAY

Because of the popularity of the CRIME subjects, HIT AND RUN DRIVER, TORTURE MONEY, THE PUBLIC PAYS, and others, M-G-M will continue its successful policy of using factual CRIME material with themes that directly affect the public. The "Crime Doesn't Pay" series has proved itself the most sure-fire of all Shorts today!

6 M-G-M MUSICALS

These will be an entirely new and different type of 2-reel musical in which we will feature a young, romantic boy and girl with excellent voices supported by outstanding musical talent. These will be a cross between the ever-popular style of musical comedies and operettas of the type of MAY-TIME, ROSE MARIE and NAUGHTY MARIETTA. The kind of music used will be similar to SWEETHEARTS from "Maytime", THE BLUE DANUBE, THE INDIAN LOVE CALL from "Rose Marie", and such other popular music in this classification that is always sure-fire with the public. Showmen will be very enthusiastic about this series, as it will be far superior from standpoint of music and entertainment to anything ever previously done in short musicals.

ONE-REEL PRODUCTIONS

15 PETE SMITH SPECIALTIES

A name that goes on the marquee with the Biggest Stars! Proven entertainment! Pete Smith's new series will present the same diversified type of material as the Pete Smith Specialties being released on the current season's program. And you know how your folks love 'em.

10 MINIATURES

This series will consist of unusual human interest stories, some with Carey Wilson. One of his subjects will be on psychology, and other material he will use will be similar to his subject WHAT DO YOU THINK?, which was based on mental telepathy.

Arrangements are under way, although not completed, to make 3 or 4 subjects with international personalities such as A DAY WITH MUSSOLINI, GENERAL CHANG OF CHINA, the material to consist of the outstanding things these international personalities do during one of their usual busy days.

Included in this series will be a fashion short with Adrian; 2 or 3 novel miniature musicals; together with many other unique ideas that are being developed.

10 HISTORICAL MYSTERIES

The first one will be titled WAS LINCOLN'S ASSASSIN EVER CAUGHT? According to the records, John Wilkes Booth escaped and lived in South America for a number of years, returning to Enid, Oklahoma in 1903. Upon his deathbed he called for a priest and asked for absolution, telling the priest that he was John Wilkes Booth, Lincoln's assassin. He submitted credentials to the sheriff which indicated that he was John Wilkes Booth. To corroborate his story, the sheriff was referred to Joseph Hazelton, a former program boy at the Ford Theatre, then working in motion pictures in Hollywood. The sheriff wired Hazelton and asked him if he could come to Enid to identify Booth. As Hazelton was unable to make the trip, he asked the sheriff to wire a description of the man's right thumb, which was mangled. Upon receipt of this information, Hazelton wired the sheriff that the man was John Wilkes Booth.

Charles Whittaker, one of M-G-M's noted feature writers, is preparing striking stories of this nature and at the end of each will be—WHAT DO YOU THINK?

8 ROBERT BENCHLEY PICTURES

Great news for the millions of Robert Benchley fans who howled at "How to Sleep" and others of his laugh films. M-G-M has 8 really outstanding ideas for the new Benchley stories, the first of which will be HOW TO RAISE A BABY. Robert Benchley, by virtue of his film fame and literary reputation, is definitely established as box office.

12 "OUR GANG" COMEDIES

(Produced by Hal Roach Studios)

They won the Academy Award for the Best One-Reeler last year! And Hail! Hail! The Gang's all back for 1937-38. Your public's waiting for Spanky McFarland, Carl "Alfalfa" Switzer, William "Buckwheat" Thomas, Darla Hood, Eugene Porky Lee, Baby Patsy May and the others. Hal Roach has a raft of sparkling new ideas for them.

12 FITZPATRICK TRAVELTALKS IN TECHNICOLOR

The selection of a short subject on your program is often the factor that sells your show against competition. A Fitzpatrick Traveltalk in Technicolor with exquisite music is a breathing-spell of beauty and fascination on a well-balanced program. Big city or small town, the folks watch for the de luxe cruises to far-off places that are so enjoyable in the Fitzpatrick—M-G-M manner!

13 M-G-M CARTOONS THE CAPTAIN AND THE KIDS

Something NEW in the cartoon field but backed by forty years of proven popularity in the newspaper strips. Created by famed Rudolph Dirks, this series has been a prime favorite since 1897 . . . longer than any comic published today.

Syndicated by United Features to 70 daily newspapers with total circulation of 1,075,342, and 96 Sunday newspapers with total circulation of 3,992,121, "The Captain and The Kids" spells BOX-OFFICE!

1-THE NEW AUDIOSKOPIK

Dialogue by Pete Smith

The box-office records tell the story of how M-G-M's first and original Audioskopik built business through the nation. Never has any short subject won such audience enthusiasm! And now, with the experience gained by our first effort, you will see "The New Audioskopik" bigger and funnier than the earlier triumph. Naturally Pete Smith will again lend his talents to the accompanying laugh lines!

104 M-G-M's "NEWS OF THE DAY"

The newsreel with the greatest worldwide news coverage plus live-wire new ideas and fresh presentations. The bright new make-up has won a host of friends and Jean Paul King, narrator, came from radio fame to repeat his popularity on the screen!

4 LAUREL-HARDY RE-ISSUES

The cream of the famed comics' best. By public demand and exhibitor suggestion, because the short subject field has no comedians to compare with these feature-draw artists! "BEAU HUNKS" (4 reels) "BLOTTO" (3 reels) "THE PERFECT DAY" (2 reels) "COUNTY HOSPITAL" (2 reels). A welcome bright spot on any program and a "must" in the ads. They'll bring you extra business!

Ramsdell, vice-president of Philco Radio and Television Corp. The first in a four-day series of conferences called by the American Federation of Musicians to fight the spread of mechanical music in radio, thereby curtailing employment of musicians, was held behind closely-guarded doors in the office of Ascap yesterday morning and continued, after a noon recess in the offices of the A. Summer Shows on the Air

"Sans-Gene" Sans Quality

Ina Claire, whom NBC, for the purposes of ballyhoo, has labeled "America's most brilliant comedienne," far from lived up to that extravagant claim when she was presented in Sardou's comedy of the Napoleon epoch, "Madame Sans-Gene," first vehicle in her scheduled series of four broadcasts for the network. The truth to tell, once the production got under way, one easily could have surmised that the leading lady was just another actress named Mabel.

In preparing for the broadcast, Miss Claire must have determined that, lacking a footlighted platform and facing only the action-confining microphone, the best manner in which to portray the Burgundian washerwoman who became a Duchess and the wife of one of Napoleon's marshals was to shrill the lines in the uncouth manner one would expect from a washerwoman. Only in rare instances did she capture the subtle cleverness that Sardou wrote into the part.

As Napoleon, Osgood Perkins was no less a disappointment than Miss Claire as Sans-Gene. His listless performance was entirely incongruous to the spirit of the warrior who by the fierceness of his determination rose from corporal to Emperor of France.

that "The Road Back" would be changed materially to obtain Germany's approval of the picture and make distribution in that country possible, as "completely groundless."

"Universal hasn't sold a picture in Germany in years," he said, "and has no distribution tie there. We have had no communications, official or otherwise, with Germany concerning the release of the picture in that country or elsewhere."

Cowdin left yesterday by plane for Pasadena to attend funeral services there today for Garretson Dulin, president of Dulin & Co., and a director of Universal, who died suddenly last Friday in Lexington, Ky. Cowdin plans to return to New York on Thursday.

Appeal Court Rules For W.E. on Patents

it had been permitted to use the patents without interference and had paid royalties to RCA which had been turned over to the plaintiffs. The plaintiffs replied that they had promptly returned the royalty payments as soon as they discovered that the defendants were using the patents.

Western Electric explained yesterday that the patents involved in the case are the so-called Lowenstein grid bias covering the application of a source of potential for the grid of a vacuum tube; the Mathes patent covering a specific application of the Lowenstein invention, and four patents issued to the late Dr. H. D. Arnold, director of research of the Bell Laboratories, covering various methods of employing vacuum tubes in amplifier circuits involved in wire and radio telephony and motion picture sound systems.

The lower court held, the company said, that General Talking Pictures had infringed these patents by leasing to theatre owners vacuum tube amplifiers which embodied these inventions. The amplifiers were purchased from a manufacturer licensed to sell them only for radio use and the court held, according to Western Electric, that General Talking Pictures was without authorization to lease the amplifiers for use in theatres.

for quota, as an alternative to the minimum cost clause favoured by producers, and has been generally understood to favor a system under which all British films would be inspected by an expert committee.

Fuller makes it plain that the association is also prepared to consider a system whereby the viewing test should operate only in regard to any picture challenged by recognized exhibitors after its trade show. Under this plan, if a given number of traders disputed the exhibition value of any film it would automatically be referred to the viewing committee.

The C.E.A. is now collating the replies received by branches to letters to Members of Parliament, requesting support in the House of Commons for the viewing test as against the Government's suggested cost clause. It is understood a large measure of support is promised.

The change was seen in Washington today as due in part to the criticisms which have attended the activities of the theatre projects and as an effort to inject new blood into the project to meet complaints which have from time to time been brought to Washington.

crafts when representatives of the producers and the competing crafts met in the office of Maurice Howard, assistant regional director on the Regional Labor Board. Howard said that it will now be necessary to hold a hearing in view of the union's attitude toward the Society of M. P. Art Directors, Artists and Illustrators and Set Designers, the groups which seek jurisdiction.

The union based its objection on the grounds that it already holds a closed shop agreement with the producers.

Selig Edits Club Paper

DENVER, July 26.—Robert W. Selig, G.B. exchange manager, is editing the new Rocky Mountain Screen Club News, a four-page paper issued monthly. He is being assisted by Bert Turgeon and Al Smolin, and the paper is mailed to all members of the club.

Chicago Film Sales Ahead of Last Year

CHICAGO, July 26.—Film sales for the 1937-'38 product are far ahead of sales for the corresponding period last year, it is learned. The main reason for this is the fact that this year no clearance fights are in progress and sales can be made without consideration of changes in the clearance setup.

Last year and the year before Balaban & Katz attempted to change the clearance arrangement here and as a result many film deals were delayed until the matter was settled. This year no such demands have been made and the situation is much improved.

As usual the independent exhibitors await the closing of contracts by the various companies with B. & K. before making any deals themselves.

Country sales are about 75 per cent completed, the major distributors report. Major company deals with B. & K. for their theatres are practically finished. Three companies, Paramount, M-G-M and Warners, have franchise arrangements with B. & K., leaving only 20th Century-Fox, United Artists, Columbia, RKO and Universal to work out new deals. RKO and Universal release through the Palace for the first Loop run so their deals are for the neighborhood houses. U. A. this year sold to B. & K. after selling away from them the year before and it is expected they will continue to sell to the major circuit again this year.

Most independent theatre film deals are made in the fall but indications are that they will be from a month to six weeks earlier than in years past.

of the board. Several others have indicated that they would approve such a move, and only one company, Warners, has definitely expressed opposition to it. It is estimated that the board would cost only $28 per month per member. Local exchange and district managers have indicated their desire to have the board continued.

SUPREX CARBONS

HELP MAKE YOUR THEATRE Safe

Recently published records show that a major factor contributing to accidents in motion picture theatres is the low visibility experienced by patrons entering the darkened interior from the brilliant light of the street. Darkened interiors are necessary when the level of screen illumination is low, but SUPREX CARBONS provide an intensity of screen illumination which permits supplementary lighting adequate for comfortable vision from the moment of entrance.

Radio's Union Will Be Like Actors' Guild

A. F. of L. Unit Not to Be Branch of Equity

The A. F. of L.'s radio performers' organization will be an autonomous union similar to the Screen Actors' Guild rather than an adjunct of Actors' Equity Ass'n as planned at first, it was decided yesterday at a meeting of the Equity council with representatives of all other professional unions in the entertainment field.

The decision brings about a complete realignment of stage unions, under which the parent organization, the Associated Actors and Artistes of America, which heretofore has been comparatively inactive, will become the dominant unit in the amusement field, supervising and coordinating the activities of all other stage, screen, radio and concert organizations. Under the plan, Frank Gillmore, who has held the dual offices of president of the A. A. A. A. and of Equity, will concentrate in the future on A. A. A. A. duties. His resignation as head of Equity, a post to which he was re-elected for a three-year term in June, will be tendered as soon as a successor is agreed upon.

The first significance of the unions' move is admittedly to give the com-

Quota Terms Out Tomorrow; Wilcox Sees Crown Winner

By SHERWIN A. KANE

That the new British quota provisions will be adopted as proposed by the Government is the belief of Herbert Wilcox, London producer, expressed on his arrival in New York yesterday on the Ile de France.

[Cable advices from London received by MOTION PICTURE DAILY at approximately the same hour yesterday at which Wilcox was debarking here, said that the White Paper setting forth the Government's quota proposals would be made public in London late tomorrow.]

Declaring his belief that there would be no changes in the Government's proposed quota, Wilcox added that he did not "think" American companies will be using quota pictures, merely, to comply with the Act, but would engage in the production in England of "quality" pictures.

"At least," he volunteered, "I hope that RKO will make only quality pictures in England."

LONDON, July 27.—The White Paper (official publication for Parliamentary information) setting forth the Government's plans for new film legislation, in which will be incorporated new quota specifications, will be issued late on Thursday, Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade, declared in the House of Commons today in reply to questions.

Robert Morrison, M.P., asked Stanley if the proposals are unalterable as the basis of the forthcoming bill, or if the Government is prepared to consider further representations concerning it.

Stanley replied, "The time is getting very short and we must press on with the drafting of the bill. The proposals contained in the White Paper must necessarily form the basis of the bill, but I will certainly consider any representations regarding points of substance made before the introduction of the bill."

Chicago Theatres in Compromise on Fees

CHICAGO, July 27.—Local theatre owners, in a closed session today with the City Finance Committee, offered to pay a 25 per cent increase in license fees, as a compromise to the demands of city officials for a three per cent tax on gross receipts.

If the license fees are increased, it is considered highly probable that some revision will be made in licensing and a new classification given to certain theatres now thought to be paying inadequate fees. Both the committee and the theatre men plan to discuss the situation further at another meeting Friday.

Rowland, G. N. Split On Production Plans

HOLLYWOOD, July 27.—Richard A. Rowland and Grand National severed relations today when both parties were unable to get together on an assignment. Rowland originally was to produce color pictures using the Keller-Dorian process for Grand National, but the color deal fell through and no new assignments were given Rowland by way of replacement.

Phil Krasne, studio lawyer, stated today the company is still seeking a process for four pictures so promised this season, but no decision has been made as yet.

A net loss of $8,137 for the period from May 28 to June 24 was shown in the report filed yesterday by Howard S. Cullman, Roxy trustee, in the U. S. District Court. The report is based upon unaudited figures and the loss is shown before deductions for interest on funded indebtedness, expenses, etc.

Disbursements for the period were $110,661 and receipts $103,203, showing an excess of disbursements over receipts of $7,458. Cash on hand is $64,213 as compared with $71,672 on May 27. Admissions totaled $90,121;

Loew Circuit Closes On Four Major Lists

The Loew's circuit has closed nationally with 20th Century-Fox, United Artists, M-G-M and Columbia, the latter wherever usable, for new season product, in addition to the deals closed for Loew's metropolitan circuit, the home office reported yesterday.

The RKO theatres have closed nationally with 20th Century-Fox, Columbia, Universal and RKO Radio, in addition to the deals closed earlier for the New York circuit. National deals are in negotiation with Warners, Paramount and United Artists.

Para. Quarter Earnings Are $1,307,000

Do Not Include Share in Subsidiary Profits

Paramount Pictures, Inc., estimates its consolidated earnings for the second quarter, ending July 3, 1937, at $1,307,000 after all charges including interest and Federal tax except undistributed profits, taxes, depreciation and reserve. Such earnings do not include approximately $340,000 representing Paramount's direct and indirect net interest as a stockholder in the combined undistributed earnings for the quarter of partially-owned, non-consolidated subsidiaries.

The combined estimated earnings and share of undistributed earnings of partially-owned subsidiaries for the quarter aggregate $1,647,000. There were outstanding, as of July 3, 1937, 148,245 shares of cumulative convertible $100 par value six per cent first preferred stock and 571,751 shares of cumulative convertible $10 par value six per cent second preferred stock. After deducting $308,130 of dividends accrued for the quarter on these outstanding preferred shares the remaining $998,870 of consolidated earnings represents 41 cents per share on the 2,407,505 shares of common stock outstanding on July 3, 1937.

Computed on the aggregate $1,647,000 of estimated earnings and share of undistributed earnings of partially-owned subsidiaries referred to above, the earnings per common share calculated on the same basis would be 55 cents. The consolidated results

"Back in Circulation"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, July 27.—Blunt, bold and straight from the shoulder are the writing, acting and directional technique of this film, qualities which distinguish it and set it apart from the routine newspaper yarn. A drama-romance-comedy, its attributes are amplified by the excitement which keynotes the picture as a whole. Although sometimes implausible, the film carries a general ring of sincerity and conviction which assure suspenseful and dramatic entertainment.

The theme revives the idea made famous by "The Front Page." With Joan Blondell as a star reporter and Pat O'Brien as her editor, the practice of the paper is to get the news regardless of cost and to print it no matter whom and how it may hurt. The first sequences depict the ruthlessness of the news-gathering methods and introduce the squabbling romance of Miss Blondell and O'Brien. A melodramatic air of mystery pervades the middle reels.

Eagerly at first and then against her will, Miss Blondell writes stories which cause the conviction of Margaret Lindsey for murder. Later, convinced that Miss Lindsey is the innocent victim of inflamed public hysteria and is also shielding someone else, Miss Blondell forces her to reveal information which blasts the circumstantial evidence on which she has been convicted. The dual romance concludes with Miss Lindsey and John Littel honeymoon-bound and Miss Blondell forcing O'Brien into marriage with her.

The performances of O'Brien, Miss Blondell and Miss Lindsey are very good and effective support is contributed by Littel, Eddie Acuff, Craig Reynolds, Regis Toomey, Walter Byron and George E. Stone. Adapted from a story by Adela Rogers St. John, the screenplay by Warren Duff and the direction of Ray Enright are hysterically unorthodox in their conception of ethical news reporting procedure, but straight to the point in the dramatic episodes. The picture should appeal to devotees of vivid and vigorous entertainment.

Running time, 80 minutes. "G."

Flash Previews

"The Sheik Steps Out"—In which Ramon Novarro, after an absence of four years, returns to the screen in an interesting story featuring some good music. Locale, America.

"Any Man's Wife"—Despite its rather misleading title, this is a sob story entirely acceptable to the general run of theatre patrons.

"Hit the Saddle"—The "Three Mesquiteers" in another bang-up western. Includes the usual wild riding and shooting—plus some amusing ventriloquism.

"Crusade Against Rackets"—Story of a small town girl in the big city and how she outwits the traditional slickers. Some night club scenes which are, like the picture, not so good.

These films will be reviewed in full in a coming issue of MOTION PICTURE DAILY.

Forty Hold "Saratoga"

A total of 40 holdover engagements, 31 of them for two-week periods, have been recorded thus far for "Saratoga," according to the M-G-M home office. The film was released on July 23.

HAVE YOU HEARD ABOUT TOPPER?

AFTER months of secrecy, M-G-M revealed at a coast preview its amazing comedy "TOPPER"! The reception was sensational. Nothing like it ever before! ... Why the secrecy? Because M-G-M (often first with new ideas) now brings to the screen things you have never witnessed before in unbelievable tricks of the camera that are screamingly funny. These tricks are used to tell the story (from the best-selling novel by Thorne Smith) of a gay romantic young couple (Constance Bennett and Cary Grant) who decide to change the dull life of a banker henpecked by his wife (Roland Young and Billie Burke) and show him it's fun to be alive, fun to flirt and dance and go gay!

This picture is a sure-fire cure for the blues! It's a worry-destroyer! You'll go out of the theatre feeling like painting the town (if you've got enough strength left after your laughingspree). And while you're chuckling, you'll wonder how it was possible for the camera to do those tricks! We don't know (the producers won't tell!). But we do know that this is one of the finest all 'round entertainments we have ever put on our screen—and we're positive you'll thank us for telling you!

plete cooperation of the organized entertainment world to the development of a strong radio unit. Initial financing for the radio organization will be contributed by Equity, Screen Actors' Guild and the American Guild of Musical Artists. When organization is complete, the radio union will be completely self-governing. Jurisdiction of the new organization will include all those appearing before the microphone with the exception of members of the American Federation of Musicians.

Gillmore estimated yesterday that approximately 700 radio performers have been signed. He declined to estimate the total potential membership of the organization.

Under the reorganization plan Equity returns its jurisdiction in the radio field to the A. A. A. A. and upon completion of preliminary organizing steps that jurisdiction is to be awarded the new autonomous radio organization by the A. A. A. A. Its board of directors will be chosen from among the radio actors and singers who are members of the sponsoring organizations and local units of the national radio union will also be set up with their own local boards of directors. The constitution of the new

English Producer Here

Wilcox Sees Victory For Gov't Quota Bill

Wilcox's visit is to discuss with RKO officials his proposal for handling the company's British production requirements. Wilcox said that preliminary discussions had been held on the subject and that he "hopes to come to an agreement with RKO" during his 10-day stay here. He said that he had originally planned to produce nine average cost productions, but recently had decided instead to make five pictures with an increased budget per picture. He placed the total budget for the five at approximately $4,000,000.

Asked whether his production plans would undergo any further change in the event he was successful in concluding his projected deal with RKO, Wilcox replied that he hoped to maintain approximately the same per picture budget in that event, but that he "might make more than five such features."

"Victoria" Print with Wilcox

Wilcox brought with him a print of "Victoria The Great," based on the life of the British queen, which has Anna Neagle in the name role and which cost $800,000 to produce, Wilcox said. RKO Radio is distributing the picture in America and its opening here has been tentatively set for the Music Hall in September. Wilcox said there was a possibility that the picture might be roadshown here, as in England, however, and that this and the general sales policy for the film would be set during his stay. He plans to return to New York in September for the picture's opening picture.

Wilcox denied knowledge of any plans on the part of Leo Spitz or Ned E. Depinet to accompany him on his return to London to familiarize themselves with the British production situation. Depinet, Jules Levy, Joe Moskowitz and Phil Reisman were at the French Line dock to greet Wilcox on his arrival. The British producer was accompanied by Charles De Grandcourt, author of "Victoria the Great"; Merrill White, film editor; Eric Fredman, sales manager of Wilcox Prod., and Mrs. Pat Pearce, a makeup artist for Korda Prod., returning to America for a visit.

British Will Publish Quota Data Thursday

reference to special regard in the proposed film legislation for Scottish conditions, Stanley declared that English and Scottish conditions are much the same, but that he would consider any points in the substance of the proposed measure which referred to Scotland.

Indications are that the bill will follow the draft previously made known by the Board of Trade. In some quarters it is expected that the initial quota ratio will be 15 per cent for distributors and 10 per cent for exhibitors, and that the minimum cost will be reduced to £12,500 or £10,000.

It is believed possible that the proposals will stimulate trade moves for a common policy on the part of the industry before the autumn, when the House of Commons will get the proposed film bill. The Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n and the Kinematograph Renters' Society both are opposed to the cost clause in combination with a footage quota, although the two leading trade organizations differ on other points in the proposed legislation.

Big Pictures To End Duals, Says Schaefer

Higher Admissions Will Result, He Believes

Big pictures will solve the dual problem and increased admissions will make the continuance of big pictures possible, in the opinion of George J. Schaefer, United Artists vice-president and general manager.

Practically all the major companies have outstanding productions ready for distribution during August, he points out. Production has been speeded up and exhibitors have in prospect more top notch pictures for immediate playing time than during any August in recent years.

In view of this change on the part of distributors, he says, a number of leading exhibitors are favorably inclined toward an increase in admission prices and are planning experiments in strategic situations. They are approaching the problem cautiously, he points out, but are optimistic over the prospects for success.

Schaefer points out that production costs are mounting with many of the new season's releases budgeted at or

Actors' Guild Star Ascends; Equity Wanes

Autonomous Air, Screen Unions the Reasons

The Screen Actors' Guild is viewed here as inheriting the dominant position in theatrical unionism heretofore held by Actors' Equity Ass'n through the impending reorganization of the Associated Actors and Artistes of America.

Under the reorganization, Frank Gillmore, president of Equity, transfers his principal activities to the Four A's and, eventually, is expected to resign his Equity post. In addition, Equity surrenders its jurisdiction over radio, and an autonomous union for radio performers is to be set up under the Four A's. These and other impending changes are viewed in Broadway quarters as indicative of the decline of Equity as the dominating factor in the organized entertainment field.

The Screen Actors' Guild, it is pointed out, already is the most important union in point of membership and financial position in the theatrical world. While Equity membership has

Dealers Vary On Effect of Robinson Act

Divergent views have been expressed by various executives in the theatre supply field, including circuit equipment buyers, supply dealers and officials of affiliated buying corporations, relative to the effects of the Robinson-Patman Act for price regulation on the theatre supply market, Motion Picture Herald will say today.

On the one hand it is contended that the act has impeded the flow of potential supply business estimated at $100,000,000, because of uncertainty in prices, which are apparently rising but are not stabilized, and on the other it is said that the act has had no effect on the market and has not been a factor in increased prices. Another viewpoint holds that the act has stabilized discount practices and has made

For the same six months last year the net was $2,769,190. The gain for the period is $986,293.

For the quarter ended June 26, 1937, a net profit after all charges except provision for surtax on undistributed profits was $1,687,885 compared with a first quarter profit of $2,067,598 and a profit of $1,529,430 for the second quarter of 1936.

On the basis of 967,433 shares of $1.50 dividend cumulative convertible preferred stock outstanding, a consolidated net operating profit for the first half of 1937 amounts to $3.88 per share on the preferred stock. After allowing for the preferred dividend of 75 cents per share for the half year 37½ cents paid quarterly in March and June, there remained a profit equivalent to $1.76 a share on the

HOLLYWOOD, July 28.—The success of "Mountain Music," in which Bob Burns and Martha Raye were costarred, has led Paramount to announce two more pictures for the pair. The first will be a musical, in a Mexican setting, "Ensenada," which ARTHUR HORNBLow, JR., will produce. The second will be an untitled original now being prepared by WILLIAM LeBARON, who will assign it to a producer soon.

CHARLES CHASE has joined Columbia's short subject department in a producer capacity under JULES WHITE.

CHASE will work with HUGH McCULLEN on 13 shorts, the remainder being produced by WHITE, who has several features lined up to produce and direct. Expect SWG Control

HOLLYWOOD, July 28.—At a late hour tonight, the Screen Writers' Guild was meeting at a session which was expected to be concluded with an announcement by Marc Connelly, president of the Authors' League of America, granting that organization autonomy.

The step would be significant in that it would be regarded as a crucial point in the collective bargaining fight between the S.W.G. and Screen Playwrights, Inc. The latter is viewed by the S.W.G. as a company union.

Immediately after her Chicago concert, Miss Pons will leave for Hollywood where she will begin work on the RKO picture, "The Girl In A Cage."

Talent Scout Suing
On Durbin Earnings

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—Rita Stanwood, ex-wife of H. B. Warner, today filed suit in Superior Court against Jack Sherrill and Frederick Falkin, agents for Deanna Durbin, seeking an accounting of commissions earned by them on the Durbin earnings. Mrs. Warner averred that she contracted with the agents to scout talent and was to receive one-fourth of the commissions collected for her discoveries. She asserts that Miss Durbin was brought to the agents' attention in this way.

The suit claims that the Durbin contract with Universal gives the girl from $1,500 to $2,000 weekly. Previously the actress earned $150 weekly at M-G-M. She receives $100 weekly from the Cantor shows.

useless, for economy purposes, purchasing departments as separate corporate entities of large circuits.

The only point on which all groups appeared to agree, according to the Herald, was that because of the confusion resulting from disagreement as to what discounts are prohibited by the law, the circuits which purchase supplies through affiliated companies have found little advantage over others buying directly from manufacturer or dealer.

It is pointed out that only a series of rulings on the individual cases can settle the present uncertainty. Meanwhile, it is said, manufacturers have revised their prices upward, relying on legal opinion as to what discounts are allowable and what might constitute violations. Estimates of the increase place it between 20 and 30 per cent, although those executives who made the estimates could not with certainty attribute the price rises solely to the Robinson-Patman Act.

Discounts a Problem

The most troublesome point at issue, it is claimed, is that on the discounts which a manufacturer or dealer may allow for quantity purchases. In the past these discounts have been of two general types, one directly on a sliding scale for a quantity purchased at one time, and the other a rebate or credit at the end of the year based on the total volume of the year's business. In some quarters it is believed that both of these discounts are allowable. Others believe the credit or rebate type is a violation.

In many cases manufacturers have considered such heavy buyers as circuits as jobbers, giving them appropriate discounts. The policy is considered questionable under the law.

declined or remained dormant for years, and the boundaries of the legitimate theatre continue to shrink, the guild has forged ahead rapidly in the short space of one year. Its recent success in winning studio recognition established it on a firm foundation and indications are that its strength will continue to increase.

Indications are that as a result of the guild's new position in theatrical unionism, Kenneth Thomson will not resign his post of executive secretary, as he has considered doing, but will, instead, take a three months' leave of absence in the event his current negotiations for a leading role in the John Golden production, "Susan and God," result in an agreement.

The new radio organization, likewise, is expected to rise to a dominant position, along with the guild, in theatrical unionism. Both are expected to occupy positions of greater influence in the future of the Four A's than Equity. Broadway reports yesterday were to the effect that the reorganization of the Four A's was insisted upon, if not dictated, by the guild.

"Strip Tease" Labor Charge to Be Heard

CINCINNATI, July 28.—The question as to whether "strip tease" dancing exhibitions are "unfair labor practices" will be decided by Leonard Shore and Charles Ryan, attorneys for the National Labor Relations Board, who have been assigned by Philip G. Phillips, regional director here, to commence hearings in Harlan county, Ky., on this and other charges brought by the United Mine Workers' Union against the Clover Fork Coal Co.

Union officials, in their bill of complaint, alleged that company officials staged "free indecent exhibitions" such as "strip tease" dances to entice employees from attending union meetings.

Patterson Livens Up "Artists" Pressbook

Paramount had Russell Patterson do the cover for the pressbook on "Artists and Models." It's different. Some of the feminine figures floating gaily around in the atmosphere with Patterson wielding a brush on a step-ladder in front of them might cause the Advertising Advisory Council to raise its collective eyebrows, but exhibitors probably will keep the book on the top of the file.

The coated stock has that varnished light-reflecting finish and the atmosphere of gay abandon is carried through the inside pages.

When these open, late in the year, the circuit will include, in addition to the two new houses and the State-Lake, the McVickers, operated in partnership with B. & K., Woods, La Salle and Dearborn. Other neighborhood houses are expected to be added to the circuit. The Homewood will open about Oct. 1, and the Mayfair about Dec. 1. The circuit is operated by Aaron Jones, Sr., and his two sons, Aaron, Jr., and John J.

Three Odeon Houses Opened in England

LONDON, July 28.—Three Odeon theatres, at South Norwood, Crewe and Dudley, opened today. A world record is believed to be established by this fact; so far as is known no circuit has previously opened even two new theatres simultaneously.

The Odeon total of 230 will be increased to approximately 300 in the next few months, according to a statement from the company. It is the third largest circuit in the country, ranking below Gaumont British and Associated British, and has been built up in four years by Oscar Deutsch.

Goetz Denies Denham Contract Is Signed

LONDON, July 28.—Ben Goetz, head of M-G-M British production, today denied that a contract has been signed with Alexander Korda for lease of studio space at the Korda Denham studio from Metro English production.

Goetz declared that no final decision has been made as yet, and that various propositions are now under consideration.

Plan Party for Morris

BOSTON, July 28.—Victor J. Morris, Loew's Orpheum manager being retired after 27 years in the same position, will be given a reception and dinner Aug. 17 at the Cocoanut Grove in the film district. The affair, to be held at noon, will be in the nature of a farewell to Morris who leaves the following day to join an M-G-M producing unit.

Big Pictures To End Duals, Says Schaefer

over $1,500,000. Only higher admissions and the elimination of duals will make these successful, he believes. He declares that producers should have their investments protected through cooperation of exhibitors.

"Scarcity of star talent coupled with intensive bidding for proven story material such as Broadway plays and the increased use of color have had a very serious influence in upping production costs," he says. "A recent survey conducted by one of the nation's leading newspaper chains found picture fans overwhelmingly in favor of color. When and as this medium with its tremendous additional expense becomes more widely used, the questions of duals and admission prices will become even more serious than they are today."

M-G-M Is Starting Child Productions

HOLLYWOOD, July 28.—M-G-M will shortly put into production the first of a series of juvenile starring pictures in which the company's child entertainers will be featured. The first will be called "Baby Broadway Melody of 1938." Florence Ryerson and Edgar Allan Wolfe are writing the story. John Considine, Jr., will produce.

"U" Signs Edgar Bergen

HOLLYWOOD, July 28.—Universal has closed a deal to put Edgar Bergen and "Charlie McCarthy" into a picture.

It is thought here that the signing of Bergen may mark the start of a number of ventriloquist act films as Joe E. Brown and Harold Lloyd are each considering this type of story.

THANK YOU!

BECAUSE OF THE UNUSUAL CIRCUMSTANCES surrounding the release of "Saratoga" many theatres have graciously waived their customary clearance on Jean Harlow's last picture permitting a vociferous nationwide demand to be met quickly and expeditiously.

YOUR COOPERATION has made it possible to bring "Saratoga" in record time to millions of clamoring motion picture fans. In taking this means of thanking exhibitors, M-G-M also calls attention to a unique situation which probably has no parallel in screen history.

M-G-M GREATLY INCREASED THE NUMBER OF PRINTS from its laboratories so that hundreds of theatres were able to open "Saratoga" simultaneously with hold-overs in practically one hundred percent of these situations.

NOW BECAUSE OF A GENERAL WAIVING of clearance, it becomes possible for these prints to be booked ahead many weeks on the same solid basis.

CURRENTLY AND FOR A LONG TIME TO COME "SARATOGA" will be playing simultaneously in hundreds of theatres, one of the greatest hits in the annals of this industry. We are appreciative indeed of your cooperation which made this possible.

LONDON, July 20.—The profit of General Theatres Corp., Ltd., controlled by Gaumont British, was £337,041 in the year ending March 31, 1937. This is an increase of £61,072 and, with the balance brought in, makes an available total of £387,876 against £301,546.

Last year 12 per cent was paid.

Since reconstruction, the G.T.C. capital is £449,166 in £416,666 participating preferred ordinary shares of six shillings, eight pence, and £32,500 in ordinaries of one shilling value. The whole of the ordinary capital is owned by Gaumont British, which was appointed manager for 10 years from April 5, 1935.

The need for properly organized publicity, to counter and anticipate press attacks on the industry, and to present the exhibitors' case in regard to redundancy, new legislation and other matters was pressed in a resolution from the London branch, and generally admitted during the debate.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"That Certain Woman"

(Warners)

HOLLYWOOD, July 28.—In sharp contrast to her sparkling comedy role in "It's Love I'm After," Bette Davis has here an unrelieved emotional characterization demanding continuous exercise of a strictly dramatic talent. The story, frankly designed to draw tears of women and parents, is a complex presentation in modern circumstances and setting of the ingredients found sure-fire in "The Lion and the Mouse" and "Paid in Full" in the stage era.

Henry Fonda, Ian Hunter, Donald Crisp, Hugh O'Connell and Anita Louise top a strong supporting cast. Written and directed by Edmund Goulding, richly staged by Associate Producer Robert Lloyd, its box-office value is largely dependent upon the present status of the public disposition and capacity to suffer vicariously with the heroine throughout a series of heartbreaks and sacrifices preceding the final hard-won happiness.

The star is cast as a reformed widow gangster who marries a weak son of an inflexible capitalist and gives secret birth to a baby after its paternal grandfather has forced an annulment. The mother supports the child with the legitimate help of an admiring married employer and the child's father marries a girl who becomes crippled in a motor accident. The death of the beneficent employer brings headline notoriety reviving the woman's gangster past and casting doubt on the parentage of the child whose father returns with his crippled wife to offer aid. Both women attempt a sacrifice, but the reunion of the child's parents comes only years later on the death of the invalid.

This is but a skeleton outline of the intricate story which twists and turns to throw the emotional stress now this way and now that, providing ample opportunity always for Miss Davis to reveal her art, both lingually in dramatically written speeches and optically in tense silent stretches. The only laughs in the picture are minor ones provided by Dwane Day, the child. Some dialogue and incidents suggest restricting the exploitation appeal to grownups.

Running time, 94 minutes. "A."

"Love Takes Flight"

HOLLYWOOD, July 28.—This unpretentious picture apparently was aimed at the lower half of dual bills, and just about makes the grade. It has nothing much to offer in cast, story, direction or production quality except in the possible timeliness of airplane pictures due to the Earhart-Noonan Pacific flight disappearance.

Bruce Cabot, Astrid Allwyn and Beatrice Roberts have the leads in uninspired roles, backed by several reliable character players. The yarn is about flying and Hollywood film making, which has as its climax a nonstop flight from Manila to Los Angeles. Cabot plays an airline pilot made into a film star and who leaves behind the plane hostess, Miss Roberts, who is in love with him. She succeeds in becoming a pilot, specializing in racing and stunts, and, giving him up for good, goes off on a trans-Pacific flight.

Brought to his senses when he realizes she is incapable of navigating over the ocean, Cabot leaves Miss Allwyn, a film star out to snare him, and stows away on board a plane to aid Miss Roberts to make the flight.

The direction is credited to Conrad Nagel, from a screenplay by Lionel and Mervin J. Houser and an original story by Ann Morrison Chapin. George A. Hirliman produced, with Ben Pivar as associate producer.

Reviewed without production code seal. Running time, 70 minutes. "G."

Flash Previews

"The Mystery of the Hooded Horsemen"—Not so mysterious but sufficiently interesting to form the lesser half of a good double bill. Tex Ritter starred.

"Signora Paradiso"—From Italy comes this story of a greedy pawnshop keeper and his futile love for a young girl. Better sub-titles would have helped.

These films will be reviewed in full in a coming issue of MOTION PICTURE DAILY.

Barker to Consolidated

Reginald Barker has joined Consolidated Film Industries as special representative of Herbert J. Yates, with headquarters in Hollywood.

Short Subjects

"Schubert's Serenade"

(Paramount)

Very much worthwhile. The musical background of Schubert's famous composition is beautifully rendered by a symphony orchestra and Lief Erickson and an unnamed girl sing lyrics provided by Leo Robin. The singers walk in a garden and as the music proceeds Technicolor scenes shift from seascapes to mountains, to desert vistas, to flower gardens and back to the singers. It is pleasant for both the eye and the ear. The photography is by Robert C. Bruce. Running time, 9 mins. "G."

"Pot Luck"

(Educational)

A routine little comedy yarn forms the peg on which to hang a handful of dancing and singing acts which are entertaining enough. The man who tries to beat the tax assessors hides his furniture in the garage, but when the baby daughter hears her father say that some gentlemen are coming to dinner, the children move the furniture back, to daddy's discomfiture.

Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Portraits of Portugal"

(20th Century-Fox)

Up to the usual standard of excellence in production and interest of the "Magic Carpet of Movietone" series of travel subjects. Pictured are some of the beautiful castles with which Portugal is dotted, and indicative shots revealing the character and pursuits of the inhabitants as well as the architecture and physical appearance of the country.

Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Ding Dong Doggie"

(Max Fleischer-Paramount)

This is one of the Betty Boop series, but the action centers mainly about the antics of a pup that wants to be a Dalmatian coach dog and follow fire wagons. He gets into some fancy scrapes during a fire. Good children's fare. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"Winkie" Hits $17,000; Tops Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, July 28.—Only two houses evaded the effects of the weather. "Wee Willie Winkie" took in a good $17,000 at the Fox and was held a second week. Duke Ellington's Orchestra, plus "The Last Train from Madrid," snared a profitable $14,500 at the Earle.

Everything else dipped under par. "Easy Living" nearly made the grade at the Stanley with $13,000, but couldn't stick. It was replaced by "Saratoga" which made a reported gross of $6,000 on its first day.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"The Sheik Steps Out"

(Republic)

HOLLYWOOD, July 28.—From title to the last bit of incidental business, this production has been designed to re-establish Ramon Novarro, out of pictures for something like four years, as a familiar marquee figure and box-office draw.

As the title indicates, the star appears as a sheik, the character most commonly associated with him in recollection. As is not indicated, this sheik, like the most famous of his celluloid predecessors, takes it upon himself to discipline and reeducate a wealthy young lady (Lola Lane) who has come to his country with strong, but erroneous, preconceptions of the place and its people. The sheik masquerades as a guide, accomplishes his purpose by a series of artifices, and proves in time for the fadeout that his nationality is such as to make it quite all right for him to marry the girl.

There is a deal of singing, including importantly the work of a male chorus, and also a race horse element in the plot which has timeliness and pertinency for the present generation of ticket buyers. Herman Scholm, associate producer; Irving Pichel, director, and Adele Buffington, writer of story and screenplay, have contrived with manifest single-mindedness of purpose to give Novarro a vehicle snugly fitted to his requirements.

Running time, 66 minutes. "G."

Looking 'Em Over

"Crusade Against Rackets"

(Jay Dee Prod.)

This is another of those pictures designed to create the impression that it has lurid sex interest. The title might give the idea that some reform purpose is behind its presentation; the method of advertising it harks back to the old sideshow days when the hicks paid dimes and quarters expecting to see something more exciting than a "strip tease." Under any other title and with more conservative exploitation technique it would be just another feature rating as half a dual bill. The Gaiety lobby is plastered with references to the white slave trade and large streamers state that it is not for customers under 16 years of age.

As it unreels the customers discover that a small town girl in a big city faces the danger of being lured by city slickers in the form of gangsters and racketeers, but that if she is smart, especially if she has a reporter boy friend, she can outwit them. Lona Andre and Wheeler Oakman have the principal roles. Elmer Clifton directed.

A couple of night club scenes with music and some not-so-good dancing and an acrobatic act that doesn't disturb the audience calm are introduced. Police cars dash through the streets and there is a hot fight between gangsters and waiters, but it's just another film.

No production code seal. Running time, 52 minutes. "A."

"Hit the Saddle"

(Republic)

A bang-up western and another in the series featuring the "Three Mesquiteers," "Hit the Saddle" should be just what the doctor ordered or every kid in town and should be found pleasing by the adults who happen to encounter it on a double bill.

The three lead players, Bob Livingston, Ray Corrigan and Max Terhune, team up in splendid fashion, with Terhune good for an occasional chuckle, especially with his imitations and skill in ventriloquism. It is a Nat Levine production, directed by Mack V. Wright from a screenplay by Oliver Drake.

There is real excitement in the movements of a herd of wild horses, led by a beautiful pinto stallion. On a state wild horse preserve, the herd is subject to the raids of a group of bandits led by a supposedly respectable business man. The three buddies go after them, while at the same time two of them attempt to take the third from the hands of a designing young woman.

The gang has a trained "killer" horse, which they paint to resemble the stallion, hoping that the animal's misdeeds will lead to the state declaring open season on the herd. The plan is frustrated, of course, but not before a handful of hard-riding pursuits, gun fights and two fights between the killer and the pinto. The absence of the usual romantic conclusion is definitely welcome.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"Adventure" Chicago Hit With $8,500

CHICAGO, July 28.—"Forbidden Adventure," a Warner-Purdon production, purported to be about monkey worshippers, did a bang-up business at the Garrick to get $8,500 which was fine business for this 900-seat house and $2,000 above average. It was held another week with continued heavy advertising.

Ozzie Nelson and Harriet Hilliard at the Palace helped "Talk of the Devil." The gross was $21,000, well over average. The State-Lake, with "Manhattan Melodrama," a re-issue, was in the money to get a $14,200 gross to beat the normal by $1,200.

The weather was fair and very hot part of the week. Several large conventions helped business some, but the ideal weather on the weekend took thousands to resorts.

Total first run business was $116,200. Average is $118,000.

Estimated takings:

Week Ending July 22:

"SLAVE SHIP" (20th-Fox)
CHICAGO—(4,000), 35c-55c-75c, 7 days. Stage: "Carnival of Fun" revue. Gross: $30,000. (Average, $32,600)

WCKY's Transmitter Is Started Quietly

CINCINNATI, July 28.—Devoid of the pomp and ceremony normally associated with such occasions, WCKY, NBC basic Blue, last night dedicated its new 10,000-watt RCA high-fidelity transmitter, representing a 100 per cent power increase, granted by the F.C.C. last March, from the previous 5,000 watts on which the station has operated since its inception in September, 1929.

L. B. Wilson, president and general manager, who originally opened the station, gave a three-minute dedicatory address at 8:27 P. M., E.S.T., immediately following which the increased power was switched on for the NBC Packard hour from Hollywood.

Only the station staff, local radio editors and correspondents were present as invited guests at the dedication, which was held in the Netherland Plaza studios. Lone Picket Hits Ascap Trudging the territory before the Sixth Ave. portals of the RCA Bldg. all day yesterday was a lone picket, who bore placards which accused Ascaph of refusing him membership in the organization and of pirating his tunes.

He said his name was Ira B. Arnstein and that he was the composer of numerous tunes which, he said, still were being played over the air and in theatres, and for which he received no remuneration.

John G. Paine, Ascaph general manager, when questioned about Arnstein, said that he had no record of Arnstein ever having applied for membership. He said that Arnstein's lawyer had called him by phone several days ago, and that he (Paine) had asked them to visit the Ascaph office to determine if Arnstein was eligible for membership in the organization. That was the last he heard of Arnstein, he said, until yesterday's picketing episode.

League Gives Autonomy to Writer Guild

Guild Claims Majority Of Film Writers

HOLLYWOOD, July 29.—The Screen Writers' Guild has been granted financial autonomy by the Authors' League of America, the parent body, it was disclosed to the membership at a meeting of the Screen Writers' Guild here last night.

Leaders of the guild were optimistic, expressing the belief that the organization's membership constituted a majority of the 455 writers now working the studios. They also declared their expectation that the regional labor board election would be won by the guild over the Screen Playwrights, Inc., the opposing writer group.

Dorothy Parker, chairman of the guild's membership committee, said the guild has 269 members, the playwrights 67 and that 125 are not affiliated with either group. A break-up by studios indicated that guild membership is 100 per cent at the Republic and Schulberg studios, and a majority in most of the other plants. It was indicated that in virtually all studios the guild is leading the playwrights and non-affiliates.

Marc Connelly, president of the Authors' League, explained the new

Quotas Starting at 15%, British Government Plan

Remaining Film Boards Outside New York to Be Closed Tomorrow

All remaining Film Boards of Trade with the exception of New York are expected to close down tomorrow, it was stated at M.P.P.D.A. headquarters yesterday.

The bulk of the Film Boards closed July 1 when national headquarters of the boards in New York was discontinued. A few, including the Los Angeles, Seattle, Chicago, Philadelphia and New York boards remained open during July while distributors sought to decide their future. The temporary appropriations for these boards will be exhausted tomorrow with indications, according to the Hays office statement, that no new appropriations will be voted for the continuance of any but the New York board.

Would Rise to 30% Over 10 Years; Exhibitor Percentage Lower

Preliminary reaction to the British Government's quota proposals in New York yesterday was summed up by this:
"It's not so bad after all."

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, July 29.—A quota of 15 per cent for distributors and 10 per cent for exhibitors for the first year of the new Films Act, rising to 20 per cent for distributors and 15 per cent for exhibitors in the second year, and eventually reaching 30 per cent and 25 per cent in 10 years, was proposed today in the Government's White Paper on the plan for the new Films Act.

The White Paper, titled "Proposals for Legislation on Cinematograph Films," occupies 24 paragraphs and runs to approximately 6,000 words. It proposes a reduction of the present quota of 20 per cent for both distributors and exhibitors to 15 per cent for both in the 1937-'38 season, the last year of the present Films Act which expires next year, to avoid any disturbance due to the new conditions.

It appears that there is little difference between the proposals as made in the Government's White Paper and the original new Films Act draft made public by the Board of Trade last month.

Flexibility Permitted

Provision also is made for flexible operation of the new quota at the discretion of the Board of Trade within the maximum prescribed by the proposed law.

The viewing, or quality, test, as sponsored by the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n was rejected by the Government on the ground of uncertainty. It was said that such a provision would make production financing difficult.

The cost test, which was espoused by the Kinematograph Renters' Society (distributors) was approved. The White Paper said "The cost test has the merit of certainty. Those responsible would have considerable financial incentive to produce films likely to have satisfactory box-office results."

The Government accepted the

This circuit comprises 60 theatres in Illinois. Jules J. Rubens acted for the circuit and E. T. Gomersall and H. M. Herbel sat in with Grainger for Universal.

"Wee Willie Winkie" ended its first week at the Roxy with about $60,000. This is claimed to have set weekday records, but it failed to set a mark for the week. It was held and may get a third week. The theatre is opening at 9:30 daily, except Sundays.

"Saratoga" closed the week Wednesday night at the Capitol with $41,000. It gets another week. "They Won't Forget" took $11,950 at the Strand for the week ending Tuesday. This was its third week. "San Quentin" will go in next Wednesday.

HOLLYWOOD, July 29.—Samuel Briskin, RKO director of production, has been signed to a new long term contract, Floyd Odlum stated upon his departure by train today for New York.

Odlum added that early termination of the RKO receivership is expected and that problems in connection with permanence of management and policies have been smoothed out.

Lord Beaverbrook, prominent British newspaper publisher whose name has been linked with Alexander Korda's in financing of the latter's portion of the option on the United Artists stock of Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks and Charlie Chaplin, is not interested in such a deal, MOTION PICTURE DAILY learned authoritatively yesterday.

Wins Appeal in Suit Over Para. Original

HOLLYWOOD, July 29.—The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, in San Francisco, has affirmed a U. S. District Court decision awarding $7,500 to Walton Hall Smith, author, in an action against Paramount, for alleged failure to receive screen credit, it was learned here today. Smith had sued Paramount, charging that his original, "Cruise to Nowhere," was sold to the studio, and made into the film, "We're Not Dressing," completed in April, 1934.

He claimed he took a lower price because the studio had agreed to give him screen credit and publicize the fact that he wrote the original. Paramount appealed the original jury verdict awarding Smith $7,500.

Court Approves Fee For Roxy Attorney

Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey yesterday approved the $3,500 settlement of the $9,981 claim of Louis Karasik, tax attorney, against Howard S. Cullman, Roxy trustee. The settlement was effected by the Pound bondholders' committee which desired to dispose of the litigation and wind up the reorganization proceedings for the Roxy.

Karasik received $10,373 in 1935 for legal services rendered in obtaining a reduction on a realty tax for the Roxy, but his demand for $9,981 additional was refused by Judge Caffey. An appeal to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals followed, but a settlement was reached before argument on the appeal was heard.

Columbia Wins Point

Service of a summons on Columbia Pictures Corp. of California was quashed yesterday in the U. S. District Court by Federal Judge John C. Knox in the suit of Valentine Davies, a playwright, against the Columbia Pictures Corp. of California, Columbia Pictures Corp., Columbia Pictures Distributing Corp. and Tom Van Dyke.

Judge Knox ruled that the California corporation had no offices in New York upon which service could be made. Davies charges plagiarism of his play, "Fly from the Ointment," which was produced in 1931 as "Three Times the Hour" in "Alibi for Murder." He asked for a permanent injunction, an accounting of the profits and damages.

Bein Loses Warner Suit

The plagiarism suit of Albert Bein against Warners for alleged infringement of his play, "The Road Out of Hell," also known as "Li'l Ol' Boy" in "Mayor of Hell" was dismissed without costs in the U. S. District Court yesterday by Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard.

Judge Goddard ruled that the picture was based on "Junior Republic," a play written by Islin Auster for which Warners paid $2,500.

Bein, who wrote his play in 1930 based upon his experience in a reform school, charged that he and Jed Harris had engaged Edward Shodorov to revise the play for production. The play was not produced, but Shodorov was later hired by Warners to write the screen play for "Mayor of Hell." Judge Goddard stated in his opinion that the only similarity is that they are both about reform schools.

THE KEYSTONE OF YOUR FUTURE

British Quota Start at 15% Is Gov't Plan

minimum principle of £2 per foot and £15,000 per feature, but proposes that it be applied in a new form, basing the minimum on labor costs, which are estimated at one-half of the cost of the film. British features on which at least £1 per foot or £7,500 per film have been expended in labor costs are to be entitled to registration under the distributor quota.

A film costing £22,500 in labor costs is to rank double for quota purposes. This is actually no different from the original Board of Trade draft, which specified £45,000 as the cost for double quota. In the new plan, the £45,000 is accounted for if the labor cost is to tally for half the film's total cost.

A reciprocity proposal provides that if a distributor buys the rights to a British film for a single foreign market at a cost of £20,000, that distributor shall be exempted from the British quota in the same amount of footage. The reciprocity plan above applies only to films costing a minimum of £22,500 in labor charges.

Separate Quota for Shorts

A separate short subject quota is proposed, beginning at 10 per cent for distributors and five per cent for exhibitors and rising gradually to a high in the 10 years of the new Films Act of 20 per cent for distributors and 15 per cent for exhibitors. No cost test will be imposed on shorts at the start.

The advance booking restrictions at present in force will be retained, and a new clause has been added making blind booking by a distributor an offense. On registering any film the distributor will be required to make a statutory declaration that it has not been blind booked.

The Government rejected proposals to deal with overbuilding. Likewise rejected was the idea of a Government Films Commission, while the plan of an advisory committee was retained.

In general the new legislation, which applies to all films but newsreels and commercial advertising films, follows the earlier drafts. The idea believed behind the introduction of the labor cost basis is to make evasion more difficult. The surprise in the Government White Paper was in the inclusion of the penalty for blind booking.

Remodel London House

LONDON, July 21.—The Leicester Square, Jack Buchanan's key house of General Film Dist., has closed for renovation. It will reopen in three or four weeks.

Cuts Scales in Seattle

SEATTLE, July 29.—Effective this week, prices at John Danz's Palomar have been reduced from 25 cents to 15 cents at matinees until 5 P.M., and from 35 cents to 25 cents at night. More extensive shows are being offered at the lower rates. The first program under the new low price policy includes a first-run feature, two two-reel shorts, a newsreel, 10-piece stage band and five acts of vaudeville.

Strabolgi in Fight on CEA Quota Clause

LONDON, July 21.—A possibility that the C.E.A.'s campaign for a quality (viewing test) clause in the new films bill may have "surprising results" is held out as a warning to other sections of the industry by Lord Strabolgi, leader of the British Films Advancement Council, a committee of members of both House of Lords and House of Commons specially formed to watch the new legislation.

Quoting several instances in which the Government's officially announced plans of legislation have been modified by the action of private members, Lord Strabolgi, in an interview in the Daily Film Renter, urges other sections of the trade to establish contact with members of both Houses to counteract the fact that exhibitors "have establishments in every constituency."

Suggests Committee Permanence

Saying that the B.F.A.C. ought to become a permanent committee, Lord Strabolgi suggests that it would be useful in establishing reciprocity. "The new films bill is not by any means an appropriate place in which to introduce such legislation, but I do feel that after the bill has become law, the Government, or the industry itself, may conceivably initiate negotiations providing for a trading agreement between this country and America, which would insure a permanent scheme of reciprocity."

Lord Strabolgi's fears that the exhibitor association's propaganda for the quality clause has made an impression in Parliamentary circles is shared by other observers. In representations to all members, through the local organization, the C.E.A. has forcibly argued against the cost clause on the ground that it will entail a product shortage, the control of British production by American interests, and an increased danger of trustification of the industry.

Quick Embarkation

Morris Helprin was speeding out of the elevator of the Godfrey Bldg. when he caught a glimpse of sartorial splendor in the person of Hal Horne. "Wait a minute," called Hal, "I want to talk to you."

Looking 'Em Over

"Any Man's Wife"

(Republic)

This film has an unfortunate title which may serve to bring a certain type of patron into the theatre, but which gives no true impression of the character of the story the film tells.

It is, actually, a sentimental, tear-jerking picture which should prove acceptable to the general run of patrons and which is entirely unpretentious. With minor exceptions it is satisfactorily performed, the cast leaders being Wynne Gibson, Warren Hull, Sidney Blackmer and Vera Gordon. Karl Brown directed from a screenplay by Adele Buffington.

Blackmer takes their two children away from Miss Gibson, his wife, because of her attention to her wealthy playmates rather than her family. Her sister, Miss Gordon, is engaged to Hull, a surgeon, who is befriending a poor newsboy and his crippled sister, on whom he plans to operate. Seing a way to defend her husband's suit for custody of the children, Miss Gibson takes the poor children in, hoping the resultant publicity will serve to win her case.

Actually, however, she comes to love the child and, in the end, sacrifices her chance of winning in court to help pull the child through the operation. Her brother, rushing to court, brings about the dismissal of the action and a reconciliation.

Running time, 69 minutes. "G."

"The Mystery of the Hooded Horsemen"

(Finney-Grand National)

There is very little of the mysterious in this Edward Finney western, starring Tex Ritter, the singing cowboy. Actually, the film is routine western material, suitable for the lower half of a double feature program.

Singing in the western appears to have passed the stage of a fad and apparently is with us to stay. It is all right at times and in spots, but there is a tendency to overdo it. Westerns are purely and simply action films, neither more nor less, and when the urge to exercise the vocal chords gets in the way of action, it is time to curtail the songs. That comes very close to being the case with this film.

In support of Ritter are Iris Meredith, for the romance, Horace Murphy, as Ritter's pal, and Charles King as the chief menace. The picture has a quota of riding and fighting, but never steps out of the routine classification. Ritter and Murphy come upon a band of hooded riders terrorizing a community and after a valuable mine. The girl in distress is the niece of the mine owner, who is killed by the riders. Heading a group of vigilantes, Ritter cleans up the gang and gets the girl in the usual and approved western fashion.

Running time, 60 minutes. "G."

"Signora Paradiso"

(Cine-Lux Corp.)

The high spots of this Italian picture is the performance of Memo Benassi, as the money-mad pawnshop owner whose greed eventually leads to the destruction of his own chance for happiness.

Generally speaking, the picture tells its simple, dramatic story well, the cast is definitely satisfactory and the production technically efficient. But the film is without subtitle translations of the Italian dialogue, and since much of the development is dependent upon the dialogue for audience understanding, the film is only suitable for those theatres which can count upon audiences with a knowledge of the language.

Benassi, thinking only of profit, encounters a poor young girl, shows her with clothes and jewels, but is afraid to tell her his love. When by accident he assists a young man to meet her, and they fall in love, the old man is mad with rage and conspires to ruin the young man in business. The couple leave for a small town, and when Benassi follows them to try to win back the girl, he finds the two happy with their child and realizes he is beaten.

No production code seal. Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

Ostrer Signs New Group

LONDON, July 21.—Maurice Ostrer has signed "The Crazy Gang" (Nervo and Knox, Flannagan and Allen and Naughton and Gold) to a three-year-film contract with Gainsborough Pictures. The deal discounts stories of a complete cessation of G. B. production at the end of its present joint plan with General Film Dist. Gainsborough, a G. B. subsidiary, had only four pictures to make under that deal.

Promotion Plan on Coast

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29.—Blache Film Laboratory is operating a film promotion project on the Pacific Coast in the newly-formed Community Film Producers. In about 100 small cities in California and Oregon Community Film is shooting two-reelers of individual cities which are played at the community theatres. Local merchants meet the cost of the picture, which plugs the "buy at home" idea.

Short Subjects

"The Affairs of Pierre"

(Educational)

A really amusing comedy, which features Willie Howard as the operator of a school for the rapid assimilation of French. It is Howard's comedy which makes the subject funny, and the manner in which he speaks a mixture of French, English and what have you. When he is mistaken for the man who has committed all sorts of crimes, his troubles begin, but he talks his way out. A good comedy.

Running time, 19 mins. "G."

"Night in Manhattan"

(Paramount)

Some impressive night club settings are provided for this number, and the photography is high class. LeRoy Frinz arranged the dance numbers. Some of the singing is good, too. Those who appear are: Stanley Brown, Dorothy Dayton, June Kilgour, Billy Daniels, Gwyllin Ford and Bill Roberts. Their names mean nothing for selling purposes, but they are all youngsters worth seeing. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Bone Bender Parade"

(20th Century-Fox)

A high peak in comedy, conscious or unconscious, is reached in this number of the "Adventures of the Newsreel Cameraman" series, which catches the murderous exponents of the gentle art of catch-as-catch-can in some of their more tranquil moments on the mat. The result is often very funny and always very rough. It is, indeed, a manly pastime, if you live through it.

Running time, 10 mins. "G."

"Lost and Foundry"

(Max Fleischer-Paramount)

Popeye goes to the rescue of Sweetpea, the infant, after the baby has wandered through the factory gates while Popeye is having lunch on a bench with Olive Oyle. Some fantastic stunts are done with machinery, with Popeye and the baby having a narrow escape every other second. It's a laugh riot. Running time, 7 mins. "G."

"You Came to My Rescue"

(Max Fleischer-Paramount)

Shep Fields and his Rippling Rhythm orchestra get top billing in this, apparently to give it a selling angle. Most of the short is various cartoon scenes depicting rescues, and they are not especially interesting. The Fields musical sequence is the highlight of the short. Running time, 8 mins. "G."

"Aviator Shorty"

(Paramount)

A chimpanzee is the star of this number. He plays around with an airplane tire, whirls himself around a fire extinguisher wheel, balances on a baggage truck, runs after a plane and gets into the cockpit after donning his jacket and helmet, and climaxes the action by eating lunch out of a lunch-box on a wing in midair. Very funny. Running time, 10 minutes. "G."

Radio Equity Adopts AAAA Labor Policy

HOLLYWOOD, July 29.—The Hollywood unit of Radio Equity today officially adopted the procedure outlined this morning by the Associated Actors and Artists of America at a board meeting attended by Aubrey Blair and Murray Kinnell of the Actors' Guild. During the meeting it was disclosed that of the radio shows emanating from here about 80 per cent are organized.

New York Radio Equity now has about 500 members obtained by an Equity drive which attracted little outside attention.

It is believed here that the next big drive after radio has been brought into line will be for night club and circus performers. This will be part of an effort to link all entertainers in the nation under the A.A.A.A.

Aiding in the present drive are the I.A.T.S.E. and the American Federation of Musicians. It is likely that the three will devise a working agreement for mutual support.

Transfer Completed For WNBR, Memphis

Actually the change embodies a shift in control from The Commercial Appeal, Scripps-Howard morning newspaper which also operates WMC, long the NBC outlet here, to the afternoon Scripps paper.

Francis and Mallory Chamberlain, operators of the Memphis Broadcasting Co., former owners, will continue with the station.

George Engleter will be named as program director, with Joe Epperson supervising the technical expansion program.

WMPS, like WNBR, will be operated on 1,430 kilocycles and will have quarters at the Hotel DeVoy.

Dr. Greet will begin immediately a study of the speech of the CBS announcers and others who speak regularly over that network. The study will be followed by private consultations with individual speakers on the language problems peculiar to radio.

Dr. Greet in his speech clinics will attempt to reveal to the individual announcers the pronunciation and inflection which comes most naturally to them. Naturalness and simplicity in the use of English as it is spoken in all sections of the country are the qualities which he will stress in his consultations.

Three Networks' Yachting Experts Off for Newport

They lacked yachting caps, and the rolling gait characteristic of sailors was absent from their stride, but they were sailors for a' that, were the crews of the three networks who shoved off yesterday for Newport, R. I., to cover the America's Cup Races beginning tomorrow. Book sailors they were, for they've been boning on the subject of yachts for many weeks past in preparation for the duties beginning tomorrow, and to hear them tell it, each could take his place at the helm of the Ranger or the Endeavour, II, and do as well as Commodore Harold Vanderbilt and T.O.M. Sopwith.

The NBC contingent included Tom Riley of press, and Bill Haussler, photographer; Bill Stern, Jack Hartley and Ken Davison, of special events; Announcers George Hicks and Dan Russell; Chief Engineer Max Jacobson; Engineers Alfred Jackson, C. H. Campbell, Dewey Sturgell, D. B. Wittemore, Andrew Thompson, George Butler, Harold Ashworth and Ed Wilbur. Additional NBC com-

Mutual's engineering, commentary and special events crew included Cameron King, Dave Driscoll, Shirley Davis, George Brazee, Ed Franke and Samuel Moss. Johnny Johnstone, director of public relations and special features for WOR-Mutual, left with the crew, but he will "cover" the races in a different capacity. Johnny left on vacation, but he will be available at all times in the event of an emergency call in that he will be parked aboard a Navy vessel sailing in and around the waters of Newport.

The CBS contingent included Special Events Head Paul White, Chief Engineer Henry Grossman, Assistant Chief Engineer Bob Trago, Engineers James Kenny, Bob Sammon, Carl Schutzman, Richard Fay, Ted Miller, Sid Bergere; Charlie Pooler and John Fitzgerald of special events, and Ted Husing, announcer, and Special Commentators Henry McLemore, Edward I. Foster, Jr.; Sherman Hoyt and John Scott Hughes.

Mexico Forming New National Radio Web

By JAMES LOCKHART

MEXICO CITY, July 29.—A national network of the 102 radio stations functioning in Mexico is being arranged by the Government's Press and Publicity Dept. This action, the department explains, is not in the nature of a radio dictatorship, but is intended to benefit the stations, the Government and radio fans by eliminating overlapping of programs and assuring better coordination of service. The stations are to be encouraged to favor Mexican music and songs in their broadcasts.

The department has started the ball rolling by broadcasting concerts and news bulletins, lectures and the like on the national web from 10 to 11 P. M. Sundays. These programs can be picked up abroad.

The department estimates that Mexico has 1,800,000 regular radio fans—10 per cent of the population.

To Generate Own Current

MEXICO CITY, July 29.—No American current will be needed by radio stations XEPN and XELO at Piedras Negras, across the line from Eagle Pass, Tex. They have obtained a Federal franchise to install and operate a 700-kilowatt generating plant to make themselves independent of power from the states.

At the time he signed the contract Eddy was completing a busy screen and radio schedule and his starting date was set for Aug. 8 to allow for a summer vacation.

Looking 'Em Over

"It Can't Last Forever"

(Columbia)

De luxe houses might find this weak in names on a single feature basis, but it will be adequate in those spots where a series of laughs are needed to balance a dual program or where word-of-mouth advertising spreads rapidly in neighborhoods accustomed to single features.

Ralph Bellamy, Betty Furness, Robert Armstrong, Raymond Walburn and Charles Judels supply most of the action and fun.

Bellamy and Armstrong, agents, discover a balmy psychic, Walburn, who, they think, has a fine radio voice. He calls himself "The Master Mind." As a publicity stunt they stage a fake robbery which they expect "The Master Mind" to solve in the presence of newspapermen. Miss Furness is the only newspaper woman who shows up in the crowd. Walburn gets drunk and Bellamy has to substitute for him as "The Master Mind."

In no time at all Miss Furness has made him famous under orders of her city editor. A gang gets in on the stunt through intercepting Bellamy's fan mail and giving stock tips on a mythical mine. Things get so hot for Bellamy that he tries to discredit himself by picking a 100 to 1 shot to win a fight. The punk fighter wins and Bellamy is in deeper. He finally decides to disappear and Miss Furness goes along with him.

Two or three vaudeville acts are introduced, the action moves rapidly, and the love interest is sufficient to draw the romantically inclined along with those who are satisfied to laugh.

Hamilton MacFadden's direction from a story and screenplay by Lee Loeb and Harold Buchman takes full advantage of the light material.

Running time, 68 minutes. "G."

Quota Outline Under Attack From British

Impression Prevails It Will Be Changed

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, July 30.—No one seems to be satisfied with the quota proposals outlined in the Government's White Paper. Drastic modifications seem certain when the measure is presented to Parliament.

The proposals as they stand face an intense attack from the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n, with the backing of independents. Acute political agitation and a hard fight in the House of Commons seem certain.

The general view is that the Board of Trade has allowed studio interests to dictate a policy equally damaging to Americans and big producers here. The former are compelled to continue to produce footage instead of big pictures and the latter are prevented from making a real reciprocity deal with Americans.

Many believe that the Board of Trade simply adhered to the draft

"Gone With the Wind" Suit Is Dismissed by Court

Federal Judge H. W. Goddard dismissed the infringement suit of Susan Lawrence Davies against the Macmillan Co. in the U. S. District Court yesterday on the ground that "Gone With the Wind" which was published by the defendant did not infringe on the plaintiff's book, "Authentic History of the KKK-1865-1877."

Judge Goddard stated in his opinion, "I think any impartial reader after finishing both books will agree that the styles are not the same and that there has been no appropriation of the literary labors of Miss Davies by Mrs. Mitchell.

Pathe Has $104,549 Profit for 6 Months

A profit of $104,549 for the six months ended June 30 is reported by Pathe Film Corp. and subsidiary companies in the consolidated profit and loss statement issued yesterday. The figure is reached after deduction of sales, service and interest expense.

The Du Pont Film Mfg. Corp., 35 per cent of the stock of which is owned by Pathe, reports for the same period a net profit, after all charges, of $725,000. Of these earnings, $253,000 accrues to Pathe. Of this figure, $183,000 is undistributed.

Paramount Takes Buyers' Strike to Federal Court

Briskin Pact Runs 3 Years

Congress Move For Air Probe Gains Weight

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, July 30.—The House Rules Committee today was under fire from several directions as members of the House joined Representative McFarlane of Texas in his criticism of the committee for its failure to act on the Connery resolution to investigate the broadcasting situation.

McFarlane yesterday was joined by Representative Wigglesworth of Massachusetts, who declared that the present Communications Act has failed to prevent monopoly, eliminate private ownership of radio channels or bring about a termination of trafficking in radio licenses.

"From the testimony of the F. C. C. before the Appropriations Committee, from public statements by present or former members of the F. C. C. and the Federal Radio Commission, from publications of standing in the broadcasting field and from other sources

CHICAGO, July 30.—Sam J. Briskin's new contract as production head of RKO Radio is for a three-year period beginning with the expiration of his present pact, Leo Spitz, company president, who is here en route from the coast to New York, said in an interview today.

Briskin [shown above] had his new contract set earlier in the week in Hollywood following production conferences participated in by Spitz and Floyd Odum, head of Atlas Corp., which owns a half interest in the company.

Expressing his satisfaction with the present studio management Spitz said that no changes are contemplated on the production end. He said he plans to leave Chicago for New York on Sunday.

Senate, House Agree Upon New D. C. Tax

WASHINGTON, July 30.—A new tax bill for the District of Columbia, providing for a gross receipts tax on all business at two-fifths of one per cent, with a $2,000 exemption, and in increase from $1.50 to $1.75 per $100 of valuation in the real estate tax, both of which will apply to Washington theatres, was agreed to today by House and Senate conferees.

The gross receipts tax was adopted in lieu of a Senate proposal for a two per cent luxury sales tax which also would have applied to admission.

The bill is expected to come up for final action next week.

Gets Stay Until Monday In Philadelphia; May Ask for Others

PHILADELPHIA, July 30.—Resorting to the Federal Court to defend itself against the projected exhibitor "buyers' strike," Paramount today obtained a temporary restraining order from Federal Judge Oliver D. Dickinson here, halting all planned strike maneuvers and picketing pending a court hearing at 10 A. M. Monday.

It was apparent from the company's move here that a similar policy will be followed, if the restraining order is made permanent by the court, in other cities where similar exhibitor demonstrations have been planned, such as Cleveland, Chicago, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Boston and Los Angeles.

Paramount's action names 23 individuals and 14 other defendants. The order was filed for Paramount by William A. Schnader, former state attorney general. It alleges possible violations of the anti-trust laws and characterized the exhibitors' campaign as a "a buyers' sit-down strike" in which picketing by airplane was said to be one of the demonstrations planned. The plane, it was said, would carry banners and distribute literature.

Other features of the campaign, it is alleged, included the use of large advertisements in daily newspapers setting forth the case of the independent exhibitors against the company, the use

Paramount Pictures, Inc., estimates its consolidated net earnings for the first half of 1937 at $3,319,000. The figure compares with a net of $241,000 reported for the first six months of 1936 after crediting $1,600,000 of inventory reserves to operations during that period. No inventory reserve credit was applied during the first half of this year.

The six months' estimate does not include $979,000 representing Paramount's share in the undistributed profits of subsidiary and affiliated companies as of July 1. Similar undistributed profits amounted to $691,000 for the first half of last year.

Paramount's estimated earnings for the first quarter of the year were $2,012,000, which compares with $1,307,000 for the second quarter.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S
HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Dead End"

(Goldwyn-U.A.)

HOLLYWOOD, July 30.—There is gripping human interest drama in Samuel Goldwyn's picturization of the powerful stage play. "Dead End" is certain to impress all who see it; it held a preview audience spellbound. It is a masterful blending of a strong story, brilliant acting, expert direction and intelligent production.

This appears certain to be among the year's most discussed features. Exhibitors, whether in the largest centers or the small towns, need only exploit the available audience values to insure maximum attendance. Although entertainment comes first, the film also is a social document.

The film follows the theme and spirit of the play so closely that those familiar with the original probably will consider the screen version letter perfect. The story is told honestly and realistically, with no concession to artificial theatricalism.

Set in the New York slums, where swank apartment houses abut on the river tenements, the vicious adult and juvenile gangsters and those closely associated with them are the central characters. The story focuses the spotlight on the adolescent hoodlums, Billy Halop, Huntz Hall, Bobby Jordan, Leo Corcey, Gabriel Dell, Bernard Punsky and rich boy Charles Peck, all recruited from the stage cast. With them are Sylvia Sidney, Joel McCrea, Humphrey Bogart and Allen Jenkins, with impressive support by Wendy Barrie, Claire Trevor, James Burke, Marjorie Main and Minor Watson.

It is indicated that a life of crime must follow for the boys led by Halop unless his sister, Miss Sidney, can remove him from his environment. The gangster Bogart becomes the boys' idol. There is a subdued conflict in the early relations of McCrea and Bogart while the story concentrates on the juvenile depredations.

McCrea, infatuated for the moment with Miss Barrie, although in love with Miss Sidney, orders Bogart and Jenkins to quit the neighborhood. Bogart teaches the youngsters his gangster tricks and precipitates a situation in which Halop stabs Watson. While the boy is hiding, with Miss Sidney planning to help him escape, McCrea takes the law in his own hands. He kills Bogart, causes Jenkins' arrest, and Miss Sidney surrenders Halop, with McCrea promising to educate him after a term in reform school.

There are several exceptional sequences, among them Bogart's rebuff by his mother, Miss Main, and his meeting with his boyhood sweetheart, Miss Trevor, now a girl of the streets. The facilities of the screen have made possible a splendid amplification of the Sidney Kingsley play. Lillian Hellman's screenplay is a thorough job, and William Wyler's vivid direction is certain to win him much commendation. Although strong in theme, the fact that the picture depends so much on the work of the youngsters for punch and power brings it within a general audience classification. It should be a potent sermon, exerting a deterring influence on youngsters who desire to emulate the lives and customs of gangsters.

Running time, 90 minutes. "G."

"Charlie Chan on Broadway"

(20th Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, July 30.—Retaining all the good features of the series, this Charlie Chan adds several attractive new angles. With more drama and less romance than is customary, but with the full allotment of humor included, "Charlie Chan on Broadway" should fully satisfy all the regular following and prove engaging to those to whom interest in the series is not a habit.

In this case, Warner Oland is hurled into a sensational and mysterious dual killing which threatens to blow the lid off Broadway, New York newspaperdom and metropolitan politics. At great personal danger and hampered by the well-intended but inept tactics of his favorite son, Keye Luke, Oland skillfully unravels a maze of conflicting clues and suspicions to trap the culprit. Topical showmanship significance is added to his crime solution methods in that he makes use of the candid camera to seal his case against the killer.

The original story by Art Arthur, Robert Ellis and Helen Logan, and screenplay by Charles Belden and Jerry Cady, are good examples of tightly knit writing. Legitimate drama and suspense predominate and theatrical hokum has been held to a minimum. Eugene Forde's direction is alert and evenly paced.

Oland and Keye Luke being fully up to standard, capable support is provided by Joan Marsh, J. Edward Bromberg, Douglas Fowley, Harold Huber, Donald Wood and Louise Henry.

Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

of touring sound trucks and of 300 trailers to be shown in independent theatres in the eastern Pennsylvania, southern New Jersey and Delaware territory.

Paramount's complaint alleged that the defendants were guilty of a conspiracy in restraining trade and that the conspiracy was planned at an exhibitor meeting at the Carleton in Washington, June 29. It was further alleged that the "conspirators urged and coerced other trade organizations throughout the country to institute a 'buyers' strike' against Paramount for the month of August in retaliation for the non-delivery of certain pictures announced by Paramount for the 1936-'37 season."

Charge Intimidation, Coercion

In addition, the complaint charges that the defendants plan to picket theatres in the Philadelphia territory where Paramount pictures are to be played during August. It alleges "intimidation and coercion to compel exhibitors to breach their Paramount contracts and to refrain from entering into new contracts with the company." The defendants are further accused of "threatening bodily injury to any exhibitor refusing to carry out the orders of the exhibitor organizations involved."

Paramount's complaint pointed out that unless the court granted a preliminary injunction the defendants would continue to restrain "the aforesaid trade and commerce in motion pictures; the complainant would be unable to make delivery of its pictures in accordance with its contracts and exhibitors who desire to continue to exhibit Paramount pictures and who are willing to enter into new contracts will be prevented from so doing and the complainant will consequently suffer immediately from the loss of large sums of money."

suggestions in the absence of a trade policy and would welcome alternatives before the bill is introduced, if big producers are lined up in opposition.

The Film Group of the Federation of British Industries generally favors the Government plan, but Ken Nyman of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n says he is bitterly disappointed that the Government has adhered to the draft.

"We will oppose it with all the forces and instruments available, politically and by propaganda," he says, "and in Parliament." He regards the temporary reduction of the exhibitors' quota as a snare concealing the perils of the full act and says the labor quota provisions will aid evasions.

Press comments are varied. The Daily Express ran a front page scare headline reading: "New Film Bill Will Bring Hollywood Here," and went on to say that all United States majors will make films here which will go throughout the world as British.

The Daily Herald lead said: "Government Bait for Hollywood." It stressed the value to Americans of reciprocity concessions.

The Times lead was critical and was inclined to favor the quality test. Independents are strongly opposed and may line up with exhibitors for a quality test.

Congress Move For Air Probe Gains Weight

there appears to be abundant evidence of virtual monopoly," he said.

Wigglesworth declared Congress had received ample evidence of trafficking in licenses, citing the transfer of station KNX, Los Angeles, to the Columbia Broadcasting System. The replacement value of the station, he said, was about $217,000. After the deduction of amounts receivable, cash and good will, the value of the physical property was about $63,000. The consideration paid for the assignment was $1,250,000 or about 20 times the value of the physical property. Another station with a replacement value of less than $500,000 was leased for $219,000 a year.

"The essential evidence is not complete," he declared, "but it is sufficiently complete to indicate that Congress has not succeeded in providing such regulation for radio broadcasting as is vital in the interest of the American people as a whole. Unless some action is taken, there is every indication that we may witness again the scandals in this field which we have witnessed in other fields in the past.

Reasons Cited for Probe

"A thorough and impartial investigation into the entire situation should serve among other things to establish the extent, effects and dangers of monopoly in this great field for publicity and propaganda. It should serve to determine the extent to which the elimination of private ownership and trafficking in licenses has been accomplished, and to show what further steps should be taken to limit profiteering and to protect the investor, the advertiser and the consumer. It should serve to throw light on the matter of proper program control. It should serve to determine the earnings of the industry, whether or not rates now charged are reasonable, and what contribution, if any, the industry may be fairly asked to make to the Federal treasury."

FCC Denies WLW Is Having Difficulty

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Officials of the F. C. C. today denied reports that the Crosley Radio Corp. is meeting difficulties in having its experimental permit for 500,000 watts power made permanent, pointing out that regulations would not permit such action.

It was explained that the present maximum power is 50,000 watts. Authority to operate with ten times that power was granted station WLW for experimental purposes and there is now under way a study of the desirability of increasing the maximum to 50 kilowatts. Until the commission rules formally on that study, however, the station's super-power permit cannot be put on a permanent basis.

The station was recently given another extension of the temporary authority to use 500,000 watts power.

However, it is admitted in Washington, that the station has been under attack, and Representative McFarlane of Texas last week referred to it in a speech.

Commission officials pointed out that some station had to do the experimental work and that WLW, well inland, was in a good position to undertake it, both from a location and a financial viewpoint.

Cincinnati labor unions are understood to have protested to the commission recently that WLW was suppressing news of labor troubles, and it is said that similar representations have been made by the American Civil Liberties Union.

Charges of political bias, to the effect that the station showed partiality to the Republican presidential candidate, Gov. Alf Landon, in the last campaign, also have been made.

Summer Shows On the Air

CBS Symphony Orchestra

The Columbia Symphony Orchestra, one of radio's excellent musical aggregations, last night offered an eminently satisfying 45-minute period of symphony music, the first in a new limited series. Maestro Lemay conducted.

Leading off with two light compositions, "Fantasie for Strings" and Ravel's "Pavone Pour une Infante d'Enfante," the orchestra struck the midway and high-water mark with Schumann's Symphony No. 4 in D Minor. The performance concluded with Charpentier's "On Muleback," from "Impressions in Italy" and "Marche Joyeuse."

Vying with Rudy Vallee's program for listener attention, the symphony series will be the underdog in the competition, no doubt. The reflection, needless to state, is on the taste of the listener.

Script Library to Develop Giveaways

To supply the growing demand of local and regional stations for program "giveaway" material which will make their programs more directly productive of sales, The Script Library has opened a department devoted entirely to the creation and preparation of sales promotional material.

Designed for Script Library serials, the service will be developed in connection with old programs as well as new ones. Each sales promotion plan will be an integral part of the script program for which it is planned, and will involve booklets, giveaways, cards, window displays and special continuities. The material is a separate service distinct from the Script Library, and while it may or may not be purchased for use by the stations buying scripts, it will be available in the event a sponsor would like to have it.

Federation of Radio Actors Is New Name

The American Federation of Radio Actors is the name selected yesterday for the new organization of radio performers and announcers which is scheduled to receive its A. F. of L. charter from the Associated Actors and Artistes of America in the near future.

The name of the organization was chosen at a meeting of the council of Actors' Equity Ass'n, attended by representatives of the various Four A's unions. At the same meeting, Equity surrendered to the Four A's its jurisdiction in the radio field, for which formal application will be made in the near future by the new Radio Actors' Federation, which is to be an autonomous organization. A meeting of the radio organization will be held Monday night to consider its proposed constitution.

The meeting also directed the Grand Opera Artists' Ass'n to show cause on Aug. 27 why its charter should not be revoked by the Four A's for failure to properly organize its field. If the charter is revoked it would be granted, in turn, to the American Guild of Musical Artists. The Grand Opera Artists plans a court fight to retain its charter, a spokesman said after the meeting.

Weber Predicts End For Remote Control

Speaking of the meetings now being conducted between the A. F. of M. and the representatives of radio stations and chains, recording and transcription companies, President Joseph Weber of the musicians, yesterday said: "If the negotiations fail, thousands of musicians will no longer furnish music by remote control to the radio stations, a service which up to now has cost them nothing. The federation furthermore stands ready to withdraw all musicians from recording companies and radio stations."

TEN CENTS

Peace Is Near In AFM Row; Strike Is Out Attendance in 6 Months Over 90,000,000

Networks Will Survey, Then Talk Terms

After four days of conferences with the A. F. of M., representatives of the broadcasting chains and of individual stations have acknowledged the justice of most of Federation's demands. The acknowledgment calls off a nation-wide strike by members of the musicians' union, which had been threatened by the Federation beginning Aug. 14.

Station owners and network officials have agreed to make a survey of the situation and report back to the A. F. of M. with correctional plans by Sept. 16.

The original 14 demands presented by the A. F. of M. last Wednesday have been considerably modified due to the new accord. The principal change is in the A. F. of M.'s demand

See 100,000,000 Mark Reached by Year End

Average weekly theatre attendance in the United States passed the 90,000,000 mark during the first half of 1937, according to trade estimates completed yesterday. The figure will approximate, but at this time is not expected to pass, the 100,000,000 mark by the end of the year.

The gain in attendance represents an advance of approximately 10,000,000 patrons per week over the 1936 average of 83,000,000. The attendance for the year is expected to boost the total gross receipts of theatres over the billion dollar mark for the first time since 1930.

The low mark in theatre attendance was reached in 1932 with a weekly average of 60,000,000 patrons. The average was stationary in the neighborhood of 65,000,000 for the two years following, while it was estimated at 75,000,000 in 1935. The all-time high was said to have been reached in 1930 when attendance was estimated at 110,000,000 weekly. That

Quota

By RED KANN

IT is well within the power of the British Government to do exactly as it pleases about the second ten year quota act, effective in 1938. Reasonable ear will be bent to the points of view presented by the three major arms of the industry there, but, in the final analysis, which is also the quick analysis, it is the government's point of view which will prevail. The effectiveness of any quota, or subsidy, to be plain spoken about it, is open to something beyond a reasonable doubt. In its over all aspects, certainly quota has not worked in England. It has not worked because obviously it could not work, placing a guaranteed reward, by law, on indifferent or even less meritorious effort.

However, the English cousin persists in his tenacity for which a synonym easily could be bullheadedness. There is to be another quota, win, lose or draw. And the lessons of the first nine years seem to have spent on barren results. It would appear axiomatic and extremely close to the fundamentals to realize that what makes a production industry is value caught on the celluloid. All other endeavor to generate power is a waste of time. Hollywood, of course, has ground out its own quota, and a generous one, of junk. Yet, it has also and very definitely demonstrated for years enough to mark the achievement as

Selling Generally Held Up by Strike Moves

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 1.—The outcome of the exhibitor "buyer's strike" against Paramount, which will have its first inning in Federal court here tomorrow morning when a hearing will be held on the company's application to have a restraining order against the exhibitors made permanent, is expected to have a widespread effect on new season buying and the sales terms of all exchanges, according to informed opinion here.

All Philadelphia exchanges have been watching the progress of the projected demonstration with unconcealed interest, and it is reasonable to believe that this is true also of the other large exchange centers in which similar demonstrations have been planned, such as Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Chicago, Los Angeles, Cleveland and Boston.

The psychological effect of the projected exhibitor "strike" against Paramount thus far has been a general slowing up of new season buying of any and all product throughout the territory. As a result, local exchanges have made no vigorous effort to push new season deals in the face of the buyers' apathy and selling has been confined for the most part to upstate something beyond the pale of accidents or good luck that it leads the world as the master craftsman in the art, accomplishment, trick of producing quality motion pictures.

Opposed, as we are, to the hilt to forced draught methods, which a quota by statute is, it is, nevertheless, apparent even prior to the enactment of England's second Films Act that progress in rehabilitating production there will come only on an arrangement predicated on quality. England and any other country may compel producers to make quota films. It may compel exhibitors to play those films, but the measure by which the girth of its production career must be finally judged is simple as what follows:

"How good is the product?"

Local 306 Tries Two Sit-In Strikes Here

A new strategy in bringing non-union theatres into the fold was believed to have been employed by Local 306 in the projectionists' "sit-in" demonstration at two Manhattan houses last Friday night, which was settled over the weekend on a basis satisfactory to Local 306.

The sit-ins occurred at the Greenwich and Schuyler where the projectionists were not members of 306 but did have membership applications on file. At both houses the show was stopped in mid-evening, Friday, from the booth, where the projectionists protested from behind locked doors against their alleged unfavorable working conditions, while 306 pickets appeared simultaneously on the outside. The houses were closed for the night. It was said that the projectionists had sufficient provisions to remain in the booths for a week.

Under the settlement the projectionists receive an immediate wage increase and a 30-day period was agreed upon for the negotiation of other complaints. At Local 306 it was stated that the projectionists would be admitted to membership at once.

Stella Dallas Inspires a Discussion of a Mother's Vital Problem

BY MRS. FRANKLIN D.
ROOSEVELT

How Much Should a Mother Sacrifice? Mother love is a very curious thing. Some women are born mothers even though they may never have children of their own. Some women, though any number of children, never really understand a certain type of mother love.

I was brought up on the saying that few women are both good wives and good mothers, that most women either give all to their children, and others give too much to their children, and the household revolves around them, while the husband and his interests are more or less neglected.

I believe that when one's children are really small a mother should give them the greatest devotion and attention. As they grow older, however, she should never sacrifice except in the big things which are necessary for the children's development. She has got to be able to live her own life after her children are grown and have turned from her to lives of their own. Therefore, it is important that she should not drop her interests completely, for she must not force them in later life to make too great a sacrifice for her. In the big things, I think a mother usually does sacrifice for her children, but I think she should always do it with her eyes wide open. For instance, many a woman whose married life has been unhappy has continued to live with her husband because of the children, and if both parties are big enough so that they can make the home atmosphere gracious, the sacrifice is probably worth while. If not, I think most children would agree that the home where ill feeling and constant bickering reign is no home at all.

Barbara Stanwyck, John Boles, Anne Shirley in "Stella Dallas"

Sometimes it is a question not of whether you should make a sacrifice, but of whether you can make a big enough one to make it worth while. A mother should remember that what sacrifices she makes, she must never expect to be repaid in kind, for probably the children will tell her some day that the sacrifice was not to their liking! She had best forget that she has ever made what she does, she does because she wants to do it, and that as far as in her lies, she will give the children, while they are young, a wise discipline, and a great love. When they are old enough to get out, and stand their own experiences, she will let them go, hoping they will return to her when they need companionship and sustenance and that she has given them strength and courage enough to meet the world on their own.

... AND THOSE AMAZING BOY ACTORS FROM THE NEW YORK STAGE PLAY H

I NEVER DID THIS BEFORE

by Ben Hecht

I've always had the notion that the theatre could hit harder than the screen, bounce higher, say more and dig deeper.

After an hour and a half look at Mr. Goldwyn's production of "Dead End", I entered Mr. Goldwyn's office with head hung and ready to join the true faith, and murmur that I may have been wrong.

It is perhaps unfair to the stage to use the picture "Dead End" as a spokesman for the cinema-side. Because this opus as put on the screen by Mr. Goldwyn's troupe of geniuses is as good a movie (the word 'movie' is anathema to Mr. G.) as Hollywood has ever produced.

It is a more unflinching, undecorated and brilliant attack on the emotions than any stage play, including its own Broadway origin, I've seen in years.

Odd though it is to find one's self writing a blurb for a Goldwyn picture, it's my own fault, not Mr. G.'s. Among the things I did when I broke down and begged Mr. G.'s pardon for not having adored the art of the cinema before, was ask his permission to square myself with the Muses by coming out once flat-footed with a Hosannah for a movie.

Mr. G. graciously granted me this permission and here is my Hosannah—seventy trumpets strong and all pealing "Dead End" is a knockout.

A gain of approximately 500 theatres either new or reopened, is estimated for 1937 over 1936. The addition of theatres, however, is held to have but little effect on the gain in attendance. The improved business status of the nation is credited with any significant gain registered, as a result of which not only new patrons are gained for the theatre but regular patronage is enabled to attend with greater frequency.

Film rentals, on the basis of the new estimated attendance and gross figures, are expected to approximate between $350,000,000 and $400,000,000 for the current year.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Blonde Trouble"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 1.—Although manufactured at a cost coming to be commonly interpreted as earmarking a picture for "also ran" ranking on a double bill, this edition of the Ring Lardner-George S. Kaufman hit of yesteryear, "June Moon," has something more than an even money chance of fooling the price-tag experts if permitted to break with the field. A Glendale audience which had just seen "Captains Courageous" and came to this picture unapprised of title, antecedents or budgetary intimations, laughed happily in all of the proper places, which are many, and went out talking about the picture and singing the key tune.

There is abundant explanation of this. The Lardner-Kaufman idea, refurbished and remodeled but not lost by Lillie Hayward in writing the present screenplay, is as good as it ever was, if not, under the beneficent influence of radio-wrought interest in song writers, better. The performance of the bush league lyricist by Johnny Downs is as fine a piece of light comedy as has come out of any camera at any price in quite some while. The lines and business are bright and their handling by Lynn Overman, Benny Baker, William Demarest, El Brendel, John Patterson and Eleanor Whitney, who is billed on top but has little to do, is adroit, fresh and effective. Director George Archainbaud keeps the action brisk and interest taut throughout, managing, even, to accommodate a couple of more or less interpolated vaudeville acts without stopping the story.

It will be remembered that the rural hero of the comedy is an amateur song writer who comes to the city with much confidence and some money, is taken in tow by the sophisticates of Tin Pan Alley on the latter count and, ultimately and to his own and everybody's surprise, turns out a hit tune that solves all of his accrued problems and leads to the happy ending. The tune is "It Was All in Fun," written by Burton Lane and Ralph Freed, and is likely to come in for quite an airing on the networks.

Running time sixty-seven minutes. "G."

Overseas Previews

"Action for Slander"

(London Films-United Artists)

LONDON, July 22.—Good story values, excellent suspense and some very effective acting, all slightly reduced in appeal by a suggestion of anti-climax in a finale which might have been outstanding mark "Action for Slander." Comedy relief in this scene, admirable in itself, is also slightly out of character. As a whole, good audience material, with the discount that the dialogue is very English and the social atmosphere still more so.

Major George Daviot, at a country house party, is accused of cheating at poker by a drunken fellow-guest. The accusation is supported by Capt. Bradford, fellow-officer of the major, who suspects Daviot, justifiably, of an intrigue with his wife. Daviot is persuaded against taking legal action by other members of the party, who are afraid of newspaper publicity. Through a whispering campaign he becomes a social pariah and is on the point of suicide when his wife, who has left him on account of the intrigue with Mrs. Bradford, returns and persuades him to take action for the sake of her reputation. In court, Daviot's counsel stages a repetition of the card game and proves that it was physically impossible for him to cheat in the way alleged.

Tim Whelan's direction is very skillful. His comedy relief is excellent, although Morton Selten's humorous picture of the testy judge, a gem of characterization, reduces the effectiveness of the court scene, which is not convincing anyway. Clive Brook, Ann Todd, Margaretta Scott, Anthony Holles, Ronald Squire, Francis Sullivan and Arthur Margetson are the principals, all well cast.

It has exploitation value in the situation of a man hounded to desperation by gossip and convicted by circumstantial evidence of something of which he is guiltless.

Running time, 80 minutes. "A."

ALLAN

Shifts Publicity Setup

SPRINGFIELD, O., Aug. 1.—Kroger Babb, publicist for the Chakares-Warner Theatres here, has shifted his department. Louise Brooks has been named secretary and assistant to Babb, and Angela Powers, Mary Washburn and Garnet Judy are handling publicity and advertising.

Short Subjects

"The Eagle's Revenge"

(William Steiner)

Some fine mountain scenery is introduced in this number and in some of the short scenes suspense is built up strongly. Two forest rangers viewing the surrounding countryside through glasses see various things—a woman in bathing, a puma chasing her, mountain goats and other animal life. The story builds as one of them steals young eagles out of a nest and in revenge an eagle steals a child. This is obviously faked, but the picture is interesting nevertheless. Running time, 18 mins.

"Montague the Magnificent"

(Educational)

A comedy with the old story of the department store employe as the "goat" who is "fired" by the boss for every complaint that comes in, but with the additions to its advantage of Bert Lahr as the man who gets "fired" and the twist of the man's desire for a screen career. He is hooked by a fake screen contest, goes to a studio and proceeds to wreck a picture in production. The comedy has its moments.

Running time, 18 mins. "G."

"Popular Science"

(Paramount)

A few things Ripley has missed are shown. One machine in the sunlight supplies hot water for the house and another that looks pretty much like it keeps the icebox cold. All the owner has to do is hope for clear skies. Another man pours liquid air on mercury and freezes it. He pours some more on aluminum powder and there's an explosion. Then he drinks some and blows steam out of his mouth and nose. Cinecolor adds to the interest. Running time, 11 mins. "G."

"Live Alone" Writer Set

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 1.—F. Hugh Herbert is scripting Faith Baldwin's treatment of "Live Alone and Like It," the Marjorie Hillis best seller which Universal will produce.

"Winkie" and Harlow Sock Twin Cities

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 1.—"Wee Willie Winkie," with a Major Bowes stage unit at the Minneapolis Orpheum, and "Saratoga," at the Minnesota overcame the usual "circus week" doldrums in the Twin Cities and brought the largest grosses for many weeks.

"Wee Willie" drew $14,000 against the usual $6,000 while "Saratoga" made $19,200 in nine days at the Minnesota where $10,000 is normal for a week. Large grosses were made at tremendous matinees and the Orpheum was aided by a price boost. The week was exceptional despite a two-day stand of Barnum & Bailey and the institution of night baseball in the Twin Cities.

In St. Paul, "Captains Courageous" played to an $8,500 gross at the Paramount where $5,500 is normal even though that city also saw the circus for a day and night baseball got underway for the first time.

Total first run business in Minneapolis was $41,600. Average is $27,000. Total first run business in St. Paul was $15,600. Average is $15,000.

that "recordings made in accordance with the rules of A. F. of M. can only be used at radio stations if the same number of musicians is employed at the stations which made the records."

The revised ruling now states: "Records can only be used at radio stations if same employ a number of musicians satisfactory to the A. F. of M." The number of musicians to be employed, of course, will depend on the power and size of the individual stations. This will be determined by the broadcasters themselves, and their decisions will be presented for discussion and revisions at the parleys resuming for them Sept. 16.

Record Trade Forbidden

Another important change in the original 14-point broadcasters plan has been made in regard to Point 3. The original demand read: "Radio stations are not to be licensed for the making of records of any kind." The revised rule now reads:

"Radio stations may make records or electrical transcriptions for audition purposes or for their own record but such records or electrical transcriptions must not be commercially used. Furthermore, radio stations designing to manufacture records or electrical transcriptions must agree to the same rules and regulations as to recording companies or companies manufacturing electrical transcriptions and be licensed by the Federation. In the event that a sponsored program cannot be put on the air at the exact time allotted to it, an electrical transcription may be made of such program to be

CBS 6-Month Morning Sales Jump 136% Above Last Year

CBS morning time sales the first six months of 1937 were greater than the morning sales for the similar period last year by 136 per cent, a breakdown reveals. Afternoon sales for the first six months of this year showed a gain of 56 per cent over the 1936 six-month mark, while evening time sales were up 20 per cent.

Further analysis shows an increase in the number of clients at all times of the day, and increases in average expenditure per client; and a study by industries shows that automotive accounts gained 57 per cent; tobacco, 61 per cent; foods and drink, 59 per cent, and soaps and housekeepers' supplies, 98 per cent. Of the $1,828,466 spent by CBS morning advertisers, $1,560,260 is classified under food and household supply accounts. This more than triples the amount spent for morning advertisers by those two industries in the first six months of 1936. The breakdowns follow:

put on the air on the same day but the American Federation of Musicians must immediately be advised that such has been done and the record of such transcription must be sent to the American Federation of Musicians to be destroyed."

Meanwhile, the A. F. of M. will take up its problem with the transcription and recording firms in a new series of meetings to start this morning. These representatives will be given the following set of ultimatums when they arrive at the meeting this morning:

1. Explain the evil of circumventing of employment opportunities of musicians by reason of the uncontrolled use of recording for profit.
2. There is no objection against recordings for home use or in their use for any purpose outside of the United States and Canada.
3. Members of the Federation will not in future make records which are to be used for profit unless musicians are employed in the place or establishment where so used. This includes radio, hotels, restaurants, cafes or any other place whatsoever where the use of records has the result of destroying employment opportunities of members.

Loop-hole on Record Use

4. The Federation is ready and willing to permit their use in such places or for such purposes as radio if it comes to some agreement with the employers using such records as the number of musicians to be employed.
5. The dubbing or re-recording of records will not be agreed to by the Federation.
6. Members of the Federation will only make records under contracts containing these stipulations.
7. The Federation insists that it must be advised of all records made and for what purpose they are to be used with the understanding that records should not be placed at the disposal of an employer where it has the tendency to destroy employment opportunities or the developing of such.
8. Records henceforth made by each corporation must have a registered number to be filed with the Federation. Before such record is used anywhere for any purpose whatsoever, a clearance permission must be secured from the American Federation of Musicians.

9. Requests by employers that musicians should assign all their rights for the use of the master records to recording companies will be considered by the Federation as an attempt to circumscribe the employment opportunities of other members of the Federation and the Federation will not agree to such assignments.

10. Members of the Federation will not render services at any place where records of any kind are used whether they are new or library records unless some agreement exists with the employer using the records that musicians be also employed in addition thereto.

Recording by Wire Out

11. The making of any records by running a line through radio corporation studios or any other place for any other than legitimate purposes, that is, purposes in contradiction with these rules is not agreed to by the Federation.

12. The making of records taken from the air with or without the knowledge of the musicians is not agreed to by the Federation.

13. All recording companies to be licensed by the American Federation of Musicians, the license to contain the stipulations under which members of the Federation will make records.

14. Nothing herein must be so construed to rob an individual member of his property right that he may have or may acquire in any of his recordings.

15. In no jurisdiction of any local of the American Federation of Musicians can members play for an employer in contradiction of any of the above rules.

16. All recordings made in accordance with these rules can only be used in places and establishments or over the radio if the same number of musicians are used by the radio stations which receive same.

17. No record made can be used in the jurisdiction of a local union without the consent of such union.

18. All contracts to be valid must be approved by the International Executive Board of the American Federation of Musicians or any authority designated for that purpose by the Federation.

CBS Building Plans Halted For One Year

The growing status of Hollywood as the industry's focal broadcasting center, and the rapid technical strides now being made in the field of television have halted CBS's plans for the construction of the network's new building center at Park Ave. and 59th Street. The broadcasting citadel, plans for which were announced last year, was to have rivaled Radio City as a broadcasting show place, and was to have been completed in 1939.

CBS has not made a formal announcement as to the temporary abandonment of the construction plan, and neither has it advanced the reasons stated above as the cause for holding the construction in abeyance, but the facts have been admitted to MOTION PICTURE DAILY by several important CBS executives. They said a statement will be issued within the next 10 days or so. The statement, in substance, will bear out the facts presented above, it was admitted.

The building suspension period is now set for one year.

Dr. Goebbels said that the number of radio sets in use in Germany had increased since 1933 from 4,307,700 to 8,372,000, a gain of 98 per cent, giving Germany the lead among European countries in the number of radio sets.

accounts where the "strike" agitation is lighter. Few sales representatives here are hopeful of seeing the new selling season in full swing in advance of the final decision in the Paramount situation.

Federal Judge Oliver D. Dickinson is scheduled to hear the Paramount complaint in which the 23 individual and 14 other defendants are charged with conspiracy to restrain interstate trade and commerce and other violations of the anti-trust laws, at 10 A. M., Monday. If the company is successful in enjoining the exhibitor "strike" here, obviously it would follow the same procedure in other centers in which the same situation presents itself.

Meanwhile, the local Paramount exchange has continued to notify its accounts of the availability of pictures remaining on the current season's program, and it is expected here that refusals by exhibitors to pick them up will result in suits. The U.M.P.T.O. has promised to defend exhibitors against whom such actions may be brought.

Film delivery services say that they will accept deliveries from the Paramount exchange when a round trip fee is paid. Exhibitors will be notified in advance of the time of arrival of such prints, it was said. Ordinarily this is not done.

only for the amount of attorneys' fees and other legal expenses incurred in defending and prosecuting the William Fox claims, and appointed Courtland Palmer special master to determine the amount of such costs. The court also directed Milton C. admission rate. It is generally admitted that some sort of price regulation is necessary for the welfare of the industry.

The Federation has not yet given its approval for the construction of a new theatre in Amsterdam by M-G-M, for which plans have already been completed. The company has not yet requested such approval from the Federation. It is considered obvious that the construction of a new house would do the existing theatres in the city no good, but it is believed that the Federation would be unlikely to refuse approval, since M-G-M might well count on the support of other American companies here in the event the Federation tried to make a boycott effective.

M-G-M has gained a strong financial position in several theatres here and in Rotterdam.

Rowson Backs British Quota Cost Clauses

By BRUCE ALLAN

LONDON, July 22.—In an important article in the Times, Simon Rowson, regarded as authority in all statistical matters, both by the government and the industry, analyses the Board of Trade's draft proposals of new film legislation in a manner very favorable to the cost clause and other enactments favored by Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade.

Rowson pays particular attention to the criticisms which have been addressed to the minimum cost clause on the ground that it would reduce the available product. He discounts the suggestion that American companies would withhold "B" product, saying that these pictures only entail a cost of £500 a subject, in England. "Nowhere is it suggested," he says, "that even the worst of these American subjects will not bring in several times this sum in this country."

Sees Self-Sufficiency

"In the case of British distributors who import American "B" pictures he states that the British pictures made by these companies averaged a cost of £35,000 in 1936, that the quantity they made was "largely independent of foreign films" acquired and that therefore the coverage by £15,000 "minimum" British films presents no difficulties.

Applying the conditions set up by the new proposals to the situation of 1936, Rowson estimates at least 170 British films would have been produced instead of the 220 actually registered. Of the 220 he estimates 86 were "quickies" and 16 films made in British dominions with "little booking or bargaining value." The number of "effective" pictures actually available he places at 118. The new total of 170 therefore represents a gain, in his argument, and he points out that the exhibitor is given the further advantage that his quota is suggested to be 15 per cent against the distributors' 20 per cent, instead of a level figure with the latter as at present.

Criticizes Viewing Test

Rowson estimates that the cost of coverage of foreign imports, on the basis of a £15,000 minimum for British films, would be £1,400,000, or £1,500,000 if many companies took advantage of the provision for £45,000 pictures ranking double for quota. The present expenditure by American companies on British films he puts at £600,000 per year for 100 films. He allows for a reduction to 80 films in his estimate for the new conditions.

Rowson declares the viewing test asked by exhibitors in place of the cost clause to be impracticable.

The Rowson article, in view of his known weight in official quarters, is regarded as of almost equal importance to a government statement.

Statistics

Paramount's latest publicity release quoting Cecil B. DeMille shows that somebody in the organization reads the "Pertinent Statistics" page of Motion Picture Almanac.

DeMille is quoted as saying the industry investment is $2,000,650,000. That must be a typographical error. The Almanac says $2,650,000,000.

DeMille is also quoted as saying production costs total $125,000,000 yearly. Ditto, the Almanac.

The release goes on to say DeMille will spend $1,000,000 on "The Buccaneer," giving employment to 10,000 persons, which is a lot of buccaneers for any film.

New Picture Decree Is Issued for Peru

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Complaints by importers and theatre operators in Peru regarding alleged unjust censorship and other irregularities in film legislation has resulted in a new decree, supplementing and modifying previous decrees and also incorporating all the regulations into a single text, according to a report to the U. S. Dept. of Commerce from Assistant Trade Commissioner David M. Clark, in Lima, Peru.

The new decree supplants decrees of Dec. 27, 1935, Jan. 9, 1936, and Feb. 19, 1936. Under the first decree, all films entering Peru had to clear through the Callao Custom House, whether entering at that port or not. The present decree provides that the Callao customs house shall report monthly to the Censorship Office of the Dep't. of Justice all films entering.

A fee of four centavos a meter on all sound films is charged and two centavos a meter on silent pictures. Children under five are barred from shows at all times, under the new decree, and from five to 10 years from night performances.

TEN CENTS

Alliance for Technicians, Talent Seen

Unions Aiming at Films, Stage, Radio, Clubs

By VANCE KING

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 2.—Labor insiders here see in the future of the seemingly heterogeneous film industry labor fronts the working out of a mutual assistance agreement between four international creative talent and technical organizations to cover every field of entertainment from films, stage and radio to circuses and night clubs. This, in effect, would establish a powerful form of industrial unionism throughout the entertainment world.

They express the view, in light of past events, that the I.A.T.S.E., the American Federation of Musicians, the Associated Artists and Artistes of America (Screen Actors' Guild, Actors' Equity, Chorus Equity and Radio Equity), and the Authors' League of America (Screen Writers, Authors, Dramatists and Radio Writers guilds)

F.T.C. Will Investigate Para. Situation Before Formal Moves

Washington, Aug. 2.—The Federal Trade Commission will make a preliminary study of the complaint against the Paramount selling policy to determine whether there is sufficient basis for institution of formal proceedings.

Under the commission's policy, all complaints are checked before any action is taken, first to determine its jurisdiction, and secondly to assure that there is evidence of an apparent violation of law.

If the commission's examination of the situation indicates that it has a case, a formal complaint will be filed and the company will be given an opportunity to reply to the charges. In many cases, complaints are settled by negotiation of a stipulation under which the respondent agrees to discontinue the complained of charges; where stipulations cannot be reached, hearings are held for the taking of testimony, argument is heard and the commission issues either an order of dismissal or an order to cease and desist.

There are no indications as to how the commission will act on the Allied States complaint.

Any person or organization may complain to the commission of any practices which may be in violation of law, and such complaints are given the same consideration as are petitions from business concerns against competitors.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 2. — Militant displays and further concerted action in the exhibitor buyers' strike against Paramount were halted today at least until Aug. 11 as Federal Judge Oliver Dickinson continued in force a temporary restraining order obtained by Paramount last Friday against 37 local defendants until a further hearing on that date.

Picketing of the local Paramount exchange and of theatres playing the company's product, together with other public demonstrations against the company in opposition to its sales policies had been planned by exhibitors in this territory starting today.

There is a strong possibility that such demonstrations will be abandoned regardless of the outcome of the case. This was indicated at an exhibitor meeting at the Broadwood Hotel today, at which Benjamin M. Golder, attorney for the exhibitors, emphasized

Allied Takes Para.'s Sales To Trade Body

Federal Complaint Made On Film Deliveries

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Withholding by Paramount of pictures which exhibitors felt themselves entitled to under their current contracts has been made the basis for a formal complaint to the Federal Trade Commission by Allied States Ass'n, it was learned today.

As a contributing factor to the situation, the association attacked the allocation of pictures to the several price categories, charging that on May 5, when Paramount had released 40 of its 65 pictures, all of the highest two categories had been filled, 15 of the 24 "C" pictures had been delivered, but only 13 of the 29 low price films had been distributed.

"In the case of Paramount," the complaint alleged, "the sole object is to get in the big money early in the season and to leave a deficiency in the lower brackets."

"This is made clear by the further practice of Paramount of withholding

McCulloch Leaves Paramount's Board

Charles A. McCulloch, Chicago financier, has resigned from the board of Paramount Pictures, Inc., it was learned yesterday. He was elected to the board for a three-year term as the representative of several Chicago banks which were large Paramount creditors at the time of the company's emergence from bankruptcy in June, 1935. He is also a member of the board of B. & K. Theatre Corp., Chicago.

Indications are that the vacancy created by his resignation will not be filled as a smaller board has been viewed as desirable by the company for some time. McCulloch's resignation, with that of H. A. Fortington several weeks earlier, reduces the board to 15 members.

would have an understanding, written or implied, for mutual assistance in eventualities. Of the four, only the Authors' League of America is a non-affiliate of organized labor, as constituted by the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. The other three are A. F. L. affiliates.

There is a growing sentiment among A. L. A. members, especially in the Writers' Guild here, favoring affiliation with the A. F. of L., and should that occur, the last bar to a definite announcement of an Amusement Federation comprising the four groups would be removed.

The I.A.T.S.E., Equity and the A.F.M. have long worked in close harmony throughout the theatres of the country, and it was the I.A.T.S.E. which obtained for the Screen Actors' Guild the signatures of producers to the guild contract. On a Saturday William Bioff, personal representative of George Browne, I.A.T.S.E. president, announced support of the guild in its demand. The next day, at a meeting of the Actors' Guild, signing of the contract by five studios was announced, averting a strike call. The rest of the studios followed in short order.

Now the Actors' Guild leaders are aiding in the organization drive of the Screen Writers' Guild in the latter's fight to have the Regional Labor Board call an election to determine whether the guild should become the collective bargaining agency for film writers and depose the Screen Playwrights, termed by the guild a "company union" and which holds an agreement with the producers. At the meeting last week of the Writers' Guild, telegrams pledging support were read from Robert Montgomery, actors' president, and, more significant, from J. W. Gillette, international representative of the musicians' union, and from J. W. Buzzell, secretary of the Central Labor Council here. Also wiring support was George Roberts, president of the C. I. O. Council in Los Angeles.

Indications of Pact Seen

Persons on the inside point out, as evidence of the forthcoming interlocking working agreement between the four technical and talent organizations, the current reorganization of the A.A.A.A. to strengthen its position as an international, Radio Equity's sub rosa drives both here and in New York, the drive of the I.A.T.S.E. among film exchange employees and on the radio front, the extension of A.A.A.A. to night club and circus performers, promises of the three other A.L.A. affiliates to the Screen Writers' Guild in its fight to bargain collectively for film writers, and the order being issued by the A.L.A. that no writer can belong both to it and the Screen Playwrights. First instance of the last was the letter mailed this week from New York to Rupert Hughes, honorary A.L.A. president and one of the organizers of the playwrights, telling him to resign either one or the other.

It is reported there already exists a pact, either oral or written, between the I.A.T.S.E. and the musicians. The Screen Actors' Guild, by virtue of its being a labor affiliate, undoubtedly will enter that. And the Authors' League of America, it is rumored, will take steps to iron out its entrance bar to an amusement Federation by deciding its labor affiliation at the joint meeting of the western and eastern councils Nov. 10.

W. B. Ask Suit Transfer

R. W. Perkins, counsel for Warners, filed papers in the N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday asking that the $10,000 suit brought against Warners by Select Theatres Corp. be transferred to Federal Court on the ground that the state court lacks jurisdiction.

Select Theatres sued the film company on the allegation that Warners plagiarized the plaintiff's play, "The Audition," charging that "Ready, Willing and Able" is identical in all important respects to "The Audition."

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2.—A sentence of five years in the Federal penitentiary today was imposed by Judge Leon R. Yankwich on Mrs. June Bates for having attempted to extort $500 from John Boles. Delay Opera House Suit

The action of K. P. Corp., RKO subsidiary, against Warco Trading Co., in connection with the demolition of the Grand Opera House and the building of a new theatre in its stead, yesterday was postponed by N. Y. Supreme Court Judge Kenneth O'Brien to Aug. 9.

Guild's Action Here Awaits Union Ruling

Although the Screen Actors' Guild wage scale was declared in effect yesterday for eastern studios the guild shop will not be enforced here for the time being, it was stated at the guild's eastern office yesterday.

Indications are that the closed shop will become effective as soon as the guild works out an agreement with other stage unions affiliated with the Associated Actors and Artistes of America on the interchangeability of membership cards here. It was stated that much of the talent employed in eastern production is affiliated with one or another of the Four A unions already and that efforts would be made to have the cards of such unions interchangeable with the Screen Actors' Guild.

Kenneth Thomson, executive secretary of the guild, plans to leave for Hollywood as soon as an agreement on the matter is reached, which is expected to be late this week.

Members who broke the strike must reapply for admission, paying an initiation fee of $300. Outside strike breakers must apply for apprentice status, the pay scale for which starts at $35 and runs up to $60.

Flash Previews

"It's All Yours"—Mischa Auer continues his onward march in this sprightly tale based on the girl-reforms-boy formula. Madeleine Carroll and Francis Lederer help.

"She's No Lady"—Another mystery of the stolen jewels, with the gems popping up here and there. Good for a double bill.

"Heroes of the Alamo"—Based on the David Crockett incident of American history. Outdoor stuff, moderately entertaining.

"Reported Missing"—The invention of an airplane safety device results in a number of deaths which turn out to have been caused by a third party.

"Roundup Time in Texas"—A western—obviously—with a plot that borders on the unique and which should interest the Gene Autry fans.

These films will be reviewed in full in a coming issue of MOTION PICTURE DAILY.

from release, during the last two quarters of each year, pictures which have marked box-office possibilities, and in using those same pictures as bait to induce exhibitors to sign up with Paramount for the ensuing year."

The complaint cited six pictures. These are "Count of Luxembourg," "Artists and Models," "High, Wide and Handsome," "Spawn of the North," "Souls at Sea" and a Marlene Dietrich film as having been withheld from current contracts. These were covered by advertising put out by the company, it is claimed.

"Paramount in designing and distributing this advertising to induce exhibitors to contract for Paramount pictures had no intention of delivering the pictures advertised except as it might later seem advantageous to the company to make such deliveries," it was charged.

Called 1938 "Bait"

All six, it was asserted in the complaint, are now being used as "bait" to induce exhibitors to take Paramount contracts for the coming season at higher prices. The practice, it was declared, is also used by other companies, but the complaint is confined to Paramount at this time "because it is the most flagrant offender; because if any action by the commission is to be effective it must be taken promptly and proceedings can be instituted more rapidly because if formal proceedings are launched against Paramount it is believed that the others will institute voluntary reforms."

The Federal Trade Commission has jurisdiction in the matter, it was argued, because the advertising complained of constitutes an unfair method of competition to other distributors and defrauds exhibitor customers. Had exhibitors known that Paramount was not going to release the pictures in question, it was pointed out, "many doubtless would have chosen Twentieth Century-Fox instead, which company has endeavored in good faith to deliver what it promised to deliver."

Minneapolis Pickets At Para's Exchange

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 2. — The exhibitors' strike against Paramount opened here this morning with picketing of the company's exchange and a declaration from Allied Theatre Owners of the Northwest that it will be continued until a settlement is made, regardless of whether that does not occur until after the end of August. The strike was designated originally for this month only.

Allied headquarters has released the names of 210 theatres in this territory which, the organization says, have agreed to refrain from playing Paramount pictures and from making new season contracts with the company during the strike. The organization asserts that it has made "concessions" to an undesignated number of theatres permitting them to play Paramount pictures either because they were paid for already or because no substitute action by exhibitors in refusing to deal with the company. Golder urged the use of lawful methods, without the employment of force or coercion, whereby each exhibitor might convince himself or other exhibitors of the action to be taken in the event an equitable contract could not be secured.

The obvious trend of Golder's talk was in opposition to any mass action against Paramount which might be construed by the courts as conspiracy, although the latter term was not mentioned in his talk in this connection.

Paramount was represented at the Federal court hearing today by Austin Keough, secretary and a director of the company and its former general counsel; Louis Phillips, Paramount home office counsel; William A. Schnader and Dave Kaufman, local attorneys for the company. Neil F. Agnew, Paramount vice-president in charge of distribution, was also present.

Cite Sherman Act

The question of jurisdiction was introduced at the hearing when the extent to which the Sherman anti-trust law might be applicable to the case was raised. Judge Dickinson then ruled that the entire matter be argued on its merits later, and set Aug. 11 for the hearing. The court ruled that, in the meantime, exhibitors would not be permitted to coerce or induce each other, or the public, to boycott Paramount.

At the meeting which followed the adjournment of the court hearing Golder emphasized the fact that for the first time in film litigation exhibitors had distributors on the defense, forcing them into the role of plaintiff. He asserted that the exhibitor opposition was directed not only at Paramount but at all "distributor aggression." Several times product was obtainable for certain dates. The explanation is made in anticipation of denials by the Paramount exchange that some of the theatres appearing on the Allied list have refused to play the company's pictures or of the discovery by exhibitors themselves that Paramount product is being shown at some of the houses on the list.

The bulletin advises striking exhibitors to ignore letters of warning from the Paramount exchange that striking houses will lose priority rights and protection and will have to pay for canceled pictures. It also advises exhibitors to refuse delivery of prints sent to theatres by the exchange.

No Action in Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—No exhibitor strike action against Paramount is anticipated here. There has been no organized opposition to the company's policy and at this time it appears unlikely that any will develop.

No Legal Steps in Boston

BOSTON, Aug. 2.—Paramount has taken no legal action to date to halt the projected exhibitor buyers' strike in this territory. No statement could be obtained from the local exchange regarding possible legal action.

he reiterated the need for individual action in the campaign and interpreted the court's attitude, as disclosed this morning, to mean that every individual had a right to make or refuse to make a contract and to talk to others on the subject, and exchange views, provided no use of force or intimidation entered into the situation. Golder suggested that the exhibitors "work on their conscience, their business instincts and other exhibitors lawfully."

The attorney advanced as his own opinion the theory that other distributors were not in sympathy with Paramount in the fight, due to the fact that some distributors are also exhibitors. Golder also questioned the wisdom of the proposed picketing campaign, stating that the persons who would be picketed would also be exhibitors, which, he said, threatened injury to the exhibitors' front. He also doubted the value of the proposed appeals to the public, stating that it knew and cared little which company made certain pictures.

No Individual Suits

The matter of possible suits against exhibitors for violations of contract was discounted by Golder on the theory that it would be impracticable for Paramount to file hundreds of suits against individual exhibitors. He pointed out that the company would have to bring more than 300 suits in this territory alone, whereas the individual exhibitor would be obliged to defend only one action.

Approximately 110 exhibitors present at today's meeting represented 200 theatres and contributed an additional $5,000 to the central fund, it was reported. A survey showed that only eight Paramount dates have been given in this territory currently. All have been by Warner houses.

the Cocalis interests said yesterday.

The Cocalis spokesman said that, in the meantime, the sale of Kutinsky's stock to Cocalis was consummated. The suit also asked that Cocalis be directed to designate representatives of the Springer estate to the boards of various theatre companies. This had not been done at the time of the withdrawal of the action, according to the Cocalis spokesman.

Griffis Buys Heavily into Para. Issues

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Heavy trading in Paramount securities in June by Stanton Griffis, director, through Hemphill, Noyes & Co., was reported today by S.E.C in its bi-weekly report of the transactions of officers and directors in the stocks of their corporations.

During the month, the report showed, Hemphill, Noyes purchased 51,000 3¼ per cent convertible debentures and sold 21,000, thereby increasing Griffis' holdings by 30,000 to 88,000.

The report also showed that Maurice Newton, director, through Hallgarten & Co., purchased 950 shares of Paramount common during the month and sold the same number.

A report on 20th Century-Fox showed that the Chase National Bank, sold 600 shares of common and 1,200 shares of preferred held under escrow agreement, reducing its holdings to 346,391 shares of common and 692,982 shares of preferred.

A May report from Sidney R. Kent showed that he received from the Berkshire Finance Co. and disposed of 3,000 shares of common, of which the holding company at the end of the month held 3,355 shares.

Other reports showed that Bruno Meyers, New York, officer and director of Educational Pictures, sold 300 warrants for common in June, reducing his holdings to 1,240; and that Loew's, Inc., acquired another 148 shares of Loew's Boston Theatres common, bringing its holdings to 97,077 shares.

A report filed by Universal Corp. as to holdings when its securities became registered on April 9, last, showed that General Cinema Finance Corp. of London held 134,375 common voting trust certificates and $1,000,000 in debenture bonds.

No Admission Jumps Planned Around K.C.

has asked for increased wages and decreased hours, some of which they will get.

Kansas City admission prices remain among the lowest in the country. A year ago a survey showed the average admission was around 16½ cents. With no admission increases during the interim, and with the Mainstreet, Newman, Tower and Uptown lowering balcony admissions for evening shows to 25 cents, to compete with the Midland's 25-cent balcony, the present average admission actually is less than 16½ cents. This compares with the national average of 22 cents, and is approximately 36 per cent under the countrywide figure.

Business has decreased here compared with a year ago. It has been showing slight recessions since early spring. With the same thing holding true of the country area, admission rises are considered inadvisable. This year's grain production at good prices will help.

Pennsylvania Will Enforce Chain Tax Law

Unlicensed Places Face Action, Says Officer

HARRISBURG, PA., Aug. 3.—Steps for immediate prosecution of chain store or theatre circuit companies that fail to file applications to operate under the new Pennsylvania chain store tax law, prior to the deadline at midnight tomorrow, will be taken by Secretary J. Griffith Boardman of the Dept. of Revenue, who announced today that no extensions of time will be granted.

The law provides a penalty of $50 a day for each store or theatre which operates without a permit, and records of the Revenue Dept. disclose that to date 77,000 taxable business concerns have failed to file, whereas 117,000 applications have been received. B. Frank Swigert, director of the Tax Division of the Department, said that as soon as the final mail of Aug. 4 has been cleared, investigators will go into each of the 67 counties of the state and lodge information before magistrates against delinquent store and theatre operators. The tax ranges from $1 to $500 on each unit,

DETROIT, Aug. 3.—Formation of a new buying and booking combine, for both city and state theatres, composed of the members of Allied of Michigan and The American Theatre Science, now buying and booking for some 40 state houses, is being discussed.

Claim Opening Day Record for Rivoli

"You Can't Have Everything" broke all morning opening day records for the past four years at the Rivoli, according to 20th Century-Fox, with the exception of "Modern Times" which opened 30 minutes earlier.

At 1 o'clock it had passed the mark set by "The Road to Glory" last summer and two holdout periods of 45 minutes each had been reported.

The film reopened the house after a shutdown since July 20.

RKO's Net for Six Months Estimated at $1,490,000

With consolidated net profit for the first six months of 1937 estimated at $1,490,000, RKO's earnings for the period are practically double that for the first six months of last year, Paramount company officials revealed yesterday.

RKO's consolidated earnings for the first half of 1936 were $781,000, and for the full year were $2,514,000. Earnings for the first quarter of the current year were estimated at $993,000, and RKO theatre earnings for the first half of the year were $687,190. Midsummer business thus far is reported to be maintaining satisfactory levels. Appreciable gains are anticipated during the current and final quarter, and with the picture company's activities on a similar basis a consolidated net for the year well in excess of $3,000,000 is viewed as highly likely by those within the company.

Griffis and Giannini Sail; Reports on U.A. Sale Astir

Speculation as to the possibility of Hemphill, Noyes & Co. participating in the Samuel Goldwyn-Alexander Korda option deal to acquire control of United Artists was revived on Broadway yesterday when it became known that Stanton Griffis, partner in the brokerage firm, will be aboard the Normandie with Dr. A. H. Giannini, United Artists president, when it sails from here today.

Griffis, who is chairman of the Paramount executive committee, when interrogated about the possibility of a financing deal, said: "I can make no comment on that."

Griffis and Giannini describe the trip as a "vacation." When pressed, however, Griffis admits that "a little business" may also enter into it.

On Korda's return to New York immediately after he and Goldwyn had obtained the options from the other United Artists' partners, he was closeted with Griffis for lengthy intervals. Asked at the time whether he was interested in the financial aspects of the options, Griffis replied in the negative, adding that his conversations with Korda, whom he described as "a very old friend of mine," concerned personal matters only.

Recently, it was reported from the Coast that Griffis conferred frequently

Final Details Ready on RKO Setup—Spitz

All 48 on List Will Be Completed, He Says

Final details in the reorganization of RKO have been completed and just how soon the company will emerge from the court's jurisdiction depends on Special Master Alger and Federal Judge William Bondy, Leo Spitz, president, stated yesterday.

Optimistic over his visit at the studios, Spitz said three "A" pictures on next season's program are now ready for release. He added that production is behind a little on "B" product, but everything looks good and the entire 48 features will be made.

Spitz would not hazard a guess as to the profits expected for the current year. He said that there were no changes in the production setup and that he had no plans for another coast visit.

Indications are that the company's reorganization is spared new delays and possible changes in the reorganization plan by the denial of a motion of preferred stockholders of Orpheum Circuit for leave to appeal from a Federal court decision upholding the sale of Orpheum's assets to Stadium Theatres Corp., a wholly owned RKO subsidiary. The motion was denied last Friday by the U. S. Circuit Court

Vote by Fleischer Workers Is Ordered

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Determination, by an election to be held within 15 days, of the collective bargaining representatives of the production employees of Fleischer Studios, New York, was ordered today by the National Labor Relations Board.

The board's order was based on a report by Trial Examiner H. R. Morey, submitted following a hearing in New York July 16.

The order provides that all production employees on the studios' payroll as of April 30, last, will be eligible to vote including animators and assistant animators, but excluding employees with supervisory duties and story, music, camera, clerical and maintenance employees.

The election will determine whether the employees desire to be represented by the Commercial Artists' and Designers' Union, which began a campaign for membership last March.

During April and early May, the board explained, the union unsuccessfully sought to gain recognition by the company as the exclusive representative of its production employees for the purposes of collective bargaining. The company's refusal to recognize the union resulted in a strike on May 7, and the filing of a petition with the labor relations board.

LONDON, July 26.—At the annual general meeting of General Theatres Corp., Ltd., an amendment to the report, moved by C. L. NORDON, was carried by a show of hands. It demanded that the shareholders be furnished a statement of gross revenue and expenditure for the years 1929 to 1937, details of investments in subsidiary and associated companies, and the income therefrom. Also asked was the elimination of Isidore OSTRER's name as president of the company.

A poll was demanded by Mark OSTRER, presiding, and this negated the amendment by 926,773 to 16,275. The reappointment of the auditors, Nicholson, Beecroft & Co., was also defeated on a show of hands, but carried by a poll.

of Appeals here and is regarded as virtually ending the litigation which followed the sale.

The Orpheum stockholders, through their attorney, Isidor J. Kresel, sought to have the sale of the assets invalidated and to have Orpheum Circuit removed from bankruptcy and embraced by RKO's reorganization proceedings under Section 77-B of the Bankruptcy Act. The stockholders also sought to bring actions against former officers and directors of RKO and Orpheum for alleged dissipation of Orpheum assets prior to the circuit's bankruptcy. These and other relief measures sought by the stockholders were held to be unwarranted and were denied by Federal Judge Robert P. Patterson in the U. S. District Court late in June. The motion for leave to appeal from Judge Patterson's decision was denied without opinion by the Circuit Court of Appeals.

The preferred stockholders have but one further recourse, which is to apply for a writ of certiorari from the U. S. Supreme Court, and this procedure is not regarded as likely to be followed. One further action in opposition to the sale of the Orpheum assets is being prosecuted along different lines by Samuel Zirn, attorney for a small group of California stockholders of Orpheum Circuit.

hibitor members of the two organizations admitted there was a possibility of it going through.

The new organization would be in opposition to Co-Operative Theatres of Michigan, now booking and buying for 80 theatres, most of them in the city, and would divide Michigan exhibitors into two militant organizations.

Should the new Allied-A.T.S. setup be completed, it would on the face of things be stronger than Co-Op, as there are 80 theatres in Allied and 40 in A.T.S., a few of the houses in the latter organization being members of the former.

With two such organizations in the field here and each one powerful, it would present a new selling problem to the local exchanges.

Edwin O'Brien will be in charge of the story department, working under both studios. H. G. Boxall will be production manager, and S. C. Balcon will be assistant to his brother. Robert Ritchie will be in charge of talent for the English studio and at the same time represent the Culver City organization.

Robert Taylor, Jack Conway and Maureen O'Sullivan are due from the coast in two weeks. They will start work on "Yank at Oxford" on Sept. 1, the first of six features definitely set. Miss Booth, Rosson and Newman will accompany Taylor, Conway and Miss O'Sullivan.

"Shadow of the Wing" will be the second picture. Balcon hopes to get Clark Gable and James Stewart for the two leading roles. The other four will be "Finishing School," "And So Victoria," "Soldiers Three" and "Good-Bye, Mr. Chips."

Balcon pointed out yesterday that there is no time limit set for production. Just as much money as is required will be spent on the pictures, he said. All will be "A" films for international distribution.

Studios will be established upon the arrival of Balcon in England. Ben Goetz is managing director of M-G-M British Studios, Ltd. Balcon is supervising head. He will return to the United States next June.

The first few scenes of "Yank at Oxford" are now being made on the coast in order to give the picture true surroundings. Balcon asserted that the American atmosphere is necessary.

Mexico Seeks U.S. Producers; Stresses Cheaper Labor Cost

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 3.—Speaking in rapid Mexican, Louis Ramos Alarcon, Mexican government "czar" of the film industry who is visiting here to study new equipment, said today that he and his Government are very anxious to persuade American producers to make pictures in his land, not only, he frankly admitted, because of what possible money they might spend there, but because the pictures of native scenery might attract more tourists.

For, in addition to his duties of registering native film companies, seeing that they are aided by the Government and encouraging them to get modern equipment, Alarcon is a chamber of Commerce by himself.

Alarcon, carrying the title which is translated as Government Director of Cinematography, spoke of the scenery, of the historical background of Mexico which he said would provide rich story material, of Mexico's theatre system—2000 houses all wired for sound—of the appeal such American-produced pictures made in Mexico would have on the apparently film-mad inhabitants of his native land and the subsequent returns there and elsewhere, of the native music available, and added, significantly, that pictures

Veterans Contesting Neb. Sunday Defeat

BEATRICE, Neb., Aug. 3.—Paul Bancroft, chairman of the American Legion committee which sponsored the recent special election which sought to legalize Sunday exhibition here, has filed suit in District Court contesting the result. The election, which was the fourth of its kind to be held in 10 years, resulted in a tie at 1,533—all after mail and disabled voters' ballots had been counted. Thereupon the City Council declared the proposition lost.

The American Legion objectors listed four points as the basis for their contesting action. They charge that illegal votes were received, that legal votes were rejected, that the canvassing board erred in counting and that there were errors in the counting of absentee and disabled voters' ballots.

Escuder Formerly on 20th-Fox Staff Here

Joseph M. Escuder, Spanish language newspaperman, whose arrest in Barcelona, Spain, on charges by the Communist party that he had been an agent of General Franco, was employed in the foreign advertising and publicity department at the 20th Century-Fox home office for about 10 months of last year, it has been learned from the company. Escuder has been sent to Valencia where, it is reported, Communists are demanding that he be tried by military tribunals and ask that the death penalty be imposed.

Escuder, who had worked on various Spanish language newspapers in New York and had been American correspondent for Spanish papers, joined 20th Century-Fox early in 1936 as a translator and advertising and publicity writer in the company's foreign department. He resigned last January and returned to Spain at that time.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Artists and Models"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 3.—Plenty of entertainment for any kind of audience and plenty of showmanship ideas with which to sell it distinguish this lively musical comedy. Built on a mere outline of a story, the film is full of music, dancing, gags and specialties, compactly blended to provide thoroughly pleasing amusement.

It was concocted by a half-dozen writers. The music is credited to nine composers. It is chock full of diversified melody and comedy that leap from one situation to another with little regard to what has gone before or what is to come. It is much in the nature of a super-vaudeville show. The film gives its stars and featured specialty performers ample opportunity to display their widely varied talents.

The basis of the story concerns Jack Benny's desire to place Ida Lupino as a model in Richard Arlen's silverware advertising campaign. Benny is an advertising agent. Complications ensue when Arlen boosts Gail Patrick, a socialite, as a candidate, making possible conflicting romance and comedy. The plot is but framework on which is hung the parade of specialty personalities, all cleverly worked in.

The Yacht Club Boys are seen in two singing bits that provide rapid-fire fun. High in merit are Andre Kostelanetz's unique orchestral rendition of Leo Robin's and Frederick Hollander's "Whispers in the Dark," sung by Connie Boswell, the ensemble and Russell Patterson's Puppet Personettes, featuring Mr. Esquire. One of the show's high spots is a comedy ballad offering Judy and Zeke Canova. Not far behind is Ben Blue's eccentric dancing. An oddly conceived feature is a presentation of contemporary artists and illustrators—Peter Arno, McClelland Barclay, Arthur William Brown, Rube Goldberg, John LaGatta and Russell Patterson. In contrast is Mary Shepherd's and Gloria Wheeden's rhythmic "Water Waltz." The film's big production spectacle is "Public Melody Number One," starring Martha Raye and featuring Louis Armstrong.

Benny, Miss Lupino, Arlen and Miss Patrick alternately share the spotlight. The supporting cast of Cecil Cunningham, Donald Meek, Hedda Hopper and Kathryn Kay contribute effective work. Cunningham's handling of the role of Benny's harassed secretary is a highlight.

The expensively produced film reflects the atmosphere that is readily read into the title. Raoul Walsh had no easy job weaving the diversified elements into a coherent whole, but his skillful handling has achieved balance and easy flow without overdoing any factor with the possible exception of the Raye number.

Smart showmen have an unlimited amount of material at hand with which to create an advance interest that should result in "Artists and Models" becoming a box-office bonanza.

Running time, 90 minutes. "G."

Copelan in Hospital

Short Subjects

"March of Time No. 13"

(Radio)

With telling pictorial effect the latest issue of this fine subject treats of political patronage, the youth of the country in summer camps and a review of the Spanish conflict that is also made to bear, quite contrarily, on war scares and the development of combative defense equipment. They are subjects of intense current interest.

The initial portion is cleverly mounted propaganda revealing how political machinery of various localities raises additional burdens for the taxpayer. There is hope, however, in Senator O'Mahoney's promise of legislation for a merit system of civil service employment, similar to the British procedure of hiring civil servants. The camp sequence shows the results of a new experiment in which city children are permitted to learn the problems of adventuring just as they want to. The last part of the film concerns the assurances of the authors of a book that is intended to quell the war-frightened. It outlines the text with dramatic scenes and logical replies to the queries of the worried.

Running time, 20 mins. "G"

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"It's All Yours"

(Columbia)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 3.—The steadily oncoming Mischa Auer of "My Man Godfrey," "Three Smart Girls" and other top-flight pictures in a light vein, takes easy possession of a leading position among screen comedians with his potent portrayal of a professional fortune hunter in this rollicking variant of the girl-reforms-boy formula.

He functions in close harmony with Madeleine Carroll and Francis Lederer, scoring his points without dulling theirs, but his remembered performance in the picture is generically comparable to those named and of a quality suggesting similar exploitation.

The story presents Lederer as the playboy son of a millionaire who leaves his $4,000,000 estate to Miss Carroll, his personal secretary, with the unwritten understanding that she will use it to effect the redemption of his son, whom she loves. She pretends to squander the money and dangles the fortune-hunting Auer as a matrimonial and financial threat. Auer falls genuinely in love with the girl. He whips Lederer in a fight that precedes the happy ending which is arrived at irregularly and amusingly.

It was adapted from Adelaide Heilbron's story by Mary C. McCall, Jr. Elliott Nugent's direction extracts full value from the material. The action starts in San Francisco and moves to New York. The production is first grade in every particular and, since its appeal is wide, satisfaction should be general.

Running time, 77 minutes. "G."

"Heroes of the Alamo"

(Sunset Prod.)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 3.—Concentrating on action and movement, another familiar chapter in American historical annals is picturized here. Combining fact and legend to include drama, romance and suspense, the picture brings realism to such famous characters as Stephen Austin, Davy Crockett, James Bowie and the Mexican leader, Santa Ana. Although educational to a degree, the film is primarily outdoor adventure entertainment of the type usually appreciated in smaller theatres.

The story deals with experiences of American settlers in the Republic of Texas which led up to the massacre at the Alamo, a saga of heroism and sacrifice known to every school child. Although much of the early footage is given over to the persecutions of the settlers under Mexican tyranny, the big production battle number is well staged and full of suspense, fury and excitement.

Principal roles in the film are filled by Earl Hodgins, Lane Chandler, Rex Lease and Julian Rivero. Bruce Warren and Ruth Findlay are the centers of the slight but effective romantic interest.

The original screen play by Robert Wentz and direction by Harry Frazer are pointed to permit action to tell the story.

Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

"Reported Missing"

(Universal)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 3.—The combination of mystery-drama, an amateur detective story with little romance and much action results in average entertainment. Although the film has a formula plot, novel bits give it the necessary different character.

The installation of William Gargan's safety device on airplanes results in two inexplicable crashes. In one of these crackups Michael Fitzmaurice, pilot brother of Jean Rogers, Gargan's sweetheart, is killed. Circumstances indicating robbery surround both mishaps. Gargan, determined to win back his reputation as well as Miss Rogers' affections from Dick Purcell, becomes suspicious of his associates. He uses a clever ruse to uncover the culprit, who is killed in a wild, hedge-hopping chase. Reunion with Miss Rogers follows.

Gargan and Purcell dominate the action. Capable support is contributed by Miss Rogers, Fitzmaurice, Hobart, Cavanaugh, Joe Sawyer, Billy Wayne and Robert Spencer. The film aims at holding the attention of those requiring action in their screen fare.

Running time, 65 minutes. "G."

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 3.—Joseph Redmond, Jr., manager at the Fox Tower, and Virginia Hastings, until a short time ago the theatre's cashier, were married here recently.

with Goldwyn during a Hollywood visit. His departure today on the same steamer with the United Artists president on a trip which will probably include a visit with Korda in London, revived speculation as to the existence of an interest in the Goldwyn-Korda options. The options may be lifted for $6,000,000 at any time up to the end of the year.

Griffis sidestepped an answer to the direct question whether or not he would discuss financing the options with Korda.

"I have no participation in the financing of the options," was his reply.

"Has Hemphill, Noyes any interest in the options?" he was asked next. "I can make no comment on that," Griffis said.

The brokerage firm has a substantial financial interest in Paramount.

Excavation for the new studio building of WGY, Schenectady, outlet of the NBC-Red, was begun yesterday. The building, which is expected to be completed in December, is part of NBC's recently announced plan for expansion and improvement in key cities of the Blue and Red networks.

Work was also started yesterday on a new 600-foot vertical radiator antenna. Plans for the building and antenna were worked out by NBC, which operates the station, and the General Electric Corp., the owner. Architectural plans of the building and details of the equipment will be announced later. Among its features will be a two-story audience studio.

Among those participating at the ground breaking ceremonies were C. H. Lang, manager of the publicity department of General Electric; Kolin Hager, manager of WGN, and E. H. Tallmadge, head of the General Electric Realty Corp.

Summer Shows on the Air

"Beyond the Horizon"

None of the qualities which made Eugene O'Neill's stark play "Beyond the Horizon" a Pulitzer prize-winner when it was produced on Broadway was lost in the radio adaptation of the play offered Monday evening over NBC.

Starring Helen Hayes who gave a performance that should forever more serve as a model of acting for radio actors, present and future, great and small, the production also starred a man whose efforts were not in physical evidence, but without whose masterful aid the broadcast could not have achieved the heights it did. We refer to James Church, the adapter. We voice this positive opinion about Church because we have heard great plays adapted for radio before, with results all too often disappointing.

Of course, we cannot speak for O'Neill, but it is our opinion that he is today a satisfied playwright. Certainly he could not at any time have had qualms about Helen Hayes' ability to play the part of his tragic heroine, Ruth, but he certainly must have had some misgivings about any man's ability to take one of his voluminous plays and condense it into an hour's running time without losing much of the quality that made it a modern classic. It is our opinion that Church did an unusual task in the adaptation and it is our belief that O'Neill, if he listened, concurs.

Miss Hayes gave a portrayal as good as anything she's ever done before footlights. Necessarily depending on vocal inflection alone for her characterization, she breathed such realism into the role that one was completely unaware of microphone restrictions. In other words, the character could not have been sharper even had one been sitting in a theatre gazing upon a stage expertly lighted and set.

The play, a tragedy, deals with two brothers, Bob and Andrew, one a dreamer, the other a steady-gaited, solid character suited to the farmland. Ruth is the daughter of a neighboring farmer, apparently fated to marry Andrew. However, on the eve of Bob's departure for far off lands "beyond the horizon" Bob confesses he loves her. Fired by his poetic conversation, Ruth begins the tragedy by confessing she returns his love. Her mistaken avowal wrecks the three lives.

Inspired support was given by most of the cast. Robert was played by James Meighan, and Andrew by Neill O'Malley.

ICC Extends Time on Films Carrier Bills

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Exhibitors receiving their supplies and programs by motor carriers will be given a period of seven days, exclusive of Sundays and holidays, in which to pay their transportation bills, and the carriers will be given a similar period in which to present statements, under orders issued today, by the Interstate Commerce Commission, effective Oct. 1.

The new ruling supersedes an order put into effect Aug. 20, last, providing for payment of bills within 15 days from the time of delivery.

Issuance of the order has been awaited since a hearing on June 28 at which Edward G. Levy, general counsel for the M. P. T. O. A., and Guy K. Stewart of the National Film Carriers Ass'n submitted objections to a proposed order which would require the rendition of bills by motor carriers within five days after service and their payment by the customer within eight days thereafter.

The film interests pointed out that many exhibitors have contracts with carriers for a weekly service, which is different from that rendered any other type of customer. In most instances,

Partnership Deals Lift Total to 1,400 in Two Years

Paramount theatre affiliations have been increased by approximately 400 houses since the completion of the company's reorganization two years ago, it was learned yesterday.

At the time of the reorganization in July, 1935, Paramount, in a report to the Federal court here, listed 1,036 theatres which were either wholly owned by itself or subsidiary companies or in which it had some financial interest. Thus, the increase in the company's theatre affiliations since the filing of that report brings the company's theatre interests up to a total of approximately 1,400 houses.

The greatest number of theatres affiliated with Paramount at any one time was 1,790. This total was reached in 1931, a year prior to the company's decentralization program and two years prior to the company's bankruptcy. During the Paramount reorganization approximately 800 theatres were dropped, either by cancellation of leases, outright sale or expiration of operating or lease agreements.

Unofficial estimates of the expansion which has added another 400 theatres to Paramount's interests during the past two years indicate that the Petition Repeal of Race Law in Mass.

BOSTON, Aug. 4.—An initiative petition seeking the repeal of the Massachusetts law which permits horse and dog racing has been submitted for approval of form to Attorney General Paul Dever. The legality of the petition, however, is questioned.

bulk of the increase is accounted for by the larger circuits operated under partnership agreements with Paramount. These estimates include the following additions to the circuits: Interstate Circuit, Hoblitzelle, 40 theatres; E. I. Sparks, 20; A. H. Blank, 35; M. & P. New England Theatres, 30; B. & K., 25; Wilby-Kincey, 30; Lucas & Jenkins, 15; Saenger, 40; Minnesota Amusements, 20; Malco, 20; Comerford, 12; miscellaneous, 100.

Northwest Allied Expects Para. Suit

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 4.—Local exhibitors participating in the Paramount "buyers' strike" expect the filing of an application here by Paramount for a restraining order similar to that obtained by the distributor against exhibitor demonstrations in the Philadelphia territory, strike leaders stated today.

The latest bulletin of the strike committee of Allied T. O. of the Northwest says: "Any moment we expect to be restrained from further (strike) activities. Paramount is not going to take this cancellation of playdates and withholding of film purchasing sitting down and doing nothing about it. This strike has attained such proportions that it is going to be necessary for Paramount to either make some kind of an adjustment or resort to the Federal courts in an attempt to protect itself.

"The Federal or state courts may issue a temporary restraining order, but it will not be so sweeping that it will compel you to play Paramount pictures. The courts later on might make that decision. Of course, if they do there is nothing left for us to do but reinstate contracts. If the courts uphold Paramount, there is only one thing left to do and that is to make up our minds that once we sign a contract we must live up to it. Therefore, we caution all exhibitors to be careful of the kind of contracts they sign at this time with any company."

The Paramount home office said yesterday that a restraining order similar to the one in force in Philadelphia has been prepared for submission to the Federal Court at Minneapolis and action on it is expected momentarily.

Court Confers Upon Phila. Strike Stay for both sides in preparing their arguments for next Wednesday's hearing, when the court will consider Paramount's petition to have the restraining order made permanent.

Meanwhile, local exhibitors were relieved by the settlement of the general trucking strike here which had threatened to tie up film deliveries, which now are expected to resume normally.

Bankruptcy Sought For Nuovo Mondo Co.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in the U. S. District Court yesterday against Nuovo Mondo Motion Pictures, Inc., by three creditors of the corporation. A sheriff's sale of the corporate assets is scheduled to be held this morning at 10:30 at the corporation's offices, 630 9th Ave., under a N. Y. Supreme Court judgment.

The petitioning creditors charged that preference had been granted to certain other creditors. The petitioners were Salvatore di Genaro, who claims $712 and salesman's commission; Leo Seligman, who claims $335 for salary as treasurer and general manager, and $3,000 for loans; Leon Fromkess, assignees of Joe Brandt, who claim $20,963 for loans and expenses. The petition alleges that a payment of $600 was made to Consolidated Film Industries, Inc., "with intent to prefer such creditor over its other creditors." It is also alleged that the corporation permitted an order to be issued to the sheriff on a judgment of Consolidated for $5,847; DeLuxe Laboratories, Inc., for $2,089, and Du Art Film Laboratories, Inc., for $1,853.

Ohio Makes Few Cuts

COLUMBUS, Aug. 4.—The Ohio censors reviewed a total of 485 reels in July from which but 15 eliminations were ordered. There was only one elimination in 125 reels for the week ending July 25.

The above compares with 825 reels and 43 eliminations in June, while in July, 1936, there were 470 reels and 20 eliminations.

Australia Bans "King"

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 4.—The Australian Government has placed "The King and the Chorus Girl" under ban here. No reason for the action was given, but it is understood that the rigorous censor board is severe with films that might reflect upon royalty or treat it without the utmost dignity.

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938"

(Wanger-U. A.)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 4.—Walter Wanger made his second bid for the Technicolor championship at Grauman's Chinese Tuesday night. If the applause of the ermined and tailored greats who sat for 112 minutes through his prodigious lens painting may be interpreted as assent, he won it with lengths to spare. What he did with "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" was little more than a training canter compared with his alternately flamboyant and delicate employment of pigmentation in this slight, but sufficient, if familiar story. It is loaded to capacity with gowns, gems, personalities, feminine beauty, talent and imported specialties. If the result doesn't turn out to be sure-fire box-office it will not be because the production isn't supplied with every gun in the exploitation arsenal.

"Vogues" has the producer's past accomplishment in the field of color as a natural starting point. It has Warner Baxter, Joan Bennett, Helen Vinson, Mischa Auer and Alan Mowbray for marquee material and it has what is probably the most elaborate and expensive fashion show ever staged as a basis for cooperative campaigning. All these and much more Director Irving Cummings has put together with the single idea of giving his audiences the biggest they ever sat down to.

The production is smart in the best sense of the word. It is swanky, suave, stimulating and swift for the most part and in the pink of taste. The famous magazine cover models, as yet lacking billing value, add to the merit of the production and serve to take emphasis momentarily away from the color that might conceivably seem to overstep its place in the scheme of things. A similar effect is accomplished periodically by bringing the story down to an emotional level.

The plot is concerned with the affairs of a Fifth Avenue couturier whose wife has stage ambitions. To his aid comes a socialite who falls in love with him and he with her. They arrive at the necessary status by fadeout time after sustaining adequate interest until the models, dancers, singers, etc., have paraded their wares. The place is New York and the time is today or tomorrow. The styles offered are represented as those of 1938. The list of credits for the gowns, hats, shoes, jewelry and related accessories constitute a showman's ready-made directory to proper exploitation sources. The musical direction by Boris Morros is superb. Ray Ronahan's Technicolor photography touches a new high. The Harlem number built around Rocco and Saulter introduces a new technique in the use of color lighting and is likewise spectacular entertainment.

Running time, 112 minutes. "G."

During Miller's period of inactivity in the exhibition field Bank Night and giveaways have developed into acute problems resulting in trouble with the police and courts, and now a three per cent gross tax is under discussion at City Hall, and an increase in license fees has been threatened.

No Film at Alcatraz

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Government policy with respect to secrecy regarding the American "Devil's Island" at Alcatraz prison has "not changed one particle," it was declared today by Attorney General Cummings in discussing reports that Cosmopolitan planned production of a picture featuring the prison.

The Attorney General said the department has frequently received proposals to use Alcatraz as a film, but has never found a way to cooperate in anything proposed.

bargaining agency for members of its craft. In view of Bioff's inaction his statement, which was given to Pat Casey, is regarded as a bluff. No indications of strike preparations are apparent.

For purposes of the record Bioff today denied making the threat but highly reliable and unimpeachable sources said positively that he did.

The Society has emphatically refused to withdraw its petition to the National Labor Relations Board. It is believed here that the labor board will eventually straighten out the tangle.

Adding to the confusion in the labor situation here today was the action of Judge Emmett Wilson in referring back to the calendar for argument on merit the suit of the scenic artists' local of the Brotherhood of Painters for a permanent injunction restraining the set designer group from interfering with the scenic artists' current conferences with producers for the purpose of establishing working conditions for the draftsmen. The shifting of this suit paves the way for the airing of arguments in open court. The scenic artists' local holds a temporary injunction against the set designers.

Guild Confabs to Continue on Coast

cil through which cooperative measures could be fashioned for any one or more units as required, was reported in MOTION PICTURE DAILY on Tuesday. The proposal is in only a formative stage, but the fact that it is viewed favorably by the three dominant amusement unions, the I. A. T. S. E., the American Federation of Musicians and the Associated Actors and Artistes of America, with which is affiliated the Screen Actors' Guild, the new American Federation of Radio Actors and Actors' Equity Ass'n, encourages the belief that it will materialize ultimately.

Thomson leaves for Hollywood today with plans for returning here next month. Browne also leaves today, but will go to Seattle before returning to Hollywood. Thomson said he had made no final decision while here on taking a leave of absence from the guild in order to appear in a new Broadway production, but indications are that he will not accept the part which has been offered him because of the current activities involving the guild and the Four A.

No date for placing the guild shop in effect in eastern studios has been set, he said, due to the necessity of working out agreements with other theatrical unions on the interchangeability of membership cards of the organized talent employed here.

The regular meeting of the association was held in Birmingham during the month of June.

loose from a story, decided to ask questions before it was too late. He succeeded as Giannini rushed through the narrow corridors toward his state-room, where his son, Bernard, was awaiting him.

"What are you going over for?" Giannini was asked.

"I'm going over to look over our properties. We have a number of big new theatres in England and I want to visit our offices. We have 278 houses in England. Two weeks ago Odeon Theatres, in which United Artists has a 50 per cent interest, floated a $20,000,000 stock issue to the public. It was over-subscribed. We have several hundred employees over there and I want to cast a watchful eye over everything," he said.

"How about the reports on the Korda deal?"

"They said Mr. Griffith is on the boat and I am going to talk about a deal. That's a lot of nonsense. My trip has nothing to do with Korda."

Dr. Giannini Back Aug. 28

"How long will you be gone?"

"I'm sailing for home on Aug. 28."

"Is there anything new on the David O. Selznick situation?"

"Nothing new."

To the radio audience, Giannini said:

"Television has still to be made popular enough to reach every home. It is here, but as soon as the equipment can be made cheaper it will become a very important factor. Prohibitive costs are delaying it from becoming popular."

Griffis also was a late-comer. When asked if he was going abroad on the Korda deal, he said:

"I have nothing to say. I am not going to think about business. This is my annual trip and I'm going to rest and loaf. It's just a vacation. I'll be away six weeks visiting London, Paris and Vienna."

Sarnoff told MOTION PICTURE DAILY that NBC had no plans for expansion abroad.

"This is my annual trip. While I am in England I will study the latest developments in television."

"Are there any new developments for television in this country?"

"Not at the present time."

Sarnoff to Salzburg

Sarnoff will go to Salzburg from England to visit Arturo Toscanini. Sarnoff's wife and son, Robert, are now there. He will also spend a few days at the Paris exposition.

"I'll be away about six or seven weeks," he concluded.

Otterson was the next to arrive and, while he was not anxious to talk about the industry over the radio, he told MOTION PICTURE DAILY that he was off on a pleasure trip to Paris and London and planned to be back Sept. 6.

"What about the various reports on your new plans?"

"There is no truth to them. I am not working on any deals whatsoever."

King Vidor, who has just completed "Stella Dallas," asserted he had no plans for a picture abroad. He expects to be gone two to three months. From Havre he will go to Budapest

Marine Note

Jack Alicoate, publisher of The Film Daily, was yesterday interviewed by a Motion Picture Daily reporter just before he boarded the French liner.

This is what he had to say:

"It's my regular trip. I'll be back in three weeks. While in London and Paris I will visit the studios."

"Everything is all right in America. I'm going for the ride and to meet people on the boat."

where he will meet Charles Vidor, who, he says, is no relation.

While abroad Vidor will talk to Alexander Korda and William K. Howard. Following these conferences he may do a picture, he said.

Rouben Mamoulian, director of "High, Wide and Handsome," has called off plans for producing a play for the Theatre Guild. He will be gone six months and it will be a "vacation."

Joe S. Hummel of Warners will spend six weeks surveying distribution in London and Paris. He denied that his trip had anything to do with acquisition of theatres.

Balcon Leaves With Difficulty

Michael Balcon, supervisor of British production for M-G-M, had a little difficulty checking out of the country. For two hours he tried to find an immigration official without success. He sailed, nevertheless. The M-G-M home office has taken over the formalities, necessary after a five-month visit here.

James A. FitzPatrick, who is to make five more quota pictures for M-G-M, also was a passenger. He plans to complete the quintet by November.

Helen Jean Coleman and John B. Moran of Boston, who were winners on essays for "Captains Courageous," and Betty Ridgwell of Norfolk and Gillet Epps of Richmond, who were declared winners in the screen tests conducted by M-G-M, sailed for the Paris Exposition.

Huisman Goes Abroad

Renee Huisman, president of Best Film Co., who is back from a month in Canada, will return today to Canada accompanied by his family and will sail from Quebec on the Empress of Britain. He is taking along several productions for European release and will also negotiate the release of the Polish version of "Cloistered." Huisman plans to return to New York in about three months.

ICC Extends Time on Films Carrier Bills

it is the practice of the carrier to render bills weekly, which could not be done if the proposed five-day period were adopted.

At the same time, the eight-day limit for payment was attacked on the ground that most exhibitors have a specified day for payment of bills, while in the case of chain houses it is necessary for the approved bill to be sent to headquarters for auditing, which cannot be carried out within the eight-day period.

While the commission in its orders appears to have felt that the objections to the five-day limitation for the rendition of bills were well based, it ignored the arguments for more than eight days for payment. It did not, however, discuss the exhibitors' situation in its opinion, which was confined to a general comparison of the methods of the motor carriers with those of railroads.

The commission warned that the present regulations for the presentation and payment of motor carriers' bills, with the longer periods, are adopted because the present situation of the carriers appears to justify them and that as the motor carriers become better organized under the Motor Carrier Act they may be reduced.

Atlas-RKO Contract May Be Aired Today

yesterday in the U. S. District Court that his order of Nov. 23 did not apply to Atlas and asked Special Master Alger to decide whether or not testimony concerning the details of the sale were pertinent to the reorganization proceedings. Today's hearing, which was set by the special master after reading briefs of all sides, is for the purpose of taking further evidence on points not sufficiently covered in the first hearing.

Judge Bondy on Nov. 23 stated that it would not be necessary to itemize all sales of debentures and stock since the petition for reorganization was filed. He stated yesterday that he merely intended to eliminate unnecessary clerical work involved because of the large volume of trading with RKO securities. The order was not supposed to shield Atlas, the court said. Joseph M. Cohen, attorney for the Independent Protective Committee for stockholders, brought the petition for a ruling on the order. He charged that the court's original order is being used to prevent investigation of the circumstances of the purchase by the Atlas Corp. Atlas, RCA and their associates, own 84 per cent of the debentures and 48 per cent of the stock, according to Cohen. He claimed that the contract of purchase was made "for reorganization purposes."

H. C. Rickaby, attorney for Atlas, declared that the contract was "no secret." He emphasized the fact that he had submitted a copy of the contract to the special master, although it had not been placed in evidence. After some argument, Rickaby agreed to have the special master admit the evidence, if found to be relevant.

(HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW)
SWELL PIECE OF ENTERTAINMENT FOR ANY AUDIENCE, SHOULD PLAY TO NICE BOX OFFICE RETURNS.

It's a grand comedy when the heiress, Madeleine Carroll, takes up with the admitted fortune hunting Baron, Mischa Auer, as a means of getting the man she loves, Francis Lederer, to marry her. Any audience should find it a swell piece of entertainment, one which should play to some nice box-office returns. Even though he admits marriage is a business with him, Auer makes the Baron such a lovable, gay sort of person that one can't help liking him. He runs away with the picture, and although he carries most of the footage, his antics, foreign accent and mannerisms make him forever welcome. Madeleine Carroll is not only beautiful, but she handles her comedy in fine style. As worn out to good advantage. Playing an American brought up in Europe, Francis Lederer does very well as a carefree person who doesn't relax he is in love until it's just about too late. Elliott Nugent directed the piece with a swell farce sense, which keeps things moving at a lively pace and which provides for something enjoyable at all times. Mary McCall's screen play from Adelaide Heilbron's original provides the well-developed, laugh-provoking situations. A neat song number by Ben Oakland and Milton Drake is sung by Connie Boswell.

William Perlberg's picture shows high class production throughout and should be a top ranker among the Columbia releases. Miss Carroll, secretary to Francis Lederer's uncle, is made heiress to the latter's huge fortune. Francis is the off-and-on-heir according to his uncle's whims, and the uncle dies during one of the wrong ones for Francis. Madeleine loves the boy, but she wants to make a man of him first and hopes that in the meantime he falls for her. She goes to New York, where she throws money around in such a manner as to bring Francis there to protect the fortune until he can break the will. He becomes her secretary. She proceeds to make him jealous by carrying on with the notorious fortune hunter, Mischa Auer. After proposing marriage to protect her from Mischa Auer she turns over the fortune to him and with it Francis cancels her offer. She is at the marriage bureau ready to marry Mischa, when Francis realizes he loves her and gets there in time to win her.

Canada Radio Ban on Liquor Ads Comes Up

MONTREAL, Aug. 4.—Long existent reports to the effect that the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. is seeking legislation to prohibit commercial beer and liquor programs on the air gained credence today when it was learned the matter would come up for discussion at a general meeting of the corporation to be held in Ottawa tomorrow.

For some months, it was learned, a battle has been going on between authorities of the broadcasting corporation, governmental officials and church leaders on the one hand, and radio station heads, broadcasting and advertising agency representatives on the other.

Beer programs have long been banned in the province of Ontario. A similar ban in the province of Quebec would have a disastrous effect in Montreal at least, station officials and agency heads claim, for it is from this city that most of the Canadian beer programs emanate.

Prohibition of these programs would cut a big hole in the weekly commercial schedules of local stations, which include a recently inaugurated series of three-hour dance programs featuring Lloyd Huntley, of the Mount Royal dance orchestra.

From inner circles, it is learned, the corporation favors prohibitive legislation. Several representatives of local brewing companies and advertising agencies will offer arguments at tomorrow's meeting.

Gen. Hugh Johnson On Quinine Program

It was reported here yesterday that Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, former NRA administrator and now a nationally syndicated columnist, was to be auditioned for a new program to be sponsored by the makers of Energine. Gen. Johnson has been signed for a new program, but not for Energine. His sponsor will be Bromo Quinine.

The program will be heard over an NBC network, four times weekly. It is understood that the general has been signed for an 18-month period. The series is to begin late in September. Stack-Goble is the agency.

The Energine audition took place at NBC yesterday. This program will also be offered over an NBC network, once weekly, starting in the fall. It is titled "Newsreel of the Air," and will feature talks by people prominently mentioned in the newspapers the week preceding each broadcast. Stack-Goble also handles this account.

"Passing Show" on Mutual

"Passing Show of the Air," a new Mutual sustaining show, will be inaugurated Aug. 15, from 7:30 to 8 P. M. The show will feature Georgie Price as emcee, Morton Gould's orchestra and the "Charioteers."

Jean Sablon Re-Signed

Jean Sablon has been re-signed for an additional period on the RCA "Magic Key" program, which is broadcast Sundays over the NBC-Blue network.

NBC Buys Hollywood Block As Site for a New Studio

While no confirmation could be received at NBC yesterday, it is reliably learned that the network has purchased a city block in the heart of Hollywood, where a huge studio will be built.

The present NBC Hollywood studios were built a little more than a year ago, and despite recent extensions to the studio it has grown woefully inadequate, such has been the increase of programs emanating from Hollywood.

CBS, incidentally, broke ground for a large new plant some months ago.

Radio Manufactures Up 10% in 6 Months

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—A 10 per cent increase in radio production during the first six months of the current year, compared with the same period in 1936, was today reported by the Radio Manufacturers' Ass'n.

Government collections from the five per cent tax on radio and phonograph apparatus, it was pointed out, totaled $2,564,000 for the first half of the current year compared with $2,325,000 for the corresponding period a year ago.

For the fiscal year ended June 30, it was said, tax collections were one-third above those for the preceding year, totaling $6,754,000, against $5,075,000.

Atlantic Will Have Holy Cross's Games

The Atlantic Refining Co. yesterday set a deal with CBS whereby the football games of Holy Cross University will be broadcast over a New England hookup of CBS stations.

The schedule will begin Sept. 25, and will be for 10 weeks. The games will be broadcast from 2 to 4.30 P. M. each Saturday.

The stations are: WEEI, Boston; WORC, Worcester; WMAS, Springfield; WDRC, Hartford, and WPRO, Providence. N. W. Ayer & Son, Inc., is the agency. Radio Sales, Inc., handled the placement.

Columbia Declares Dividend

A cash dividend of 40 cents a share on the present Class A and Class B stock of $2.50 par value has been declared by CBS. The dividend is payable Sept. 10 to holders of record Aug. 27.

To Air "Mile from Heaven"

The cast of "One Mile From Heaven," including Judge Ben Lindsey, Claire Trevor, Sally Blane and Douglas Fowley, will preview scenes from the picture on "Hollywood Hotel" over CBS Aug. 13.

WBNX, foreign language station, has adopted a new slogan, which is repeated simultaneously with the station identification letters at the program break periods. The new slogan is "The station that speaks your language." Currently, 11 languages are represented in the station's programs.

Keeps a Secret

Mildred Fenton, assistant to Mrs. Hummert of the Blackett - Sample - Hummert agency refutes the theory that woman cannot keep a secret. Mildred has been at the agency quite a spell, but it was only recently and quite by accident that the powers-that-be there discovered that before entering the advertising field she had sung abroad and had been associated in the theatre with such personalities as Elisabeth Bergner, Charles B. Cochran and Arch Selwyn.

P. S.—Mildred will make a guest appearance on the agency's "Hammerstein Music Hall" series Aug. 13.

Buick Signs Up for Louis-Farr Battle

Continuing its policy of broadcasting leading boxing bouts, the Buick Motor Co., yesterday closed with the promoters of the coming championship fight between Joe Louis and his British challenger, Tommy Farr, for the broadcast rights to the event.

The fight is to take place in the Yankee Stadium Aug. 26, and the broadcast will be offered over the combined Blue and Red networks of NBC. Clem McCarthy and Edwin C. Hill will probably be assigned to the microphone positions, although this could not be confirmed yesterday.

Acquit Whitson on One Count

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4.—A jury in Federal Court here today acquitted Delmar Whitson, who claims to be the inventor of a method of applying a photoelectric cell to film sound recording, on one count of the perjury charge growing out of the alleged falsification of documents presented by Whitson at a Patent Commission hearing some years ago.

Dean Werner, Whitson attorney, after the announcement of the acquittal, stated that Whitson will fight to establish letters of patent on the process of which RCA has an option.

Aim to Raise Marconi Fund

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 4.—Plans for a coast-to-coast broadcast to raise funds for a Marconi memorial in Golden Gate Park, have been announced by the Call-Bulletin, in cooperation with local network officials.

Outstanding talent will be lined up for the show, late in September, with pickups from all parts of the country.

Nat Brusiloff Joins WMCA

Nat Brusiloff, formerly musical director of WOR, has been appointed to a similar position with WMCA. The appointment, made by Donald Flamm, president of the station, becomes effective Aug. 8.

Ralph Nordberg Joins NBC

Ralph Nordberg, former sales manager of WGN, Schenectady, has joined the station sales department of NBC in the New York office.

Pick Late Afternoon For Women Program

Lehn & Fink, having determined after long tests that certain daylight hours are better than evening hours to reach the feminine audience by radio, has contracted with CBS for the 45 minutes from 4:45 P. M. to 5:30 P. M. in which to run 15-minute consecutive shows for Hinds Honey and Almond Cream, Lysol, and Pebecco.

Last season Lehn & Fink experimented with morning periods on CBS. The company is now convinced that the late afternoon is a much more suitable time for its products.

The Hinds show will be a script program now on WLW only. Beginning sometime in September, it will be expanded from the one station to the entire network. Dr. Dafoe will be returned for Lysol, beginning Oct. 4, and the new show for Pebecco, already noted in these columns, will be the Nick Dawson and Elsie Hitz serial script, "Follow the Moon," which last season was heard over NBC.

Radio Artists' Local In Membership Drive

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 4.—Hollywood Local No. 1 of the American Federation of Radio Artists today launched a membership drive to take in radio directors, producers, actors, announcers, singers, sound effects engineers and writers following a mass meeting of 300 radio workers at El Capitan Theatre at which the dropping of the name Radio Equity in favor of the new title in the charter granted by the A.A.A.A. was made official.

Norman Field, president of the local, urged members to contact other radio workers to offset the inroads of the C.I.O. into the local radio field.

The setting up of grievance committees for announcers, actors and singers was announced and A.F.R.A. national heads asked for authority to establish a grievance board for sound effects men.

CBS Gets Silver Series

Another program featuring screen and stage talent will be ushered in over the CBS network Oct. 3, when 1847 Roger Bros. Silverware Co. begins sponsorship of a new series titled "Silver Theatre." The program will offer adaptation shows, novels, and original stories, with film and theatrical players enacting the leading roles. The program, of course, will emanate from Hollywood. Young & Rubicam is the agency.

NBC Changing Musicians

NBC is quietly dropping scores of its house musicians in preparation for the coming of Arturo Toscanini, who will begin a new symphony series some time in December or January. The discharged house musicians are being replaced with men of symphony calibre in preparation for the Toscanini series.

Pritzker Joins Agency

Because the advertising account of the Gillette Safety Razor Co. has been placed with Maxon, Inc., Charles Pritzker, advertising manager for Gillette, will join Maxon as vice-president and will be succeeded by Craig Smith, formerly of Ruthrauff & Ryan.

Justice Dep't Film Campaign In the Offing

Oil and Picture Probes Busy for Some Time

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Embarkation by the Dep't. of Justice on a "trust busting" campaign which may involve the film industry was seen here today by interested observers in the disclosure yesterday by Attorney General Cummings that an investigation of the oil industry which resulted last year in two Federal indictments at Madison, Wis., is to be extended to other sections of the country.

Although the department consistently has refused to admit that anything in the nature of a "trust busting" effort was contemplated, it has been known for some time that both the oil and film industries have been under investigation, that a study was being made of practices in the steel industry based on charges of "identical bidding" for Government contracts, and that

U. A. Lays Claim to New "Dallas" Marks

"Stella Dallas" got off to a whale of a start at the Music Hall yesterday. At 4 P. M., United Artists reported this:

Better opening day business than any other attraction in the last two and a half years.

Biggest attendance, winter or summer and not excepting spring and autumn, in the history of the theatre

Gross was $1,542 ahead of any U. A. attraction to have played the house.

Fox Theatres-Roxy Award Is Approved

Settlement of the $1,177,400 claim of the Roxy Theatre gold noteholders' protective committee against Fox Theatres Corp. was approved yesterday by Special Master Courtland Palmer in his report filed in the U. S. District Court and an allowance of the claim at the agreed amount of $760,000 was recommended.

The claim is based on a 1927 contract between Halsey, Stuart & Co and the Fox Theatres Corp. in which

Paramount Strike Pickets Enjoined in Minneapolis

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 5.—Federal Judge Gunnar H. Nordbye today signed an order halting picketing of the Paramount exchange and theatres playing the company's product and restraining exhibitors in this territory from other demonstrations against the company pending a further hearing in Federal Court here on Aug. 12.

The action was filed for Paramount by the law firm of Shearer, Byard and Troegner, the company's Minneapolis attorneys, and duplicates the restraining order obtained by Paramount from the Federal Court at Philadelphia last Friday.

The company's complaint names Allied Theatre Owners of the Northwest and individual exhibitor participants in the film buyers' strike against the company in this territory as defendants. It alleges conspiracy in restraint of trade and other possible

Hearings End On RKO Plan; Report Later

Testimony on the proposed plan of reorganization for RKO was concluded yesterday before Special Master George W. Alger. A tentative report on the plan will be read on Oct. 14 at which time all sides will be given an opportunity to criticize specific recommendations of the master.

It was indicated that the report may recommend modifications or additions to the proposed plan. The unusual procedure of a tentative report was adopted to allow discussion of specific recommendations. Although Special Master Alger revealed no definite opinion of approval or rejection he told H. C. Rickaby, attorney for the Atlas Corp., proponents of the plan, that he may decide "to butcher the plan" and that it might be that "nobody will be satisfied."

The referee ruled against admission of testimony concerning the purchase in 1935 by Atlas from RCA of one-half of the latter's holdings for $5,000,000 with an option to purchase the remaining half before 1938 for $6,000,000, as having no relevancy to the

Taxes on Admissions Predicted in Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—As a means of raising money to provide for the 10 per cent increase in wages granted to city employees, the finance committee of the City Council today indicated that theatre admissions would be taxed at the rate of one cent on admissions up to 40 cents and two cents on tickets costing from 40 to 75 cents.

Other amusements would be taxed in the same manner.

Heavy Levies Proposed for Holding Units

By CLARENCE LINZ

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Sharply critical of actors and radio stars who form holding companies from which they draw "salaries" less than those paid for their services by the producer and broadcasting employers as a device to reduce their income tax responsibilities, the Joint Congressional Tax Committee today recommended changes in the tax law which would make such organizations unprofitable.

Submitting its report to the Senate and House, the committee suggested that the definition of personal holding companies of this nature be changed so as to provide for treatment as income of the full amount received by the corporation from contracts for the personal services of any individual who, with his family and partner, directly or indirectly owned 25 per cent or more in value of the outstanding stock.

In addition, it was recommended that the surtaxes on holding companies be increased to 65 and 75 per cent, with the dividing line at $20,000 from the present rates of eight to 48 per cent.

As now written, the committee declared, the provisions relating to "incorporated talents" constitutes a serious loophole.

Talks with Trustees in Final Stages

Discussions of an out-of-court settlement of two suits brought by the reorganization trustees of Paramount in 1934 to recover several millions of dollars from former officers and directors of the company are in their final stage with indications that an agreement may be signed within the next few weeks, it was learned yesterday.

The amount of the settlement may run as high as $2,000,000 on the basis of tentatively agreed upon sums to be paid by individual defendants in the actions. The settlement would be paid into the Paramount treasury.

The suits seek the recovery of alleged losses and damages resulting from the fulfillment by the company of stock repurchase agreements, of sums alleged to have been paid company officials "in excess of reasonable compensation" for the years 1927 to 1931, and of alleged profits realized by defendants in participating in a Paramount employees' stock purchase plan.

HAL HORNE was the most versatile luncheon guest at the Tavern yesterday. After lunching with MONROE GREENTHAL, CHARLES KURTZMAN, MONTY PROSER, HARRY KOSINER and BILLY REED, HORNE joined GEORGE J. SCHAEFER and HARRY GOLD for a spell. Then, he shifted to the table occupied by SI SEADLER, BOB GOLDSTEIN, JACK GOETZ and RED KANN where he unloosened a line of gags which kept the group in a happy frame of mind.

After a quiet repast, JOE VOGEL and OSCAR DOOB repaired to the table where SCHAEFER and GOLD were doing nicely with the food. JACK BARNSTYN ate alone and then joined BILL FITELSON and BERT MAYERS. A. WATTENBERG and EDWIN (BUDDY) MORRIS discussed affairs of Music Publishers. GEORGE WEST and NAT SALAND talked over things by themselves. HARRY THOMAS and LOUIS SOLOMON made up a twosome, while LEO JUSTIN, HENRY BROWN, LEON BLUMBERG and MORRIS JACKS crowded around the Monday Knights' table. A. J. VAN BEUREN had company. LESLIE E. Campaign on "Zola"
Marked by Dignity

Extreme dignity and typographical art work that entirely disregards the usual film ballyhoo technique are being used by Warners in the New York campaign for the opening of "The Life of Emile Zola."

The first four two-column newspaper ads turned out by S. Charles Einfeld's department have been designed to introduce Zola to any who may have forgotten his claims to fame as a novelist and a crusader for justice in the Captain Dreyfus case.

Four of the larger ads—two and three columns each—are in outline type and script with light line borders. Each starts: "Warners are proud to present—" Seven others, with art work, have the style of a Tiffany announcement on the sale of a string of pearls.

Even the 24 sheets have the same restrained dignity. One of these does not even mention the name of Paul Muni and the supporting cast. It reads: "Truth is on the march! Emile Zola."

Seek Actor Members
Outside Guild Area

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 5.—The Screen Actors' Guild is contacting all location spots outside of the 300-mile radius in which the guild shop is mandatory and by a system of education has those players on the outside location spots asking for the guild's scale of wages. These players include western actors and stunt men.

The move is in progress because of the guild's fear that the producers would make westerns and other features outside the 300-mile limit to evade the paying of the guild wage scale. It is understood that special cards are being issued to the actors affiliated by the drive.

are made defendants in the action to recover on the stock repurchase agreements which were entered into in the acquisition of various properties for which stock was issued at a guaranteed redemption price. On the maturities of some of these agreements the redemption price was in excess of the market value of the stock, and the recoveries sought are based on the difference between the redemption and market prices. The director defendants include Jules Brulatour, Harold B. Franklin, Daniel Frohman, Sam Katz, Sidney R. Kent, Ralph Kohn, Jesse L. Lasky, the estate of Elek J. Ludvigh, Maurice Newton, Sir William Wiseman, Herman Wobber and Adolph and Eugene Zukor.

Those whom the actions allege received excessive compensation include Adolph Zukor, Lasky, Kent, Katz and Kohn. Those alleged to have made "actual or potential profits" through participations in the employees' stock purchase plan include Felix M. Warburg, Jerome J. Hanauer, Gordon Leith, George W. Bovenizer, Lewis L. Strauss, Sir William Wiseman, the estate of Otto H. Kahn and the estate of Mortimer L. Schiff.

First Trial Sept. 27

There are 24 defendants in all who, together with the Paramount trustee and counsel, have been seeking an out-of-court settlement of the actions to avoid the lengthy and costly litigation involved in bringing them to trial. The first action has been set for trial in N. Y. Supreme Court on Sept. 27 and the second is scheduled for trial in October.

While a majority of the principal defendants have agreed to an out-of-court settlement and to the amounts each will pay to the company, delays in concluding a settlement may result from the fact that several are insistent upon spreading their payments over a period of years, while agreements with others have still to be reached on the amounts to be paid.

Theatres, Inc., Pennsylvania corporation, 50 theatres, and the Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., of Delaware, owning over 50 per cent of the stock of the Stanley Co. of America and of Warner Brothers Theatres, Inc., of Pennsylvania, and operating about 150 theatres in the state, are the amusement companies that filed injunction suits against the State Dep't of Revenue to prevent the latter from enforcing the terms of the law. They filed late yesterday, the last day for making applications for permits to run their theatres. Judge J. Dress Pannell granted temporary injunctions in behalf of these companies, which have the effect of staying collection of taxes from the filing corporations until the court issue is decided.

violations of the anti-trust laws on the part of the defendant exhibitors. The allegation is made that exhibitors who desired to buy and play the company's product were intimidated into refraining from doing so, while others were compelled by coercion to breach their Paramount contracts and to refrain from entering into new contracts with the company.

The complaint described the exhibitors' action as a "buyers' sit-down strike" and asserted that unless a restraining order was issued the interference with interstate trade and commerce in motion pictures would continue, the company would be unable to deliver its pictures in accordance with its contracts and would suffer the loss of large sums of money.

Paramount home office officials said yesterday that restraining orders similar to those obtained in Philadelphia and Minneapolis would be sought to prevent mass exhibitor demonstrations against the company wherever threatened. Milwaukee, Cleveland, Boston and Los Angeles exhibitors have discussed similar demonstrations.

not plan to make any pictures on this trip.

"Roadshow," an original by Eric Hatch and adapted by Marc Connelly, will be started Sept. 15 with Lewis Milestone directing. This will be the second of six features for the season, the first being "Topper," which will follow "Captains Courageous" into the Capitol. Titles and cast of the other four pictures have not been set, Roach stated. He will sail from Naples on the Rex Sept. 15.

The M-G-M producer was met at the airport by Grace Rosenfeld, eastern representative for Roach. She had planned to leave for Hollywood tomorrow, but has postponed the trip and will depart for the studios when Roach returns from abroad.

Howard and Frenke Join

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 5.—Leslie Howard and Eugene Frenke, according to a statement of H. L. Kaufman, their associate, will form a new producing company to make six pictures a year. At least one of these, says the statement, will co-star Howard and Anna Sten, wife of Frenke.

the cement and certain other industries have been under scrutiny.

Department officials have explained that, so far as the film industry is concerned, there are three men continuously at work, but that the inquiries are "formal" and designed to keep the Government abreast of developments in the industry.

In the case of both the picture and oil industries, "independents" have been the department's major source of complaints on which inquiries are based. The setup of the two industries, although they are totally unrelated, is identical, in that in both there are companies which produce, distribute and market and others which are "independent" of the integrated companies and which confine themselves to one of the three activities in which the larger firms engage.

Independents the Complainants

In both industries, also, the attack on the major companies is being carried by independent retailers who feel themselves operating under handicaps because of the marketing practices and other forms of control of the major companies.

A further similarity between the film and oil industries is found in the fact that independents in both have been unsuccessful in their efforts to secure Congressional legislation to eliminate the abuses of which they complain.

While the Attorney General refused to go into detail regarding the plans of the department, it has long been expected that the Government would undertake a major campaign against the oil, film and certain other industries in which the larger organizations are sufficiently powerful to practically control.

reorganization proceedings. The securities sold are alleged to be 1,211,462 shares of common stock and $9,786,655 of debentures. The contracts of sale will be filed with the special master, but will not be placed in evidence. Instead they will be sealed and delivered to the court in a separate envelope.

Arthur Berenson, attorney for a group of Boston stockholders, argued against the ruling which would not permit attorneys in the case to inspect the agreement.

After the hearing he stated he would protest against the decision when the report comes up for final approval before Federal Judge William Bondy. He charged that the sale involved securities with a market value of approximately $30,000,000 for one-third of their value and that the circumstances of the sale warranted investigation by the special master.

It is believed that final action on the plan will not be taken before December. After the filing of the tentative draft, several weeks will elapse before the formal report can be presented. A hearing before Judge Bondy is not expected to be held before the middle of November. Edward Avery, RKO accountant, was the only witness yesterday. He offered in evidence the consolidated earnings statement for the first 26 weeks of 1937.

OUR TIP ON "TOPPER" WAS TIP-TOP!

It beat "Captains Courageous" in first four days in Philadelphia and holding up strong!

It's doing lovely in Louisville!

Both spots advertised heavily as we urged and profited accordingly!

Watch for news of further "Topper" openings, delayed by nation-wide Hold-Overs of "Saratoga" and other big ones from M-G-M.

Nice work Leo!

Although last-minute details have yet to be ironed out, the Atlantic Refining Co. will air at least 158 games between major eastern and mid-western football college elevens with at least 64 stations pressed into service, it was made known yesterday by Joseph R. Rollins, advertising manager of the company. It is expected that a definite listing will be available in a few days.

Last season Atlantic Refining broadcast 112 football games over 41 radio stations.

Radio Actors' Board Chosen Tentatively

A national board of governors for the newly organized American Federation of Radio Actors was tentatively selected yesterday at a meeting of representatives of unions affiliated with the Associated Actors and Artistes of America at Actors' Equity headquarters.

The personnel of the board was not made public owing to the fact that members must be ratified by the councils of the individual Four A unions—Equity, Screen Actors' Guild, American Federation of Actors, Chorus Equity and American Guild of Musical Artists, before the selections become permanent. The boards of these organizations will meet during the next few days to act upon the radio unit's slate.

The new radio union will be an autonomous organization, having a charter from the Four A's. Local boards will be selected later by the membership of the regional radio units.

W. J. Fagan Joins Agency

William J. Fagan, formerly with the sales staff of CBS, has joined Benton & Bowles, Inc., as business manager of the New York radio department. He will work with Tom Revere, filling the post left vacant by Chester MacCracken, who has gone to Hollywood to act as business manager of Benton & Bowles new office in that city.

Fagan went to CBS in 1929 from the United Press where he was engaged for several years as a general reporter and later as radio editor of the news syndicate.

Cocomalt Holds Joe Penner

In confirmation of reports printed here in previous issues, the R. B. Davis Co. yesterday announced the resigning of Joe Penner for his CBS series in behalf of Cocomalt. Protect Announcer

San Francisco, Aug. 5.—It's bad enough for Ernie Smith, KYA baseball broadcaster, when youngsters yell "Hello, Ma," "Hello, Pa," into the mike at the end of every game.

But the other night one of the lads grabbed his commercial copy, and dashed off into the crowd,

Now the sponsor is building Smith a booth in the grandstand to "protect" him from kids and grandstandites.

Survey Reports KNX Leads on the Coast

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5.—The W. R. Penney Research Corp. popularity ranking of stations in this city finds KNX, local CBS station, far ahead of its rivals. In the 2,268 15-minute periods studied by the research company, from January through June of this year, the stations were ranked as follows:

KNX was declared first 1,016 times, or 51.8 per cent; KFI (NBC-Red), 683 times, or 33.8 per cent; KHJ (Mutual), 122 times, or 6.1 per cent, and KECA (NBC-Blue), 96 times, or 4.8 per cent.

The balance of the poll is divided among the five remaining non-network stations in the city.

The surveys represent 412,000 completed telephone calls.

KNX, incidentally, recently closed three important new contracts. Lehn & Fink uses three periods a week for Tussey Lip Stick; two quarter-hour programs a week have been reserved for Malto Milk, and Listerine will sponsor a five-time-a-week series.

Bernard Barton with Oxley

Bernard Barton, artist representative of Washington, D. C., is now located in the New York office of Harold F. Oxley, handling bookings for the Edgar Hayes orchestra.

Signing of Johnson For Air Confirmed

Stack-Goble yesterday formally announced the signing of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson for a network commentary series, news of which was published exclusively here in Wednesday's issue.

The series starts the week of Sept. 27, and will be heard over the NBC-Blue, Mondays and Thursdays from 8 to 8:15 P. M., and on Tuesdays and Wednesdays from 10 to 10:15 P. M. Grove Laboratories will sponsor.

The signing of General Johnson, incidentally, puts an end to the muddle involving Grove Laboratories, Gabriel Heatter and the Rogers Peet Co. Heatter inadvertently had signed contracts granting his exclusive services to both clients, and for a period it appeared as if the case would go to the courts. The way is now clear for Heatter to begin his Rogers Peet series on WOR.

WHN Adds 3 New Commercial Series

Three commercial accounts were set at WHN yesterday. They are:

Discussing Arrangement With Two Companies

Herbert Wilcox, British producer, is negotiating with RKO and Paramount to make three pictures a year in England for each company, he said yesterday. None of the pictures will be made for less than $500,000, Wilcox said.

Arrangements for the Paramount films are being discussed with Barney Balaban, president, and John W. Hicks, foreign manager. With RKO, Wilcox is dealing with Leo Spitz, Ned E. Depinet and Phil Reisman.

Wilcox will sail Wednesday on the Queen Mary to attend the premiere of "Victoria the Great" in England and also to attend the Paris Exposition. He will return in a month to

CEA Pleads Quality Clause Before M.P.'s

LONDON, July 27.—A deputation from the Manchester branch of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Ass'n was received at the House of Commons by a party of roughly one score Members of Parliament for Lancashire constituencies.

The meeting was arranged by J. F. Emery, M. P., who is a circuit proprietor in Lancashire. The case for the quality clause was stated by Ken Nyman, vice-president of the C.E.A. and others, and promises of support for the association's case were made by the members. The C.E.A. plans similar deputations from all constituencies, obtaining practically a 100 per cent presentation of its case to M.P.s.

Chicago Sets Back Ticket Tax Moves

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—City Finance Committee today sidetracked plans for a theatre admission tax when several councilmen protested that such a tax would put small exhibitors at the mercy of big theatre owners.

Alderman B. A. Cronson said such a tax would hurt kid trade most and Alderman John F. Healy said small theatre owners couldn't survive such a tax. As a result the ordinance was held up until the council can find a workable plan for increasing revenue from theatres. Alderman Jacob M. Arvey said a new plan would be worked out before work on next year's budget begins.

Ten days after an approved ordinance has been passed by the council and signed by Mayor Kelly it becomes effective, so whenever an acceptable plan is found theatres will be affected almost immediately. Latest reports indicate that increased license fees and no ticket tax will be the outcome of the situation which finds theatres called upon to provide approximately $1,000,000 to help meet a deficit in the budget due to a city payroll increase starting Oct. 1.

Detroit's Raids on Screeno Are Resumed

DETROIT, Aug. 6.—Following dissolution of a temporary injunction granted the Granada restraining police from interfering with the operation of Screeno games by Judge Henry B. Nichol of Circuit Court police have started a series of raids on theatres using the game.

The first two theatres to be given tickets for violation of the anti-lottery laws were the Lincoln Square, where Burton London was served, and the Dix, where police gave a ticket to Clair Winnie, operator.

Nathaniel Goldstick, assistant corporation counsel assigned to police, said that the raids would be kept up until every house in the city using the games had been haled into court.

Attorneys for Screeno say they will demand jury trials in each instance.

Only Few Smaller Houses Not in, Say Officers

Every theatre in the metropolitan area will be employing union projectionists by the first of September, officials of Local 306 stated yesterday in reporting on the results of a drive to unionize smaller houses, which is now nearing its conclusion.

Contracts were signed by the local yesterday with Morris Jacobson, president of Manhattan Circuit, Inc., for the Chelsea, Chatham and Morning-side. They brought the total of such contracts closed during the past week by Local 306 to seven, and leave only 18 houses in the metropolitan area without union projectionists. The local expects to close with these houses by the end of the month, it was stated.

The contracts with Manhattan Circuit, union spokesmen said, establish

Louisville Pool in Offing, Says Dolle

Negotiations will be continued for the pooling of four Indianapolis theatres by Monarch Theatres and the Fourth Ave. Amusement Co., Fred Dolle, president and general manager of the latter circuit, stated yesterday prior to his departure for Louisville with Charles Krebs, booker for the circuit.

"The deal is all in the offing," Dolle said, "and nothing is definite."

Discussing general conditions, Dolle stated that "business is much better since the Louisville floods. Considerable rehabilitation is under way. Homes are being rebuilt, factories are active and stores are doing a lively trade. All this is reflected at the box-office."

Dolle added he did not plan to re-

Allied Heads Have Talks at Justice Dep't

Believed Paramount Was Subject of Session

By BERTRAM F. LINZ

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Possibilities that the Dept. of Justice may be asked to take a hand in the Allied attack on Paramount were seen here today with the disclosure that Nathan Yamins, president of Allied; Abram F. Myers, general counsel, and Max Levinson, New England exhibitor, this week had a long conference with Assistant Attorney Robert H. Jackson, head of the department's anti-trust division.

None of the principals in the matter would divulge the purpose of the visit to the department, but as it occurred almost coincidentally with the filing of the Paramount complaint with the Federal Trade Commission the presumption is that the discussion with Jackson was directed at some phase of the same subject.

In an effort to provide the commission with as much information as

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S
HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Souls at Sea"

(Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 6.—Paramount's strong story of the sea and the slave trade met with mixed response at the Paramount in Los Angeles Thursday night. Alongside the foyer groups buzzing with praise were others humming with dissent on the ground that the essentially sound material had been diluted with incidental sentimentalism. Nevertheless, the picture held both professionals and payees present throughout with tension at a high pitch in the crucial passages and laughter was general where sought.

The chances are that the fresh, basic subject matter and a fine production technique will carry the picture into the upper box-office bracket. The unusual story concerns a supposed slave dealer, actually a confidential Government agent, who is tried for mass murder after saving half of the survivors of a shipwreck at the cost of the other half. The scene in which the sacrifice is made is adroitly handled by Henry Hathaway, director, and scores its points effectively without shocking. Two romances are worked out incidentally. Gary Cooper, George Raft, Frances Dee, Henry Wilcoxon, Harry Carey and Olympe Bradna play the principal roles with understanding and restraint.

The screenplay by Grover Jones and Ted Lesser is based on Dale Van Every's story of a century-old historical incident. It is notable for its dexterity and the retention of the manners, customs and speech of the period. Leo Robin's and Ralph Rainger's songs, written as of the date represented, are a fine example of the production composition. A courtroom time lapse device employed to get into the story handicaps the audience interest somewhat and makes the closing minutes anticlimactic. The narration is strictly chronological. Otherwise Cooper and Raft are effective together and Miss Bradna's performance is possibly prophetic of a bright future. The picture as a whole is one to exploit with a wide open throttle, as it is powerful drama.

Running time, 90 minutes. "G."

M-G-M London House
Is Fined Over Quota

LONDON, July 28.—At Bow Street Police Court the Empire Leicester Square, M-G-M show window in England was fined £15 and £10:10s costs for quota default in the year ended Sept., 1936. Evidence was that 16.67 per cent of British films were shown, against the statutory 20 per cent.

H. Sydney Wright, solicitor for M-G-M, pleaded that the only British films available were of a character which would have had a hostile reception from the public. Cross-examining Walter Craddock, the Board of Trade representative, he asked: "Is it reasonable to assume that the failure of a number of companies ceasing production in this country shows that British films do not appeal to the public?" The reply was "No, I don't agree," and Mr. Craddock also said "No" to a suggestion that West End audiences in particular were "very hostile to British films."

Flash Previews

"Flight from Glory"—The story of flying freight services in the Andes, this is a commendable sustaining attraction.

"Nazar Stodolya"—Russia's latest—in the usual propagandistic vein. A tale of two serfs seeking freedom.

These films will be reviewed in full in a coming edition of MOTION PICTURE DAILY.

M-G-M Signs MacArthur

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 6.—Charles MacArthur has signed a contract to produce for M-G-M. His first will be "Only Unto Thee."

Principal Sues on "Crusade" Contract

The alleged repudiation of a contract involving distribution of the picture, "Crusade against Rackets" is the basis of a suit for $5,000 damages filed in the N. Y. Supreme Court yesterday by Principal Film Exchanges, Inc., against Jay Dee Kay Prod., Inc., and its president, J. D. Kendis.

"Crusade against Rackets," originally titled "Slaves in Bondage," is being shown at the Gaiety. Principal alleges that it arranged for the Gaiety showing and for sole distribution of the picture elsewhere in New York and in New Jersey and that the defendants violated this agreement which allegedly was made on July 22. The defendants are accused of having appropriated the Gaiety contract without reimbursing Principal and it is charged that they refused to furnish the plaintiff with additional prints for distribution elsewhere. The $5,000 asked for by Principal is based on alleged receipts of the Gaiety from the present run.

possible, so that its preliminary investigation may be shortened, Myers this week submitted to the F.T.C. additional exhibits to support the complaint filed recently. The material, it was said, was largely advertising of Paramount product over a period of several years, intended to support the contention that the company's policies of which complaint is made are not new, but have been followed consistently for some time.

Ohio ITO Bulletin Cites Para. Suits

COLUMBUS, Aug. 6.—The I.T.O. of Ohio in a message sent to members and participants in the exhibitors' "buyer strike" against Paramount today interpreted the restraining orders obtained by the distributor in Federal courts at Philadelphia and Minneapolis as "admissions that the strike is effective."

Pointing to the statement in Paramount's court complaints that unless the exhibitors are enjoined from mass demonstrations against the company it "will suffer immediately from the loss of large sums of money," the bulletin admonishes exhibitors to "make up your mind to play no Paramount pictures or sign any 1937-'38 contracts until this strike is finally settled."

"This battle will be won by touching Paramount's most vulnerable spot—its pocketbook," the message adds.

Local exhibitors anticipate the filing of an action by Paramount to halt mass demonstrations against the company here, similar to those obtained by the distributor in Philadelphia and Minneapolis.

The I.T.O. of Ohio yesterday addressed a memorandum to every member of Congress asking support for the passage of the Hobbs resolution calling for Federal investigation of the industry. The memorandum charges that the industry "is dominated and controlled by the five large producers and distributors" and cites the recent Allied States' complaint against Paramount filed with the Federal Trade Commission, and salaries paid to officers of the company, as evidence of "ruthless business methods" and the fruits of "monopoly."

RKO will roadshow "Victoria the Great" in Canada, Wilcox said. On his return, he will stop over at Quebec on the Empress of Britain. W. G. Van Schmus has booked the film for the Music Hall the latter part of September, Wilcox added.

Under the new proposed quota law for England, pictures produced at £15,000 may be regarded as one quota film. Productions geared at £45,000 may count as three quota films provided the pictures gross a guaranteed figure in the United States, Wilcox added.

Cheap quota pictures in England are at an end. The trend is toward big pictures for international release, he said.

Refuses Closed Shop

OMAHA, Aug. 6.—Still adamant against demands of the local exchange union, M. G. Rogers, head of Film Transport, declares he will not sign a closed shop agreement for his drivers. Rogers' offer to raise drivers' wages on a parity with the Omaha teamsters' union has been rejected by the exchange union, which demands a still greater increase.

Another setback has been received by the union with announcement that Paramount will not negotiate the demand that any pay increase be made retroactive to the date negotiations started.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 6.—C.I.O. organizers are attempting to organize theatre employees which include ushers, ticket sellers, doormen and porters and others. NEW HAVEN, Aug. 6.—The petition for Sunday stage shows under the local option clause of the new State law failed to come to a vote at the August meeting of the Board of Aldermen. Hits British Lack Of School Machines

The Open Spaces Again

"Gun Smoke Law," new NBC-Blue sustaining adventure serial, is a typical product of its kind, full of dialogue in the vernacular, and loaded down with adventurous situations. Its villains are deep-dyed blackguards; its hero and heroine handsome, virtuous and honorable. The program's entertainment quality is fairish, but it does seem that smarter programming would have given it a better chance for popularity. It is an 8 to 8:30 P. M. offering; at 6 P. M. or thereabouts it would reach the children who usually can be depended on to follow loyally a strip of this kind.

The story deals with ranching and cattle smuggling. The hero arrives in an unfriendly atmosphere when the foreman and his cohorts suspect he has been sent there by the absentee owners of the ranch to check up on cattle losses. Just to complicate matters, the hero has to fall in love with the local school marm, who is also the adored of the villainous ranch foreman. They'll probably be gun-shooting in the next installment, pards.

Associated British Reaches New Highs

LONDON, July 29.—Almost all the items in the balance sheet of Associated British Pictures Corp. Ltd., for the year ending March 31 establish new records.

Already briefly cabled was the fact that the gross trading profit was £1,265,829 and the net, after deducting interest on loans, and on mortgage stock, and after making allowance for income tax, £869,644. Exchange Men Are Called in Federal Probe

Reported Century Circuit

B. exchange, last week appeared before U. S. District Attorney Leo Hickey in Brooklyn. I. Insiders' Outlook

By RED KANN

ON a pre-holiday checkup, this memory of ours appears to be in reasonably good working order. We recall quite distinctly how, when we saw the stage version of "Dead End" a while back now, the conclusion was Sidney Kingsley's play would never make a comparable motion picture. The reasons were several. The intensity which the drama reached, to our way of figuring it out, was accomplished by the concentration of the action in one set. The swank apartment building on the East River front and its squalid tenement neighbors provided an expressive contrast in which the characters did their pieces. In a word, the setting was a completely inseparable adjunct of the play. . . .

Because of that, it seemed then that any effort by any producer in Hollywood to set a roving camera at work and thereby remove the play from its peculiarly indivisible background would end up in a film, but not in "Dead End." This morning we are here to tell you Sam Goldwyn has made the picture in a way which vindicates his judgment and proves that we were wrong—again. And not for the first time, by a long shot. This department went sarcastic or something akin to it over Goldwyn's acquisition of "The Children's Hour," but it also tried gracefully to acknowledge its error when Lillian Hellman's play finally unfurled itself in Hollywood as "These Three." . . .

For the simple and complete truth now is that Goldwyn again has turned out a fine job. Some changes in the original have been made, it is essential to report, but they, like all else in the film, are in direct keeping with the spirit of the stage version. The camera roams from street scene to slum apartment. It follows characters through dark and foreboding alleys. Yet it never gets substantially away from its locale with its depressing flavor and pungency and bite. There can be no charge this time that Hollywood has desecrated or even emasculated an important Broadway stage property. . . .

The story told is not a pretty one. Those whose sensibilities are disturbed easily will find much to upset them in this emphatic picture of comfortable wealth and extreme poverty brushing shoulders in the same street. Of kids who drag themselves up by dirty bootstraps and head for careers of crime and murder. This is a thought-inducing film. It has its slight love story between Joel McCrea and Sylvia Sydney and it has its comedy. It has the unusual bunch of youngsters who appeared for so long in the play and it has its arch villain, portrayed grippingly and very expertly by Humphrey Bogart. But it has much more in a direction approached without objective attained. "Dead End,"

There is nothing of sunshine designedly or otherwise and we think designedly, is documented with social significance. Telling the story of the under-privileged, it suggests nothing by way of a solution, if, indeed, there is one. By such an appraisal, it falls short. . . .

There is nothing of sunshine and honeysuckle about this attraction. It is grim and depressing, leavened with its occasional flashes of comedy but always undertoned in relentless tragedy. William Wyler has caught this in his direction. Where audiences prefer something removed from trifles and trash, "Dead End" will be their fare. We think it falls into that very limited category of distinguished and noteworthy films. As a superior effort and if merit is synonymous with success which too frequently it is not, "Dead End" should rank comfortably up front among the season's outstanding enterprises. . . .

Exchange Men Are Called in Federal Probe

and that as far as he knew "there is nothing to it."

Decker, Lefkowitz and Levinson spent two hours on two different days answering questions on bookings for Brooklyn and Jamaica. Greenblatt and London were down to Hickey's office at least once.

According to one of the men who sat in at the meetings, Hickey declared that there was nothing formal about the hearing. No testimony was taken.

In the case of exchange personnel, Hickey confined his questions to developments within the trade during the past five years. These men may be called upon again, it was intimated. A number of other local branch and office managers are expected to be notified to appear in Hickey's office this week, according to report.

Probe of Long Standing

The investigation into the Long Island and Brooklyn theatre situation has been going on for some time. Prominent independent circuit heads have been interrogated from time to time by Hickey and his staff. The investigators have also gone over the files of film companies and circuits. This has been admitted by several concerns.

At the time of the NRA code, Century circuit waged a fight to upset the RKO clearance in Rockville Center and Far Rockaway. Louis Nizer represented the major circuit and Mitchell Klupt acted for Century. Half of the case was decided when the NRA was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

About two years ago when RKO and Warners were having some difficulty getting together on a product deal, Century succeeded in getting Warner films first run in a few spots. Then RKO closed a four-year deal with Warners. Century is said to have been experiencing difficulty getting major product first run and the understanding is that it filed another complaint against RKO and Loew's with the Dep't of Justice.

One Session in Newark

On July 23, Assistant Attorney General Hubert Harrington held an informal preliminary session in Newark with attorneys from Paramount, M-G-M, Warners, Columbia, RKO and G. B. The complaint here involved the Mosque, Newark. No testimony was taken at the meeting with Harrington stressing the informality of the meeting. A report on his findings was sent to Washington.

Universal and 20th Century-Fox did not send representatives to the meeting because of the secrecy of the complainant in the letter sent out by Harrington.

On May 17, when MOTION PICTURE DAILY first heard of the reported Government investigation in the local territory, efforts were made to check with Washington officials. The following comment was made:

"Dep't of Justice officials today refused to comment upon reports of immediate action on complaints filed by the Century circuit against Loew's and RKO, explaining that a number of motion picture complaints were under consideration, but that the department policy precluded any discussion of such matters in advance of formal action.

The measures were sponsored by Allied States. Paramount may file an action this week to test the constitutionality of the statute enacted in North Dakota.

"Officials engaged in the studies of motion picture matters, however, are reported to have been exceptionally active during the past few weeks and there are indications that the department is considering new moves."

Major circuit heads are not concerned by the investigation and have cooperated with Dep't of Justice agents wherever possible, it was stated.

Bills Hitting Ascap Appear In 22 States of the Florida statute are not regarded by Ascap as being enforceable and there is little likelihood that the legislation will be contested in that state.

For the most part, the legislation aimed against the society proposed either drastic taxes by the states or restrictions to prohibit an agency within the states from representing more than a limited number of owners of music copyrights.

To offset the wave of unfavorable legislation and to obtain aid in combating it when introduced in the future, Ascap is now considering an alliance with the American Federation of Labor. One plan under consideration involves an affiliation between the society and the American Federation of Musicians. Another would determine whether or not Ascap qualifies as a labor union within the meaning of the anti-trust laws. If so, the society would be inclined to seek its own charter from the A. F. of L.

If neither affiliation is possible, and many Ascap members believe this to be the case for practical reasons entirely apart from the question of Ascap's eligibility to become a part of the A. F. of L. or A. F. of M., the society would content itself with any cooperative understanding which could be reached with organized labor and which would give it the benefit of labor's influence in combating adverse legislation.

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—John Gatelee, business manager for the local operator union in Springfield, has been overwhelmingly reelected head of the New England chapter of the A.F.L. in Lowell.

John Gatelee has been sitting in as I.A.T.S.E. representative at negotiations with distributors for local exchange union contracts. Lou Krouse, executive vice-president of the international, made the appointment when he found he could not attend all of the sessions.

Gatelee is expected in town this week to resume talks with home office representatives on at least two situations to be worked out.

Seek Customs Restraint

Action was filed here on Saturday in U. S. Customs Court by Jewel Prod., Inc., against Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Secretary of the Treasury, and Harry M. Durnin, collector of customs in the Port of New York, to restrain an attempted seizure of a film entitled "Science of Mankind," a Viennese picture with German dialogue.

The print of the film in question cleared customs on Jan. 14. Subsequently, the negative, which bore the title "Mysteries of Sex" and which used French dialogue, was seized. Attorneys for Jewel maintain that the only difference between negative and print is the nationality of the dialogue. Customs officials state that a decision to confiscate the negative was reached after studying the print which had originally been passed.

"Saratoga" Up In Washington With $30,300

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—It was all "Saratoga" last week, as Loew's Capitol rolled up its third largest gross, to take $30,300 and to top average by $9,400.

A return engagement of "The Emperor's Candlesticks" at Loew's Columbia was great at $5,000, topping the first run average by $1,400. A return engagement also of the "Singing Marine" at the Metropolitan took a like amount, but exceeded the first run par by only $700.

"The Road Back" clicked for a par $10,600 at RKO-Keith's and was held for an extra five days.

Total first run business, excluding the Rialto, was $79,700. Average is $73,700.

Retitle "Two Platoons"

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 8.—Warners has changed the title of "Two Platoons" to "She Loved a Fireman."

MOTION PICTURE DAILY'S HOLLYWOOD PREVIEW

"Love Under Fire"

(20th Century-Fox)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 8.—Bewildering things happen to a Scotland Yard officer who is ordered to arrest a girl with whom he flirts. The situation becomes more absorbing when a revolution breaks about them. The yarn hits a fast pace when, with the aid of adventure, music and plenty of comedy, it develops into a game of hide and seek to find who has looted the valuable jewels. It is cleverly complicated yet it is always understandable enough to make interesting entertainment. The film always contrasts on-again, off-again romance with riotous action—anti-aircraft guns shooting planes down and a gunboat chasing a tramp steamer. The comedy compensates for the drama.

Given glib lines to read, Don Ameche and Loretta Young repeat their success with performances of "Love Is News" quality. On the dramatic side capable support is provided by Harold Huber, Sig Rumann, John Carradine, Francis Drake and Katherine DeMille.

The film's rich comedy is expertly handled by Borrah Minevitch and his harmonica band. Walter Catlett and E. E. Clive deliver characterizations the patrons will talk about.

It is based on Walter Hackett's stage play, "The Fugitives." Gene Fowler, Allen Rivkin and Ernest Pascal did the screenplay. George Marshall's direction makes good use of the comedy to lighten the dramatic tension and keep the picture in the realm of story book plausibility.

Running time, 75 minutes. "G."

"She's No Lady"

(B. P. Schulberg Prod.—Paramount)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 3.—This B. P. Schulberg production is quite evidently designed to fill out a double feature bill in which the other picture is of major significance. It is one of those button-button things, with stolen jewels popping up first in one place and then in another, and departs in no important particular from the pattern established for its kind way back in the cinema dawn. John Trent, the aviator turned actor and still, by this evidence, a good aviator, is paired with Ann Dvorak as the two crooks in love, and competition destined, as everybody knows from the first, to reveal themselves in the finale as honorable young people engaged in tracking down their dishonest associates.

Harry Beresford, Guinn William, Aileen Pringle, Arthur Hoyt and Paul Hurst are the others who do what they can toward making the hoary plot seem to move along. The lines given them aren't very funny and Director Charles Vidor has allowed plenty of time for the laughs that do not come. What may have looked like sparkling repartee in the typed script flows like cement from the lips of the grinning principals and forms, in time, an insurmountable wall against interest.

These observations are predicated upon the reaction of a preview audience, sparsely sprinkled with professionals, which yawned through the picture at the Alexander, Glendale. It is conceivable, just, that other audiences may find the film amusing. This one was half asleep before the picture was half over.

Running time, 63 minutes. "G"

Looking 'Em Over

"Roundup Time in Texas"

(Republic)

A substantially different western. The plot is rather far-fetched, but for the general run of audiences will prove adequate.

Gene Autry is breakfasting in Texas. He receives a cable from his brother in South Africa appealing for horses. In the next scene Autry and Smiley Burnette are off to the Dark Continent. In the meantime Autry's brother is the victim of dirty work by renegades. When Autry arrives he suspects various individuals. He disposes of his horses and with a few encounters with diamond mine claim-jumpers leaves for the interior. The usual dramatics follow. Romance is woven with Maxine Doyle the focal point. Burnette's comic antics relieve the situation from time to time. The music is better than usual. The entertaining Cabin Kids are spotted in a few scenes.

Joseph Kane directed from a screenplay by Oliver Drake.

Running time, 63 minutes. "G."

New Synchronizing Device Is Tested

A new synchronized dubbing process designed to eliminate superimposed titles entirely has been developed by Language Synchronizing Patents Co., a New York firm, and is being demonstrated to export managers of large distribution companies and to heads of local circuits.

Under the process a new sound track is made in such a way that the translated version and sound effects may be synchronized with every lip movement and incident of the original print. On the play-back of an original an electrical spotter marks every spoken syllable on a new record sheet. Translations are made to correspond as accurately as possible with the lip movements and duration of speech of the original. The translations are written in on the new record sheet, with syllables matching the sound markings of the original.

Features Traveling Letters

The translations are projected on a screen by a process which matches the traveling lettering of an electric sign. The screen is marked with a center hairline for recording accuracy and the words are spoken by the actors at the instant they travel past this guide line in the recording of the translation. Thereafter, the process is the routine one of supplying the negative with the new sound track.

Due to the fact that most important foreign nations require that dubbing be done within the country in which the film is to be distributed, the process is of greatest interest to export managers for use in Spanish speaking territories, such as Mexico, Central and South America, Cuba and the West Indies, where restrictions of this kind are not as stringent. Local circuits, however, having theatres in neighborhoods of preponderantly foreign population, are interested in the process for its possibilities in eliminating the need for superimposed titles in a native language.

Cost Not Prohibitive

If the process proves acceptable, American representatives of foreign producers see the possibilities of a greatly enlarged market here for foreign films, the dialogue for which would be supplied by American actors, thus eliminating many of the problems involved in the use of superimposed titles. The cost of the complete new sound track runs from $3,000 to $5,000 per feature.

The process was developed by Michael Hoffman, a former orchestra conductor and theatre operator. Hoffman relates that he first conceived the idea for the process when, as musical director for Adolph Zukor in 1912, an improved system of furnishing pit orchestras with cues was being sought for the musical accompaniments for the presentation of Sarah Bernhardt's "Queen Elizabeth."

A demonstration of the process in which a German made sound drama had been supplied with an English dialogue sound track showed marked improvement over the use of superimposed titles and frequently impressive results in synchronizing.
